Holdup Try Reported Near Lindsay

Traveller Reports Youth Threatened Later Claimed Joke

LINDSAY, March 29—(CP)—Robert Edward White, 23-year-old Oshawa youth is in jail today after what was first reported as an attempted holdup of a Toronto travelling salesman on No. 7 Highway Tuesday night between Sunderland and Manilla.

Provincial Constable Frank Linklater of Lindsay, who figured in the apprehension of White, said Frank Armstrong met the accused in a Whitby beverage room. Both headed for Lindsay in the salesman's panel truck and sometime later the discussion led to holdups.

"What would you do if you were held up by a gunman," asked White.

"I'd beat him up," replied Armstrong.

"Well, this is a holdup," White is reported to have said—putting his hand in his coat and making a gesture as if holding a gun.

Pulled Out Key

White is alleged to have pulled the key out of the ignition, but when the car stopped he said it was all a joke. Armstrong didn't see anything funny about it, and put his youthful friend out of the car at Manilla and drove on to Lindsay where he reported it to Provincial Police.

After police picked up White, a charge of vagrancy was laid until the Ontario County crown attorney is consulted. White was held at Beaverton overnight.

Police think the episode came as a result of both the men drinking but are continuing the investigation. No weapon was found on White and nothing was stolen.

Last US Reporter Leaves Prague

PRAGUE, March 29 (AP)—The Czechoslovakian government today ordered the expulsion of the last American correspondent of the Associated Press remaining in this country.

It refused to renew the press credentials of Nathan Polowetzky, which expire March 31. Polowetzky, who has been the lone American Associated Press correspondent here since Bureau Chief Richard Kasischke was expelled last January, was given until April 8 to leave Czechoslovakia.

Bedrich Runge, deputy press chief of the foreign ministry, gave "unobjective reporting" as the reason for the expulsion.

Further expulsions of the few remaining Western correspondents here were forecast last week by Information Minister Vaclav Kopecky who told parliament that the Foreign Press Corps had been virtually eliminated since the Communists took over in 1948.

Penicillin Pays Duty Other Drugs In Free

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — A government tariff authority today stated that a tariff change on drugs announced in the budget was "confusing" and that penicillin will not be classified as a biological product.

That item, he said, will still bear a tariff of 20 per cent when imported into Canada, under the category of chemical imports.

The Canadian Press had reported that under the budget, penicillin would enter Canada duty free.

However, such other products as serums, antitoxins, viruses, toxins, toxoids, vaccines and allergenic products required in the treatment of human disease will be allowed into Canada duty-free under a new definition inserted in the Canadian tariff.

Double-Crossed, Robbed, Dope Peddlers Caught Doing Good Turn On Way Home

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP). — A crook crooked some crooks who had already been crooked and the United States Secret Service caught up with a batch of crooked money.

This is a story told by U. E. Baughman, Chief of the US Secret Service, to a Senate Appropriations Sub-Committee. It was made public today.

"Recently we arrested some Mexicans," Baughman said. "They had come up from Mexico to Chicago. They sold marijuana and got paid off in counterfeit notes and went back to Texas."

"The Mexicans picked up a hitchhiker.

"The hitchhiker saw a bag in the back of their car. He thought it was a shaving kit. He wanted to take a shave. He reached in and saw all this money, which turned out to be counterfeit."

The hitchhiker, after helping himself, "went out passing these $10 bills, thinking it was good money," Baughman said. "He went out and bought a new suit and things, and he got picked up. As a result of that, we caught these Mexicans."

Assume No Responsibility For Regional Unemployed

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Tuesday night in his Budget Speech that the Federal Government "cannot and should not" attempt to assume responsibility for regional problems of unemployment. To his mind, he said in his fiscal portion of his financial account, the proper role of the central government was fourfold:

1. Through its fiscal and general policies, it should try to create a "favorable climate for healthy economic expansion and development."

2. It should have "careful regard in planning its own operations for the best timing and the best placing of its capital and development expenditures."

3. It should recognize "a special responsibility" for the promotion and development of basic primary industries and other industries of national significance.

4. It should be ready to co-operate actively with provincial governments, and through them with municipal governments, in meeting regional problems that "threaten nation-wide economic repercussions."

There had been differences which had led the general public to overlook, or at least underestimate, the "very large amount of practical day-to-day co-operation" between the federal and provincial governments. There actually was "a great deal of this working together."

Mr. Abbott made his comments in reporting on 1949 employment, which had turned "moderately downward" after rising through the year until August or September. While employment was down one per cent at the end of the year total labor income was up five per cent over the preceding period.

Unemployment totals had been higher because of the continued growth of the total labor force.

"The outlook for 1950," he said, "seems to be that the volume of employment will increase moderately but it is possible that it may not catch up with growth in total labor supply."

China Nationals Claim Routed 100 Red Junks

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 29—(AP).— Chinese Nationalists said today their warships routed two fleets of nearly 100 well-armed Communist junks south of Shanghai, sinking most of them.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek shouted a fiery denunciation of international Communism. In his second speech in two days, the Nationalist President called upon China's youth "to assume a holy mission of crushing the Communist traitors, driving out the Russian aggressors, restoring the Chinese Republic and rescuing our compatriots on the mainland."

Nationalist warplanes hunted down remnants of the crack Red troops who invaded Hainan Island on Monday. The Nationalists said Tuesday they shattered an invasion force of more than 4,000.

Engage Junks

Semi-official dispatches said Nationalist warships engaged more than 70 heavily-armed Red junks under the guns of shore batteries at Nanhwei, 22 miles south-east of Shanghai. Nationalist gunfire was reported to have silenced several batteries and to have sunk most of the junks.

Later in the day the warships sighted more than 30 Communist junks further south and in a running battle sank 17, the dispatches said.

The Nationalists said their landing one week ago at Chientiao, 150 miles south of Shanghai in Chekiang Province, was made to deliver ammunition, medical supplies, and communications equipment to guerrillas.

Fire Caught 5 Victims Before Jump

Get Ready To Jump As Engine Explodes Envoy Had Chute

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP)—The lone survivor said today flames raced so swiftly through a United States Air Force plane early Tuesday there wasn't time for any more of the six occupants to bail out as he did.

"Four of them had their parachutes on," Master Sergeant Gwyn Long told reporters today in describing the crash that took five lives, including that of U.S. Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt, 11 miles south of here.

"They didn't get out. There wasn't time for them to try. I had told them to bail out but something happened. They didn't make it. There wasn't time. Everything happened very fast."

Long, lying in a hospital bed, told a press conference of a spontaneous, raging inferno that started in the right wing of the twin-engined Dakota transport plane, exploded the engine, invaded the interior and snarled angrily behind the men who had their parachutes on.

Pilot Steadied Plane

"The pilot, Lt. Col. Wayne Trueblood, had been holding her steady so we could bail out. We were getting ready to jump when the right wing blew and it spread to the inside of the plane. We were going down very fast all of a sudden. I figured we had six or seven seconds. I went ahead and bailed out from 600 to 800 feet up."

Previous to the interview, it had been assumed that Capt. Tom Archibald, who usually piloted the embassy plane, was the pilot at the time of the crash.

Sergeant Long said he hadn't the "vaguest idea" what caused the fire.

This, chronologically, was the story Long told.

"We took off from Rockcliffe airport at 8:10. There had been a very good check on the plane before takeoff. Col. Trueblood was flying her. He took us up to our cruising altitude of 3,000 feet and levelled out and we were cruising along.

"All at once fire was noted in the right engine. Instantly the flames were completely out of control. Col. Trueblood stayed at the controls. He sent me back to tell everybody to bail out. He told me to get the 'chutes and see that they put them on.

No Talking

"Captain Tom Archibald was co-pilot. He went back, with the others, to get his 'chute on. There was no talking that I can remember. I don't know if they all had their parachutes on but the ambassador did.

"Everybody had a parachute. Col. Trueblood's parachute was

Special 5% Excise Tax On Toilet Soap To Be Revoked Immediately, Open Tariff Door Wider To U.S. Goods

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP)—Canada realigned her tariff structure Tuesday night to open the doors a bit wider to United States goods and to cut down a segment of the British preferential treatment enjoyed by Commonwealth countries.

A major part of the reshuffle announced by Finance Minister Abbott in his Budget Speech in the Commons, eliminates a 10-per-cent discount granted to Commonwealth countries on some 22 items bearing a tariff rate of more than 15 per cent.

Other changes and reductions, in line with Canada's policy eventually to equalize her tariff rate with all Geneva agreement countries, include:

1. Elimination of the British free-rate of tin plate and reduction of the tariff to all members of the 1947 Geneva agreement on tariffs and trade from 17½ per cent to 15 per cent of the shipment's value.

2. Dates brought in for packaging in Canada reduced to free from one-cent-per-pound on British shipments and 1½-cents-per-pound on other Geneva-agreement movements. Those countries outside the agreements get a reduction from 2½ cents to one cent.

3. The British preferential tariff on compounds for manufacture of phonograph records reduced from 15 per cent to free.

Raise Exemption

4. Exemption of settlers effects increased from $1,000 to $1,500. Brides' trousseaux and wedding presents are completely exempt.

5. Ministerial power to make sudden, sharp rate changes on United States fresh fruits and vegetables eliminated and replaced by a more rigid pattern.

Most of the changes which come into effect June 1, 1950, are in keeping with promises made by Canada at the 1947 Geneva conference to cut down the preference granted the United Kingdom and other countries.

Along with the realignment, Mr. Abbott announced a general consolidation of Canadian tariffs to get Canada ready for another round of bargaining at Torquay, England, next Sept. 28 when some 40 countries will be invited at the fourth postwar session of international tariff negotiations.

The Geneva agreement now encompasses about 33 countries Mr. Abbott did not disclose which other additional countries will be invited to Torguay.

Geneva Plan

Reimposition of a heavy tariff against British tin plate was among the Anglo-Canadian-American agreements reached at Geneva. Under the old system, Canada obtained about $67,000 worth of tin plate from the U.K. last year, but obtained $3,000,000 from the U.S. which had to pay a 17½ per cent rate.

Government officials say that eventually Canada will be able to produce all the tin plate from domestic sources to supply all requirements and no further im-

Effects of tax reductions for small businesses widened—retroactive to Jan. 1, 1949.

Tax exemptions on oil and mining exploration expenses continued for additional year.

New system of taxing accumulated surplusses of family corporations announced.

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP)—A prediction that Big Budgets—with taxes running at about their current rate—are here to stay emerged today as the top-line feature of Finance Minister Abbott's 1950-51 budget presentation to the Commons.

Monday night, in a 10,000-word budget speech to a crowded chamber, he indicated that new government policy begins as of now by reporting that he had no major tax changes to make. There were no cuts in rates on personal incomes, liquor, tobacco or succession duties.

He shuffled a few taxes around—dropping a total of $3,000,000 in some places and promptly picking it up in others—and he said the changes were made only to remove anomalies, bring greater equality, clarify obscure points and meet special circumstances.

Major Changes

These are the major tax changes:

1. The 8% sales tax was dropped on ice cream, dairy drinks, and prepared whipping cream effective immediately and on purchases by orphanages and institutions for the aged and infirm, effective July 1, 1950.

2. The five-per-cent special excise tax is being dropped on toilet soap, effective immediately, because it is too difficult to administer.

3. Special tax concessions allowed for mining and oil prospecting and exploration will be continued for another year and the corporation tax on income received by a trustee for holders of oil royalties will be repealed.

4. Farmers and fishermen are being given a choice in the manner in which they want to apply depreciation allowances to their taxes; closely-held companies of the "family" type are being given a new method of taxing their undistributed surpluses; a wider group of firms is going to get a tax concession made last year for small business.

5. Some tariff adjustments are

Will Admit More Germans Relatives of Canadians

OTTAWA, March 28—(CP)—Immigration Minister Harris Tuesday night announced in the Commons a relaxation of regulations covering the admission of German Nationals to Canada. He said an order-in-council was passed today providing for the admission of German Nationals who are close relatives of legal residents of Canada, without the necessity of a special order-in-council being passed in each case.

Heretofore, a special order-in-council had to be passed whenever approval was given an application from a German national for entry to Canada.

Consider Applications

The government had stated it would be prepared to consider applications for the admission from Germany of first degree relatives of legal residents of Canada. If approved these applications were to be dealt with by special order-in-council.

Those whose applications would be considered included the wife and unmarried children under 16, the husband, the parents, 65 and over, and the financee.

Youth To Lose Eye

COBOURG, March 29 (CP) — Dick Hart, 24-year-old Cobourg hockey player, who received an eye injury Tuesday night while playing at Port Hope, underwent an operation in hospital today for removal of the eye. Hart was accidentally struck in the eye by a stick.

'Master-Mind' Of Car Ring 'Poor Liar' Justice Says

BRANTFORD, March 29 (CP) —Justice G. A. Urquhart Tuesday termed James Casey, 40, of Hamilton and formerly of Brantford as the "master-mind" behind a stolen car ring which operated in Ontario during 1949.

The Justice called Casey "a poor liar" for denying directing operations, as described in court here by three youths now serving prison terms on convictions arising out of the ring's operations.

A suit was brought against Casey by Hugh S. Millar, Brantford car dealer, for $2,800 he lost in the purchase and sale of a stolen car. Mr. Millar testified that he bought the car Aug. 6 from an alleged accomplice of Casey.

Mr. Justice Urquhart reserved decision as to the amount involved but found that Casey was responsible for the loss incurred by the dealer.

At preliminary hearing in Toronto last fall, 42 charges of receiving stolen cars against Casey were dismissed for lack of evidence.

The youths in statements given police following their arrest had implicated Casey as their leader but they testified that no evidence was introduced by them at the preliminary hearing to tie in Casey with the gang.

Lennus Patterson, 24, of Timmins, serving four years for receiving stolen cars, testified that Casey master-minded the deals and paid him for selling the cars.

Two youths now serving two years in Guelph Reformatory for similar convictions also testified that Casey "made all the decisions."

Floods Cut Off Highway Traffic

TORONTO, March 29—(CP)—Southern Ontario streams in spring flood today cut off highway traffic in some areas, marooned homes and poured into cellars in a score of communities.

Clear, cold weather, expected late today, may check the run-off sufficiently to ease flood troubles.

Brampton, Galt, Guelph, Brantford, Preston, Hespeler and Orangeville were partly inundated early today. At Bolton, north of Toronto, 1,000 villagers spent a sleepless night as dynamite crews blasted an ice jam in the Humber River.

Cars Kill More Than War Does

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)— Automobiles have killed more persons in the United States than all the wars the country has participated in—from the American Revolutionary War through the Second World War.

The industrial accident toll is almost as great.

The menaces were stressed on Tuesday at New York's 20th annual safety exposition.

John Cruickshank, chief engineer of the United States Guarantee Company, gave these figures; 927,260 persons killed by cars from 1907, when the toll was only 666, through last year when there were 31,500 fatalities.

He predicted the 1,000,000 mark would be reached within the next year or two.

In the last 80 years, Cruickshank added, industrial accidents killed 796,500 American workers. Last year's toll was 16,500.

The dead of all the country's wars total 852,000 he said.

HALIFAX, March 29—(CP)— Mrs. Gertrud Timman is en route to Sudbury, and her forthcoming marriage to Joseph Rajski after a courtship by letter. The wedding resulted from a long correspondence that started from Rajski's announcement in a European paper.

Mr. Rajski, a Sudbury steel worker, plans to move to a farm at Bethany after the wedding.

Mrs. Timman's first husband was taken prisoner by the Russians and died in a prison camp in 1946.

Plan To Hold London Conference

Foreign Minister Of 12 Countries Discuss Cold War

LONDON, March 29—(AP)—The foreign ministers of the 12 Atlantic Pact countries will meet in London May 8 to chart new western moves in the cold war and present Russia with a greater, unified strength.

Foreign Secretary Bevin, announcing the date of the meeting Tuesday night, said he foresaw a long peace if the Atlantic Alliance grew firmer and the eastern world could be held as its ally.

"I think the day is not far distant," said Bevin, "when the growth of this power . . . will create a situation where there will be no alternative but to negotiate, to settle once and for all this problem that has cursed the world for so long."

His words were taken to mean he thought the Soviet Union, facing the combined western strength, would have no alternative but to negotiate with the west on problems dividing the world.

Along with the meeting of the 12 foreign ministers, Bevin announced that he, Secretary of State Dean Acheson of the United States and France's Foreign Minister, Robert Schuman, would hold a separate big three conference.

In High Gear

Thus, the Atlantic Pact machine begins to roll into high gear. Bevin told the House of Commons there was a growing desire among the allied powers to deal with economic and political problems as well as with mutual defence.

Bevin's disclosures came in the first full-dress parliamentary debate on foreign policy to be held since the Labor government was re-elected in February.

Both he and his major opponent Conservative leader Winston Churchill, made strong declarations that they did not believe war was either imminent or inevitable.

Churchill warned, however, that time was on the side of Russia, and urged Britain to work for an understanding with the Soviet Union.

Ice Cream Brick To Cost Less

TORONTO, March 29 (CP) — There will be more ice cream in ice-cream cones as a result of removal of the eight per cent sales tax, W. L. Fetterly, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Ice Cream Manufacturers Association said today.

He added that the tax change will mean a reduction of one cent in the retail price of ice cream bricks—most brands now sell at 30 cents—if the sales tax also comes off ingredients.

He said he hopes dealers will pass on to consumers the benefit of the tax reduction in the form of larger portions in cones and sundaes.

The owner of an ice-cream manufacturing firm here said he welcomes the change.

"I'll be able to add a little to the nickel cones," he said. "But what I'm really happy about is the amount of bookkeeping it will save me."

Elephant Killed Caused Death Of Child Five

SARASOTA, Fla., March 29 — (AP). — Dolly, the circus elephant, was executed at dawn today.

The animal was put to death with cyanide for killing five-year-old Edward Schooly who was feeding her peanuts last Sunday.

Why the old weary-looking animal suddenly grabbed the child with her trunk and stepped on his head was still unknown.

The decision was made at the last minute. John Ringling North, circus vice-president, had said a few hours earlier a "deluge" of protests by telephone, telegram and letter had been received at winter quarters here and left officials still undecided about carrying out the execution originally scheduled for 10 a.m.

Only a bare announcement was made here by North after the death. He said the elephant had been taken to a pit, given the cyanide at 5 a.m., and buried after she had died.

Prices Pushed Up On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, March 29 (CP) — Prices pushed upwards as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Gains were generally held to small amounts and scattered widely among market leaders. Volume for the first three hours was 795,000 shares.

Finance Minister Abbott's budget statement that the government does not intend to tax capital gains partially cleared the air for the market. Interest increased slightly and activity continued brisk.

In industrials, utilities, papers, foods and textiles showed majorities of gains in the groupings.

Junior gold producers perked up led by Upper Canada Mines Uper Canada, a feature of recent markets, climbed strongly to a new high at $3.75. Smaller issues continued brisk traders. Seniors were quiet.

Leading base metals gained while the majority of stocks trading, slipped slightly. Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel and Noranda featured on the upside.

Western oils found support following a steady decline yesterday on profit-taking sales. Gains ranged up to 10 cents.

Government To Support Butter At 58 Cents To April 30; New Price Level Expected

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced in the Commons today that the government's current support price of butter of 58 cents a pound will continue to be paid until the end of April.

This is a carry-over of the current support price for one month from its termination date of March 31. A new price-support level is expected to go into effect at the end of April.

Mr. Gardiner said that while the present price is maintained, there will be no change in the price at which the government sells its butter to the trade—approximately 60½ cents a pound, including storage and shipping charges.

The minister assured the trade that there will be no change in the government policy to protect butter purchasers.

Under this plan, purchasers of government butter unable to dispose of their purchases at the end of the butter year in April will be able to bill the government for any loss suffered, if and when prices drop.

Mr. Gardiner told questioners the government now held 21,000,000 pounds of butter.

Say Devaluation Has Improved Trade Position

OTTAWA, March 29 —(CP) — Devaluation of the Canadian dollar last September, under conditions at present prevailing, has improved Canada's trading position, Finance Minister Abbot said Tuesday night in the fiscal portion of his budget speech.

He felt the currency changes which took place generally last fall should "play a beneficial role in helping to correct the imbalance in the trading relationships between North America and the rest of the world."

At the same time, he emphasized that currency changes of themseves are "no cure for basic problems of maladjustment." They could do little more than provide time for more fundamental measures."

Price adjustments still were going on around the world, but the effect of devaluation on Canadian trade "has already been noticeable and in a satisfactory direction," said Mr. Abbott.

Imports Declining

Canadian imports from the United States have been declining for the last four months, despite the relaxation of import controls, while exports have been increasing. For those four months, an adverse balance of trade with the U. S. of nearly $100,000,000 a year ago has been reduced to $15,000,000.

Of trade generally, Mr. Abbott said Canada has been "a little disappointed" in the apparent inability of overseas countries to resume their traditional share of Canada's import market.

"If our overseas friends could get back their traditional share of our import market," he said, "they would be earning an additional $200,000,000 a year with which to balance and eventually expand their consumption of Canadian products."

Canada has taken special measures to help overseas suppliers to overcome difficulties, "but we cannot continue these indefinately, nor should we convert temporary devices into permanent policies."

Fire Caught

laid out for him so he could grab it on the way out. He had been planning to hold her steady until we got out, then he would make a run for it.

Moves To Rear

"The ambassador was sitting on the right side at the front. He moved to the rear to get his chute on. If he hadn't he would have been burned. We were getting ready to jump when the right wing blew and the fire spread to the inside.

"The tanks blew the engines off. I don't know if the whole wing went with it. The fire was pretty terrific. You couldn't tell. The plane staggered. We started going down very fast. I figured we had no more than six or seven seconds left. I went ahead and bailed out. I opened the door on the left hand side and jumped. We were at 600 to 800 feet, going into a slow roll."

Long said Trueblood had the plane under control until the explosion. After that it went down fast.

What happened after he jumped he doesn't know. But it was all a matter of seconds.

From the time the fire was noticed until he jumped there elapsed between 30 and 45 seconds.

He didn't see the crashed plane until he staggered to his feet.

He had managed to cross the fields half way to the burning wreckage when a farmer came up to him and told him the others were dead.

Long, questioned by the reporters, said he could recall no exchange of words as the men neared death. The fire was intense.

Can't Remember

He was told he had been quoted as saying to people on the scene that he had tried to push the others out of the plane, tried to force them to bail ou.

"I hardly think so," he said. "I have no recollection of that now."

"Was there any arguing about what should be done?"

"I can't recall any."

He was asked if he thought sabotage might have caused the fire.

"I have no knowledge of sabotage . . . I hardly think so."

The engine had been working all right recently. The plane, an embassy plane used by the ambassador for frequent trips, had received a "very good" check before takeoff.

Industry's Smoke Threatens Walker's Orchids

TORONTO, March 29 —(CP)— An injunction restraining McKinnon Industries Ltd. of St. Catharines from polluting the air with fumes and damaging William W. Walker's orchids threatens the employment of 3,500 McKinnon workers, the Ontario Appeal Court was told today.

The injunction—with a nine-month stay of execution — was granted last June by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer.

The auto parts firm and Mr. Walker have argued for eight years about the effects of the fumes, company counsel J. J. Robinette said. In 1942, Walker accepted $1,225 for damage to his flowers and $600 a year for damage expected until Dec. 31, 1944. Damages for 1945 to 1949 were to be assessed by a county court judge.

Mr. Robinette asked that the present injunction be withdrawn or a further nine-month stay be granted and a new injunction substituted to restrain McKinnon from operating smoke stacks without a curtain of water to catch the fumes.

In 1945, the company installed a water-wash system designed to cut down the nuisance.

Mr. Justice C. W. Reid Bowlby, one of three justices hearing the appeal, said he didn't think the present injunction would put the company out of business. If the water-wash system worked properly, he said, "it will eliminate 80 to 85 per cent of the fumes."

Rabbit Causes Crash 3 Hurt, $2100 Damage

GRIMSBY, March 29 —(CP)— Three persons were injured Tuesday and about $2,100 damage was done to two cars in a collision believed caused by a rabbit.

George Timms of Hamilton was breaking in his new 1950 car on the highway near here when a rabbit ran under his wheels. Timms stopped to see what had happened, and another car, driven by Charles Tyers of London, Ont., crashed into Timms' auto.

Most seriously injured was John Haggerty, of Toronto, a passenger in the Tyers ca.r He suffered leg and head cuts.

Both drivers were injured in the crash. Tyers suffered a lacerated face, and Timms received a gash on both sides of the forehead.

ROBBED AT HOME

WINDSOR, Ont., March 29 — (CP)—Two unidentified men on Tuesday night escaped with some $200 after beating Eugene Perreault of nearby Riverside about the head with the butt end of a revolver, police report. Perreault, 50, told police he was attacked by the two men who knocked at his door.

Floor Prices Permanent For Farmers

CCF Clause Fixing Prices To 1944-48 Left Out Over Protest

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP) —The Second of two bills extending the government's agricultural products support legislation was passed in the House of Commons Tuesday.

The Commons gave final approval to the bill giving permanent status to the Agricultural Prices Support Act after rejecting a C.C.F. amendment.

It must pass the Senate before Friday in order that the legislation does not lapse.

The Agricultural Products Act, which gives the government power to extend for a year its power to make farm contracts with foreign countries, was given final Senate approval Tuesday after passing the Commons yesterday.

All major opposition groups combined in support of the CCF amendment which would have sent the prices support act bill back for insertion of a clause providing that floor prices on farm products should be fixed at levels guaranteeing to producers "a price-cost relationship not less favorable than that prevailing in the period 1944-48."

This amendment was defeated by a vote of 152 to 58. The amendment was supported by all Progressive Conservative, Social Credit and CCF members and by I. W. Studer (L-Maple Creek).

Drew Backs CCF

Opposition leader George Drew said the proposed amendment merely sought to carry out public declarations of the Minister of Pipe Water From The Great Lakes?

Ontario is discovering what Britain, France, Germany and Scandinavia discovered a century ago—that potable water is becoming scarcer as industry, farming and increased population take their fill. Communities like Peterborough are fortunately placed on a river and, happily, the Otonabee is part of the dam-controlled Trent system, so that there is little danger of its running dry in our time. But ordinary river levels are decreasing, and the level of the Great Lakes is decreasing. More ominous, the sub-surface level—the water-table—is lowering.

* * *

Some two million of Ontario's four and a half million people have no river or lake to draw from. They are dependent on wells and sub-surface supplies. Larger cities like London, Chatham, Guelph, St. Thomas, Owen Sound, Woodstock, Stratford, Kitchener, Brantford and Galt depend to a significant degree on ground water supplies. Already water is a limiting factor in their expansion.

* * *

The Select Committee of the Ontario Legislature recently reported on this situation. On Monday in the Assembly, E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. provincial leader and a member of the Committee on Conservation, paradoxically in this season of spring floods, stressed the insufficiency of water in southern Ontario and referred to the recommendations of the Committee for control and remedial action. In addition to conservation measures (such as using grasslands and forest cover to restrain the spring run-offs and to replenish the subsurface supplies, the building of reservoirs, the preservation of marshes), the Committee recommends that the indiscriminate digging of wells should cease, that in the dry summer areas a grid system of piping may be necessary, under central authority, and that "a detailed survey should be made to ascertain the feasibility and costs of piping water from the Great Lakes system to be distributed as a public utility for the benefit of the participating municipalities". The suggestion is that southern Ontario may need a hydro system operating like the Hydro-Electric system, with its chief source of supply the waters of the Great Lakes.

* * *

Perhaps such a survey should be made. We feel, however, that before municipalities begin to divert billions of gallons of water annually from the Great Lakes, that all other methods of conserving and securing potable water be tried first. The Great Lakes have a remarkably small water-shed; they are chiefly dependent for their replenishment on the rain that falls on their own surfaces. Already the Lakes levels have gone down. What is to become of them, of their shipping and their hydro-electric power developments, if they are depleted by inland cities and towns? They are tempting sources of fresh water, but the temptation to steal it must be resisted as long as possible.

Good Cheese News

The best cheese news we have heard in a long while is that Canadian cheese is to be allowed to ripen. There is a surplus of twenty million pounds of cheese in Canada now. It could be sent to Britain at a considerable financial loss (the British would pay less than the price which the Government is supporting). The Government has decided not to send it overseas and take thereby a financial beating. It is going to let it mature in Canada for a year, by which time it will perhaps be so well cured that Canadian palates will be unable to resist it, cheese will become a nationally popular dish, and the surplus will be eaten up at home.

Canadians are not large cheese eaters. The Minister of Agriculture implies that the reason is that the cheeses they have been offered are not good enough. We will be more explicit. Canadian cheese factories can produce really excellent cheese; the best "old Canadian" cannot be surpassed in quality, texture and flavour. But it is not easy to find the best old Canadian cheddar in our food markets. Most of the stuff is 'processed', that is, a hodge-podge of any kind of cheese at all, rolled into one mass, artificially flavoured and coloured, then put out for sale in bright little cardboard cartons. Much of the unpackaged cheese is as new as skimmed milk from this morning's cream separator, flabby in texture, insipid in taste, and chews like rubber.

We are convinced that if Canadians are offered their own best cheese, cheese that is well-ripened and has individual flavour, they will become cheese-eaters. There is also a need in this country for greater variety; a variety which England, Germany, France and Switzerland have developed, and for which discerning Canadians continue to pay high import prices. The desirable variety will not be obtained by using processed stuff and adding a pimento here, a touch of mildew there and a hole somewhere else.

Another way of increasing the popularity of cheese in the domestic market would be to make it available at a price not too much higher than Britain pays for Canadian cheese. If Canadian cheese-makers put their skill and will into it, the industry would not need the Government price-support and subsidies it is now receiving.

Diplomacy As An Offensive Weapon

The incidents in the "cold war" with Russia which reach the attention of the reading public are usually the more important ones—the public declarations of high Soviet officials, and the dramatic defiances of the Western democracies. But in addition to these highlights in the campaign there are scores of week-to-week annoyances which are met with in diplomatic dealings with the satellite countries which are now under the control of the Cominform. Russia and her satellites, in fact, are using the diplomatic machine as an instrument of offence to a degree never before dreamed of.

It is a tribute to Soviet ingenuity and Soviet short-sightedness that it has discovered a new use for the machinery of international diplomacy. The network of embassies and consulates which every country of importance maintains everywhere in the world has been evolved over three hundred years and more during which it has been assumed that the chief aim of countries is to get on as well as they can with one another if they are not actually at war. Courtesy of a somewhat unusual kind prevails in diplomatic circles. But Russia has discovered in embassies and consulates outposts of countries which she wants to irritate and antagonize, and is making the fullest use of her discovery. The stumbling-blocks which are laid in the ordinary paths of diplomatic procedure behind the iron curtain range from trivialities to downright insults, and they give the lie effectively to the occasional Soviet assurances that it is possible for democracies and the Soviet to live in peace side by side. Russia does not mean it, and although Russia does not want to go to war, she is missing no chance to display her antagonism and contempt for ordinary diplomatic procedure.

Young Russia

No nation has ever held such extensive sway over Europe with the consent of other great powers as Russia acquired in the last years and first after-years of the war. She annexed directly about 250,000 square miles of Europe—as much territory as France, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and Denmark together. She has also acquired eight other European countries as satellites. That is the present geographic stature of Russia in Europe. It may be of little significance compared with another political element, her population.

It is estimated that in twenty years' time Russia's population will be between 250 and 285 millions, and it will be the "youngest" population in Europe. Today in Russia only eight per cent of the people are over sixty-five. In Western Europe fifteen per cent. are over sixty-five. Thus while the United States, Canada and Western Europe grow "older" and the birth rate falls (the rise in Britain's birth rate since the war is likely to be only a flash in the pan), Russia will become more populous and, more important, a nation of young people forming in Europe with her satellites a bloc of 400 millions with uniform ideological, economic and military patterns.

THE GOD THAT FAILED: Six Studies in Communism. Hamish Hamilton, (British Book Service).

"HERE six intellectuals set down how they saw Communism at first from a long way off—just as their predecessors saw the French Revolution—as a vision of the Kingdom of God on earth: like Wordsworth and Shelley they dedicated their talents to working humbly for its coming. They were not discouraged by the rebuffs of the professional revolutionaries or by the jeers of their opponents, until each discovered the gap between his own vision of God and the reality of the Communist State—and the conflict of conscience reached breaking-point".

Thus Richard Crossman, Labour M.P., introduces this testament about communism; a testament of six ex-communists or fellow-travellers which he devised for publication and edited. Of the six, three are "initiates": Arthur Koestler, author of "Darkness At Noon", "The Commissar and The Yogi"; Ignazio Silone, Italian writer ("Fontamara", "Bread and Wine") and an organizer of the Italian Communist party; Richard Wright, American negro and author "Native Son"). Three were merely party-followers, or made only brief excursions into it: Andre Gide, great French writer and intellectual; Louis Fischer, American journalist; and Stephen Spender, British poet.

THIS symposium is a very important document for our times, and incidentally readable—the six are all writers. Communism is the greatest challenge of our era. It is so because it is, as all six reveal, an ideology; and a faith that will move even very strong minds to submerge their intellects; and, as the experience of the three ex-communists terribly underlines, a temporal, materialistic force reaching all over the world. Incidentally, a quarter of the world is now Communist; the days are passed when people could talk blithely of the "socialist sixth" of the globe.

The book will be of little service to dolts who are insensate to the spirit of the age, blind, frozen-minded Communists or western democrats who never question the bases of their attitudes. The six studies give no pat answer to intelligent people distressed by the age, torn between the obvious ills of capitalist-democracy and Communist society. A generalized conclusion emerges; it is the title of the book: "The God that failed". Note that it is a God.

THE three least compelling essays are from Gide, Spender and Fischer, for they have not come out of the depths of the other apostates. Gide has already told his tale in "Return From the U.S.S.R." (1936), and Gide is too much the individualistic genius for his personal approach to communism to have generalized authenticity.

Gide found on his "tragic" visit to the U.S.S.R., as Enid Starke explains in her introductory essay to the Gide selection, that the Soviet dream of a totalitarian state was an oppressive Utopia where enslaved minorities were no longer heard, where—what was worse—everybody thought alike. Gide says: "There can be no question of harmony when the whole choir sings in unison". As Gide put his faith in Russia, not so much out of respect for Communism, but because of disillusionment with Western democracy of which he despaired, so did Stephen Spender, the poet who went to fight for the Loyalists in Spain, and Louis Fiscner, the distinguished American journalist who lived for nearly twenty years in Russia as a correspondent. Their commitment to Communism was not so deep or absolute as Wright's, Koestler's and Silone's, so their return from it was not so heart-rending.

THE story of the conversion to Communism and the apostolic work of Richard Wright, the negro, is fraught with the misery of the U.S.A. in the Depression '30's, and of a poor Negro in them. It is a sincere, moving story, but without the intellectual force and clarity of Koestler and Silone.

Arthur Koestler was born in Budapest in 1905 of well-to-do family, and was educated in Vienna. During the Great War and its consequent disruption, the bourgeois family was tossed up. Koestler made his way, becoming an influential editor of the Ullstein Berlin Liberal newspaper chain. "I was ripe to be converted as a result of my personal case-history; thousands of other members of the intelligentsia and the middle classes of my generation were ripe for it by virtue of their case-histories; but however much these differed from case to case, they had a common denominator: the rapid disintegration of moral values, of the pre-1914 pattern of life in post-war Europe, and the simultaneous lure of the new revelation which had come from the East". He joined the Party in 1931, when thousands of other intellectuals as well as out-of-work people sought communism as the world's salvation from economic chaos and man's hope of redemption.

Koestler surrendered himself, body, soul, and almost mind. At first he bowed down before the party slogans: "The front-line is no place for discussions". "Wherever a Communist happens to be . . . is . . . the front line". He served the Party seven years in Germany, France, Spain and England. He began to dream of the time when the first, ruthless phases in the setting-up of the New World, would have passed, and of the time when "the leaders would be called to account for . . . . the avoidable defeats, the wanton sacrifices, the mud-stream of slander and denunciation, in which the pick of our comrades had perished".

Then in Franco's jails, he began to realize that the leaders of the U.S.S.R. would never be called to account by Communists, for they had set up a ruthless dictatorship, and killed off all who would have made the call. He felt now "That man is a reality, mankind an abstraction; that men cannot be treated as units in operations of political arithmetic . . . . that charity is not petty-bourgeois but the gravitational force which keeps civilization in its orbit". He left the party in 1938.

THE Italian writer, Silone, was the most highly-placed of the Communists represented in this book. He has met Lenin, sat at conferences with Stalin and Bukarin. Poverty, injustice, state corruption and a fiery imaginative conception of Utopia made him a passionate convert to Communism at 20.

"The Party became family, school, church, barracks; the world that lay beyond it was to be destroyed and built anew. The psychological mechanism whereby each single militant becomes progressively identified with the collective organization is the same as that used in certain religious orders and military colleges, with almost identical results. Every sacrifice was welcomed as a personal contribution to the 'price of collective redemption'; and it should be emphasized that the links which bound us to the Party grew steadily firmer, not in spite of the dangers and sacrifices involved, but because of them. This explains the attraction exercised by Communism on certain categories of young men and of women, on intellectuals, and on the highly sensitive and generous people who suffer most from the wastefulness of bourgeois society".

Silone left the Party in 1930 after a saga of ten years. And he left because his mind revolted at its tactics, his spirit at the bludgeoning discipline which was achieving only the fascism which he was fighting in his own country. But, "the day I left the Communist Party was a very sad one for me, it was like a day of deep mourning, the mourning for my lost youth". He is now a Christian Socialist.

RICHARD Crossman's introduction to this book is a brilliant synthesis and partial analysis of the case-histories. In it are some penetrating remarks on the Communism and Catholicism, the reason why Communism has had much more success in Catholic than in Protestant countries, and his own confession that, despite Communism's attractions, he felt no inner response to it because of "sheer nonconformist cussedness". "As a nation we (English) have been endowed with more than our due of conscientious objection to infallibility. After all, in his own period Henry VIII was the prototype of Titoism".

The Introduction ends with this admonition: "No one who has not wrestled with Communism as a philosophy and Communists as political opponents can really understand the values of Western Democracy. The Devil once lived in Heaven, and those who have not met him are unlikely to recognize an angel when they see one". The six statements are, incidentally, a warning exposition of Communist methods.

Letter To The Editor

ANOTHER FLYING SAUCER

Sir: J.G. rather interests me in his succinct account of his experience with a flying saucer.

May I humbly bring to his attention a true story of a flying saucer that I saw before they were ever even thought of!

Naturally, as the event took place in England, a saucer whether flying or stationary is usually associated with a cup of tea!

So, once upon a time in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four, my uncle who was a Lieutenant-Commander, R.N., was visiting at our home in Folkestone together with his wife, who happened to be my aunt. Fancy that!

They were indulging in a bit of horseplay on the staircase, when all of sudden like a bolt from the blue, a flying saucer flew accompanied by a cup of tea!

Needless to say the cup soon parted company with the saucer and the tea with the cup. Such a waste! What a pity!

However, the flying saucer continued on its merry way regardless! Fortunately my revered uncle saw it coming with his telescope, and had the presence of mind to duck!

The flying saucer whizzed over his head at the terrifying speed of approximately 1,000 m.p.h. (or as he said afterwards), so it seemed to him.

Had it not been for the presence of the wall behind him, no doubt it would have kept on going, perhaps around the world at record speed!

When it collided with the wall however, the bottom dropped out of everything (including the cup)!

The flying saucer abruptly stopped flying and much to everyone's consternation, (including the saucer's), a terrific explosion ensued and it immediately disintegrated into minute pieces!

Unfortunately, my uncle having ducked the saucer got in the way of the tea, and received it full in the face!

The tea having revived him somewhat, he picked up the pieces carefully and sent them to the Ordnance Department, for further examination!

After a lot of red and blue tape, (they weren't quite sure of the sex of the late lamented remains of the flying saucer), it was found to be a very antique Japanese make, valued at 1/6 (including the cup) and doubtless coming from one of Woolworth's 3d and 6d stores!

Of course, after all that excitement a sip or two of the cup that cheers, but does not inebriate, was quite in order, and needless to say we all felt much better and much relieved!

That, my dear sir, is the story of the early type of flying saucer, and it probably won't be the last!!

Yours, with one for the pot! (the teapot that is!!)

GERALD TULLY.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thus saith the Lord; Learn not the way of the heathen, and be not dismayed at the signs of heaven; for the heathen are dismayed at them. For the customs of the people are vain: for one cutteth a tree out of the forest, the work of the hands of the workman, with the axe.

They deck it with silver and with gold; they fasten it with nails and with hammers, that it move not. They are upright as the palm tree, but speak not: they must needs be borne, because they cannot go. Be not afraid of them; for they cannot do evil, neither also is it in them to do good. . . .

Silver spread into plates is brought from Tarshish, and gold from Uphaz the work of the workman, and of the hands of the founder: blue and purple is their clothing: they are all the work of cunning men. But the Lord is the true God, he is king . . .

Thus shall ye say unto them, The gods that have not made the heavens and the earth, even they shall perish from the earth, and from under these heavens. (Jer. 10: 2-5, 9, 10, 11.)

And God spake all these words, saying, Thou shalt have no other gods before me. Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them. (Ex. 20: 1, 3-5.)

GOVERNMENT RECORDS ANOTHER SURPLUS BUT DOWN FROM '49

Abbott Has Surplus Of $111,000,000 Fourth Since War

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, March 28—(CP)—A 1949-50 budgetary surplus of $111,000,000—the fourth consecutive surplus since the end of the war—was reported Tuesday night by Finance Minister Abbott in his budget speech to the Commons. The surplus for the fiscal year ending Friday compared with $595,000,000 in 1948-49; $670,000,000 in 1947-48 and $373,000,000 in 1946-47 when a spring of deficits extending back to 1930 was broken.

Although 1949-50 accounts have not been closed, Mr. Abbott said it appears that revenues will total $2,549,000,000 and expenditures $2,438,000,000.

In his budget speech at the fall session following the general election last June, Mr. Abbott had estimated that he would end the current year with a surplus of about $90,000,000. At that time he estimated revenues would total approximately $2,545,000,000 and expenditures $2,460,000,000.

Debt Down

Is 1948-49, revenues were $2,771,400,000 and expenditures $2,175,900,000. In 1949-50, the net debt, reduced by the amount of the surplus, dropped from $11,776,100,000 to $11,665,000,000.

Mr. Abbott's figures were contained in the fiscal portion of his speech, which preceded the section containing proposed tax changes for the coming year.

If no tax changes were made in 1950-51, he estimated revenues would total $2,430,000,000. Main estimates of expenditures for the coming year, which do not take into account unforeseen expenditures, have been fixed at $2,308,000,000.

This would leave a budgetary surplus of 122,000,000 before any tax changes and before provision for unforeseen expenditures.

In the 6,500-word fiscal portion of his speech, Mr. Abbott made these points:

1. During the current year $486,000,000 obtained from various government transactions was used to reduce the outstanding public debt.

2. In the last two years, a fall in Canadian overseas exports of about $300,000,000 has been more than offset by an increase of $500,000,000 in Canadian exports to the United States.

A Little Disappointed

3. The government has been a "little disappointed in the apparent inability of overseas countries to resume their traditional share" of the Canadian import market during the last year.

4. It already seems clear that devaluation of the dollar last September has, under present conditions, improved Canada's trading position.

5. Canada's gold and dollar reserves, at a low of $461,000,000 in December, 1947, had climbed to $1,204,200,000 at the close of business March 25, an increase of $87,000,000 in the quarter.

6. Average weekly wages rose about three per cent during the year while the cost of living advanced "barely" one per cent.

Sees More Employment

7. The outlook for 1950 seems to be that the volume of employment will increase moderately but it is possible it may not catch up with growth in total labor supply.

8. Concensus of informed views about the outlook for 1950 is that employment, output and price levels in both Canada and United States will show no great change from 1949.

9. Government revenues remain "remarkably" buoyant despite the successive reductions in tax rates.

10. A new issue of long-term government bonds will be sold to provide for redemption of the first victory loan three per cent bonds which mature June 15, 1951 and an issue of three per cent bonds sold in 1935 and due to mature June 1, 1955.

Mr. Abbott reiterated earlier government statements that unemployment during winter months was regional and due largely to action of pulp and paper companies in reducing logging operations while reducing inventories.

"I would expect the woods operations next winter to be at a normal level," he said.

"We shall continue to give all the help we can in finding markets for such other commodities as may from time to time find their market upset."

Won't Take It All

But, he added, the Federal Government cannot and should not attempt to assume responsibility for all regional problems. It should be ready, he said, to co-operate with Provincial Governments and through them with Municipalities in solving regional problems that threaten country-wide economic repercusions.

Besides this co-operation, he said, the Federal Government should endeavor to create a favorable climate for healthy economic expansion and development. It should exercise care in planning, timing and placing capital and development expenditures. It should recognize a special responsibility for the promotion and development of basic primary industries and other industries of national significance.

At the outset, Mr. Abbott dealt with the question of trade, tracing the rise and fall of exports and imports from various countries.

Exports Fallen

Canada's exports have fallen from a post-war peak of $3,120,000,000 in the 12-month period ended August, 1949, to about $3,000,000,000 in the 12-month period ended Feb. 28, 1950. Canada's imports are running at the rate of about $2,750,000,000 compared with $1,500,000,000 in 1946. However, Mr. Abbott said he was not satisfied with the import picture

He said:

"Frankly we have been a little disappointed in the apparent inability of overseas countries to resume their traditional share of our import market during the past year.

"Late in 1946, our overseas imports were about $500,000,000; they rose steadily to $860,000,000 early in 1949, but from that point they have been drifting downward and now are at about $800,000,000.

"If our overseas friends could get back their traditional share of our import market, they would be earning an additional $200,000,000 a year with which to balance and eventually expand their consumption of Canadian products."

Improved Position

He said it was too early to judge the full results of devaluation of currencies by various countries last September. But the government's action in devaluating the dollar had improved Canada's trading position.

He noted that net farm income was slightly lower than in 1948, but the farm cash income was almost identical with the record reached in 1948.

Despite export marketing difficulties for some types of fish, returns to fishermen in 1949 were satisfactory, domestic demand being particularly good throughout the year, said Mr. Abbott.

"In those lines of production where our farmers and fishermen rely primarily on overseas markets the outlook for 1950 is less certain, but I would like to remind honorable members that our markets on this side of the Atlantic have increased greatly in recent years, and can, I think be still further developed, especially for high-quality products."

Hope to Charge

Turning to government accounts, Mr. Abbott said he hoped that in due course the government will be able to arrange to charge the post offices for accommodation and other services. In turn the post office would charge other departments for mail services, now furnished free of charge.

In its loans, investments and securities operations during the year, the government ended with a cash surplus of $67,000,000.

He outlined the transaction undertaken to finance the debt and predicted that in 1950-51 only modest reductions will be made in the funded debt.

New Agreement With Provinces Seen On Taxes

OTTAWA, March 29.—(CP).—Finance Minister Abbott Tuesday night indicated in his budget speech that he expects the provinces to renew taxation agreements with the Federal government.

Renewal of the agreements, due to expire March 31, 1952, will be discussed at a Dominion-Provincial conference this fall. Newfoundland is due to sign an agreement shortly. This will leave only Ontario and Quebec outside of agreement with the Federal government.

Mr. Abbott said that no matter what may be the eventual outcome of the fall conference, "I think it is fair to assume that it will not result in a lessening of the net burden on the Federal budget."

He made the statement after saying that in 1945-50 statutory subsidies and compensation under the tax rental agreements totalled $104,000,000. He said that for the remaining term of the agreements the annual payments to the provinces "will be even larger than this year, whether or not any downturn in economic activity should occur in the next year or two."

Expected Payments

The 1950-51 estimates show that payments in the coming fiscal year are expected to total $127,534,729.

Under the agrements, the provinces gave the Federal government almost exclusive use of the three main tax fields—personal income tax, corporation tax, and succession duties.

In return the Federal government promised annual payments based on population and the value of gross national production. It was agreed that the payments would not drop below an agreed level, regardless of economic conditions.

In 1950-51 estimated payments, with the comparative 1949-50 figures in brackets, will be divided as follows:

Newfoundland, $7,000,000 ($6,845,000; Prince Edward Island, $2,100,000 ($1,900,000); Nova Scotia, $12,700,000 ($11,400,000); New Brunswick, $10,300,000 ($9,200,000); Manitoba, $16,000,000 $14,400,000); Saskatchewan, $16,500,000 ($15,100,000); Alberta, $16,900,000 ($15,200,000); British Columbia, $27,300,000 ($24,300,000).

The figures do not include the per capita subsidies and other annual payments to the provinces.

Slight Drop Seen In Price

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP)—A forecast of a slight drop in prices and a small rise in employment this year was contained Tuesday night in Finance Minister Abbott's budget speech.

He said:

"The concensus of informed views about the outlook for 1950 is that employment, output and price levels in both Canada and the United States will show no great change from 1949.

"The balance of probabilities for Canada indicates a moderate increase in the domestic and United States demand for our products, offset in part by a reduction in overseas demands, with prices tending slightly downward and employment slightly upward."

He estimated that the gross national product, which includes national income, will be about one or two per cent higher than in 1949.

Canada's Gold, Dollar Reserves Show Increase Of $87,100,000

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP)—Canada's reserves of gold and United States dollars reached a total of $1,204,200,000 by Saturday last, an increase of $87,100,000over the $1,117,100,000 reported at Dec. 31,1949, Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Tuesday night in the fiscal portion of his 1950-51 budget speech

This represented a substantial increase over the low of $461,000,000 touched in December 1947 when the government plugged the gold-dollar drain by instituting widespread bans on imports from U. S. dollar areas. Many of those prohibitions since have been relaxed or dropped outright.

Mr. Abbott said this latest increase was accounted for largely by a rise in Canadian balance held by other governments.

No New Receipts

"To the extent that these balances are abnormally high and will be subsequently reduced it means that some of our exports in coming months will be paid for out of these balances and will not bring in new receipts of exchange

"To this extent, our reserve at their current level include the proceeds of some future earning which have in effect been received in advance."

He noted, too, that the approaching second quarter of the calendar year is the season for heavy transfers of earnings on U. S. investments in Canada. For that reason, he expected the reserves may show a similar decline during the next two or three months.

Makes No Prediction

"However," he aded, "I would not, of course, venture to make any prediction in respect to the probable net change in our reserves for the new fiscal year as a whole."

For 1949, preliminary estimates indicate the surplus on international current account totalled approximately $193,000,000. In the capital account, notable features were $120,000,000 to the United Kingdom under the 1946 loan and a "fairly substantial" inflow of capital from the United States for direct investment, chiefly in connection with oil developments in western Canada.

Gold production, which serves to increase the exchange reserves has been showing a "steady and welcome" increase each year and in 1949 totalled $[illegible]

May Halt Gov't Free Mail Use Abbott Hints

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott indicated in the Commons Tuesday night that the government is thinking of dropping the "franking" privileges by which government departments use the mails free.

In the fiscal portion of his 1950-51 budget speech, he noted that the post office is paying its own way, when wartime increases in letter rates are included, and said he hoped the growing cost of postal services could be covered by charges for these services.

"In due course," he went on, "I would hope we can arrange that it will be charged with all proper expenses of its operations that it will charge other departments for mail services, and that it will be able to show a modest surplus on a commercial basis of accounting."

Oil Explorers Get Tax Help

OTTAWA, March 29 —(CP)—Concessions for oil and mineral exploration work are to be continued in two forms, Finance Minister Abbott announced Tuesday night in his budget address.

For expenses on deep-test oil wells, the existing provisions are extended from the end of this year to the end of 1951. These enable an operator to write off such expenses fully from taxable income and also to deduct from his tax bill 20 per cent of the amount spent.

For ordinary exploration, the budget continued until the end of 1953 the provision allowing full deduction of these expenses from taxable income. Last year's budget had extended this concession through 1952.

A budget resolution also clarifies the right of the government to exempt from taxation gains made by prospectors and developers in discovering and proving up mining claims. This practice has been in effect for 10 years, but rewriting of the income tax act last year left no clear-cut authority for it.

A measure of double taxation in connection with the oil industry also will be removed through repeal of a section under which trustees of oil company rights had been taxed on the income from the rights. Now, only the eventual recipient will be taxed.

Canadians Purchased 304 Million In Bonds

OTTAWA, March 29—(CP) — Approximately 1,000,000 buyers have purchased $304,000,000 worth of the fourth series of Canada savings bonds introduced last fall, Finance Minister Abbott said Tuesday in the fiscal portion of his budget speech presented in the Commons.

Terming the campaign "highly successful," he extended a tribute to the "splendid" work done by voluntary and professional workers in promoting the sale of the bonds.

Sales Tax Drop Benefits Institutions, Not Public

By The Canadian Press

The ordinary consumer apparently isn't going to see much change as a result of the federal budget tax changes on ice cream, dairy drinks and whipping cream; likewise on the elimination of the excise tax on toilet soaps.

But officials of orphanages and of institutions for the aged and infirm are enthusiastic over the elimination of the eight per cent sales tax on purchases made for such institutions.

Effective immediately the sales tax on ice cream ,dairy drinks and whipping cream is eliminated, but it's up to the retailer in most places whether this means a cheaper price to the consumer.

"The customer may be paying a few cents less for his ice cream, but it's up to the retailer because he has been absorbing the tax,' explained L. A. Wallis, manager of Silverwood Dairies at London, Ont. "We will still sell it to the retailer at the same price.'

Absorbing Whole Shot

A dairy industry spokesman at Montreal said removal of this tax would relieve the dairies of "a severe drag. Up to now we've had to absorb the whole amount," he said. "However it will take some time before the full effect is known."

The tax cut on dairy drinks eliminates an impost that had been absorbed by the dairies and therefore the consumer is not expected to be affected.

A dairy industry official at Winnipeg agreed it's not likely there will be much change in ice cream prices.

No Soap Changes

Officials of leading soap manufacturing firms at Toronto could see little change in prospect as a result of removal of the five-per-cent excise tax on toilet soaps.

An official of the Proctor and Gamble Company thought slight reductions might be made after study, but Thomas J. Williams, vice-president of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, saw no immediate changes in prices.

The sales manager of a liquid soap manufacturer W. J. Evans of the G. W. Wood Company at Toronto, said however that immediate saving would result to customers buying products on which the tax applied. He said his firm had charged the tax as extra so the saving could be passed on to customers at once.

There was general approval of the dropping of the sales tax on purchases for orphanages and institutions for the aged and infirm. Stuart A. Sutton, director of the Children's Aid Society at Toronto, which has 3,000 children in foster homes, said "annually we pay from $3,000 to $4,000 for their medicine."

Saving On Dishes

A great saving on medicines and such items as dishes was also foreseen by Mrs. F. A. Mitchell, superintendent of the Belmont House for Aged Women at Toronto. But she said wryly that she wished the tax had been lifted sooner—"we've just finished redecorating the home."

Another Toronto home for the aged with 100 inmates will save from $2,500 to $3,500 a year on equipment and medicines, its superintendent estimated.

J. C. Brodrick of St. Catharines president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said that the alternative allowed farmers in two systems of depreciation accounting is in line with recommendations adopted by the O. F A. last year.

Farmers and fishermen will be allowed to continue the old system, of straight depreciation on stock and equipment, or use the new method which treats the farm or fishing equipment as a capital investment, with depreciation on a sliding scale.

The choice should be allowed, Brodrick said, because a number of farmers and fishermen have just started filing returns. Farmers for instance were getting used to the old, simpler system, but there were advantages to the new method and many might wish to take advantage of it.

Canadian Net Debt Cut To 11 Billion

OTTAWA, March 29 —(CP) — Canada's net debt, pushed to a peak of $13,421,405,490 by heavy wartime expenditures, has been reduced to $11,665,000,000, Finance Minister Abbott discolsed Tuesday night in his budget speech.

The net debt was a mere $3,152,559,314 at the outbreak of the second World War in 1939. Heavy wartime expenditures sent it skyrocketting, but four consecutive surpluses since the end of the war have helped to whittle it down.

In the 1949-50 fiscal year ending Friday, it was cut by $111,100,000 compared with a slash of $595,000,000 in the previous year.

Omemee Hawks Eliminated In Playdowns

OMEMEE, March 29—(ENS)—Omemee Black Hawks were eliminated from the Ontario Rural Hockey Association semi-final playdowns Monday night in Lindsay Arena, when they suffered a 4-3 defeat at the hands of Cannington, in a clean, hard-fought tussle which saw three breath-taking 10 minute overtime periods.

In the two preceding encounters Cannington took the first at home, and the Black Hawks came back to take their home game on Omemee ice.

Cannington opened the scoring at the 12-minute mark in the first frame, when Pickering took a pass from C. Lunney. Clark was also credited with an assist on the play.

After two minutes of play in the second period Tom Parsons, unassisted, evened it up, but 10 minutes later Cannington again took the lead when Carnald flipped it in from Corner.

The final section was scoreless until the 14-minute mark when Deyell and Jamieson combined for Omemee to even things again. One minute later Cannington came out on top once more when Pickering collected his second tally, this time from Tayler. At 17 minutes, Bill Parker, on a pass from Floyd Parsons, brought Omemee even and the bell went with the score 3-3.

Fight Bravely

Going into overtime both teams fought valiantly and the scoreless 29 minutes of play was due to brilliant work on the part of both goal-keepers. With just five seconds to go in the third and final overtime period Carnald was lucky on a long shot from the Omemee blue line, to end the game and the series with Cannington victorious.

In spite of ten penalties, of which four were handed out to the winners and six to Omemee, it was a good clean fight between two well matched teams, and until the final whistle could have been anybody's game. A near-record crowd of approximately 1,300 fans packed the arena for the event.

Lineups:

Omemee—Goal, Fisher; defence, F. Parsons, T. Parsons; centre, R. Crawford; wings, H Crawford, Parker; alternates, Deyell, Jamieson, Elliott, Evans, Armstrong, English.

Cannington—Goal, Pipher; defence, S. Lunney, Carnald; centre, C. Lunney; wings, Pickering, Clark; alternates, McKay, McPherson, Tayler, Argue, Snooks, Corner.

Referee, Love, Oshawa; linesman, Peters, Oshawa.

Casey Rollers Atop

In the newly-formed Major Bowling League at Playfair's, Ed Casey's team took top spot the first week. Some of the best bowlers of the city roll in this circuit and good counts are chalked up. On April 15, the local branch of the Canadian Associated Travellers will enter their team in the Dominion-wide A.C.T bowling competition. Results of each game are wired to Calgary, and each branch is notified of the various results.

The Peterborough team this year will consist of: Bernie LaPointe, Eddie O'Brien, Art Goodyear, Ken Doughty and Doug Delaney.

MID-SEASON MANNER—Wayne Terwilliger hits dirt to score against Cleveland in second inning of exhibition game won by the Cubs, 4-3, in Los Angeles. Catcher Jim Hegan of the Indians hustles out to take throw, as the Chicago second baseman roars home with spikes high in business-like manner.

CGE Won't Enter Soccer Team

Soccer in Peterborough will suffer a severe setback this year as CGE has announced they will not enter a team. This announcement was made at the annual meeting of the Peterborough and District Football League held on Monday in the YMCA.

The CGE team carried off many of the best players in the league last year. They have had a team here under their auspices since 1912. Last year they had a successful year in the Ontario Cup play.

A communication was received from a recently-formed inter-city organization intimating that they had appointed executive officers to carry out the inter-city league games. This league is expected to have teams from Belleville, Trenton, Kingston, Brockville, and Ottawa along with teams from the Peterborough district. That would make a 10-team league under the jurisdiction of the Eastern Ontario Football Association. It is not the intention to do away with local soccer games but only to allow certain teams into the league.

There has been no official confirmation from any team in particular that they intend operating a team this year in the local league. The UE has intimated that they will operate a team and O'Halloran's has agreed to field an eleven. There has been no word from the Petes or Lindsay.

The Association will meet again next Monday, April 3 in the YMCA at 8:00.

VOYLES TO COACH?

It appears that Carl Voyles will be handling the coaching chores next season for the Hamilton entry in the Inter-provincial Rugby Football League.

Officials said Tuesday night that a definite announcement may be forthcoming by Thursday and at the same time admitted talking by phone to the former Brooklyn coaching ace. It has been rumored that as soon as he has completed some unfinished business with the National (Pro) Football League he will be ready to sign a contract with the Big Four club.

Rugged Bout Expected When Watson-Baxter Meet

What shapes us as one of roughest bouts of the season will be staged Thursday night at the Brock when Whipper Watson takes on Vern Baxter in the feature spot. Baxter is generally regarded as one of the toughest grapplers in the game and is out to win regardless of the tactics he employs. In Watson he will find a worthy opponent for the Whip has tamed most of the bad boys. Watson is still top man in the ring and travels at high speed every minute. He never turns in a dull performance.

The semi-final match also has plenty of appeal bringing together two fast, scientific men, Johnny Barend and Steve Stanlee. Most of the experts predict a bright future for Barend, claiming he will be at the top of the heap in another year or so. Steve Stanlee is a prime favorite with the fans.

The opener features Bill Stack of Bowmanville and Jack Wentworth of Hamilton. The card is well balanced and should draw a huge crowd of city and district followers of the grapple game.

Toronto Leafs Dump Detroit Wings 5-0; Gordie Howe Receives Severe Brain Injury

DETROIT, March 29 — (CP). Young Gordie Howe of Saskatoon star winger of the champion Detroit Red Wings, was believed to be out of danger today after undergoing an early morning brain surgery to relieve a severe injury suffered Tuesday night in a Stanley Cup playoff game.

The injury to the powerful, aggressive Howe overshadowed the 5-0 upset Toronto's battling Maple Leafs plastered on the favored Red Wings in a bruising, one-sided contest launching the best-of-seven semi-final Cup series.

By winning, the Leafs successfully opened their bid for their fourth straight Stanley Cup. It marked the 12th consecutive time they had beaten the National Hockey League champion "Red Wings in a play-off game

Remove Fluid

Interest in the outcome of the game was secondary, however, to concern over the condition of the 21-year-old Howe. He was placed in an oxygen tent at Harper Hospital after undergoing a 90-minute operation to remove fluid from his brain area. Team physician C. L. Tomsu said "the next 24 hours will be critical ones, but I think Gordie will be okay."

Examination showed Howe suffered a fractured nose, a fractured cheekbone, and a brain concussion. Dr. Tomsu said preliminary X-rays indicated a skull fracture on the right side of Howe's head, but additional pictures would be taken today to clarify this possibility.

The margin of Toronto's victory, plus the injury to Howe, caused a shift in betting odds as the Leafs moved into the position of favorites to win the series.

Howe's injury touched off a heated controversy among players and officials of the Detroit and Toronto teams. Ironically enough it came in the closing minutes of the game when the hopelessly outplayed Detroiters were trailing 4-0.

Rough Game

A rough battle marked by 21 penalties was broken wide open by three Toronto goals in the second period.

After a scoreless first period, Joe Klukay tallied the first To Joe Klukay tallied the first Toronto goal in the first 10 seconds of the middle session. Bill Barilko and Johnny McCormack sank a couple of short ones to boost the margin to 3-0 before the end of the period. Then Cal Gardner and Klukay added insurance goals in the third period.

Toronto was the harder-hitting club by far. Detroit coach Tommy Ivan said "they outplayed, outfought, and outroughed us .. but we are still very much in the running."

The second game of the series will be played here, then with the next two at Toronto.

All the principals agreed that Howe's injury, which came several minutes after he served a five-minute penalty for fighting, was sustained on a play that saw the Leafs' Ted Kennedy swarm down towards the Detroit goal with the puck

Coach Ivan and other Detroit sources said Howe and Jack Stewart of the Wings set out to check Kennedy.

Stick Hit Howe

Ivan reported that the butt of Kennedy's stick struck Howe on the head as the two players careened into the boards.

"I am not saying it was intentional, but the check was there for everyone to see," Ivan declared.

Kennedy and his teammates said he never came in contact with Howe

Howe bled profusely and was carried from the ice on a stretcher. After a hasty examination in the dressing rooms he was hurried to the hospital.

There doctors treated him and took X-rays, indicating they would postpone further action until today. The youthful Howe began to throw up blood, however, and the emergency was decided upon.

Dr. Tomsu and Dr. Frederic Schreiber, a brain specialist, performed the 90-minute operation which necessitated boring a hole in the side of Howe's head, about two inches in front of his right ear.

Stood Operation

They drained off some of the extra fluid before placing Howe in an oxygen tent for 24 hours.

Dr. Tomsu reported Howe "stood the operation okay."

The hospital summoned an eye specialist to examine Howe today to see if his eyesight was impaired. His right eye and eyeball were cut

The injury threatened to become a major point of dispute for the rest of the series and possibly make it a grudge affair. Practically everyone chose up sides as to the cause.

Here are some of the opinions:

Toronto manager Conn Smythe —Kennedy's stick never touched Howe. Jack Stewart crashed into Howe after he had hit the boards."

Detroit manager Jack Adams—"I have my own ideas as to what happened, but I'm keeping it to myself. The referee did not even call a penalty on the play."

Detroit captain Sid Abel—"How in the hell can Kennedy say he didn't hit Gordie?"

The Leafs were just as vigorous in defending Kennedy, all agreeing that he did not come in contact with Howe on the controversial play.

Car Demand Said To Continue High In 1950

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

For the present year it seems probable that demand for automobiles will continue at its currently high level, says the current Commercial Letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

In the longer term view, the letter indicates, there are conflicting factors of more difficult Commonwealth markets, and a possible rise in the Canadian standard of living.

The Letter says in part:

Despite the increasing supply of all types within the last few years, the degree of obsolescence is still considerably higher on the average than it was before the war. Passenger cars are nearly three years and trucks almost 2½ years older, on the average, than they were in 1939 when it was customary to scrap passenger cars after 12 years and trucks after 11 years.

In Line For Scrapping

On the pre-war basis of replacements it is estimated that close to 600,000 passenger cars and 120,000 trucks are in line for scrapping. This does not, of course, imply an immediate effective demand of any such proportions, but it is a potential backlog which should keep automobile plants operating at a high level for some time

The most urgent of post-war demands now appear to have been filled, and while, in the case of passenger cars and small trucks, with certain exceptions a sellers' market still exists, deliveries have been speeded up and prospective purchasers are "shopping around" as they have not done in years.

Ban Affects 4,000

GUELPH, March 29 — (CP) — Charles Fulford, president of the Guelph Lions Club, said Tuesday a special meeting will be held to consider the decision of the CBC board of governors banning radio bingo games from the air. He said the ban would affect between 3,500 and 4,000 persons of the Guelph area who participated in the radio bingo games operated by the service clubs.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Intercollegiate Football Union has decided that next season it—and not the Canadian Rugby Union—will appoint game officials through a commissioner.

The decision to appoint a commissioner to name officials for each game was made at Toronto at a week-end meeting.

The Montreal Star Tuesday reported that three names have already been submitted — Leslie Blackwell, former Ontario Attorney-General, Joe Breen, president of Canada Cement Company and former coach and player at London's University of Western Ontario, and Lt.-Col. Stuart Forbes, former athletic manager at McGill, now retired.

All four coaches in the college loop—University of Toronto, Queen's University, University of Western Ontario and McGill — have chosen a panel of officials who have agreed to work in only one major circuit.

By an ingenious arrangement the 1,300 hundred residents of Magrath, Alta., Tuesday night heard their Rockets capture the second game of the Western Senior Basketball championships with University of Manitoba Bisons at Winnipeg.

Two fans travelling with the team broadcast a play-by-play account over long-distance telephone. Loud speakers spotted throughout the town amplified the voices, and young and old listened to their team fight to a 54-52 decision, tying the series and forcing an extra game.

Jersey Joe Walcott, through his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, on Tuesday at Camden, N. J., claimed the world heavyweight boxing title providing Ezzard Charles is unable to fight again.

Charles, recognized by the National Boxing Association as champion, was forced to cancel his title bout with Freddie Beshore because of an injury.

Bocchicchio said he is claiming the title in belief that Joe Louis will remain in retirement and that Charles has suffered an injury to a heart muscle which also may force him into permanent retirement.

Organize Protest

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 29 — (CP) — Niagara fruit-belt growers said Tuesday they plan an organized protest against sections of a new Ontario law giving the highways minister wide powers over lands bordering on highways. The bill, given Royal assent in the legislature last Friday, provides that no new building, fence, hedge, transmission line, gasoline pump or similar object may be placed on lands adjoining a highway without a permit from the minister.

Gets Emergency Job

LOS ANGELES, March 25 —(AP)—Willy is back in Centralia Park eating nuts again, thanks to some emergency dental work. Willy is a squirrel. His lower teeth were so long he couldn't open his mouth to eat. He just sat there and drooled, with nuts scattered all over the park. At the A.S.P.C.A. hospital, his teeth were filed off. He was making up for lost time at the park today.

GEORGE (BUCK) BOUCHER was fired as the Boston Bruin coach while en route to Toronto recently. He was informed by Art Ross, general manager of the Bruins. Boucher, who last season coached the Ottawa Senators to the Allan Cup, was hampered all season by injuries.

Li'l Arthur King KO's Sieria In 6th Round

TORONTO, March 29 (CP) — Looking more like a well-tutored ring craftsman than when he headlined bouts locally a year and a half ago, Li'l Arthur King, British Empire lightweight champion, knocked out Cuba's Humberto Sierra in the sixth round of their 10-round main eventer here Tuesday night.

Sierra weighed 133½; King 137.

King, somewhat tense and snapping both hands with more authority than ever before, held a good margin in every round up to the time of the knockout — 2:52 of the sixth. Li'l Arthur now works out of Philadelphia and in his absence from the local boxing scene, he has chalked up 13 American victories and two in Britain, one in which he won the BE title from Billy Thompson.

The former Toronto Negro was master of the situation from the opening bell and only in the infighting did his Cuban opponent hold the upper hand.

King worked on a welt under Sierra's right eye in the sixth and sent home the fight-winning left in a fierce offensive along the ropes. Sierra fell to one knee and then slumped over as the referee counted him out.

Billy Fifield, 159, Toronto, made it two in a row by scoring a unanimous decision over Detroit's Billy Lawton in their eight round semi-final match.

Memorial Cup Series In Toronto, Ottawa

KEMPTVILLE, March 29 (CP) —The Eastern Canada Memorial Cup semi-finals will be played in Ottawa and Toronto, W. B. George, vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in charge of eastern playoffs, announced Tuesday night.

Guelph, Ontario Hockey Association titleholders, will meet the winners of the current Inkerman-Porcupine series, in a best-of-seven series opening in Toronto Saturday, said Mr. George.

(Porcupine Combines now lead their best-of-five series against Inkerman Rockets 2-1 in games with the fourth game scheduled tonight at Timmins.)

The second game of the Eastern Canada Junior semi-finals will be played at Ottawa, Monday, April 3. The third and fourth games will be at Toronto April 5, and Ottawa April 7. A fifth game, if necessary, will be played at Toronto April 8.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Caughoo, an eight-year-old brown gelding and a 100-to-one long shot, romped home a 20-lengths winner in the 104th running of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintrees, England, three years ago today. Caughoo, almost ignored by the bettors, ended the race under jockey Eddie Dempsey in almost a dead silence. The favorites were left behind in heavy mud.

HISTORIC DUTY

The right and duties of conservation of the River Thames were held by Lord Mayors of London from 1487 to 1857.

FIREMEN BATTLED a stubborn blaze which gutted the interior of a three-storey building occupied by the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Montreal. No one was injured, but the janitor and his wife were made homeless, while 45 persons living in an adjoining building were forced to vacate the premises temporarily.

Terry Northrop Wins Handicap

Terry Northrop won the 100-yard free style handicap of the Boys' Swimming Club at the YMCA Monday night. David Cuffe pulled in second and Terry Reid third in the event. Improvements in times for the events were noted by Terry Northrop, Terry Reid, Bob Malby and David Cuffe.

In the championship events in Toronto over the weekend the four boys, Don Wood, Scott Pearton, John Boorman and Jim Starr failed to place in the finals. They were all swimming in the 17-year-olds class which is two years out of their class. The boys were accompanied to Toronto by Coach Gord Minty and Clarence Boorman.

Farm Forum Names Officers For Autumn

NORWOOD, March 29 (ENS)—Trent River West Farm Forum concluded their series of meetings Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barrie, when the new officers were elected. A pot luck supper was served after which the women played euchre while the men washed the dishes.

The broadcast at 8:30, outlined the highlights of the Canadian Federations of Agriculture Conference at Ottawa. It was hoped the suggested system of centralized marketing agencies can be introduced soon. The Forum considered the constantly changing prices of farm produce, the most serious drawback to agriculture.

Officers chosen for next fall were: Miss Lillian McLaughlin, secretary; Ed. Simpson, Claude McNutt and Mrs. Gardner Gawley as committee members.

Eastern Title Taken By Cornwall Team

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP)—Cornwall Calumets captured the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League championship and advanced another step along the Allan Cup playdown trail Tuesday night by whipping Hull Volants 5-1 before 1,500 fans.

The powerful Cornwall sextet annexed the best-of-seven series with four victories against a single defeat. They now advance into the Eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-finals against Toronto Marlboros with the first game of the best-of-seven series scheduled to open here Saturday.

Cornwall held a wide margin of play throughout, raining a 47-shot barrage on Hull goalie Phil Desforges, while allowing Volants only 15 shots on goalie Gordie Buckley.

Hull led Cals to a 1-1 draw in the opening period, but Calumets broke loose for three goals in the second and tallied the lone third period counter.

Wallie Garand, Don Batten, Fred Gardner, Bert Lilly, and Rheal Savard tallied for Cornwall. Hull's lone marksman was Roger Carbonneau.

DUST ON THE MARCH—Throughout portions of the midwest and southwest, scenes like this were bringing back memories of the Dust Bowl of the '30's. New dust storms swept over large areas of the plains states, like the level fields around US Highway 24 near Lawrence, Kans. Drivers here crawl along at five miles an hour. At least eight persons were killed in the storms.

Life and Organization Two Essentials of Religion

Bruce Barton, well-know advertising man, and son of the late Dr. William E. Barton, an eminent Congregational minister, wrote a few years ago a book concerning Jesus under the title "The Man Nobody Knows," which had a very wide circulation.

It was a unique and challenging book, and Mr. Barton's likening Jesus to a big business executive did not meet with much approval among reviewers. But, though the conception was extreme, it made an important emphasis upon an aspect of the Christian movement, beginning with Jesus Himself, that has generally been overlooked.

We think of Jesus as a gentle teacher, going about with His disciples, meeting with individuals, talking to small groups as in the Sermon on the Mount, or pressed by the multitudes, whom at times He sought to avoid. That conception has full warrant in the Gospel narratives, but these also reveal how Jesus was a careful organizer, sending forth His disciples, two by two, choosing other seventy besides the Twelve, instructing them as to what they should say and do, listening to their reports when they returned, and in general carrying on a work of organization far beyond anything of which we have commonly conceived.

Moreover, He planned for the carrying on of the organization after His death and resurrection, as He gave the disciples the commission to go into all the world and preach the gospel.

Organization is not of much value without life; in fact it may be baneful if it continues when life has departed from it. But life without organization lacks continuance and premanency. The Christian church was built upon organization, as well as upon life. As Paul expressed it, in Ephesians 4:11, Jesus gave "some, apostles, and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ."

Acts 6:1-5 tells of an important early act of organization, which has set a pattern for continuing churches, in the appointment of seven deacons. Their office at first had to do with the ministering of relief, for the early Christians showed their appropriation of the Master's teaching in their deacons in most churches is now spiritual, but they have charge of care for the needy. The office of the communion fund, which is usually designated for relief.

A striking parallel with the organization and growth of the early church has been found in modern times in the life and work of John Wesley, and the founding of Methodism. John Wesley was the most prolific of preachers. He preached anywhere and everywhere, Sundays and weekdays, and upon every occasion. But he organized the converts he won. They were organized into classes with leaders, meeting regularly, for testimony, and for counsel.

Of course the lay preachers, whom Wesley organized, were also a part of his effective organization, but the case of Wesley and the growth of Methodism emphasize the power of organization with life, as against life alone. The organized life to the church is the power of its ongoing.

Celebration Off

MONTREAL, March 29 (CP)—Plans for observing the centenary of the death of the French novelist, Honore de Balzac, have been called off by La Societe des Ecrivains Canadiens (the Canadian Writers Society) following objections by the Montreal Diocesan Committee of Catholic Action. The 300-member society, whose objects include promotion and defence of the interests of Canadian literature, revealed the cancellation in making public an exchange of correspondence with the Diocesan Committee.

Dutch Train Here

THE HAGUE, March 29 (Reuters)—The Netherlands has accepted "with great gratitude" an offer by Canada to give members of the Dutch forces a free specialist training course in modern warfare methods. The offer, originally made by the Canadian Minister of Defence, Brooke Claxton, was submitted to the Dutch defence minister, W. F. Schokking, by Prince Barnhard of the Netherlands.

Maritime Or Not Poser For Newfoundland

OTTAWA, March — (CP) — Union of Newfoundland with Canada now is firmly established but one question of some importance is still unanswered.

When, if ever, is a Maritimer not a "Maritimer?"

Since Confederation in 1867 official and semi-official language has referred to the three Maritime Provinces— Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island.

Will this now be amended to "the four Maritime Province" with Newfoundland added?

Meanwhile, the question has some importance because Liberal members of the Commons and Senate from Newfoundland have been invited to sit in on periodic Maritime province caucuses heretofore restricted to those from the original three. They likely will accept.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland says there is no question about it.

"Newfoundland is the fourth maritime province," he said recently. But I prefer a different term — 'the five Atlantic Provinces' which comprise the eastern half of Canada."

Thus he included his neighbor, Quebec.

Two Without Sea Coast

Only two provinces — Alberta and Saskatchewan—are without salt water coastlines. Some authorities claim the other eight have the right to be called Maritime Provinces.

Some Newfoundlanders are not keen on being included within the Maritime appellation.

Gordon Higgins (PC—St. John's East), who opposed union said: "Some day, maybe, we'll form a (Maritime) bloc, but not yet."

"It's bad enough to be Canadians," he added with a twinkle in his eye that meant he was not very serious.

Will be Settled

T. G. W. Ashbourne (L—Grand Falls-White Bay) said Newfoundland's natural relationship with the original Maritimes will assert itself and the matter of official designation will be dealt with eventually if necessary.

C. W. Carther (L—Burin-Burgeo) said there was certainly no question that "we are definitely a maritime province" but as for being "Maritimers" in the traditional sense, time and usuage would decide.

There is one man in parliament who can speak for both sides — Nova Scotia's veteran Senator William (Admiral) Duff who was born in Newfoundland.

"Sure, Newfoundland is a maritime province," he said, "but whether they are Newfoundlanders or Maritimers, what's the difference? They're damned good people anyway."

Not His Policy To Tax Capital Gains

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP). — Finance Minister Abbott said Tuesday night in his budget speech "it is not the policy of the government to tax capital gains."

Touching on the subject because of "recent public interest" in it, he said the income tax appeal board has been established to deal with appeals on individual cases which involve, among other things, capital gains.

The three-man board was being authorized to hold one-man sittings "in order to facilitate appeal procedure." Officials said later that appeals are coming in at a rate which has started to pile up a backlog.

Mr. Abbott said:

"Under any income tax law there is always a very difficult problem in drawing a line between gains which are profits from carrying on a trade or business and those which are not. To my knowledge no tax legislation has ever been passed in any country that has removed all doubts on this score.

Up To Courts

"In England, where our basis of income tax had its origin, the matter has been settled almost entirely by the courts, taking into account the facts in each individual case. Much as I would like to introduce greater certainty, I do not believe it can be done by legislation."

The appeal board had been established to deal with such questions. Its three members now would be allowed to hold hearings individually instead of all together or two at a time. Further the taxpayer would be allowed to appeal directly to the Exchequer Court rather than going directly to the Appeal Board.

Any appeals from board findings now go to the Exchequer Court. But it costs considerably more to take a case to the court.

Drugs For TB Considered Still Dangerous

GENEVA, March 29. (Reuters) —The World Health Organizations warned Tuesday against unrestricted distribution and indiscriminate use of streptomycin in combatting tuberculosis.

In a letter to all members of the organization, Canadian-born Dr. Brock Chisholm, director-general, said: In spite of reduced toxicity of the new form of streptomycin it must still be considered as dangerous; precise knowledge of the drug's action, especially in tuberculosis of the lungs, is still lacking; the public has focussed attention on the drug to a degree out of all proportion to its value in the over-all campaign against tuberculosis.

While the great success of streptomycin against tuberculosis is readily admitted, there are indications that the tuberculosis bacilli speedily become resistant to the drug, Dr. Chisholm added.

Alcohol Causes More Deaths In Post-War Era

By RUSSELL HOWE

PARIS, —(Reuters)—Wine is 40 times dearer in France today than in pre-war years but liquor is causing more deaths among Frenchmen than ever before.

Figures issued by the French ministry of health show that deaths from delirium tremens almost doubled in 1948 compared with 1947, and treatment of chronic alcoholics cost the taxpayers over $8,400,000 a year in government efforts to treat sufferers.

During the German occupation France suffered a prohibition period more severe than the "dry" years in the United States. The reaction when wine, rum, liqueurs, eaux-de-vie and spirits again flooded the market was worse than the most pessimistic health experts predicted.

Absinthe — nicknamed "slow suicide"—was banned in 1915 and its successor, pastis, in 1940. Recently government have tried to put it back on the counter as a tax-earner; but the idea has each time been rejected as a somewhat ironical way of improving French post-war "recovery."

Today, the strongest drink which is cheap and at the same time available anywhere is pernod, which has an alcoholic content of 40-45 degrees and costs about 40 francs a litre, depending on the cafe. But the most popular drink is red wine.

Before the war, "gros rouge," including the strong, heady mascaras and other cheap Algerian wines, cost two francs a bottle and 50 centimes a glass. Today, the price is 70-80 francs per litre and 18-20 francs a glass. Wages have risen by a coefficient of approximately 14, which means that in practice wine costs the family budget three times more than it did before the war.

Deaths from delirium tremens totalled 1,140 in 1936, the worst pre-war year. In 1944, the total was 232, in 1945, 457; in 1947 721; and in 1948, 1,302.

More Mental Cases

Psychiatric hospitals report a sharp rise in alcoholic mental cases. Forty-five asylums reported the following number of alcoholics on their books: in 1945 641; in 1947, 963; in 1948, 1,666. Figures for 1949 are not yet available.

The same hospitals reported a still graver feature of the rise in alcoholism: 43 per cent of child mental cases, they say, owe their condition to the alcoholism of their parents or grandparents.

Another state department interested in the drinking habit is the ministry of justice. Three large prisons reported that among their 1948 intake 14.5 per cent of prisoners had committed the crimes for which they were sentenced under the influence of intoxicants; 15.5 per cent were chronic alcoholics; and 25.3 per cent were mentally weak because of "an alcoholic heredity."

Time Off From Work

During 1948, according to the ministry of health, 6,393,225 working days were lost because of excessive drinking.

The ministry says that the tax on liquor and the income tax paid by those who direct or work for companies or farms connected with the wine industry can never balance the medical and penitentiary costs in which the state is involved through "alcoholism."

The French man-in-the-street is surprised to learn that his country drinks more than ever. Thirty-eight per cent of the working population earns 1,800 francs (about $5) a month or less.

Aussie Aristocrats Would Like It Soft

SYDNEY, Australia —(CP)— Australian sheep-shearers, through whose hands passes a golden fleece now bringing about £300,000,000 ($735,000,000) a year, want better conditions. They have asked for these things in a union demand:

Pillows in the shearing sheds, closets in their living huts, blinds on shed skylights and recreation rooms.

"The shearers are not getting soft, they're just getting brains," said C. R. Cameron, vice-president of the Australian Workers' Union. He said the shearer was the aristocrat of the Australian working class.

"Gone are the days when the shearers cut out his pay cheque in the nearest hotel. Shearers no longer tramp the highways with string 'round their trousers looking for work. They travel in high-powered cars and wear decent suits."

Continues Ice-Cutting At 83 Years Of Age

MATTAWA, Ont., — (CP) — When Mattawa residents and visiting tourists use ice to cool their food and drink next summer, they will be getting the benefit of Louis Neault's 42 years of experience in cutting and handling ice.

Now 83, Mr. Neault has been superintending this winter's ice-cutting operations on the Mattawa River here.

An ice-cutter, drawn across the bay by a truck, cuts the big blocks out of the river ice. Then men haul the ice to shore and pack it in ice houses.

Mr. Neault has found that it is best to use a few inches of snow to separate the layers of ice cakes. The snow helps keep the ice cold and makes it easy for the blocks to be lifted out when warm weather comes.

Privilege Plan Best Method For Delinquents

GALT, —(CP)—Jerry is only one of the many that have been directed in the ways of good citizenship at the Ontario training Schools for Boys.

But officials believe his case is typical of what has been done for the more than 350 lads that each year become wards of training schools here and in Bowmanville, Ont. They call the secret of their success in rehabilitation "a system of privileges."

At 12, Jerry was a burglar. His folks were poor, the family large and their home in the city overcrowded. Nobody cared if he sneaked away at night.

After breaking into one house he was caught and let off with a warning. The second time however juvenile court sent the slender lad to training school.

That was four years ago. The Galt school had just been taken over from the Womens' Royal Canadian Naval Service and a new staff organized.

Jerry, a leader among the boys, initiated the staff to several tricks from a varied repertoire. Insolence and insubordination were easily recognizable but not all his misconduct was so obvious. Fuse plugs blew mysteriously, light switches went haywire — he gathered a following of admirers.

Detentions Banned

He was caught and given detention to meditate on his misdeeds. But he wasn't detained long. A new system of privileges was introduced and detentions were banned.

Jerry sneered when he first saw posters announcing: "best boy of the week, best sportsman, best etiquette, best deportment." But his opposition didn't last long. For the first time in his life Jerry could gain practical recognition for honest enterprise. Within two months he qualified as best boy.

When his term ended Jerry was sent to a foster home on a farm. He didn't know a goose from a duck at first but he took an interest in his work and before his farm career was finished he was announced as one of Ontario's champion plowmen.

The training plan is designed to develop a boy by providing incentives which catch and hold his interest.

A. R. Virgin, former superintendent of the school at Bowmanville, now director of the department of reform institutions, spoke for the department when he said:

"It has been our ambition for years to avoid corporal punishment and detention in the case of boys." The ambition has been achieved.

Light Bulbs Replace Team Of 10 Laborers

POINTE DU BOIS, Man., — (CP) — A string of 1,408 light bulbs has taken the place of nine or 10 men at the Winnipeg City Hydro power plant on the Winnipeg River.

The bulbs, suspended a few inches above the river, protect the spillways by keeping ice melted along the dam. They have the old-type carbon filament, instead of tungsten, so they produce more heat.

Originally the company employed men to break the ice constantly. Now the bulbs are merely inspected once a day.

Monsoons End Pearl Divers' Dangerous Job

CANBERRA, Australia (CP) — Monsons are striking in the northern waters of Australia and from Broome on the west coast to Cairns, 3,000 miles away on the east, the pearling fleets are making for cover.

Richest prize of the season was the £3,000 ($7,200) pearl found by a Torres Strait diver last month, but generally the pearling industry is in the doldrums. For the next few months the pearling ships will lie up for repairs while owners ponder whether it's worth carrying on. Not until April, when the monsoons are over, will the fleets go to sea again.

The boats rarely venture out during the monsoon season. In 1934 a fleet of six luggers off the Gulf of Carpentaria was caught by an unexpected monsoon. It was wiped out. All searchers ever discovered later were a few spars, one mast and two bodies.

Monsoons loom up from a clear horizon and within an hour winds blow at 100 miles an hour and seas become mountainous.

While owners, government experts and dealers are shaking their heads over the future of pearl fishing, the men who work from the luggers or sometimes only from frail canoes are safe at home telling their fantastic stories. They're the sort of stories you would hardly believe if a novelist used them.

Before the war, a half-breed diver named Mortakee from Thursday Island was diving for shell three miles off shore in five fathoms of water. Diving naked and swimming under a large coral rock, he came out of one of the rock ledges and met a large shark head on. The fish attacked instantly, closing its jaws round Mortakee's head.

Gouged Shark's Eyes

Mortakee reached up, groped for the shark's eyes and gouged them out with his thumbs. The shark opened its jaws and Mortakee shot free to the surface.

It sounds like a penny dreadful, but Mortakee is still alive today on Thursday Island ready to tell you his story. More than that, to show you the terrible scars round his neck as proof.

Most of the divers are half-breeds. Naked divers use nothing but a knife on a belt, and sometimes a rope line. If he is good enough, he may be given a diving helmet and weighted boots. If he is head diver he may wear an orthodox suit.

Shell divers have a life expectancy of about 35. The cemeteries round Broome, Cairns, Darwin and Thursday Island are full of Thursday Islanders, Malays and Japanese who died young men in their search for pearl shell.

It's not just a question of water pressures and the "bends" that come from too sudden ascents. There are sharks, giant gropers and devil fish. The groper cruises round the rocks like a great rock cod and is big enough to gulp a man's body down in one piece.

The devil fish, shaped like a giant bellows, weighs up to four tons. They frighten easily but can quickly cut through a line or get tangled up with it and race off dragging the diver behind them. Or they sometimes settle like a blanket round a diver's helmet and crush him to death.

Japanese Textiles Reach South Africa

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa — (CP) — Japanese-made textiles are coming to South Africa in increasing quantities and at prices that threaten the market for British-manufactured materials.

Importers here report that some of the Japanese textiles are 400 per cent cheaper than the British counterparts. Even with freight and insurance charges added to their final retail cost they can undersell textiles from western looms by a margin big enough to make competition very difficult.

Samples seem to indicate the Oriental textiles are of high quality. Japanese crepe de chine, for example, contains 75 per cent rayon.

"Even now the quality of the Japanese goods is not as high as it was just before the war," one importer said, "but soon their factories will be back to their pre-war standards.

Buses Replace Trams Motorman Takes Life

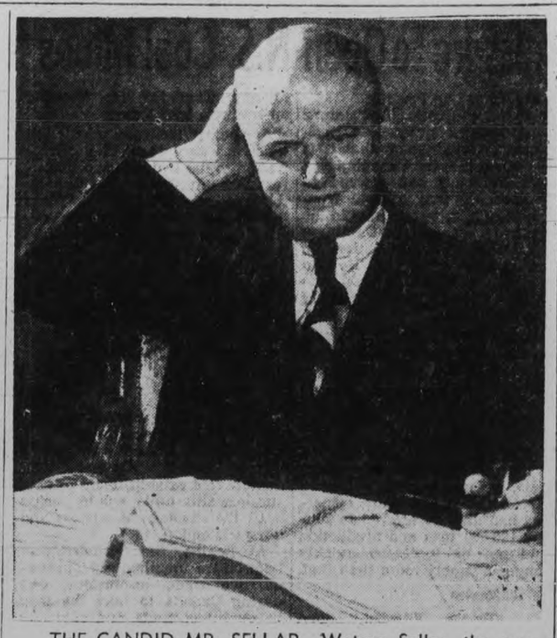
SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (CP).— All but one of Southampton's 140,000 population rejoiced at the substitution of buses for the town's ramshackle trams at the New Year.

The man who did not rejoice was 44-year-old Clement Robinson, who had driven trams for 10 years, including dashes through German air raids during the war and who was a conductor on trams for 10 years before that.

Recently he started a petition for the retention of the trams. But it was a lost cause. He got only a few signatures.

The day after the trams stopped Robinson was found gassed in the bathroom of his home.

"He loved trams," said his wife, Mrs. Rose Robinson, "and went out to see the arrival of the last tram at the depot. After that he became very depressed."



THE CANDID MR. SELLAR—Watson Sellar, the government's top auditor, professes confusion over a web of paper work. But few people see more clearly through the maze of financial problems confronting modern Canadian government and few speak out more candidly. The auditor-general's latest memos to Parliament flatly called the present Commons system of checking federal spending ineffective, and made numerous proposals for improvement.

Ottawa Now Centre For Latvian Relief

OTTAWA — (CP) — Headquarters of the Latvian Relief Association has been moved from Halifax to Ottawa, it has been announced.

Founded a year ago in Halifax, the organization's chief aim is to help Latvian newcomers to Canada establish themselves in this country, said Ilmars Anderjsons, executive secretary of the association.

In order for the organization to save more money for its relief work, its two offices at Halifax and Toronto have been closed, and all business will be carried on from its headquarters here.

Fancy Hat For Men Meets Little Response

LONDON — (CP) — A lot of window-gazing and one or two half-hearted inquiries were all that heralded a new British hat style for men.

It is a fedora with folding crown. The secret is buttoning.

When the buttons are undone the hat can be folded and rolled into pocket size. Fasten the buttons and you have a forage-cap crown of normal height above a narrow band and wide brim.

Book Publishers Have Record Year

LONDON —(CP)—More books were published in Britain in 1949 than in any previous year, the trade journal The Bookseller reported.

The year's output of new titles was 11,924—600 more than in the previous record year of 1937.

Books on hobbies, sports, art, architecture and music showed the largest increases. Biographies slumped in number and novels were sharply down—3,500 aganist 5,100 in 1937.

Jehovah's Win New Trial; Want Libel Defined

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — The Witnesses of Jehovah Tuesday marked up their second victory in a three-year series of trials on the test case of Aime Boucher.

The Supreme Court announced it would grant a rehearing of a case it decided last December by a 3-2 decision. It is expected the case will be reheard some time during the May sittings, probably by the full court of nine judges.

Witnesses had appealed the December decision even though it was favorable to them. They claimed the court had not properly defined seditious libel—a question involving the freedom of expression of all Canadians.

The case began in 1946 when Boucher of St. Germaine de Dorchester, Que., a member of the sect, was arrested for distributing on a street corner a pamphlet entitled: Quebec's Burning Hate for God and Christ and Freedom is the Shame of All Canada.

Lists Persecutions

The pamphlet reviewed alleged persecutions of the sect in Quebec Province.

Boucher appeared before a jury on a charge of seditious libel. He was convicted and sentenced to a month in jail. He appealed to the Quebec Appeal Court and lost.

The witnesses carried the battle to the Supreme Court, which last December ordered a retrial on the ground the original trial judge had misdirected the jury on what constituted a seditious libel.

While this was considered a victory for the sect, the Witnesses were still not satisfied. They wanted a flat acquittal instead of just a rehearing.

Glen How, Boucher's Toronto counsel, appealed in February because of what he termed a confusion of judgments handed down by the five-man court which heard the case.

'Twas Good Budget—Last Year, Little In '50 To Help

By DOUGLAS HOW.

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — From the standpoint of the man in the street, it was a swell budget—last year.

For the little man who was Mr. Big in Finance Minister Abbott's tax-slashing pre-election budget of last spring got little but a nod and an earful of economic jargon in its successor Tuesday night.

There were no gallant assaults on the income tax structure, no liberation of hordes of low-income taxpayers, no spectacular sweeps around the fiscal barriers, no boons to sweeten the price of tobacco, liquor, gasoline, clothes.

The main news for the little man this time existed in the facts that his income taxes won't get any heavier and he might or might not get more ice-cream and chocolate milk for his money.

Lift Soap Tax

The minister unloosed to the extent of knocking a speeial 5 per cent tax off toilet soaps because it is becoming so hard to distinguish them from other kinds of eliminating the 8 per cent sales tax from ice-cream and dairy drinks, mainly chocolate milk, and prepared whipping cream; and of allowing farmers and fishermen to use a new system of depreciation if they want to.

Finance Department officials said the soap and dairy tax cuts might or might not develop into benefits for the average consumer's pocketbook. That depended on what business did about the cuts and who, said the officials, are officials to read the mind of business?

However, they did indicate that the main deficit of the cut on ice cream and chocolate milk would be to encourage the dairy industry to increase its sales efforts in those fields at greater profit at a time when sales in other dairy fields are slipping.

There might be, they said, a hope for lower prices on ice cream bricks and maybe, for bigger cones.

As for soaps, the eight-per-cent sales tax still remains.

Possibly the big news for the man in the street came on a page right with statistics. It reported that income tax collections from individuals in the next fiscal year will be down $80,000,000. But that piece of cheer was rooted in the budget of the Mr. Abbott of last year, not this year.

Search For Cause As Many Mourn Steinhardt Death

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — Canadians today joined their neighbors south of the border in mourning the loss of Laurence Steinhardt, United States ambassador to Canada, killed with four other men in a plane crash near here Tuesday.

Death of the popular, hard-working 51-year-old diplomat in the flaming wreckage of a U.S. embassy courier plane near Ramsayville, 11 miles southeast of here, left this capital stunned.

The flag on Canada's parliament buildings flew at half mast and Prime Minister St. Laurent and other party leaders paid tribute in the Commons Tuesday to the ambassador's efforts to draw the two countries closer together.

Today an investigation into the causes of the crash—believed to have been accidental—was under way in the same spirit of close co-operation which Mr. Steinhardt had worked so hard to foster during his 1½ years in Canada.

Long Key Witness

Key figure in the investigation is Master Sergeant Gwynn A. Long, 35, of the U.S. Air Force, who bailed out of the domed plane a few minutes after it had taken off from Ottawa's Rockcliffe airport for New York. Long, who jumped from 700 feet after vainly trying to persuade Ambassador Steinhardt and others aboard to also bail out, escaped with relatively minor injuries.

The RCAF opened preliminary investigations into the crash pending the arrival here today of Maj.-Gen. Victor E. Bertrandias, director of flying safety for the U.S. Air Force, who will take personal charge of the probe.

Major L. S. Brundage, U.S.A.F exchange officer at Canadian Army headquarters here, Tuesday spoke briefly with Master Sgt Long. The lone survivor still is suffering from considerable shock.

U.S. officials declined to comment on possible causes of the crash pending further investigation.

Appeared To Explode

Some eyewitnesses said the plane appeared to explode just before it hit the ground stirring rumors of possible sabotage. RCAF officials, however, said they had found no trace of sabotage.

Mr. St. Laurent sent a personal message to President Truman saying he and all Canadians were shocked and saddened by the ambassador's death.

Later, in the hushed Commons chamber he said Mr. Steinhardt's death meant for Canada the loss of "an understanding friend who believed deeply in the value to each other and to the world of the friendly association of our two countries," and a man who had contributed in countless ways to the strengthening of Canadian-American bonds of friendship.

"This is not doctrinaire legiclation," he said of the proposed amendment.

The Agriculture Prices Support Act now is being used to support the price of butter at about 58 cents a pound.

Mr. Gardiner disclosed that the government's current support price will be continued until the end of April. A new price-suport rate is expected to go into effect at the end of April.

While the present price is maintained, there will be no change in the price at which the government sells its butter to the trade—approximately 60½ cents a pound, including storage and shipping charges.

Establishment of a rigid pattern of rates on imports of fresh fruits and vegetables is expected to have an important bearing on stabilization of the U.S. industry.

For example under the old system, Canada could announce sharp advances in the tariff during the seasonal period as a means of protecting its domestic production.

The new pattern sets out two tariff rates, one, a straight percentage of value and the other a fixed rate per pound. The rates vary for each category of fruits and vegetables.

No Headline Elements

It had noe of the headline elements oft he pre-election sunshine budget a year ago.

That time, Mr. Abbott was free-wheeling in his tax cuting. He chopped the income tax revenue by $376,000,000 and told 750,000 low bracket earners they wouldn't have to pay taxes any more.

This time, he told the House and the country Tuesday night, things are different. He used these words:

"Unless we are prepared to reduce the scope or scale of government activities, we must now accept $2,400,000,000 budgets in future years. Nor can we escape the tax implications of this conclusion."

That $2,400,000,000 figure is the stinger in this new budget. It is that total—$2,430,000,000 is the present amount—which Mr. Abbott said he expects to get in revenue to meet his estimated expenditures of $2,410,000,000. This will leave him with a surplus of $20,000,000 to take off the net debt.

Show Tax Cuts

Observers noted that while Mr. Abbott is not changing the tax tables he is budgeting for $118,000,000 less in revenue than he got in 1949-50. Officials said this is because 1950-51 will be the first year to show the full effect of last year's major tax cuts. They apparently were only partially reflected in 1949-50 totals.

Mr. Abbott backed up his prediction of big budgets for the future by pointing to heavy and continuing government expenditures for social security, defence and items of similar nature. If the international situation improved, defence costs would drop, but it would be a "bold man" who would make that prediction.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC, Toronto Greenwood), Progressive Conservative financial critic, quickly seized on the lack of tax cuts as he briefly opened opposition criticism of the budget.

Scraping Along

The roses, he said, were "somewhat faded." There now was no election in the offing and the government's story was that "we are just scraping along." The opposition had not expected cuts now.

Mr. Abbott said his few tax concessions—those for toilet soap, orphanages and ice cream and dairy drinks—would bring a tax loss of not more than $3,000,000. He hoped to recoup "at least" that amount through the arrangement for family corporations.

This arrangement, which Mr. Abbott conceded was too complicated to summarize fully, is aimed at encouraging family corporations to pay "reasonable" dividends while making it possible for them to hold on to profits essential for their growth without imposing heavy potential tax burdens on shareholders.

Ottawa Formula

Briefly, the government's formula is for a 15-per-cent tax rate on surpluses currently which would eliminate future need of paying personal income tax at perhaps a considerably higher rate.

Mr. Abbott told farmers and fishermen they can calculate their depreciation allowances—amounts deducted from taxable income to reflect wear and tear on equipment—either on a new basis introduced last year or on the previous method. Once they elected to use the new method, they could not switch back.

Some businesses got a break in corporation taxes. Last year's reduction in this tax on businesses earning less than $10,000 a year will be extended to a wider group of firms. The reduction—from the normal 33 per cent to 10 per cent—originally was restricted, in the case of corporations related to each other, to only one of each group. It is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1949.

Now, companies will be barred from the reduction only when there is a related ownership of 70 per cent or more of common stock.

Want Tax Gains

Mr. Abbott said, for those who had been concerned about the possibility, that the government is not planning to tax capital gains. The three-man income tax appeal board will continue to deal with cases which involve, among other things, capital gains.

The sales tax is discarded for ice cream and related products as a move to encourage their consumption at a time when sales of other milk products were dropping. This concession had been sought by the dairy industry.

Pressure To Open N.S. Coal Mines Member Urges

By The Canadian Press

The Nova Scotia Legislature was told yesterday by CCF Leader Russel Cunningham that if it was correct that the Canadian National Railways had offered to buy 2,300,000 tons of coal from Nova Scotia, pressure should be brought to bear on the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation to open up new coal fields. He said the company had a "virtual monopoly" on coal production in Nova Scotia.

Mines Minister MacKinnon said that the offer by Donald Gordon, president of the CNR, had been made "within the last week." If operators were assured the CNR would be a long-term market for 2,300,000 tons a year they could fill the order. He said normal CNR requirements from Nova Scotia averaged 826,000 tons a year for the last 25 years. Operators had already offered to supply 1,120,000 tons and production could not be increased quickly enough to supply more than that.

PEI Estimates

The Prince Edward Island Legislature sat for seven hours, day and night, on estimates and Premier Jones said the session which opened Feb. 27 would prorogue on Thursday after cleaning up business late today.

At Quebec the government bill to give a new form of administration to the University of Montreal was given final reading by the legislative assembly. "There is disorganization at the university," said Premier Duplessis. "With this law there will be organization." He did not elaborate. The bill authorizes the cabinet to make appointments to a 12-man board of governors and Premier Duplessis said it had received approval of ecclesiastical authorities.

Manitoba Health

The Manitoba Legislature received health department estimates of $8,827,591, a record figure. Health Minister Ivan Schultz said establishment of new rural health units would cease until the shortage of doctors and nurses is ended.

At Regina, the Saskatchewan Legislature unanimously approved two trade resolutions, one urging Canada to take the lead in removing trade and currency barriers, and the other recommending that Oct. 2-7 be designated "British Trade Week" in Saskatchewan this year.

Ack-Ack Unit Inspected By Brigadier

For the first time since World War Two a ceremonial inspection of a reserve force unit was held in Peterborough, Tuesday night. Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, CBE, DSO, General Officer Commanding the Eastern Ontario Area, inspected the 50th Heavy AA Regiment (Prince of Wales Rangers), RCA in the Armouries.

Brig. Walsh complimented the trumpet band under Bandmaster Warrant Officer I. Albert Croasdale on its fine turnout and performance. He added that he was quite happy with the regiment, officers and other ranks, for their smartness on parade and their showing during the anti-aircraft drill.

On the arrival of the Brigadier the band played their general salute which was followed by the inspection of the regiment. The men then moved past Brigadier Walsh in column of threes and then column of route. The brigadier took the salute.

Following the inspection of the band, a ten-minute performance was put on for Brig. Walsh. Going through their paces the band played "Semper Fidelis." "The Barren Rocks of Aden" and "The Brigade of Guards" by Bandmaster Albert Croasdale.

First Appearance

This was the first appearance of the band since it was formed early in December. It consists of six side drums, two tenors, a bass drum, a cymbal, two trumpet lyres, 10 soprano trumpets, three tenors and two baritone trumpets. The cymbal, bass drum and trumpet lyres were not used during the inspection.

During the regular training period Brig. Walsh inspected the various phases of training, the predictor, the 3.7 ack ack gun, the non-commissioned officers' course and the officers' course. He also made a hurried inspection of the building and its administration.

With Brig. Walsh were Major G. P. Hartling, General Staff Officer (II), Eastern Ontario Area, and Major Robert Pollock, Brigade Major of the First Army Group Royal Artillery (Ack-Ack). Lt.-Col. Maxwell Clark, ED, Commanding Officer of the 50th Regiment, accompanied the officers throughout the inspection.

MORE PUMPING UNITS

Three new portable pumping units for use in the Trent district have been acquired, according to District Forester A. B. Wheatley of Lindsay. Two of these units will be placed in county forests, one at Durham and the other at the Ganaraska forest. The pumps will be used to draw water from a mobile tank unit which can be taken to a danger area in a forest fire on short notice.

VON Conference Anxious To Expand Work

Representatives of six branches of the Victorian Order of Nurses attending a regional conference at the Empress Hotel today, have been discussing how best to make their services known to the public in an attempt to extend their work in the community. Some branches reported VON literature was placed in the patients' rooms in the hospital and was of particular value in the maternity section.

Miss Dorothy Mickleborough, assistant national superintendent, pointed out that home nursing was today required to a great extent for chronic cases. There were fewer home confinements than in the past. The chronic and elderly patients required a longer visit by the nurse than most other types of patients and the result was that fewer visits could be made.

Miss Mary Ferguson, national supervisor, stressed the importance, in the interests of economy, of making sure nurses are engaged in nursing duties. It was important to see that other work connected with the Order was done by secretarial people and volunteers.

Discussing costs of visits and charges made to patients, most branches reported they were charging less per visit than the actual cost. One branch reported a cost of $1.35 per visit and a charge of $1.50. In all branches, however, there are many visits for which, because of the financial position of the patient, no charge is made.

Every branch explained how its funds were raised. Those areas where there was a community chest were included in the campaign and municipal payments were discussed. It was stressed that the Order was not asking the council for charity, but was presenting a bill for service which were a public responsibility.

Oshawa branch introduced the subject "Are the doctors taking full advantage of the VON service. If not, how can this be improved?" Several branch representatives said they were receiving co-operation from their local doctors. Others were not fully satisfied.

Don't Understand Work

Miss Mickleborough said she thought the reason some doctors did not take full advantage of the Order's services was because they did not really understand its work.

Trenton branch led the discussion of municipal grants and Wilson Gemmell, Peterborough, introduced the subject of costs of VON visits. Whitby branch led the discussion on the position of the VON nurse in relation to the welfare work of the community.

P. D. Scollard of Peterborough was chairman of the morning session.

Climbs Wall of Palace To Get Fine Wedding View

Miss Joan Brown, 25-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Brown, 47 Benson Ave., returned home on Saturday after eight months on holiday in England. Last July she left Canada with a girl friend her own age from Hull, Quebec, to visit relatives in the country her parents left before she was born, to make their home here.

Spending most of the time in London and southern England, Miss Brown also visited the west country, northern England and Scotland and when funds became low, the two girls took jobs for three months, keeping house together in a London apartment.

Miss Brown is a graduate of Peterborough Normal School and a former teacher at the Grove School. Her companion, Miss Mary Davis, is also a school teacher.

When the King opened the present session of Parliament Miss Brown had a "front seat" view of the royal procession, standing in Parliament square opposite Big Ben. A few days later she attended a session of Parliament, sitting in the Dominions' balcony of the House.

Lazy Ways

"I was amazed at the lazy way the members sat, most of them with their feet propped up in front and yawning and lolling," she said when describing her visit Tuesday.

"The Speaker seemed to be asleep all the time, but he always woke up at the right time, when six of seven people started speaking at once."

The day of the wedding of the Earl of Harewood, which was a royal occasion, Miss Brown was among the crowd gathered outside St. James' Palace to see the King and Queen drive to the ceremony.

"I climbed up on a wall of the palace to get a good view," she described, "when a policeman very courteously asked me to get down." "But I am determined to see them" she replied, holding firmly to the advantageous position she had obtained. "But madam," the policeman implored, "this is a royal palace!" whereupon he proceeded to help her down.

A visit to a London "pub" to see a Shakespeare play is another highlight of the visit to England. The play was "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," which was being presented by an amateur cast sponsored by one of the brewery companies. There was no charge for admittance, but everyone was expected to take a drink as part of the evening's entertainment.

Strange Companions

The two teachers soon found themselves in conversation with a one-time actor, who was anxious to hear about the theatre in Canada. Then they found themselves next to Ben, a lorry driver who found it difficult to believe that the "rude" language used by some of the characters in the play was really Shakespeare's. This was not the highbrow playwright who was held in such high esteem by men of letters.

One of the overall impressions of England for Miss Brown was the neatness of the countryside. "Even where there are virgin woods, they are far tidier than the uncultured country here," she thought.

The rows of houses, all designed alike, was one of the aspects of the country which were less becoming. The cold, dirty railway stations was another uninviting feature, although the train service throughout the country was excellent.

Women's dress does not compare with the smartness of Canadian women, Miss Brown says. "There are some beautiful clothes in Regent Street (main shopping street in London) but you have to have the money to buy them."

The accessibility of good theatres in London was one of the great attractions.

Visits Old Hotel

While in Shropshire, near the northern border of Wales, Miss Brown was the guest of a relative who kept a 17th century hotel. It was built in 1630.

"But you haven't seen anything yet," she was told when enchanted by staying at such a quaint building. Her hosts took her to an older hotel in the rural district. "We went through the

Canoe Worker Vanished 3 Months Ago

The body of Ross Woodcock, 27, missing from his home in Norwood since January 4, was discovered today in the Otonabee river at the end of Sherbrooke St. near the CPR wooden bridge.

Constables Harold Andrew and Sherman Keliele saw the body in the water when making a daily investigation at 8.30 a.m. Since the ice has thawed, city police have been keeping a lookout along the banks of the river in case they would find the solution to the mysterious disappearance of the Norwood man.

Mr. Woodcock was an employee of the Peterborough Canoe Company and was in the habit of riding home to Norwood every evening on the Peterborough-Bobcaygeon train, on which his brother-in-law is a fireman.

He and two other Peterborough Canoe employees, Clifford Smith of 671 Donegal St., and Roy Moore, 116 Hilliard St., did not return to work after the noon hour on January 4.

Go To Show

They spent the early part of the afternoon together and then Moore and Smith went to a show.

After the show they met Mr. Woodcock again and parted for the evening at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Woodcock heading south for the train which leaves Peterborough at approximately 6 p.m. He had told his two friends he intended taking the train as usual. That was the last time he was seen.

On sighting the body, the two constables called for the aid of the fire department and Detective Sergeants John Stevenson and Bud Clarke. Smith and Moore identified the body, which was taken from the river by Captain F. Shearer, Thomas Nice and William Torrance of the fire department.

Dr. Herbert N. Young, coroner, said this morning he thought there would be no inquest.

Feed Oats Up $13 In 3 Months

Western feed oats that cost Peterborough farmers around $54 a ton at the first of the year have boomed to $67, aggravating rural grievance at the trend of costs and generally causing a great deal of irritation on the doorstep of spring.

Prince Edward county reported oats at $65 at the end of last week, and Bruce county in the weekly review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture commented "farmers are worried over the increased cost of feed."

R. M. Peirson, local Co-Op manager, explained to the Examiner that winter has been severe in the west, grain deliveries have been hampered, and, anyway, farmers were just not delivering the needs of the east.

That is only a surface aspect of the situation, but the fact is that local farmers are "living from hand to mouth" in feed oats buying these days. The winter is gone, spring is presumed to be here, but granaries are showing the bottoms of the oats bins.

Forced into the grain market for feed grain, the farmer has encountered a market that has been advancing through the winter. Western oats are at a higher price level than last week.

MISS JOAN BROWN, a former Peterborough school teacher, returned home Saturday after spending eight months in England. She made the holiday trip with a school teacher from Hull, Quebec.

Snow Removal Bill Costs City $17,988

Sanding roads and walks and removal of snow cost the city $17,988.23 as shown in the first monthly financial report from City Engineer Chalmers.

This statement is for January and February. Total maintenance and other items for that period was $34,768.96; credits amounted to $7,830.96; leaving net new expenditure at $26,938. Appropriations for the board of works this year is $250,600.

Capital expenditures added $4,459.93 in two items: $3,116.14 spent on the McKellar St. drain and $1,343.79 on a Welsh St. fill.

Local improvements cost $12,088.30. They included sewers and connections on the following streets: Ludgate, McFarlane, Simmonds, Watt, Welsh, plus other items of drains and sidewalks. Total expenditure for the two months was $43,486.23.

Millbrook Streets Flooded When Dam Fails To Hold, Report No Serious Damage

MILLBROOK, March 29 (ENS)—Part of the dam at Attwooll and Shepperd's gristmill was washed out Tuesday by the swollen waters of Baxter's Creek. Grinding of farmers' grain from this section of Durham county was temporarily suspended, but the water power is being replaced immediately by an electric motor which was to be installed at once.

Some of the cellars along the route of the creek in the centre of the village were filled with the freshet water, but no serious damage was reported.

Village clerk Belch informed the Examiner that the community was apprehensive of a repetition of a flood of some years ago, especially Tuesday afternoon, but floating ice moved out in an orderly way, without blockage and overflow.

Rains and melting snow had raised the height of the creek to the level of its banks since the first of the week with a rush of water that broke through along one side of the milldam. It will have to be repaired with cement work when the freshet recedes, according to Mr. H. C. Attwooll.

The outlets at the dam were not sufficient to let the excess water away, and as it backed up in the bay it gathered a force that finally broke through along one side Tuesday evening. The road near the mill was under water in the afternoon.

Water was still high in the creek this morning, but the threat of possible damage and serious flooding down town had passed.

Baxter's creek rises to the north and west of the Millbrook in the watershed of the Ganaraska. South of here it moves off to the west and courses the Peterborough-Port Hope Highway near Fraserville, emptying into the Otonabee River.

Hydro Station Finished Soon

LILY LAKE, March 29 (ENS)—The local Hydro Electric Power Commission Transformer station at Lily Lake is forging ahead rapidly.

The telephone building is completed and the huge control building is being bricked under the protection of canvas and is just about completed.

Bus service has been obtained for the 150 men employed.

The International Water Supply has been drilling for water for the past two weeks, in the hope of obtaining 20 gallons a minute.

The steel tower structure is being erected under the supervision of Mr. J. Gursinger while Mr. Leslie Biggs is incharge of all concrete work on this rapidly progressing developing.

According to Mr. Jackett, who is general foreman in charge, the station will be in service at a much earlier date than was first expected.

Aged Woman Buried Wellman's Cemetery

Two funeral services were held for the late Mrs. Rosella Ann Fredrick, 93, of 747 Water St., on Tuesday. The first took place at the Kaye Funeral Home and the Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church officiated. Pallbearers were Robert McIlmoyle, William Morrow, Morley Heard, Allan B. Curvin, W. Elliott and Gordon Fredrick. The second service was held at Wellman's United Church, Wellman's Corners in Rawdon township. The Rev. W. E. Honey of Lindsay officiated and pallbearers were, besides Messrs. Fredrick and Curvin mentioned above, Carleton Clifford and Douglas Clancy and Harold Martin. Burial was at Wellman's Cemetery.

Two Men Uninjured In Truck Collision

Two men escaped uninjured Tuesday when their trucks collided on a country road, a half mile west of Norham. Damage to the vehicles totals $650.

H. C. Harkford of Morganston, Ont., was driving his pickup truck west on the county road when he swerved to avoid a pot-hole. He was unable to get back to his own side of the road in time to avoid colliding with an eastbound panel truck driven by Kenneth Martin of Maple St., Campbellford.

Damage to Harkford's truck was $350 and to Martin's, $300.

Provincial Constable D. W. Coffey investigated.

City Engineer Besieged To Pump Cellars

"Lots of them" was the casual estimate by City Engineer Chalmers today of the number of enquiries about pumping relief for cellars into which surface water has been seeping or trickling during the last week or ten days.

A variation of the general question is what the department can do about water flowing from one man's property onto his neighbor's lot.

In the meantime, Mr. Chalmers is deep into the details of planning a surface drainage program for the former township areas annexed by the city.

Drainage was necessarily subordinated to roads, sewerage and sidewalks, and the extent of that problem may be gauged from a quick glance at the acreage south of Lansdowne St., and also west of Monaghan Road, north and south of Lansdowne.

Worst Area

Most of the enquiries come from that new fringe of the city. One of the "worst" areas is south of the Exhibition Park and McGill St. It is as flat as a table. In its township status, the property owners of that time depended on roadside ditches to carry off the surface water of spring. Some of the newly housed residents, in their desire to improve their properties, projected their activity even to the filling of the ditch in front of their homes.

Field levels were changed by the new houses, and generally obstructions were raised against the ordinary flow of the surface water.

City council has been quite aware of this drainage problem, but the overworked engineering department has had to concentrate on the more pressing needs of sewers and sewer connections, street-making and improving and laying of sidewalks. The volume of that work was reviewed early this year.

A surface drain was put in on St. Catherine Street, south from Braidwood Ave., and west of Park St. several years ago, but a system of laterals has yet to be undertaken.

Tremendous Job

"It's a tremendous job," Mr. Chalmers remarked today as he indicated the expanse of that new section of the city which will be provided with drains, under the Local Improvement Act, when the department can get around to it in an accepted order of need and that priority.

Jack McKibbon, foreman of the streets department under Commissioner Burgess, said today: "If we had the pumps we could be doing nothing else but pumping out cellars these days."

That is not a responsibility of the city, especially with all the variety of causes of water getting into cellars in the first place. Sound concrete work should make them watertight to begin with.

Twins Born As Mother Races To Hospital

COBOURG, March 29.—(ENS).—While the husband was rushing his wife to Cobourg General Hospital at three in the morning, Mrs. John Dunk of R.R. 2, Colborne, gave birth to twins. The first child was born when the car was but one mile west of their home, and the second one was born five minutes later.

Mother and her twin daughters are doing fine at Cobourg General Hospital, but father is still feeling shaky. It was the second set of twins for Mrs. Dunk.

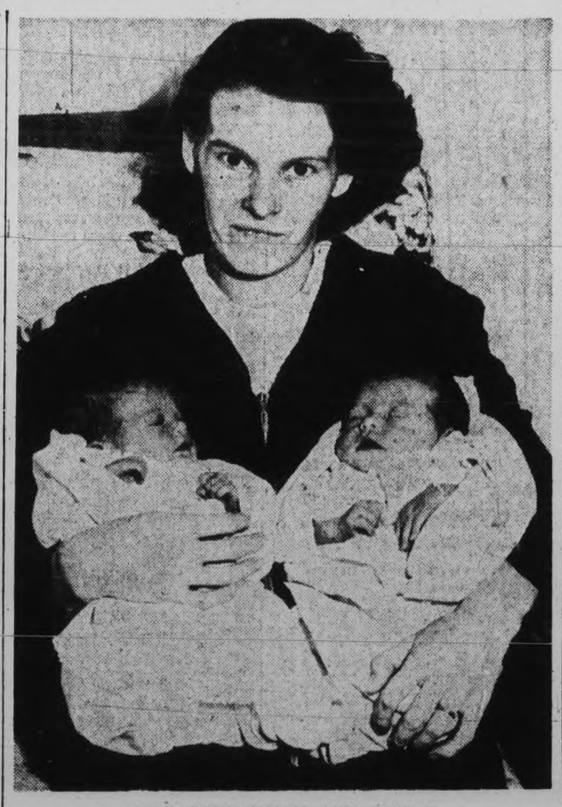
The mother, before her marriage, was June Steenburgh and resided on Monaghan Road in Peterborough.

"The doctor didn't think the baby, (it turned out to be babies), would be born before the end of the month but when I woke up at three in the morning I could tell by the way I felt that there was no time to waste. I called my husband and he and his mother, Mrs. Harry Dunk, got me ready to go to the hospital. John ran over to neighbor Allan Smith, to borrow the car to drive me in to Cobourg Hospital," Mrs. Dunk told The Examiner.

Tries His Hand

They were only a mile west of their home when the first baby was born. Mr. Dunk stopped the car and turned his attention to the duties of obstetrician. Mrs. Dunk remembered that a friend of hers, Mrs. Winston Packhard, who used to nurse at Cobourg General Hospital, lived nearby and she told her husband to head for there. They arrived in the yard just as the second baby began officially to become a blessed event.

The frantic father hammered on the door of the farmhouse and when Mrs. Packhard sorted out his excited jumble of words she ran to the car and helped in the delivery of the second baby. About two and a half hours later mother and twins were safe in Cobourg Hospital.



MRS. JOHN DUNK AND TWINS

The first born is being called Esther Elaine and weighs six pounds 15 ounces. The second little girl weighs five pounds, six ounces and the parents are calling her Elizabeth Anne.

Twins are not new to the Dunk family. They have twin four-year-olds, Dennis and Darrell; a five-year-old daughter, Betty Anne and a one-year-old boy, Charles Ernest.

Therese Pleases Festival Judge

TORONTO, March 29 (CP) — Adjudicator Maxwell Wray could find little to criticize Tuesday night in "Therese," the second production of the Central Ontario Drama Festival.

The week-long festival, last of the regional festivals in preparation for the Dominion finals in Calgary, May 8-13, is being held at Hart House Theatre.

The university alumnae's presentation was, said Mr. Wray, "a very good production indeed." The set was "an extremely nice piece of work," the costumes practically perfect, the acting, without exception, "done extremely well."

The direction, by Henry Kaplan, director of last year's prize-winning "Another Part of the Forest," was "an extremely good job. It was a delicate and restrained piece of direction, correctly in keeping with the play."

The principal faults he had to find was with the lighting and the fact that the furniture was not always correct as to country or period.

C. L. Baxter, Ontario Northland Railway section foreman at Wurteel, 28 miles north of here, saw the moose running along the track and decided to get a picture of it. With three companions he pursued the animal.

"About two miles up the line we caught up with it," Baxter said. "It stopped in the tracks, eyed us, and its ears went back. Then it charged."

Baxter and two of his companions fled, but the fourth man was still on the speeder when the animal struck. One of the hoofs just missed his head.

Urge Societies To Co-operate

OTTAWA, March 29 (CP) — Senator Gray Turgeon (L-British Columbia) suggested Tuesday the Senate could help bring the Canadian Red Cross Society and the St. John Ambulance Association closer together.

He piloted a bill to amend the Red Cross Society Act to allow for the society's expansion. One change would increase from $100,000 to $200,000 the amount of real estate it can hold. The increase was said due to "the rise in real estate values and the extension of services such as the establishment of outpost hospitals and blood transfusion services."

A second change would allow an increase in the representation of the provincial divisions, including Newfoundland, on the Society's governing body.

Both Senator Turgeon and Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario) praised the work and aims of the society.

Morale Problem On CNR Gordon's Biggest Headache

OTTAWA, March 29. (CP) — The president of the biggest railway on the North American continent Tuesday said the toughest challenge he has to face is to maintain the morale of his workers at the highest level possible.

Donald Gordon, head of the sprawling Canadian National Railways admitted before the Commons Railway Committee that he has a tough job.

While he denied that the Canadian Pacific Railway — main competitor to CNR service — maintained its lines more efficiently, Mr. Gordon did say his men have been sharply puzzled by the fact that the CNR is continually running in the red.

They cannot understand, he said, why, after all the effort they put forward to make the CNR a top railway, the CNR still was recording deficit after deficit.

Mr. Gordon made the statement after R. R. Knight (CCF, Saskatoon) member of the committee, said while the CNR men were the finest railroaders in the world, there was a feeling among them that they were picking up the "rag" ends of the road, while the CPR actually was doing the real railroading.

Fear Lay-off

There was a feeling too, among the employees that they might be laid off at any time, and a feeling that the CNR had lost the public's confidence.

Mr. Knight said one of the best things the government has done was to appoint Mr. Gordon as president of the government-owned system.

Something had to be done about the deficit, which year after year was dragging the CNR down. Last year the deficit was $42,000,000, about $8,000,000 larger than the year before.

Mr. Gordon's biggest challenge, said Mr. Knight was to get the public's confidence back., to get the CNR rid of the g that it was an underdog.

The government appeared to be giving grudging support to the line.

Transport Minister Chevrier, responsible to the government for the CNR, interjected that he did not believe the government was giving grudging support to the CNR.

He did not know of any recent submission by the CNR that the government had not approved.

Opinion Divided

However, there was a division of opinion in the government on the question of the CNR capital structure.

Because the government members did not all think the same way, the CNR recommendations on a revision of its capital had been turned over to the Royal Commission on Transportation.

One reason why the commission had been set up was to deal with the proposed capital structure revision designed to cut its deficit, and pull the CNR out of the red.

Returning to the question of morale, Mr. Gordon said he hoped to make a trip right across the country, to visit all the men on their home runs and to find out their personal railway problems, all in the hope of building morale to a new high.

Along the same lines, he was reorganizing his headquarters staff to provide specialized dealings with personnel problems under the direction of a new vice-president, added to the staff for that specific purpose.

Old-Age Pension $56 Month Coldwell Plan

OTTAWA, March 29— (CP) — An old-age pension of $50 per month should be made available to every Canadian without a means test, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said in a CBC broadcast Tuesday.

He urged that pensions should be paid by the federal parliament through levies collected on the basis of ability to pay.

"Payment of social security must come out of our national production and income," Mr. Coldwell said. "In other words, the only way of paying for social services is by producing and exchanging commodities among our people.

"Out of the soil, the forests, the sea and the mines, the necessary wealth must be taken. This requires intelligent and comprehensive planning of our resources to ensure stability in the Canadian economy."

Mr. Coldwell said the majority of Canadians "cannot provide for their families, clothe, shelter and educate their children and, at the same time, save enough for their old age." Provision for their needs should come out of the general pool of national wealth.

"The CCF program for better old-age pensions is one example of our faith in the people of Canada. We believe that, working through their federal parliament, real social security can be provided for all."

He declared that old-age pensions should form an integral part of an overall social security system which would include pencould not earn a living, as well as health insurance, hospitalization, medical aid and other benefits.

"We in the CCF are placing first emphasis on the removal of the means test because it is a major weakness in the present legislation."

Leader of Textile Union Claims Life Threatened

MONTREAL, March 29—(CP)—A Textile Workers' Union leader today charged he had received anonymous threats against his life only a few hours after he had levelled Communist charges against a rival union.

Sam Baron, international vice-president and Canadian director of the Textile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) told The Canadian Press today that he had received two telephone calls threatening him and Azelus Beaucage, storm centre of the dispute between Baron's union and the United Textile Workers of America (AFL-TLC).

Sent Out of Town

"Beaucage and his wife were threatened as well as me," said Baron. "The calls were anonymous but I have sent Mr. and Mrs. Beaucage out of town for their own safety. The police have been notified."

R. Kent Rowley, Baron's opposite number at the head of the UTW, said later that he planned to turn over Baron's statements to his union's lawyers "for possible legal action."

The dispute between the two big unions, claiming about 20,000 members in Canada and each struggling to gain majority the ascendency among Montreal's thousands of textile workers, has been boiling for months.

Beaucage, former business agent and organizer of Local 102 of the AFL union, was ousted several months ago by Rowley. More recently, Beaucage took part of the local's membership into Baron's CIO union.

Tuesday, Beaucage issued an affidavit saying he had been a member of the Labor-Progressive party from 1943 to 1948 and that he was fired by Rowley after his refusal to rejoin the party two years ago.

Branded Four Reds

In a statement issued at the same time, Baron labelled four top UTW Canadian district officials Communists.

The officials named were Rowley; Madeleine Parent., secretary-treasurer of the UTV's Canadian district; Leo Roback, research and publicity director, and Charles Lipton, organizer.

Rowley said in a prepared statement that "Beaucage was defeated and discredited in his efforts to divide the members of Local 102 of our union in Montreal" and Beaucage "is an absolute liar."

Alcohol Film Seen In Schools

Peterborough Public School children in Grades 7 and 8 are at present seeing a film on "alcohol education." With the permission of the Board of Education, and the co-operation of the principals the film "Liquid Lore" is being used.

The Rev. D. C. McLelland, field secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation, brought the film to this city, and has introduced it at each of the schools.

On Tuesday King George, Central, Confederation and Queen Alexandra Schools were visited. Three hundred children in these schools appreciated this technicolor film as a supplement to the alcohol references in their health text-books.

Today the Queen Mary, King Edward and Prince of Wales Schools will receive the film.

"Liquid Lore" approaches the alcohol problem in a positive way by showing the value of commercial alcohol. Then emphasizing the uses of alcohol, outside the body, the film shows with scientific accuracy that alcohol inside the body hinders the proper working of the brain and nerve cells.

Must Find New Route To Orient By Air

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier Tuesday in the Commons disclosed that the United States Air Force is abondoning its Aleutian Island bases and this will mean that Canadian Pacific Airlines will have to find an alternative route to the Orient.

The suggestion has been made that the Canadian air line switch its route to the Orient from the Aleutians to Honolulu and the United States appears willing to allow Canadian Pacific to use that alternative route, Mr. Chevrier said.

He added that apparently the U. S. feels that it no longer has any need to maintain the Aleutian bases, a focal point in the Allied war against Japan during the Second World War.

Convict Mother In Baby's Death

FORT WILLIAM, March 29 — Mrs. Mary Ducharme of Nipigon was convicted Tuesday on a charge of neglect in the death of her three-week-old baby on March 5 at Nipigon Memorial Hospital. She was remanded to March 31 for sentence.

Dr. A. E. Allin, provincial pathologist, said cause of death was respiratory infection and diarrhea and lack of general care. The child had been poorly nourished, the eyes were sunken and there was dehydration.

Prov. Const. H. D. Whittaker who laid the charge, said Mrs. Ducharme lived in a shack in what was commonly known as "Mud Flats" at Nipigon. The child was born in poverty and squalor. Living in one-room shack were Mrs. Ducharme's parents, her three other children aged 11, eight and five, and her sister.

Mrs. Ducharme said her baby was well taken care of "and I can't see how I can be charged with neglect. I did the best for her I could."

Magistrate Lemay asked whether a doctor had been called to attend the birth of the baby. Mrs. Ducharme said doctors would not come to the "Mud Flats."

Eda Nelson, Mrs. Ducharme's sister, said the baby had been well looked after.

Like It Dirty

TORONTO, March 29—(CP)—It seems that the people who work and study at Osgoode Hall like the building the way it is—grime and all. Replying in the Ontario Legislature Tuesday to A. A. MacLeod (LPP—Toronto Bellwoods), who asked if any consideration had been given to giving the hall "a bath," the minister of public works said past proposals to clean up the building and its surroundings had been greeted by "snarls."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Partly back on the job again, though Kid Flu mauled us plenty for a spell. Had to miss some good hockey, and that Legion win Saturday in Oshawa must have been a dandy. Lads didn't go so well here Monday, we're told. Maybe a touch of flu, too. Knocks you for a loop. Oh, well, first time the column was missing—through the scribe being sick—since we started on this sheet back in '31, so we had a lot of wins over over the Kid down the years, too. Penicillin in one mitt and sulpha in the other—that's how to beat him. Tail-end of the hockey grind does leave the system a bit weak and open to anything. Especially in changeable spring weather.

* * * * * *

It is likely that Vern Baxter will need sulpha or something right lethal to gain a win in the main pro mat match at the Brock Arena on the morrow. On account of he is facing Whipper Billy Watson in the main bout. While Baxter is a tough grappler and will give the champ a solid scrap, we can't see him winning. He is not a Fred Atkins—out now with a back injury—and it was always just a tossup when Atkins and the Whip tangled. But it'll be a lively match in any case. Steve Stanlee and Johnny Barend are in the semi-final, two popular and clean matmen, but the promoter must have slipped as one should be a roughneck. Which one will the fans cheer for? Jack Wentworth, a roughie, takes on Bill Stack in the prelim.

Marines In Finals

In our absence, Marines came through in swell style to oust Hamilton and go into all-Ontario men's cage finals. The intermediate "A" type, and they go to the Soo now to have it out. Fine stuff, fellows. PCVS midgets made a dandy showing, too, in provincial semi-finals ere being edged by a strong Toronto YMHA club. No disgrace at all for Bev Goulding's smart squad and they did extra well going so far. They were barely 10 minutes away from entering finals. PCVS led YMHA the first quarter, the next two were pretty even heats and Toronto finally outscored PCVS 15-9 to win 37-31. St. Catharines, who had beaten Hamilton 47-44, went on to take the title 29-25 over YMHA. Our Towne Togs go into girls' provincial finals in Stratford tonight in the opening of a home-and-home series.

* * * * * *

Of course, the big game here tonight is that OHA senior "B" group playoff at 8.30 in Civic Arena betwixt Markham Millionaires and the Legionnaires. Fifth of their best-of-seven group finals, each having taken two. Oshawa scribe seems to think it's a five-game series, but it's a serial. Next one will be in Oshawa on Friday or Saturday night, likely the latter, and the seventh (if necessary) will be here on Monday. It may well go the seven now. Each club showed it can win on the other guy's pond, and they're well-matched teams. If either is a bit off one night, that team has had it. The winner has to be playing its best hockey all the way to gain the decision.

* * * * * *

Markham And Legion

Another thing, Markham have shown that they, too, like the Legion, don't ease up when down several goals going into the third. They don't quit. Nossuh, they fight right down to the wire and can come up with a burst of third-period goals just the same as Legion can upon occasion. Coach Jim Ellis was a rather disgruntled man when we spoke to him on the phone yesterday. Said Legion had muffed two dozen chances the first two periods, and couldn't go right at all in the third. Hinted there'd be a change or two, as the club had to take this one tonight. Much too close for comfort after Legion twice having a lead in the series. And it'll all be over Monday.

* * * * * *

Yes, this is the one to take—then you have to win but one of the next two. A loss tonight for Legion and they must do it the hard way, win two straight—one in Oshawa. The toss gave the locals the fifth and seventh games if the series goes as far as the seventh. It could end in the Motor City on Saturday and it could even be the end of the Legion this Saturday—though we don't believe that'll happen. But these are knock-'em-out playoffs between good clubs and no loitering is allowed. An injury, a few bad calls by a referee, some loafing by even one player—and zingo! there goes your chance for this year. Tonight's tilt should be a thriller before another full house.

TV In Need Of Free Enterprise

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 29—(CP)—Free enterprise should be allowed to take a hand in the development of television in Canada, Don Henshaw of MacLaren's Advertising Agency, Toronto, said Tuesday.

He told delegates to the 25th annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters that private enterprise, through its splendid record in radio, had shown itself as ca able as the CBC of guarding Canada's morals.

Plans now call for television in Canada to be launched in Toronto and Montreal by the CBC which also controls radio. None of the applications now before the CBC for TV licenses from private radio station operators has been approved.

Mr. Henshaw described TV as an inevitable new medium in the field of advertising.

"When a product can be displayed as well as talked about; when it can be demonstrated as well as described, it is a medium that must be given consideration by the advertiser," he said.

Three members of parliament and a Toronto lawyer are scheduled to appear here tonight on a Town Meeting of the Air broadcast as part of the convention's program.

How Can We Assure Freedom of Speech on the Radio will be discussed by Sarto Fournier, Liberal member for Montreal Maisonneuve-Rosemount; Rev. E. G. Hansell, Social Credit member for Macleod; Alistair Stewart, CCF member for Winnipeg North, and Joseph Sedgwick, Toronto.

Plan Hockey Tourney

Peterborough Hockey Club is one of eight teams invited ot participate in the Invitation Lakeshore Hockey Bonspiel at Cobourg April 7, 10 and 14. Besides the Easter trophy there will be $250 in prizes of which $200 goes to the winning club and $50 to the runner-up.

The first games of the tournament will be held April 7. The second set of semi-final games will be April 10. On Friday, April 14 the final games will be played.

Invitations have been sent to the Lakefield Indians, the Bowmanville Royals, Peterborough Hockey Club, Cobourg Pavs, Belleville Diesels, Trenton Fyers, Port Hope Ontarios, Port Hope Juniors, Campbellford Flyers, Lindsay Juniors and the Belleville Rockets.

Ontario Levies Income Tax Pay No More

TORONTO, March 29 (CP) — The Ontario government will re-enter the personal income tax field, but it doesn't mean any extra payments by Ontario residents.

Premier Frost introduced in the Legislature Tuesday two bills forecast in the budget address earlier. One bill repeals the old Provincial Tax Act of 1936, and the other gives the government authority to enter into an agreement with the federal government for collection of a five-per-cent Ontario tax.

The Premier said he has already been in conference with federal authorities to work out a system allowing Ontario five per cent of the amount of federal income tax that is collected within the province.

Two Choices

Two types of agreement are possible. One is a "rental system under which the Federal government would pay Ontario five per cent of all the income tax it collects in Ontario, in return for the right to impose the entire tax. The other is an "agency" system whereby the federal government would collect a tax of five per cent of the amount of federal tax and turn this over to Ontario, while deducting five per cent from the federal payment of each taxpayer.

Ontario's own provincial tax was imposed in 1936, and suspended by the Dominion-Provincial tax agreements of 1942. The latter expired in 1947 and since then the provincial tax has been suspended year by year.

Tax Loggers

The government also introduced a bill to impose a tax on logging operations similar to the tax on mining. It imposes a nine-percent tax on profits of logging operations, after allowing an exemption of $10,000 by terms of the federal income tax law.

"The result," said Premier Frost who is also Provincial Treasurer, "will be that corporations engaged in logging will pay a larger total tax to Ontario and a smaller tax to the Dominion, but in the total will pay slightly smaller over-all tax."

The Legislature approved the estimates of the public works department. C. H. Millard (CCF-York West) said he had been informed by a hospital employee that rooms at the Ontario Hospital at Woodstock are overcrowded and precautions inadequate. Premier Frost said that the superintendent or other person in charge of an Ontario mental hospital is the official responsible for fire safety.

Mr. Frost said the situation at the hospital will be investigated. The burning of the steamship Noronic last September had increased fire consciousness, he said. Work was proceeding on fire-proofing public buildings but it was a job that will require many years.

Hope that a solution will soon be reached in the dispute at the lakehead between pulp companies and timber operators, was expressed by Lands Minister Scott. He said he has been conferring with the pulp and paper companies and memoranda has been exchanged which indicated an amicable settlement might soon be made.

Mr. Scott was replying to a question put by A. A. MacLeod (Lab.-Prog.-Toronto Bellwoods) concerning unemployment in the lakehead area. Mr. MacLeod read a brief from the city council of Port Arthur and Fort William which claimed employment for 128,950 persons could be given if the forests resources were opened to operators.

Referring to the statement that more than 100,000 persons could be employed in the industry E. W. Cox (L-Fort William) said: "With people making statements like that, is it any wonder we need a mental hospital at the head of the lakes?"

When reminded the statement came from his own constituency he did not retract his remarks, or qualify them.

Pictures Peace River

The Woman's Association of Murray St. Baptist Church met Tuesday afternoon in the ladies parlour and business was attended to with president Mrs. L. H. Ingram presiding. Cent-a-day collections were received and dedicated. Miss Alexandra Howson gave an exceedingly interesting talk on her experiences in Indian schools in British Columbia and on a journey, via van, through the Peace River district in the interests of religious education. Her audience appreciated the vivid picture of the county and people she presented. Many centres have made great progress and seem to be well established while others are still in the pioneer stage. Lack of schools and especially lack of teachers would seem to be the most distrubing features. Through Miss Howson and her travelling companion medical help was directed to schools badly in need of it. Members of the Married Couples Club were pleased to hear more of a Baptist family from this district about whom Miss Howson had written and they responded with a Christmas parcel. Mrs. Orville Rome and her committee served refreshments at close of the meetng.

Red Cross Branch Appeals For New Blood Donors

Reports from the annual meeting of Ontario division, Canadian Red Cross Society, held last week in Toronto, were highlights of the regular meeting of the Peterborough branch on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell reported the disaster services meeting and showed where the exchange of ideas of the representatives from various branches gave new impetus and direction to efforts of each branch and helped them to assess and improve their services. Mrs. F. E. Hooper, in her report of several meetings, gave a most comprehensive summary of reports of all other committees.

Mr. G. H. Thompson was congratulated on the honor he received when he was named a life member and elected vice-president of Ontario division.

Other local members attending the meeting in Toronto were: Miss M. E. Elliott, Mrs. G. C. Tollington, Mrs. Ed. Riley and Mrs. C. J. Ray.

An appeal for new blood donors was made by President Mrs. C. J. Ray. At present there are two clinics each week, Tuesday afternoon at Civic Hospital and Friday afternoon at St. Joseph's Hospital. About 40 donors are required each week to meet the needs of the two hospitals. It has been the policy of the local blood donor committee to refrain from asking donors to give blood more often than once every six months, and to maintain this policy new donors are needed. Mrs. Ray also told the meeting that these new donors could not be expected to come from the local industries since they were already supplying a high percentage of the donors each week.

Mrs. S. O. Shields reported that 38 members had completed the course in home nursing with great satisfaction to the instructors and evident enthusiasm on the part of the class.

Report for the civilian relief committee was given by Mr. R. M. Glover and Miss Ethelwyn Dix for the Junior Red Cross.

Miss Moira Whalon, treasurer, gave a report of expenditures since last meeting.

Reporting for the loan cupboard committee, Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell said the loan cupboard was as busy as usual and that all its contents from wheel chairs to Gatche beds were almost continually in service.

Sodality Report Shows Lecture A Success

Monthly meeting of St. Peter's Senior Sodality took place Sunday evening, after the holy hour, in St. Mary's School. Miss Mamie Sullivan, vice-prefect, was chairman.

It was clearly indicated by the report given by Miss Shirley McKenzie, treasurer, that the Sodality's latest endeavor—the lecture by Rev. Father Daniel A. Lord, SJ,—was a tremendous success. Miss Sullivan thanked the sodalists for once more proving themselves excellent workers and going over the top.

Several future activities were discussed, among these the annual communion breakfast which will take place on Sunday, April 23. As is customary the sodality year will close in May with the annual "at home" on Mother's Day at Mount St. Joseph. Although plans are not yet completed, it is hoped that sodalists will take a bus trip to Toronto before close of the term.

Excellent papers were presented by the following speakers: Miss Jean Rutherford, good literature; Miss Margaret Caravaggie, our lady's, outlining the committee's project of sending dolls to children in the North; Miss Audrey Ferren, Miss Josephine O'Brien, who summarized Msgr. Butler's film, "Socialism and Communism"; and Miss Gloria Graham, publicity.

At the conclusion of business slides on "Our Lady of Fatima," were shown. Here was depicted the message of prayer and sacrifice which the Blessed Virgin Mary brought to three peasant children at Fatima, Portugal, on May 13, 1917.

Women To Study Civic Affairs By Group Plan

Decision to form a Study Group on Civic Affairs in Peterborough was made Tuesday evening when the committee, appointed at a recent meeting open to all women of the city, met under chairmanship of Mrs. W. E. Fanning.

First general meeting of the Study Group will be held on April 25 at the YWCA when it is hoped to present a special speaker. At that time a suggested slate of officers will be presented for public approval. Also the object and policy of the group which was given much consideration by the committee.

Three points outlined under object and policy to be presented are: To arouse among women an active interest in Municipal Government; To encourage women to realize their responsibilities as voters; To be strictly non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-money-making.

Hospital Records Index of Quality Says Librarian

Special topic considered Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the RNAO, Chapter C. District 6, was the medical records. It was taken by Sister M. Celine, graduate of St. Michael's Hospital school for medical record librarians, who is also a registered librarian of the Canadian Association of Medical Record Librarians and of the American Association of MRL.

"Medical records of a hospital are an index of the quality of the work of that hospital," she said. "This is because all departments contribute to the compilation of the record and it is their proof of work well done."

"The modern hospital must be run on co-operation," she continued. "Each and every one of its personnel contributes to the efficiency of the institution and thus to the better care of the patient, for, eventually, it is always the patient who benefits from good hospital organization."

Sister congratulated the RNAO on its progressiveness as manifested by the monthly meetings, the recent refresher course and the interest in all phases of hospital work, as well as in actual nursing care.

President Sister Gonzaga presided for the meeting.

CHILDREN'S ALLOWANCES: "What allowance should an 11-year-old boy, a seven-year old girl, and a four-year-old girl receive each week? On what should they spend it?" Smartest parents I know live in Saskatoon and have four children. Each child pays for her own school supplies, her own library card and such like. Parents make provision for that amount plus 25 cents a week spending money for the 12-year-old girl, 20 cents for the nine-year-old daughter and a nickel for the four-year-old baby. HOME HUNGRY: "We are anxious to buy a home in a better district. My husband is 50, I 47. We have three girls paying board. The house we have in mind would require a down payment of two thousand dollars. We can raise $600 but would have to borrow the rest. Is there any place where with the security of all the wage earners we could borrow 14 hundred?" Smartest thing to do is take your problem to Central Mortgage and Housing, 395 Fleet Street West, Toronto. Through the insurance companies working with Central Mortgage and Housing most house loans are negotiated.

DOROTHY DIX

Help Due Grown Children Very Much Parents' Problem

DEAR MISS DIX: What does a father owe his children after they are 20 years of age? If he has fed and clothed and given them an excellent home and a college education and has further advised and counselled them, is it still his duty to finance them in business and keep on financing them, even to his own embarrassment? Or should he give them a sound sensible talk at their majorities and tell them that they must stand on their own feet? The father was reared in a school that had to work and he had no other idea than to make the way in life a little easier for his children than he found it for himself, but in doing this I fear that he has made weaklings of his children and kept them from turning any ability they may possess into a capacity to do things

A DISTRACTED MOTHER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Probably there is no other question in the world that is quite so difficult to decide as just how much parents should help their children. For, however they solve it, it is fraught with danger. If they help too much, they are likely to turn their children into dependents who never learn to stand on their own feet and, if they refuse all help, they may cripple a child for life by removing the guiding hand it needed to cling to until it was strong enough to walk alone.

Are Two Schools

There are two schools of thought on this subject. There is the stern father who, when his children are grown, chucks the out into the world to sink or swim, and who refuses to throw them even so much as a life preserver. I have known wealthy fathers and mothers who have stood stoically by and watched their children almost perishing in their struggle to make a livelihood. They have seen their children shabby, undernourished, overworked, doing without the medical attention they could not afford, and they have not helped them.

Of course, the parents' justification of their harshness is that necessity is the anvil on which character is hammered out, and that those who must work or starve are driven to labor. All of which is true. But there is no merit in unnecessary martyrdom and it has always seemed to me that it was the duty of parents to at least help their children over the rough places at the beginning of the journey of life, if they could.

On the other hand, of course, there are the overindulgent parents who give their children more than can afford and who raise them up to feel that Father will always pay the bills and nothing is ever expected of them. These remain perpetual babes through life who always have to be led by the hand.

The moral of which is that parents should practice moderation in helping their children. They should give them a lift, but not the whole ride. And children should not feel that they have a right to graft on their parents after they are mature men and women. They should have a heart about sparing poor old Father and Mother.

DEAR MISS DIX: I was a widower with children, married a widow with children, and there are children of this last union. Life has become unbearable in our home by the continual fighting between her children and my children and our children. Is there anything we can do about it?

JOB

ANSWER: Well, Job, you certainly must be the world's greatest optimist if you expected anything else than a three-cornered fight between three different sets of children.

The easiest way to settle your problem is to send the children off to different schools if you can afford it. If you have not money enough to do this, just accept the situation philosophically. They will outgrow their pugnacity in a few years, and in the meantime just let them fight it out without taking any sides.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 19 very much in love wih a boy of 22. My parents object to him because he is uneducated. If I marry him, I will be thrown with very different people from the ones I am accustomed to. Shall I marry him?

WORRIED GIRL

ANSWERED: If you love him enough, neither his social position nor his grammar need make the marriage a failure. But nothing short of the grand passion can keep you from shuddering at a husband who murders the King's English and eats with his knife. As I have said, a great love levels all ranks and distinctions, but it is safest for those who are just ordinarily in love to marry in their own class, and this goes for birth, education and money.

RED SAILS on fashion's horizons are the short flyaway coats that will swing above spring's navy togs now, and above summer's white togs later. Made of soft fleece or summer tweed, these coats offer comfortable but lightweight protection against the breezes. The dashing shortie (left) is designed in red fleece. One button closes the coat at the collar and curving slit pockets are played up by envelope flaps on each hip. Swinging out as perkily as a sail on a skiff is the popy-red summer tweed coat (right). High collar turns up against the breezes or lies as flat as a shawl over the shoulders. Big, circular pockets are buttoned in the centre. Wide cuffs turn back sleeves to elbow length.

Find Housewives Unhappy About Budget

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, March 29 —(CP)— The kids may be happy about Finance Minister Abbott's budget and immigrant brides may heave a sigh of relief. But it isn't going to cut much ice with Canadian housewives.

On the domestic side of the balance sheet the minister has relented only by removing the five-per-cent excise tax on toilet soaps. This won't make much difference when a housewife goes shopping for a cake of face soap —a fraction of a cent will hardly affect her druggist's prices.

On the other hand newlyweds outside of Canada won't have to sit on their wedding presents for six months before being able to bring them into the country tax-free.

High Tax

Until now unless they could claim a six months' ownership foreign brides coming to Canada found it necessary to pay a tax on their trousseaux and wedding presents.

Perhaps the women most disappointed with the budget will be the 25,000 members of the Canadian Association of Consumers. Scarcely a month ago the organization forwarded a resolution to Mr. Abbott urging him to ease the currently high cost of coffee by lifting the eight per cent sales tax. They also asked the tax be taken from all foodstuffs.

However, while mother mourns at home the youngsters down at the corner-bar may be toasting Mr. Abbott with a milk-shake. It may not make much difference to their weekly allowance but at the same time the minister has cut the eight-per-cent sales tax from ice cream and "dairy drinks."

Discuss Religious Teaching

President Mrs. E. DeNure Tuesday afternoon conducted the regular WMS meeting in Mark St. United Church parlours. Mrs. W. Hunter's group had charge of the devotional period, and Mrs. Hunter gave an interesting talk on ways in which children can be encouraged to gain knowledge of the Bible, hymns and prayer. Mrs. H. Hunter sang a lovely solo "Abide." The Easter message was read from the Bible by Mrs. DeNure. Mrs. E. Alton gave a reading about the model church. The meeting was well attended and splendid reports were presented by secretaries.

Things I can't explain

She'd always scoffed at spiritualism . . . till her beloved husband died.

In April Reader's Digest (now on sale) famed author Mary Roberts Rinehart tells you the nearly incredible things that happened to her when—against her life-long convictions—she tried to get in touch with him through mediums.

Read Mrs. Rinehart's gripping experiences—phenomena that, she says, she cannot explain away as fraud, telepathy, or even hypnotism.

What's Right

You are invited to a party on a night when you are entertaining.

WRONG WAY: Make up some excuse for not being able to accept, thinking that it would be rude to admit you are entertaining without having invited the person who is inviting you.

RIGHT WAY: Simply say that you are having a group in on that evening yourself. There is no reason for you to be embarrassed or for the other person to feel hurt; you can't invite all your friends every time you entertain.

main bar, which was fairly noisy with people talking and playing darts. Then we were taken into an inner room," she said, "and there was silence except for the voice of Winston Churchill coming over the radio.

"The farmers, wearing their gaiters and tweeds, were sitting around in silence, listening to the Conservative leader's speech a week before the election. There was not a sound from anyone in the room until the speech ended."

Caught up in the excitement of the national election, Miss Brown observed the difference between the attitudes of the English and Canadian people to such an event.

"The English vote for the party, not the man, as we do here," she remarked. "I asked a cloakroom attendant how she was going to vote. 'Well, I was housekeeper for a gentleman for many years and when he died he left me comfortably off, so I think I shall vote Conservative' was her philosophical reply."

In Aircraft Plant

After four months in England, Miss Brown took a job as a costing clerk in an aircraft plant. Her friend worked in a post office and they had a small apartment where they sampled housekeeping under the rationing system.

"We managed well, and had plenty to eat all the time we were away," Miss Brown said. But one day, to cut down their household chores, the girls experimented with dehydrated potatoes. The verdict was in favor of the potato in its more usual form.

The urge to travel seems to be a family trait. During the war Miss Brown's sister, Miss Molly Brown, who was at one time social editor of The Examiner was with the RCAF, Women's Division. She got as far as Newfoundland in a vain attempt to be posted to Europe.

3 Children Rescued

THE Park St. drain almost claimed the lives of three children in the past week. Last Thursday when the water was level with the escapes under the bridges a little girl of three years fell in and was pulled out by a woman after 300-foot drift. Friday a boy on his way to school slipped into the creek and managed to pull himself out by grabbing a shrub. Today a boy leaning over one of the small bridges fell into the drain. The water was low and he quickly jumped out.

OBITUARIES

MRS. R. A. ROBERTSON

There passed away very suddenly in Cobourg General Hospital on Tuesday Mrs. May A. Robertson, beloved wife of the late Robert A. Robertson. Mrs. Robertson, who resided in Cavan village, had been spending several months with a cousin, David Buttars, of Coldsprings, and on Monday suffered a heart attack. She was taken to hospital in Cobourg but failed to rally and died on Tuesday morning. She was in her 79th year.

Mrs. Robertson was born near Millbrook, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Armstrong, and her entire life was spent in Cavan township. After her marriage to R. A. Robertson she moved to the old Robertson homestead a mile west of Springville and here resided until 20 years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Robertson retired to Cavan village.

While on the farm Mrs. Robertson was a member of the Springville United Church, where she took an active part in all church and congregation activities. She held office in both the Women's Missionary Society and the Ladies' Aid and during the first world war was an active worker in the Springville Branch of the Red Cross.

On moving to Cavan she continued her church activities in the Cavan United Church.

There survives one son, Oren, of Montreal. Mr. Robertson predeceased her in 1948.

The body is resting at the Comstock Funeral Home, Water St., Peterborough, where the funeral will be held on Thursday at 2.00 o'clock. Rev. Husser, of Cavan United Church, will officiate and burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

SARAH McMULLEN

BETHANY, March 29 (ENS)— Miss Sarah McMullen of Bethany aged 81 years died suddenly on Tuesday. Although advanced in years she had been busy with the usual household tasks until striken with a sudden heart attack on Tuesday morning and was taken by ambulance to St. Josephs Hospital, Peterborough, and death occurred late in the afternoon.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David McMullen who were among the pioneer settlers in this district, her father having been one of the members of the board who met to discuss a suitable name for the settlement which was later to become known as Bethany.

Beloved by all in the village in which she had lived her lifetime, she had done her share of community work . . . a faithful member of the United Church, in earlier years a member of the choir and teacher in the Sunday School, also a charter member of the Women's Institute.

Immediately surviving are two brothers, Robert and Charles, both of Bethany.

She was predeceased by two sisters, Mrs. Simon Arnott and Mrs. Samuel Dewell, and two brothers, Rev. James McMullen and William McMullen.

Funeral announcements later.

MEET FOR PROTEST

The County of Peterborough Law Association is meeting later today to discuss Bill 118 of the current provincial legislature. One of its provisions is said to forbid visual obstructions within 600 feet of the margins of highways or 1,200 feet from intersecting roads. It is believed a resolution condemning this bill will be introduced.

Farmers Feel Paying Shot In Rail Wages

OTTAWA March 29 — (CP) — Western farmers feel they are left "holding the bag and paying the shot" for high railway labor wages a witness for the grain trade told the Royal Commission on Transportation Tuesday.

J. H. Wesson of Regina, spokesman for the prairie wheat pools, declared railway wages were out of line with those of other classes. He suggested it might be well to let rail labor strike when its demands become too high.

Mr. Wesson, president of the Saskatchewan wheat pool, expressed the view railway labor leaders were unfair in their demands and should be told so in the report of the Royal Commission.

Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, commission chairman, asked what Mr. Wesson would suggest the railways do when involved in demands for higher pay.

"If it comes to a question where labor wants too much, more than the economy could stand, I think I would let them strike for a while and see what would happen," Mr. Wesson replied.

"Even though that meant tying up the railways?" the chairman asked.

"It might for a short time, the witness said.

Drug Too Late To Save Child

KAPUSKASING, March 29— A 12-day-old boy died Tuesday before the arrival of an airplane from Toronto carrying a drug which had been hoped would have saved the infant's life. The child son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Montgomery, was afflicted with acute diarrhoea.

Arobon, a drug common in Europe, but little known in Canada, was put aboard the plane after Dr. Maurice Dupont of Kapuskasing telephoned the Toronto office of the manufacturer and explained the situation. Four tins of arobon— apparently the only stock in Canada —was available, and it was rushed to Malton Airport where it was put aboard a TCA plane.

Devaluation Ups B.C. Lumber For U.S. Market

VANCOUVER, March 29 (CP) —Wrapped in gloom two months earlier, the British Columbia lumber industry today eyes 1950 as one of its biggest years, because of a booming American market.

A harsh winter, following harsh United Kingdom austerity edicts slashing wartime imports, caused the biggest B.C. industry internal quakes a few months ago.

Concrete United States demand has changed that.

In fact, the industry that supplies 42 per cent of each productive dollar for the province expects the largest business since 1948 when business totalled more than $360,000,000.

Closed Two Months

Building booms in Canada and the U.S. have created demands that mills, closed two months in the bitterest winter this province has recorded, will have trouble filling. Yet Premier Byron Johnson has returned only this week from a United Kingdom mission intended to coax pre-war and wartime markets there to return to the fold.

The last British order for B.C. lumber — 132,000,000 board feet valued at about $10,000,000 — is required by June but none has been promised for September. The more - than - 32,000 wood workers, plus the thousands of other persons employed in the industry indirectly, likely will be working overtime to supply that.

Devaluation of the Canadian dollar is said responsible for much of the American switch to purchasing.

Apartment Place Burns All Residents Escape

PEMBROKE, March 29 (CP)— Fire of undetermined origin Tuesday night swept through a two-apartment building causing heavy smoke and water damage.

The fire is believed to have started in the basement near the furnace and quickly spread to other portions of the building through hot air pipes.

Firemen, hampered by dense smoke and the head-start of the flames, battled the blaze for more than two hours before it was brought under control. All residents of the dwelling escaped uninjured.

MOSTLY FOREST

The cultivated area of Finland is about 6,000,000 acres, compared with 42,000,000 acres of productive forest area.

ISRAEL not only wants peace, but needs peace in order to go forward steadily with its task of building up the new nation, Major Yochanan Samuel, Commander of the Defence Army Youth Battalions in the Tel-Aviv area, said recently. He is visiting Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Zionist Organization, in connection with the United Israel Appeal.

No Difference With Socialism And Communism

LONDON, March 29 (CP)—Sir Waldron Smithers speaking:

"There is no difference between Socialism and Communism. They are the same thing."

With simple text as his bulwark Sir Waldron carries on day after day, posing incessant questions, writing angry pamphlets, prosecuting his private war against a government he deems to be the embodiment of all things evil.

At 69 Sir Waldron is the Toriest Tory of them all. A constant crusader against anything "new-fangled," serene in the invincibility of his ideas, he freely confessed himself the prototype of cartoonist David Low's bumbling, blinkered Colonel Blimp.

In House 25 Years

Glowing down from his lonely aerie high on the Conservative back bench—he has been in parliament 25 years without holding office—the member for Orpington sits with football shoulders hunched, his strong, grey features seemingly grief-stricken as he waits his turn at question time.

Then parliament's No. 1 quiz kid is on his feet, delivering an unsubtle supplementary question in a high, choked voice, oblivious to Labor cries of "withdraw" if he oversteps the bounds of parliamentary decorum.

He has asked about 16,000 questions since he first entered the House of Commons, probably an all-time record.

Quotes Kipling

He is still going strong. In a recent pamphlet sprinkled with quotations of freedom from Kipling, Byron, Pope, Pitt and Tennyson, he quotes this letter from Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer:

"Dear Smithers . . . Your letter was couched in such offensive language that I have no intention of answering it."

Sir Waldron observes that the letter from the Chancellor of the Exchequer was written in red ink.

At the moment, his favorite source material for parliamentary questions is the report of the Canadian Royal Commission on Espionage, set up in 1946. He argues that sections of the report should convince the British government of the need for a similar Commission in Britain, but Prime Minister Attlee turns a deaf ear to his pleas.

Writes Jingle

In the 1929 general election, Sir Waldron composed the Conservative party's theme song, sung to the tune of "Sunny Boy." The first verse was:

"England for the free, Stanley Boy,
"You're the man for me, Stanley Boy,
"You've no way of knowing,
"But I've a way of showing,
"What you mean to me, Stanley Boy."

The Conservatives, led by Stanley Baldwin, lost the election to Labor.

Camera Club Hears Public Librarian

Mr. Wm. Graff, director of the Public Library, was guest speaker Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Peterborough Camera Club. He showed a most interesting picture "not by books alone" which dealt with the facilities available to the public in libraries, and stressing the fact "knowledge is power" and through books covering every phase of life and interest available to all, clubs and organizations, as well as individuals, can gain that knowledge.

Function of the Peterborough Library as a cultural centre of the community was described by Mr. Graff, outlining the work covered by the staff and the use made by the building's facilities by the public.

A short business meeting preceded the speaker, with Mr. Wm. Goodswan as chairman.

Too Many Cooks?

TORONTO, March 29—(CP)— A truck-load of workmen and a bus load of passengers helped to rescue a bulldog from the ice-filled waters of Toronto island lagoon Tuesday. A boat loaned by a nearby resident was used to affect the rescue. In the process the boat sank, but all hands were saved.

"How harmful are cigarettes?"

The January Reader's Digest article on this subject stirred more discussion than any recent magazine feature.

Many people said that they wanted to stop smoking or at least cut down—but doubted their courage, were sure they'd be puffing as much as ever within a few weeks.

For those who really want to stop, April Reader's Digest (now on sale) brings you two lively personal-experience narratives of smokers who did quit tobacco—and liked it!

Get your Digest today: 38 articles of lasting interest, condensed from leading magazines, current books.

Drew Urges Rent Controls Be Changed Overnight

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP) — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged the government in the Commons Tuesday to revise legislation providing for extension of domestic rent controls.

Resuming debate on the control legislation after Finance Minister Abbott read his budget speech, Mr. Drew said the rentals bill continued controls which gave the government power over practically all human activity including the conscription of manpower.

He suggested the government take overnight action so that today it could present the Commons with a bill providing only the extension of rent controls until April 30, 1951.

Powers Go Far

It was perhaps not known to all members, he said that the bill before the Commons went much farther than rent controls in the power it gave the government. It could enable the government to exercise controls over many classes of goods and services.

"It continues in force all the regulations except those definitely limited in legislation enacted in 1949," said Mr. Drew.

Some of the controls to be continued covered production of goods and services, their distribution, disposal and transportation. That gave the prices board control over practically all human activity in this country including conscription of manpower.

He also criticized the government for what he called "dilatory" methods in delaying the rentals legislation until almost the last minute. The House now is in the position that if it properly discussed the bill it would delay passage until after Friday midnight when, if not renewed, all controls would cease.

Proper Procedure

In the rentals debate, Mr. Drew said he doubted if any one in the government realized what it was asking parliament to do.

The proper procedure, he said, was first to cancel all provisions of the regulations except rental controls, before asking for passage of the act renewing transitional powers.

If that were done it would indicate the government intended only to retain rent controls. Otherwise it could be assumed the government wanted to exercise the wide powers the bill would give it.

Donald Fleming (PC-Toronto Eglinton), said no one was against continuation of rent control but the opposition was against renewing wide powers for the government to legislate by order-in-council.

Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre), said the government had indicated that a schedule would be set out in the bill, detailing rent-control regulations. No schedule had been forthcoming. People were baffled by rent-control regulations and he felt everyone should be able to get, in black and white, a copy of the law of the land.

Offer Fishermen Air Carrier Service

ST. THOMAS, March 29 —Competition is developing for the transportation of fresh fish from Lake Erie's north shore ports Port Stanley shippers said Tuesday that they had been offered air carrier service to the New York market and also a fast train and motor transport express service to New York via Montreal.

Shipments are now made by rail to Buffalo and Detroit. In order to take advantage of the high price of 80 cents a pound in U.S. funds for whitefish, Port Dover fishermen have been trucking their boxed fish to Buffalo and then expressing them by air to New York.

Whitefish which left Port Dover last Sunday evening at 7 o'clock were on the New York market at 6 o'clock Monday morning.

UN Seeks Pact On Human Rights

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 29 —(CP)— The United Nations today tackled the complex job of framing an international pact on human rights.

The pact is the second hurdle in the tough course towards an international bill of human rights. A universal declaration of human rights was adopted by the U.N. General Assembly in Paris Dec. 10, 1948. The third hurdle will be to work out a system of enforcing the pact, officialy called the covenant.

The declaration, which states fundamental political, civil, economic and social rights, already has been copied in part in the constitution of Israel, India and Indonesia. Courts in the United States have cited it.

But so far, U.N. members have only a moral duty to adhere to the obligations it outlines. A pact will give the rights set down a legal context.

Soviets Abstained

The Soviet-Bloc countries abstained when the general assembly approved the declaration by a vote of 48 to 0 with nine abstentions. Russia has recently advised the U.N. that she will object to any international enforcement agency to check complaints of violations of human rights.

The commission's work during the next six weeks will be focused on a draft covenant of human rights. Last spring the commission approved several covenant articles including right of life, protection from torture, slavery and forced labor; freedom from arbitrary arrest, freedom of movement, of thought and of speech, the right to peaceful assembly and association, and protection before the law.

Canada is not a member of the 18-country commission. But the Dominion approved the declaration at Paris after noting some "misgivings on certain inadequacies and ambiguities in its the declaration would come under provincil rather than federal jurisdiction.

Singing In Band Star Training Says Doris Day

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 29 (AP) —If you want to train for Hollywood, sing with a band. This advice comes from former ork chirper Doris Day.

An ork chirper is a gal who sits in an evening gown before a dance band, smiling all the while. Every 10 minutes or so, she rises from her perch and chirps with the orchestra. Miss Day looks back on the experience with thankfulness.

"Singing with a band helps to develop your personality," she enthused. (Enthusiasm is her normal tone.) "Look at the girls who used to do it—Betty Grable, June Haver, Betty Hutton, Gloria Dehaven.

"The way you interpret the lyrics is akin to acting. You don't just sing words, you try to put meaning into them." She added that singing with bands gives a girl poise. "I'm never nervous before the camera," she said.

Macbeth and Milkman

Orson Welles' "Macbeth" is just about ready for release. It played one engagement in Boston more than a year ago and then was returned to the studio for alterations. Now some of the heavy Scottish burr and the gloomier photography have been removed. The revised film will open in Salt Lake City, where Welles and his players presented a live "Macbeth" as a rehearsal for the film.

Film workers all over town are sporting "I Am a Booster" buttons on their lapels. The campaign is designed to stop the panning and panic talk about Hollywood. But won't good business be the only thing to do that?

No Interest In School

OTTAWA, March 29 — (CP)— Secondary school courses in Canada are "not entirely adequate" the Canadian Research Committee on Practical Education reported Tuesday. It described as "alarming" statistics showing for the first time why students leave school before high school graduation. Lack of interest in school work was the most important reason found in the survey.

Traditional Cockneys Disappearing From London

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, March 29—(CP)—Traditional sights and sounds of cockney London are disappearing one by one. Latest to go are the straw-hatted flower women of Piccadilly who used to stand at the base of the Eros statue with large baskets and peddle their colorful blooms to passers-by in raucous cockney tones.

In recent months the statute has been deserted and observers conclude that the flower women are going the way of the pearly-coated street vendor, the women in ostrich-feathered hats, the coster barrows and coster donkeys that once characterized London streets.

Even Bow Bells—the symbol of Cockneyism—are silent. The empty steeple looks out on Cheapside over the ruins of a church that was ancient when William the Conqueror was crowned. But the great Tenor Bell, cast in 1699, was destroyed by bombs in 1941.

With its going the essential qualification of the cockneys — one born within the sound of bow bells—seems to have lost its meaning.

Cockney speech, too, is changing under the combined influence of BBC English and Hollywood American. Nowadays Sam Weller would never pronounce his name with a v as he did in Dickens famous "Pickwick Papers." The harsh vowels of the modern cockney are not nearly so pronounced as they used to be, and fewer aspirates are dropped.

Character Changing

Many observers say that cockney character is changing imperceptibly, though the cockney retains his swift, good-humored adaptability to altering circumstances. His house may be pulled down to make way for a government building, but he goes off cheerfully, if cynically, to find another home.

London historian George Edinger wrote recently:

"It is because tht cockney make-up is essentially the product of a city always in the throes of change that linkmen and chimney sweeps, Jack in the green and pearly king have to go. . .'

Edinger defined the leading cockney qualities as quick humor, ready sympathy born of experience, helpfulness in trouble and a lack of imagination built on the centuries-old habit of taking things as they come.

"You must not seek the cockney in the few lingering relics of yesterday: the street market in Bermondsey or Berwick Street, or the occasional glow of the chestnut seller's brazier.

"For it is always in the London of this moment which may not be the London of the next that you will find him."

9 SAN PATIENTS SUFFOCATE IN BLAZE

Young Girl Strangled In Hull With Knotted Towel; Suspect Seen, Arrested

Nude Body Found In Third Floor Room
Companion Identified By Several, No Murder Charge Laid Till After Inquest

HULL, Que., March 30—(CP)—J. A. Robert, director of Hull police, said today that the hand-towel slaying of Gertrude Marion Davis of Ottawa has been solved. He told reporters that four Ottawa men are being held as material witnesses in the case and said police believe one of them is the man who strangled the attractive, 25-year-old girl in a Bridge Street rooming house early Wednesday. The four men were not identified, and Mr. Robert said that so far no formal charge of murder has been laid.

A formal inquest into the girl's death is being opened later today but is expected to be adjourned until tomorrow. The charge of murder would not be laid until after the inquiry, the police chief said.

Hull and Ottawa police co-operated in the manhunt, which ended just 16 hours after the girl's nude body was discovered in a third floor room shortly after noon Wednesday, a hand towel knotted tightly around her neck.

Mr. Robert said all four men held were placed in a police line-up early today and one was positively identified as the man who checked into the rooming house early Wednesday with Miss Davis and left about an hour later.

Alfred Gachet, proprietor of the rooming house, was the man who identified one of the four as the person who registered with the girl. Other persons identified the same man as the male companion of the young woman at a drinking party in an Ottawa beverage room Tuesday evening.

The young woman with her mother and a brother moved to a rooming-house on St. Patrick's Street in Ottawa's lowertown district about three weeks ago.

Neighbors described Miss Davis as a "quiet" girl and did not believe she was employed.

No Violence

There was no visible signs of violence in the room where the girl's body was found. Her clothing was neatly arranged on a chair and her light brown topcoat was hanging on a coat rack.

Alfred Gachet, genial proprietor of the tidy-looking Bridge Street rooming-house, said Miss Davis registered there with a man early Wednesday morning. He said the man remained in the third-floor room for about an hour before leaving shortly before 3 a.m.

Dances Exempt 15% Tax Frost Announces

TORONTO, March 30.—Dances will be exempt from the 15 per cent amusement tax, Premier Frost announced Wednesday in the legislature.

He made the announcement when he moved an amendment to the hospital tax bill during committee consideration of the measure. This means that places like the Palais Royale and Masonic and Columbus Halls in Toronto will not have to collect the tax on admissions to their dances.

The tax, however, will apply on food and liquor sold in night clubs and cabarets, the Premier emphasized. At present where there are floor shows a tax of 40 per person is charged. By the change in the act, the tax will be 15 per cent of the food and drink bill, up to a maximum tax of $1 per person.

Mr. Frost said cabarets and night clubs supplying elaborate entertainment were providing unfair competition to other places of amusement which were taxed.

Entertainment

It was the entertainment which was the main attraction, rather than the food and liquor that was served, he contended. However, in ordinary dances patrons got their entertainment from dancing.

"You mean they have to work for it," interjected Opposition Leader E. B. Jolliffe.

Fire Destroys Keene Garage

KEENE, March 30—The Keene garage was totally destroyed today when fire broke out at one p.m. A bucket brigade of some 200 volunteers was still fighting the blaze as the Examiner went to press this afternoon.

George Williams, a partner in the business, lost his 1949 car and a wrecking truck and tools.

At first it was feared that the two-storey frame house next to the garage would be lost but the fire fighters managed to ward off the blaze and the wind then blew the flames away from the house.

Paint on the side of the house was scorched and Mrs. Alec Thompson was expecting to have to leave with her child. Mr. Thompson and another child were not at home.

Kirkland Lake Vies With Rat-Free Alberta

KIRKLAND LAKE, March 30 (CP) — Move over Alberta. There's none of them rat critters in these parts either.

Doc Harris got wind of that claim you folks make about being the only rat-free people in North America. He says we Kirkland Lakers can make the same boast.

There's been talk that the pesky things come north in freight cars from places such as—well, say, Toronto. But W. R. Black, agent for the Ontario Northland Railway, says he's never seen one in 36 years of 'roading.

Reeve Ann Shipley and Inspector E. A. Dyment, of the police force, are equally emphatic about it.

The inspector recalls stray skunks and a muskrat or two. His men even had to shoo a badly-scared moose off the street one day. But, no sir, no rats.

5,000 Kids Want Job

SYDNEY, Australia, March 30—(Reuters)—More than 5,000 school children stormed an ice cream factory here Wednesday to apply for a job as "taster" for a new product. Truckloads of police were needed to prevent a riot. Policemen cordoned off the street and lined up the yelling children. Each child then received a free sample of the new ice cream, handed down from the comparative safety of parked trucks.

Confidence Vote Expected In UK On Minor Defeat

LONDON, March 30 — (AP)—The Labor Government, smarting under a sleeper defeat in the House of Commons on a minor issue, was reported today aiming for a confidence vote to patch up the hole in its prestige.

The Conservatives pulled a surprise victory in Commons on Wednesday night in a vote on a parliamentary technicality. The vote was on whether to adjourn, not an issue upon which the government might fall. The manoeuvre, however, gave Labor a taste of the battle in store for them at every turn.

Prime Minister Attlee's Cabinet met for more than two hours this morning in a post-mortem on the 283-257 vote.

A government informant reported the Cabinet agreed to look on the defeat as a technical one, To assuage the pain of the defeat, the government is expected to ask for a new vote of confidence, possible in a week or 10 days. Defeat on a confidence vote would require the government to resign.

Taken By Surprise

Labor's majority in the Commons has been cut to only three seats. The government in all likelihood would resign if defeated on any major policy issue.

The Tory needle struck the Commons by surprise. A lot of members were absent, some without explanation. As a drab debate on Labor's handling of gasoline and coal supplies droned to a close, Tory members and some of their Liberal allies began filtering into Commons in strength, some of them dressed in evening wear.

Tipped Off

They obviously had been tipped off.

Then, without warning, they forced through the technical motion to adjourn the night's session and won by a vote of 283 to 257.

Attlee's party whips immediately began to investigate the reason for the heavy absenteeism among their members.

The Labor party was 55 under strength. Some members were at political meetings, others had private engagements.

It was a blow to the government's prestige. And it presaged to all Labor members the harassing prospect of having to be constantly on hand for minor as well as major votes to avoid another such slap. Government sources said it would be intolerable for Labor to experience a series of defeats even on small issues.

BULLETIN

SIMCOE (CP) — Provincial Police reported today that they were investigating a report that a plane had crashed near Port Dover and that men had parachuted from the aircraft which had an engine afire. A woman telephoned this information to their office, police said.

Die In Beds Strapped In, No Chance

Starts In Laundry
Many Escape
3rd Fire 14 Months

PHILADELPHIA, March 30 —(AP)—Nine male patients—some strapped to their beds—suffocated as rescuers tore apart wire meshed windows and crawled through smoke-filled rooms of a private sanatorium to lead scores of others to safety.

At least 30 other patients—men and women—and one fireman were overcome by smoke that poured from a basement fire into a wing of the Belle-Vista Sanatorium Wednesday night.

The three-storey sanatorium, located in suburban Springfield Township, is for convalescent, senile, nervous and mental patients.

Fire Marshal Edward H. Chew said the blaze apparently started in the basement laundry from an unknown cause. It spread to the first floor, where the men patients were housed, but was brought under control quickly.

On First Floor

Those who suffocated were all in quarters on the first floor. Women patients on the second floor were removed through windows down ladders.

Superintendent Roland L. Randall said the wing with wire-covered windows housed about 43 men and 31 women. Many of the men patients were considered violent and were held in their beds by restraining straps, Chew said.

"There was a confusion, yes," said Chew. "Screams of patients calling for help were audible for some distance but there was no panic."

The blaze was the third at Belle-Vista in 14 months. A year ago last Jan. 21 a fire forced 10 patients to flee an older wing and last Jan. 29 a burning mattress was found in the basement of one of the buildings.

Five Identified

Five of the dead were identified by Chief White as: John Siggins, 70; A. Romano, 26; Barry Fass, 19; Nicholas Terinini, 26, and Irving Halpern, 42.

George Lewis, 45, an attendant off duty, said he was awakened at 10:45 p.m. by a night attendant.

Leon Blum Dies In France

PARIS, March 30 (AP)—Leon Blum, veteran French Socialist leader, died today.

Blum, veteran of France's turbulent between-war politics, would have been 78 years old April 9.

Thrice Premier of France, he was active in France's government to the end. He was Vice-Premier under Andre Marie in 1948 and was a leader in the European unity movement.

A bitter foe of the Nazis before and during the war, Blum was just as vehemently an enemy of the Communists who made him a constant target of their attacks.

Blum, tall, angular and sharp-nosed, served as Premier twice in the years before the Second World War and once after the war. He had been designated as Premier for a fourth time by the President of the Republic, but failed to get confirmation from the National Assembly.

One of the ablest debaters of French contemporary life, Blum was considered an elder statesman of the Socialist party. He edited its newspaper, Le Populaire.

Lost In Line Of Duty

LINDSAY, March 30—(CP)—The volunteer fire department has billed town council for a set of false teeth. During a fire two months ago, a fireman, almost overcome by smoke, coughed so hard his denture flew out. He never found it. The item will be forwarded to the Workmen's Compensation Board for approval and payment.

Out of Jail, Loses $3,500, Furniture

Walks Into Con Game, Promised 'Nice Girls' Comes Out Broke

TORONTO, March 30 (CP). —John Tiffert got out of jail Wednesday so, naturally he was happy. Then he went home.

The house had been ransacked during the 30 days he served for a liquor offence. The furniture was gone. So was the bedding and the oil burner. Even the bathtub.

Tiffert was on his way to see his lawyer when he ran into two strangers who offered to help him find the thieves. They said they knew of some "nice girls" and suggested a party first. All three got into a taxi and went to an east-end house. While waiting for the girls, someone produced a deck of cards and urged Tiffert to put up a small bet. Tiffert lost $35.00.

One of his "friends" said he could put up $5,000 for a "real" bet. Some of it was in a locker at the Union Station.

Tiffert went to his bank and took out $3,500. One of the men suggested Tiffert leave his $3,500 with the cabbie while they went to the locker to verify the claim it contained the $5,000.

The driver and the first stranger sped away. The second stranger ducked into the crowd and vanished.

Tiffert called the cops.

Thugs Wait Hour For Manager, Rob Bank $8,000

STE. MARTINE, Que., March 30 (CP)—Three masked bandits spent nearly an hour in a bank branch here Wednesday night, tieing up three women and waiting for the manager to return from an evening church service.

When manager Rosario Couillard returned home with his wife he was hit five times over the head with the butt of a gun and then was forced to give the combination of the bank safe which the gunmen cleaned of more than $8,000.

Provincial Police said the armed trio forced their way into the home of Mr. Couillard above the branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale here and waited for him.

While waiting, they used rope and strips of bedsheets to tie up three of Couillard's four daughters—Anne, Cline and Micheline—and his 86-year-old mother.

Lucie, his fourth daughter, asked the bandits not to tie her up because of a heart condition.

The men agreed, police said, telling the girl they knew she could open the bank safe. She was ordered to go downstairs with two of the gunmen.

When 56-year-old Couillard arrived about 8:30 p.m., he was slugged by the men who then threw a wet towel in his face. Mrs. Couillard was left unharmed.

After he revived, they told Couillard to give his daughter the safe combination and then ordered her to open the safe.

Chain Stores Pay Same Taxes

TORONTO, March 30 (CP) — The Ontario Legislature committee on municipal law today voted 21 to 10 to delete from a bill amending the Assessment Act a provision that would increase the assessment rate of chain stores from 25 to 50 per cent of the property value.

The committee approved the rest of the bill, including a clause reducing the assessment rate of wholesale merchants from 75 to 50 per cent.

Consideration of the bill was adjourned Monday when the committee chairman cast the deciding vote to hold the bill over until today.

H. A. Stewart (PC-Kingston), today made the motion that the clause be deleted. He was supported by Progressive Conservative and Liberal members of the committee. CCF and Labor Progressive voted against the motion.

Snakeblood Highball Latest Spring Tonic

TOKYO, March 30— (AP). — The latest thing for that run-down, old-age feeling is a snakeblood highball.

"Many prominent Japanese, including legislators, government officials, novelists, poets, actresses and geishas are regular customers," a snakeblood salesman said today.

Here is how you mix the drink:

Take one live snake (gingerly, son), handle it by its tail, and puncture the hide near the heart. With a gentle massaging motion, squeeze the blood into a glass. Add fruit juice or wine, garnish with snake heart and liver, and serve.

Customers under 40 years are urged to limit themselves to one snakeball a month, those between 40 and 55 may have six and those over 60 may gorge as many as 20 snorts.

Record CNR Deficit Result Of Wage-Boost—Gordon

OTTAWA, March 30—(CP)—The Canadian National Railway's expects to boost its operating revenues this year about $16,000,000 above the $500,000,000 earned in 1949. Donald Gordon, President of the government-owned line, told the Commons railway committee, Wednesday, that the system was budgetting for an estimated net revenue increase of $34,264,000 this year, compared with $22,221,000 a year ago. Operating expenses are expected to total about $482,500,000 compared with $478,500,000 last year.

But he gave a blunt warning that should all demands for wage increases now facing the company be met, it would result in an unprecedented budgetary deficit of $90,000,000 for the world's largest rail system.

On the basis of present wage rates, Mr. Gordon forecast a budgetary deficit of $32,000,000 — about $10,000,000 less than last year.

However, if the system agreed to all wage demands now being negotiated with some 59 labor organizations in Canada and the United States, the company would face an additional expenditure of some $58,000,000.

Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) criticized the CNR budget for a reference to the effect that the budget did not contain provisions for increased wages. It would appear to indicate that the CNR was not going to grant wage boosts.

Told by Transport Minister Chevrier and Mr. Gordon that the budget indicated no such thing, Mr. Gillis reported that the reference should have been left out. It gave the "wrong impression."

Mr. Gordon also said:

1. The heavy payments of public and government debts are expected to remain about the same level as last year—$24,000,000 for public debt and $21,600,000 on government loans.

2. The CNR expects to spent about $36,000,000 for new equipment this year, and another $30,000,000 to maintain and modernize equipment and assets.

Vice Inquiry Stalled

WINDSOR, March 30—(CP)—Investigation into the Detroit angles of the Windsor Police Commission inquiry appear to be at a standstill.

The inquiry into allegations of corruption in Windsor law enforcement adjourned here March 11 to allow counsel to seek information in Detroit which might indicate a tie-up between Detroit and Windsor gambling and other forms of vice.

Crown Attorney A. Douglas Bell of Chatham, inquiry counsel, told reporters today that he has "not been to Detroit yet."

He also said he had no idea when the probe would be reopened.

Lawyer Shoots Himself, Family

CHICAGO, March 30 (AP) — A lawyer ended his worries over fake mortgage deals, police said Wednesday, by killing his wife, son and mother and then slaying himself.

The only survivor in the family is his four-year-old son, visiting at the home of his wife's mother.

Dead are Irvin Moskal, 35; his wife, Stella, 35; his widowed mother, Amile, 57; and his son, John, 10.

A letter describing some $30,000 in mortgage deals handled by Moskal as fraudulent and stating "I just shot and killed man," sent police on the grisly hunt that led to the bodies. All had been shot to death.

Hold Services For Air Victims

OTTAWA, March 30 — (CP)—Alan Harrington, 20-year-old son of the U.S. Minister to Canada, Julian Harrington, was buried today in Ottawa's Beechwood Cemetery, marking the beginning of a day of mourning and final tributes in the Canadian Capital.

More than 300 persons jammed the home of the minister for the funeral service of his son, killed Tuesday with US Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt and three US Air Force officers in a plane crash near Ottawa.

Services for the Ambassador and for Capt. Thomas Archibald 34, of Union Springs, Ala., Lt.-Col. W. F. Trublood 35, Kansas City, and Lieut. Mark Belanger 29, New Bedford, Mass., will be held later in the day with full diplomatic and military honors.

The body of the Ambassador will be sent on a special train to New York where he will be buried. Those of the three officers also will leave for the United States.

External Affairs Minister Pearson headed representatives of the government attending services for Harrington. He will later accompany the body of Ambassador Steinhardt to New York to represent Canada at the diplomat's funeral there.

Vaughan Paid 'Lump Sum' Leaving CNR

$50,000 Rumoured
Fraser Charges
Gov't Doesn't Say

OTTAWA, March 30—(CP) —R. C. Vaughan received a "lump sum" when he retired from the presidency of the Canadian National Railways last year, Donald Gordon said today.

Although pressed by members of the Commons Railway Committee the recently-appointed C.N.R. president declined to divulge the exact amount of this payment which was in addition to the normal pension paid to retiring officials.

G. K. Fraser (PC—Peterborough West) said there were rumors that Mr. Vaughan had received $50,000 in addition to pension payments.

Transport Minister Chevrier interjected that a ruling made by a previous committee in 1931 was to the effect that salaries and other payments made to C.N.R. officials should not be disclosed.

Later he tempered his remarks with a statement that he wanted to "make my position clear." He was not withholding information and any press reports to that effect would be denied by him. He was merely repeating what officials of the CNR had said that such information should not be disclosed.

The question of what payment had been made to Mr. Vaughan who retired Dec. 31 after 51 years of service occupied a major part of this morning's session of the committee, investigating activities of the CNR.

E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops), said the question of payment did not reflect on the integrity of Mr. Vaughan.

Both Mr. Fulton and Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South), said they disagreed with Mr. Chevrier on the matter of the previous ruling.

Mr. Gillis added that the ruling had been made under a Conservative government and that was one reason the people of Canada had seen fit to remove that government from power.

Mr. Gordon said the same kind of payment to Mr. Vaughan had been made to previous presidents of the CNR when they retired.

The payment had been made in recognition of Mr. Vaughan's outstanding services during 51 years with the CNR.

Pleads Guilty To Grounding Mo

NORFOLK, Va., March 30—(AP)—Capt. William D. Brown today pleaded guilty to charges of negligence and neglect of duty in the grounding of the battleship Missouri.

Brown commanded the ship when she ran aground on a Chesapeake Bay shoal Jan. 17.

The action of the former skipper of the 45,000-ton battleship came shortly after he was arraigned before a General Court Martial convened to try him on these charges:

1. "Through negligence suffering a vessel of the navy to be stranded."

2. "Through negligence suffering a vessel of the navy to be hazarded."

3. "Neglect of duty."

Canada Seen Prosperous For 50 Years By Economist

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, March 30—(CP) — Canada's prices chief predicts continuing economic prosperity in the next 50 years—barring "certain international catastrophes."

Kenneth W. Taylor, chairman of the Prices Board and former professor of political economy at McMaster University, Hamilton, believes that Canada will have economic ups and downs in the next half-century, but "in no country in the world are the possibilities of rapid and healthy expansion more promising."

The "most dramatic" of Canadas industrial developments may well be in the wastes of Labrador where huge deposits of iron ore will be developed. In addition, there well be new wealth from Alberta's bountiful oil wells—the word's most spectacular oil discovery in recent years.

Titanium, uranium and other minerals will add to the variety and richness of Canada's wealth.

By the year 2,000, Canada likely will have a population of 25,000,000—nearly double current numbers.

"This increase will greatly expand the home market for Canadian production," says Mr. Taylor, "but in the year 2,000 Canada still will be heavily dependent on foreign trade to maintain a rising standard of living."

He predicts that most of the population increase will take place in areas already occupied with emphasis on Alberta and British Columbia, where industial expansion will bring parallel population growth.

Mr. Taylor's optimistic predictions are hedged by two big "ifs": That there will not be a third World War in the next half-century; that a solution will be found to the current difficulties in international trade.

Unless Ireland Included UK Cut Off From US Aid

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) —The House of Representatives "Irish bloc" rode high today after saddling the Truman administration's foreign aid bill with a clause which would cut Britain off without a cent as long as Ireland remains partitioned.

An amendment aimed at barring Britain from economic help while the Emerald Isle remains part independent and part in the British Commonwealth was approved Wednesday by a vote of 99 to 66.

The vote was tentative and is not expected to stand when the final roll call comes. But it raised a lot of good humored bantering before House leaders called for adjournment and began rallying forces to defeat it.

President Truman's lieutenants said they weren't worried about the anti-partition amendment. They were concerned, however, over another vote which appeared more likely to stick.

This one, also tentative approved 119 to 107 an amendment to tie up $1,000,000,000 in Marshall Aid funds for the purchase of United States farm products.

But if the going was rough on the $3,372,450,000 foreign aid measure Wednesday, sure and it was a great day for house members who call Ireland their mother country.

In a playful mood, and to ringing cheers for the ould sod, the House voted to deny Britain a cent of economic recovery aid until the partition of Ireland is ended.

But even the Irish victors were not sanguine enough to think the decision would stick.

The vote came on an amendment by Representative John Fogarty (Dem. R.I.) who tried without success to put the same condition in last year's Marshall Plan bill.

TORONTO, March 30—(CP)—Released from hospital Wednesday after a three-week illness, Mrs. James Foley, 21, went for an automobile ride with her sister, Theresa Pearce.

Early today Mrs. Foley was back in hospital with injuries suffered when the car somersaulted three times into an east-end cemetery.

"I can't remember what happened," Mrs. Foley said. "We were driving real fast when the car turned over and over."

Her sister said to be the driver of the borrowed car, was released from hospital after examination.

Lakefield Village Rate Increased By 9.4 Mills

LAKEFIELD, March 30 (ENS)—Taxpayers will this year dig a lot deeper in their pocket books as the council following long and heated sessions finally decided on a 9.4 mill increase for the village, jumping the levy from 48 to 57.4. Lakefield and District High School Board's requisition for 1950 of $6,755,—a boost from 2.4 mills to 8.1 mills was the biggest blow. Chief item in this was an increase of almost 50% for teachers' salaries and almost 100% for transportation of outside pupils to the school, plus an overdraft of $10,000 from '49 which is split in proportion among the five townships in the area.

Other items which combined to increase the rate were the county rate up 1.6 mills; memorial centre debentures 1.6; Public School Board .3; Public Library .2. The general rate was held at last years 22.3 mills.

The ordinary expenditures of the council totalled $36,924.04 among which the larger items were hydro electric debentures $2,565.34, roads $9,667.06, sidewalks $1,150., street lights $2,200., recreation $1.200., park $2.200., memorial hall $2,000., social service and charity $1,462.50, sanitation $5,100., fire department $1,736.87, and clerk's salary $1,440.

This left $18,188 or practically half of the total expenditure to be raised by taxation.

The High School Board has a total expenditure of $56,550, with an estimated revenue of $30,100. In the expenditures teachers' salaries show an increase of from $15,007.18 to $22,000; instructional supplies, $500, being a decrease of $21.24; plant operation increased from $2,500 to $3,650; plant maintenance down $225 to $200; and auxiliary agencies are up from $757.49 to $1,200; fees to other board is $1,700; and transportation is increased from $7,644.04 to $14,000. The estimated revenue is largely provincial grants which in 1950 are expected to net the board $27,200, an increase of almost $10,000 over 1949.

The High School demand on the various municipalities is broken up as follows: Smith Twp., $11,930; Lakefield, $6,755; Harvey Twp., $4,055; Burleigh and Anstruther Twps., $2,130, and Chandos Twp. $1,580.

Who's Confused? Inspector, Or Leader

ENDICOTT, N.Y., March 29—Frank Skobern is village building inspector. He's also president of the Endicott Boys' Club, and the situation can be confusing.

As head of the boys' club, he endorsed plans to build an addition to the clubhouse.

As building inspector, he rejected the plans on the ground they violated zoning regulations.

Now, as boys' club president, he's asking the village zoning board to reverse the ruling he made as building inspector.

Robert Dobbin Dies Aged 82

A lifetime resident of North Monaghan who took an active part in that township's municipal affairs died Wednesday. He was Robert Adam Dobbin, 82, of Lots 5 and 6, Concession 11.

Mr. Dobbin had been in ill-health for some time and had only recently returned from hospital. His final spell of illness, ending in death, was short, however.

His father was one of the first members of the North Monaghan township council. Mr. Dobbin carried on in his father's tradition of service and was for 20 years councillor and deputy reeve in the township.

Mr. Dobbin was first elected to the Council in 1907 and served for the next three years. He was returned again in 1913 and 1914 and served the following years 1916, 1917, 1920, 1920-1926. In 1927 he was Deputy-Reeve, and in 1932 he again returned to the Council serving until 1938.

He continued to farm until his last illness.

Life-Long Resident

Mr. Dobbin was born in North Monaghan, son of the late John Dobbin and Margaret Fowler. He was educated there and spent the rest of his life in the community, dividing his time chiefly between running the farm and participating in municipal affairs.

Surviving are his wife, the former Jane Hope Elmhirst, and four daughters—Mrs. S. E. Moncrief (Leona), Peterborough; Miss Clara, a teacher on the Peterborough public school staff; Mrs. Hector Clark (Lila), Peterborough; Mrs Clarence Hancock (Mildred), Smith township. Another daughter, Annie, died five years ago.

Mr. Dobbin was a member of Trinity United Church.

The funeral will be from the Belleghem Funeral Home at 1.30 p.m. Saturday, the Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon, of Trinity United Church, officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Homes For Aged, Unemployment Argued By Gov't

TORONTO, March 30 (CP).—Unemployment and homes for the aged cropped up in debate as the Ontario Legislature in night sitting on Wednesday night considered various departmental estimates.

Welfare Minister Goodfellow said there were about 6,000 persons in municipal homes for the aged, but added "I believe there are another 6,000 who would like to be in a home if it were not for the stigma of going into what in that community is regarded as a poor house."

The minister said that regardless of the size of the community homes for the aged should be designed to accommodate not more than 200 persons. The Department's policy was to segregate the more able inmates from the senile or bed-ridden, and one of the first homes to which this applies will be the one to be opened at Sault Ste. Marie this summer. He invited the members to visit the home and see the policy in practice.

BC Has $50 Pension

A. A. MacLeod (Lab.-Prog.-Toronto Bellwoods) contrasted Ontario's old-age pension of $40 a month, including $30 from the Dominion and $10 from the province, with the $50 pension in British Columbia. He said also that the home for the aged at Fort William is "a disgraceful place."

Agnes Macphail (CCF-York East) said the government might be better if it helped the well-run private homes which were often free of the stigma attached to public institutions. She also mentioned the home at Fort William, saying that while it was better than a lot of others that have finer exteriors, it still was not well equipped to combat fire.

Stands 100 Years House Burned

AURORA, March 30.—Built in 1850, the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cheney of Vandorf, six miles east of here, was destroyed by fire late Wednesday.

Fire trucks from Aurora had to pass over roads closed to traffic Tuesday because of flood conditions. The trucks were hub deep in mud.

Under Fire Chief Harry Jones lines were connected to a nearby stream. Heavy pressure caused one fire hose to burst. Only furniture from two rooms was saved from the house.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Cheney noticed a mattress near a hot stovepipe in the bedroom was smoldering. She poured several kettles full of water on it. She thought the fire was out and went to the kitchen.

Mrs. Cheney was preparing supper when she smelled smoke. Suddenly flames burst through the ceiling.

With the help of firemen and neighbors some furniture was removed. Damage was estimated at $4,500. Mr. Cheney was working in Toronto at York Knitting Mills.

Donning a bath robe, he said he grabbed the keys to the restraining straps worn by the patients in the 'violent section." Lewis said 12 patients were in the section.

"I knew most of the patients by their first names," Lewis said. "This helped to keep them calm and avoided a lot of trouble for the firemen who carried them out."

Frank Buccino, 40, a Philadelphia auxiliary fireman, was driving nearby when he saw the flames about a block away.

"I ran into the building and up to the second floor," Buccino said. "I found I was in the women's ward. I led four women out. Some of them fought me violently and scratched my face."

Dances Exempt

"That's right," said the Premier.

The government was not taxing bowling, golf or billiards in which the people got entertainment from personal effort, he added.

Mr. Frost said that the tax would apply to those dances where the people sat at a table and were served full course meals during the evening.

When Liberal leader Oliver and Mr. Jolliffe both pointed out that food was served at many country dances, the Premier explained that the sale of sandwiches, hot-dogs and coffee would not be considered as the serving of meals.

Reorganization Of Film Board Advised By Firm

OTTAWA, March 30 (CP). — Reorganization of the Government-owned National Film Board was recommended Wednesday in a report tabled in the Commons by Resources Minister Winters.

A 20,000-word document prepared by a Toronto firm of management consultants recommended that in the reorganization Cabinet ministers be eliminated from membership of the board, mainly responsible for policies of the NFB.

Sweeping changes in accounting practices, in the divisions of functions among various branches and in the hiring of personnel also were urged.

The report made no reference to the screening of NFB employees by RCMP, but in tabling the report Mr. Winters disclosed that three of the 580 NFB employees were released as a direct result of the security screenings.

He had informed government departments February 21 that the board was in a position to undertake work of a select nature. While the screenings were going on, the board was not allowed to do any secret work for government departments.

Preliminary Study

As to recommendations in the report, Mr. Winters said he had given preliminary consideration to them.

Under the present setup, Mr. Winters serves as chairman of the National Film Board and Revenue Minister McCann is a member.

W. A. Irwin is film commissioner and Alan Field is secretary to the board.

In a recommendation that would involve an amendment to the National Film Board Act, the report suggested that the board consist of the film commissioner as chairman, five representatives of the public chosen to represent the five main regions of Canada, and three senior civil servants.

Mining Stocks Hold Exchange Spotlight

TORONTO, March 30 (CP)—A handful of mining stocks held the spotlight in the busiest session of the year on the Toronto stock exchange today. Activity boomed in a few issues with property in the Malartic district, northwestern Quebec. The remainder of the market climbed steadily with western oils advancing to the highest average price level in 12 years. Volume for the first three hours was 1,923,000 shares.

Most active stock on the big board was Aumaque Mines, a low-priced issue that opened at 11 cents, boomed to 66 cents and began to settle at about 58 cents. Turnover in this issue alone was almost 600,000 shares in three hours. Norseman Mines, another penny issue also traded heavily for a strong gain.

These companies have property in the Malartic district, northwestern Quebec, adjoining East Sullivan Mines. East Sullivan has featured recent markets following drilling news. It was also active today but slipped under pressure of profit-taking.

Rumors are circulating on the street that drill cores at Aumaque indicate the East Sullivan find extending onto the property.

In western oils, Pacific Petroleum featured a climbing list that advanced into new high ground and touched the highest point on the exchange's index since 1937.

CREEK RUNNING HIGH

Jackson Park creek had risen Wednesday to within a foot of the top of its retaining walls at the CPR station. The freshet water was brown with the soil it had gathered up in its melting and flowing on farm fields along its course through Smith. The colder weather and the end of Monday's rain combined to check the volume.

Swan Takes To Sea Neurotic Or Jilted?

VICTORIA, B.C., March 30 — (CP) — A swan which escaped from Beacon Hill park and has taken to sea life is front-page news here. It could probably happen only in gentle, decorous Victoria.

For nearly two weeks now, Victorians have been trying to recapture the swan, whose name is Jill.

Jill had lived all her life on the placid waters of Goodacre Lake in the park when she lit out for salt water. Now she spends most of her time bobbing on the waves offshore.

Why did she give up the park and three squares a day?

The Daily Times claims she's neurotic—that even as an egg she was a little cracked.

The Daily Columnist says she was jilted.

The Parks Board has posted a $10 reward for anyone capturing Jill. It would cost the board $110 to replace her.

Canadian Hero Gets Special U.S. Award

AKRON, O., March 30—(AP)—A Canadian hero of the Noronic disaster was announced here Wednesday night as recipient of the Paul W. and Florence B. Litchfield Special Award of Merit.

It was the first time that the heroism award, for employees of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, went to an employee outside the United States.

Don Williamson of the company's Toronto plant, risked his life several times to help rescue 10 of the burning steamship's passengers last September.

Witnesses said that Williamson, on his way home from work at the testing laboratory, heard the whistle, ran to the dock and plunged into the water to aid in rescue work.

Rent Controls Extension Voted Guided By Aide

OTTAWA, March 30 (CP)—A parliamentary assistant won his spurs in the cabinet benches Wednesday.

He was Vancouver's James Sinclair, 41-year-old parliamentary aide to Finance Minister Abbott. Mr. Abbott walked out of the House and left it to him to pilot the government legislation that will extend federal rent controls until March 31, 1951, and then cease.

The bill got final approval after a fighting speech by Mr. Sinclair from the seat Mr. Abbott normally occupies. He mimicked and chided George Drew, Progressive Conservative Leader, tore into arguments from that party and the CCF and buttressed his case with the assertion that not a single Canadian has written the government to protest the rent decision.

Gets Big Hand

The Liberal benches gave him sustained applause after he sat down. Mr. Drew smiled.

Mr. Sinclair's speech was the debating highlight of Wednesday's three-hour sitting but there were other important developments.

Approval was given the government bill to put on a permanent basis the government's powers under the fisheries prices support act to put floor prices under fish. As the measure went through Fisheries Minister Mayhew said with rising voice it might be easier to market a surplus of Newfoundland salt fish if there was less talk about the fact a surplus existed.

Resources Minister Winters tabled a report on the National Film Board that called for extensive changes in its organization and administration. Mr. Winters disclosed that screening of board employees has led to three "separation" by employees whose trustworthiness could not be guaranteed.

Make Regulations Clear

The final stage of the rentals debate brought speeches from Mr. Drew, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and others. Both leaders suggested that the rental regulations should be put into a single, clearly-stated statute.

Mr. Drew said this would clearly define the rights of both landlords and tenants and eliminate some of the "loose" wartime control powers the government was retaining.

Lords Demand Investigate Red Infiltration

LONDON, March 30 —(AP)— The House of Lords Wednesday night demanded continued vigilance against Communism in British public life after Lord Vansittart charged that Reds have infiltrated into Britain's pulpits, school rooms, radio and government.

Without a recorded vote, Parliament's almost-powerless Upper House adopted the Conservative peer's motion calling for continuing and resolute precautions to protect Britain from Communists in the Government.

To support his charges of Communism in Britain's churches, Lord Vansittart cited three members of the Church of England clergy by name. Two denied his charges. The third, Dr. Ewlett Johnson, known as the "Red Dean" of Canterbury, said he would ignore the peer.

The Lord Chancellor, Viscount Jowitt, said all possible steps were being taken to counter subversive activities. Government investigations of suspected Communists and Fascists, he continued, had uncovered only 74 persons to be "dealt with" in 30 months.

Calling Canon Gilbert Cope a "particularly murderous priest," Lord Vansittart said the clergyman in a pamphlet had advocated killing off political opponents and "the distribution of the loot" among the boys who did the job."

Charge Distortions

Canon Cope, in Birmingham, said the peer had "distorted" his writing and misrepresented the facts. He denied he was or had been a Communist.

Lord Vansittart also named the Bishop of Bradford, a fellow member of the House of Lords, who he said had fritten that Russian Communism was delivering Christ's message.

The Bishop, Rt. Rev. Alfred Blunt, who was not present Wednesday night, said later he had resigned from the council of clery aid ministers for common ownership three or four years ago. The council was the predecessor of the present Society of Socialistic Clergy and Ministers.

Lord Vansittart said he did not wish to give the impression "that we are riddled with Communism and that secrets given to us are not to be kept secret."

But 16 Communists have been working for the Department of Inland Revenue, Lord Vansittart asserted. He charged also that Communists were in the Admiralty, the War Office, the Food, Education and Health Departments, and the BBC.

"Holiday Frolic," third annual carnival of the Peterborough Figure Skating Club, will be staged on Saturday at the Civic Arena. There will be a matinee show at 2:30 p.m. and a night show at 8:00 p.m., and officials say, that audiences will need to attend on time since the show is fast-moving and a long one.

More than 150 participants are in the show's cast. The name "Holiday" is taken from the general theme of the offering where mass scenes of skaters will represent various popular holidays such as New Year's, Valentine, St. Patrick's and so forth.

Interspersed with the mass numbers will be various features. The skating Morrisons of the Toronto Skating Club, outstanding ice acrobat Rudy Lyman of the Oshawa Skating Club and Miss J. Byers, Peterborough Club, instructress and formerly of the Sudbury Club, are some of the leading attractions.

Supervise Show

Originators of the Peterborough Club, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ferguson, have been responsible, in great measure, for the supervision of the Holiday Frolic, say members of the executive.

The busiest committee has been that to do with costuming and Mrs. C. J. Ruth, Mrs. Ralph Standish, and Mrs. Russell Morgan and four helpers have worked for the many past months on the necessary 250 changes of costumes.

Officials give great credit also to Mrs. Grace Simpson, secretary, who has handled the great time-consuming job of the business end of the Frolic.

Other busy executives are chairman Albert Galoska, club pro: Miss Byers, vice-president-publicity Clare Collins, vice-president-treasurer Ken Wilson and property man Jim Harkness.

FIT FOR YOUR EYES

Most persons have irregularities in face and figure that contribute to character and individuality but often create a problem in the fitting of wearing apparel.

This fact also holds true of more obscure and serious conditions, such as in the visual system. Corrections for vision differ in millions of ways, so it is vital that your most precious possession, your eyes, receive the precise, individual care and correction they require.

An examination determines the prescription that will afford your individual eyes the greatest comfort.

The slightest error in skilfully interpreting and compounding this prescription may result in more harm than good. The adapting of the lenses and the necessary measurements of facial contours must be critically considered in order that the completed glasses may do the most for your vision, your comfort and your appearance.

But even the smartest spectacles can fail to fulfil their real function unless they are scientifically positioned, centred and aligned before the eyes. Remember, no matter how your glasses are designed, they are little more than bent metal and pieces of glass unless they accurately interpret your prescription, and then only if they are adjusted in accordance with your individual facial contours and the requirements of your prescription.

Budgetary Equilibrium

The Budget was brought down Tuesday evening with neither a bang nor a whimper. It was the quietest one in years, and people expected no noise; in fact, there was so little excitement of anticipation that most Canadians knew neither the day nor the hour of its coming. This is a contrast with the decade before 1945 when they waited in suspense for the disturbing news it would bring of more taxes or greater deficits, and in contrast with even last year when tax-payers, knowing to the minute when Mr. Abbott would rise to deliver his speech, were breathless with anticipation of new tax cuts. This year only the unthinking expected large taxation changes and a bonanza surplus.

* * *

This is a time when the country is financially on even keel. The days of the large surpluses are over. There are no overstuffed Treasury money-bags to tempt people into hopes of large taxation reductions. The surplus was $111,000,000, which is not large in comparison with other surpluses in the last five years, nor is it large compared with the national expenditure for the year, $2,438,000,000. The estimated surplus for 1950-51 is only twenty million dollars. The nation's business is therefore in equilibrium. There is no deficit, nor any foreseen calamitous turn in affairs which would make the imposition of new and higher taxes necessary.

* * *

The chief taxation change, and it is minor, is the removal of the eight per cent. sales tax on ice cream and chocolate milk. This is a two million dollar sop to the dairy industry which felt itself discriminated against last year when the tax was removed from pop. Chocolate milk is a soft drink too, it is claimed. The two million dollar concession is not likely to reach the chocolate milk drinkers. The bottles have already been reduced in size to allow the drink to be sold for a profit at five cents, with the sales tax. It is not conceivable that the industry will now throw away all its new small bottles and get bigger ones, merely to give the consumers more for their money.

* * *

The popular lack of interest in the budget is an indication of a calmly satisfactory state of affairs. The revenue from taxation next year is based on a Departmental assumption that consumer prices will fall slightly during the year and that employment will rise slightly; an encouraging estimate.

Is St. Laurent Going To Quit?

Whitehall flatly denied the other day, in response to "persistent overseas speculation" that Sir Stafford Cripps is resigning as Chancellor of the Exchequer. That statement made headlines. Yet what was it? Some correspondent short of news, or some opposition newspaper wishing to embarrass the Government, puts out a rumour, then runs to Sir Stafford or somebody in authority, and says: "It is true that you are resigning?" If the statement is not denied, the rumor-inventor has a real item of news; if it is brushed off, he can say, "Cripps refuses to answer . . . What is in the wind?" When the rumour is denied, there is still a tid-bit, and also a disturbance in the public mind.

Questions can be so phrased that whatever the answer, the person answering is implicated adversely. For instance, any ordinary, even meek, person can be embarrassed by this question: "Have you left off beating your wife?" What answer can he give which does not reflect badly on him? Some questions should never be put, and we think the one asking Sir Stafford if he were going to resign was one of them. We withdraw, of course, the question with which we headed this comment. We have no intention of starting a rumour.

The Home And The Classroom

Many readers will be apt to smile when they read the solemn declaration of a Toronto child guidance clinic that "The home life of the pupil has a profound influence on his progress at school." This appears to be a glimpse of the obvious. Yet, obvious as it may be to many people who are accustomed to think of education in a general and reasonably well-informed way, it is anything but obvious to hundreds of thousands of parents who apparently never think of education as having anything at all to do with themselves.

A child who is unhappy at home is unlikely to make a good pupil at school. To a greater degree than we often realize, the home is the very hub of the universe to a child. If the home is an unhappy place the child cannot be happy. If the parents are divided and allow the child to know it (and as children are acute in such matters it is virtually impossible to conceal a rift from them) the child will side with one parent against the other, or in some pitiable cases will find himself a feeble third party in a dispute which he cannot understand. If the parents are depressed, miserable people, at odds with the world and discontented with their place in it, the child cannot help but be infected with their attitudes and beliefs. It is untrue to say that the child of an unhappy home has no chance in life, but it is quite fair to say that he has heavy odds against him.

A happy home may take many forms. Money alone will not create happiness, nor will poverty destroy it. Unusual intelligence or a cultivated background in the family is not essential to happiness, although it is observable that people with wide interests and lively curiosity are usually happier than those who lack these things. Discipline in a happy home may be slack, and the children may be "spoiled", or the discipline may be strict. There is no infallible recipe for creating happiness in the home. But the quality of happiness is unmistakeable, and the children who have grown up in it are unmistakable, as well.

The feeling in a happy home is one of security, and love; the child of a happy home has his place in the sun; he is never alone in the world. He has his ups and downs, his fears and his spells of bad behaviour, but he stands upon firm ground. It is the children who feeling the ground sinking beneath their feet who so often come to grief and often, paradoxically, to the surprise of their parents, who have never known, and probably never will know, what is wrong.

Shovel Your Own Peterborough Walk?

Several correspondents have suggested that Peterborough abandon its practice of snow-ploughing the sidewalks, and make the house and store occupants individually responsible for clearing the section of the walk fronting their building. Their reasons are various: it would take the item off the rates, would be cheaper, would be done more promptly and efficiently than now. Whether these reasons are sound or not we cannot agree with the proposal because it is unworkable and cannot be enforced.

Toronto and Kingston make it legally compulsory that residents clear their fronting walks, and Kingston and Toronto streets in winter are in worse snow, slush and ice conditions generally than Peterborough's ever are. Can a civic ordinance force an elderly pensioner to shovel off his own walk, or pay a boy a dollar for doing it? Can it force a church to require its only caretaker to lift cubic yards of snow from the hundreds of feet of city sidewalk bordering the church's corner lot?

Of all taxes they pay, citizens get the best and most numerous values for their money from municipal rates. They get good value for their money even from the city snow-ploughing. Last winter it cost $7,744.19 to keep all the city sidewalks ploughed. (It was not an unusually cheap year, even though the winter was open, for contracts are let and equipment purchased before the Council knows what kind of winter we are to have.) There are 9,059 "dwelling units" —that is, houses and apartments—in Peterborough. Therefore the cost to each family of having the walks cleared all through the winter was only 85 cents. Sanding the walks last winter was, by the way, more costly than snow-clearing; $8,942.22—a financial comment on last winter's conditions.

Import or Slump Cry In U.S.A.

By NORA BELOFF
In New York

THE National Association of Manufacturers (N.A.M.), foremost business organization in the United States, has sounded the trumpets of free trade. A meeting was held this week in New York assembling six hundred industrialists to develop the theme "import or slump". I understand this will be the first of a series of meetings which the N.A.M plans to organize in all the major industrial cities with the purpose of battering down the resistance of the business world to the encroachments of foreign competition.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE Association's initiative is a radical departure from its own conservative and protectionist tradition. American farmers and cotton growers have always had an interest in stimulating a high level of foreign trade in order to dispose of their own surpluses abroad. American manufacturers, on the other hand, have a protectionist tradition which is still very much alive and kicking.

❖ ❖ ❖

THERE are plenty of individual industrialists today who feel disinclined to submit themselves to the blasts of foreign competition. On their side is America's high tariff system instituted and administered to discourage foreigners from poaching on the American market. Although Bills now before Congress would tend to simplify customs procedure the habits and behaviour acquired by U.S. customs officers over a period of years will be slow to alter.

❖ ❖ ❖

PROTECTIONIST businessmen also enjoy the support of a large number of trade unions who fear that the high American living standards may be threatened by an influx of the products of cheaper foreign labour. They also employ some of the most effective lobbyists on Capitol Hill and command the unswerving loyalty of the most vociferous though no longer most influential or numerous group of Senators and Congressmen. For these reasons they have succeeded in spreading defeatism and despondency among all foreign producers who have seriously attempted to scale the barriers into the American markets.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE defection of the N.A.M. leaders is probably the biggest blow to protectionist interests since their failure to elect a Republican President. The import target adopted by the N.A.M. following the advice of economists and consultants is to reach the figure of 14,000 million dollars—4,000 million more than the current figure—by 1952. Assuming business continues prosperous and American output rises in the anticipated curve, this would bring imports to five per cent. of the total of American national production: a proportion which was last attained in 1920 and which the N.A.M. leaders believe to be consistent with domestic prosperity.

❖ ❖ ❖

EXPERTS have estimated that 4,000 million dollars could be earned by the outside world through invisible exports, mainly shipping and tourism, leaving 10,000 millions to be earned through the promotion of exports to the U.S. They break down this figure into the following items:

	Millions of dollars
Semi-manufactures	2,400
Finished manufactures	2,500
Crude products	2,300
Crude foodstuffs	1,300
Manufactured foods	1,500
Total	10,000

❖ ❖ ❖

THE arguments which the N.A.M. leaders hope to convey to the mass of American businessmen in their campaign, which was launched with steaks and champagne in a New York hotel this week, are relatively simple. They were summed up by one of the N.A.M.'s most successful big businessmen, Curtis Calder, chairman of the Electric Bond and Share Company, who told the meeting: "The question to which we must find an answer is how can we maintain a high volume of exports and get paid for them".

❖ ❖ ❖

BUSINESS leaders here are now aware that with E.R.P. (European Recovery Programme) tapering off, either the Europeans must be able to earn and borrow dollars or else American export industries are heading for a crash which might drag other sectors of the economy into a general recession. It is officially estimated that two million workers in American industry depend for their jobs on such export trade.

❖ ❖ ❖

CALDER and other businessmen with vast international interests believe that private business investment must take the place of Government-sponsored grants and loans which the American taxpayer is plainly unwilling to finance indefinitely. This, Calder told the N.A.M. group, is impractical unless foreign countries are able to earn dollars not only to pay for their current needs but also to pay the interest on American dollar loans. The N.A.M. has estimated that 2,000 million dollars would be available for foreign lending by American businessmen by 1952, but it is plain that they will not lend unless there is a good prospect of receiving interest paid in dollars.

❖ ❖ ❖

THESE are the facts which have swung the National Association of Manufacturers into their imports drive. For once in full accord with President Truman's Democratic Administration, the N.A.M. this week started a vigorous onslaught on the protectionist apparatus and protectionist habits of the American people.

Poor Man's 'Ivory' Chopsticks

A firm in Britain is manufacturing plastic chopsticks and shipping them in hundreds of thousands to the Orient. The plastic used is said to resemble the ivory of the chopsticks used by the wealthier families. The poor man who has hitherto had to use unsanitary, bamboo sticks, will surely welcome this new product. The firm will be showing samples of their chopsticks along with their other plastic wares at the British Industries Fair in May.

Letters To The Editors

JOB FOR PROVINCIAL POLICE

Sir: I have dwelt in the city and I have dwelt in the country. I have come to admire the people of both places. I feel sure that the grievance I am about to express will be of great interest to both these groups.

Perhaps you have noticed that every spring large quantities of garbage are dumped along the country roads outside of Peterborough? That such a condition could exist, that such defilement of nature could be allowed, grieves me deeply.

Is not the countryside around Peterborough the most beautiful in the world? Why then should citizens of this county seek to destroy this beauty?

Perhaps you feel that outsiders are to blame. This cannot be the case. No one is going to drive many miles to dispose of rubbish that can be dumped in proper places near their home. The culprits involved are local characters. Who then are they? There is only one logical answer. It is not the city dweller for two reasons. He has only to set his garbage outside his front door and it is taken away and besides the average city dweller loves to get out for a drive in the country. He wouldn't spoil his own pleasure.

It is not the farmer either. He lives in the country and loves nature. He would no more spoil her beauty than a city dweller would spoil his front lawn. Besides the country dweller knows that blowing paper can cause dangerous runaways.

This only leaves a small section of the local populace, that group of urban dwellers who have turned rural to escape city taxes. These people live in clusters of houses all around the city. They hate the country because of its inconveniences and hence do not hesitate to mar her beauty.

Why are these people allowed to discard their rubbish in this manner? Only last night some member of this group dumped a huge plywood box of rubbish on the second line of Smith not two miles from the city. This rubbish is an unsightly mess of blowing papers, tattered pieces of carpet, old car tubes, tin cans and such like trash. It is most certainly an unsightly mess. I only mention this case to show that this seasonal dumping has started once more.

Perhaps the police could trace this rubbish? I am sure that one culprit caught and fined would be a large step in stopping this trouble. What about it officers? Is the job beyond your powers?

Yours sincerely,
A LOVER OF NATURE.

HOW TO OVERCOME APATHY

Sir: May I agree with Virgo's suggestion that more political enthusiasm should be created in Canadians, but as stated by E.G. in your column of March 25. This could be accomplished with far more satisfactory results by political education rather than by pressure brought to bear on the individual.

The question of how to stimulate interest in those who are merely indifferent, points to the underlying causes of such indifference. The time is past when we will blindly follow the politics of our fathers without serious thought as to their application to our own problems. Nor can our faith in any party be established merely by promissory platform speeches if we have no previously proven confidence that these will be executed, or that the representative chosen will be aggressive enough to work in our best interests, come what may. Of course it is more sensible not to vote at all, than to cast our ballot in indecision,—or worse still, to turn to a third or fourth choice in our ignorance, and do more harm than good.

With thousands of young Canadians plunged into years of war before their power to vote had become an established fact in their lives, it is natural to suppose that their interests in politics remained undeveloped and totally submerged in the sheer struggle for personal survival, both physically and economically speaking. The over-all picture both during, and since, the war has left most of us with the impression that our individual opinions are of no consequence in influencing legislative bodies once they are in power, and we tend to accept new laws and reforms as inevitable and beyond our power to modify between election dates.

How to overcome this apathy and stimulate citizenship, except by some manner of education? A child must learn to creep before it can walk, and so in politics, to arouse more interest in municipal affairs would form the first step. One has only to investigate the lack of response in the recent municipal elections to realize that much of it is due to the large percentage of newcomers in any community who are totally unfamiliar with the leaders nominated, and their capabilities to act judiciously. Only by the stands they take on matters of local importance are we to know them better.

Many of our smalltime "beefs" directed at times through the medium of your column, Sir, are not done with malicious intent, or to stir up trouble. On the contrary, they are an attempt to stimulate public interest in minor items affecting the masses, and to encourage the habit of a more representative voice in community affairs. If success is met frequently in petitions of this sort, is it not logical to envision the gradual development of a more widely-spread individual interest in national affairs, and more confidence in the united voice of the people to influence them for mutual good? Now is not the time for discrimination, or intellectual snobbishness.

Yours truly,
ONE OF THE UNEDUCATED.

THE MOROSE AND CRABBED

Sir: Some time ago, I was asked to define what was meant by a "Well integrated life"—and I hope this will serve to answer the question fully.

A well integrated life does not mean a placid life, and men of character know this well. These are the men you can count on at all times. Their ideas are no mere "Will O' The Wisp" but can be counted on to possess a unified pattern of thought, and action, that gives coherence to everything they do.

There is no need to mention names. We know many outstanding celebrities, take the heads of the United Nations—and oh so many others, too numerous to mention, who lead a "Well integrated life". Then on the other hand, we know, there are those who act out of character, people who think only of themselves — Selfish, Stubborn, Unreliable — in word and deed. Parasites, who have no such equality as courtesy. We all know them—Morose-Uncivil-Crabbed-and Sulky — even toward those most close to them. Those who in war time would be called traitors—who do not know the meaning of a Well integrated life.

At the best, a person completely wrapped up in himself—makes a small parcel. I read some time ago, of a daughter who complained to her mother about her hardship. The mother's reply was, "See here, I gave you life, that is about all you can expect from me. Now see what you can do with it, and stop complaining." But to get back to those who lead a Well integrated life.

There is a time when such arrives at the conviction, that he must take himself, for better, for worse—as his portion, and realizes that egocentricity is ruinous to real personality. Our most intimate desire, should be, to be a real person. To fail at that, is to fail altogether—but to lead a Well integrated life, is to succeed beautifully — and one of the strongest motives in such, is the love of danger. When hazards are not present, they go looking for them. To stand up to a hazardous situation. To show no fear in the battle of life—is a healthy, inspiring experience, that comes to those who lead a "Well integrated life".

Very truly yours,
HAROLD GILBERT.

ST. PATRICK AGAIN

Sir: Like Historian I have often been amused by Russians claiming to have invented the telephone and other marvels, which have, as we all know really been invented by Scotsmen.

There, however, my agreement with Historian terminates, as I have no wish or need to re-invent St. Patrick.

Historian admits that his knowledge of St. Patrick's birthplace is founded on the Encyclopedia Britannica. If my unbelieving friend will take another look at that source of wisdom he will find that the Encyclopedia is rather indefinite on the subject, and may I now be permitted to give the source of my observations?

I do not wish to take too much space on this subject, but here are a few names of publications which are in absolute agreement with me:

1 The Reader's Encyclopedia.
2 The Encyclopedia of Religion.
3 Chamber's Encyclopedia.
4 Harmsworth's Encyclopedia.
5 The Catholic Digest.
6 The Catholic Dictionary.
7 The Encyclopedia Americana.
8 The Catholic Encyclopedia.
9 Collins' New University Encyclopedia.
10 American University Encyclopedia.

There are many more, but that will give Historian some idea of what authority I based my letter on. I believe all except one of these books are in the city library.

Finally, Historian tries to make capital from the fact that Strathclyde was not Christianized at that time. I agree again with my learned opponent.

St. Patrick's father was a Roman Deacon, his name being Calphurnius, and this gentleman was born in England. The Saint's mother was named Conchessa, and she was of British origin, but neither of these points alters the fact that St. Patrick himself was born at Kilpatrick, near Dumbarton.

Kilpatrick still retains many memories of the Saint, and regular pilgrimages took place to this spot right up to the Middle Ages.

Yours, etc.,
J. GILCHRIST.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Isreal, and with the house of Judah: not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt: which my covenant they brake, although I was an husband unto them, saith the Lord: but this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel: After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people.

And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord. (Jer. 31: 31-34.)

And I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God.... And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power: that your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God. (I Cor. 2: 1, 4, 5:)

Will Start Seeding Soon Late Snow Improves Soil

By The Canadian Press

With seeding operations due to start within a few weeks, snow still covers much Canadian farmland and is expected to play a major role in 1950 crop prospects.

Soil conditions are generally good, a Canadian Press survey shows. Late snow gets much credit for this. In the west, the snow not only provided much-needed moisture, but also protected the soil from heavy frost damage.

Ontario and Quebec farmers feared that lack of snow during the early part of the winter would leave the soil too dry. But late heavy falls have changed the picture.

Seed Late in B. C.

British Columbia farmers, hard hit by unusually severe winter conditions, report considerable snow and the strong possibility that seeding will be late. Seventy per cent of B. C.'s 2,500,000-bushel wheat crop is earmarked for the rich peace river country. Total acreage of wheat, oats and barley may run from 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 bushels.

Alberta farmers plan to devote more land to wheat than last year's 7,600,000 acres. If spring is late, some land will be used for summer fallow. Acreage sown to oats will likely equal last year's 2,500,000 and barley is again expected to fill 2,000,000 acres. Some 100,000 acres of new land is expected to be broken.

Ideal seeding conditions exist in most sections of Saskatchewan except for an area in the northern part of the province where deep frost penetration is expected to cut 500,000 acres from last year's 15,737,000 wheat acreage.

A good reserve of soil moisture in Manitoba at the start of winter has been supplemented by heavy snow which is expected to keep the land good until seeding. Farmers plan about the same amount of wheat as last year but flax, barley and oats acreages are expected to be up.

Conditions are normal throughout Ontario. Farmers intend to start seeding 200,000,000 bushels of grain—an increase of 35,000,000 over 1949—about mid-April.

Hay and pasture crops will be reduced due to a drought during the late summer and fall of 1949. Eastern and Northern Ontario farmers plan to increase corn acreage; hay and silage again will be important crops.

Tobacco Crop Cut

A prospect of low prices is causing a cut in Ontario tobacco planting but turnip growers hope to take advantage of increases in both domestic and export possibilities.

Potato seeding in Quebec is expected to be down 20 to 30 per cent from 1949's 160,000 acres because much of last year's 12,800,000-bushel crop was unsold. Tobacco growers will cut their acreage a drastic 50 per cent owing to poor market prospects.

Nova Scotia farmers, thanks to a plentiful year-'round rainfall, plan the usual crops of 400,000 to 430,000 acres of hay and clover 60,000 to 70,000 of oats and 20,000 to 23,000 of potatoes.

Potatoes Cut

In New Brunswick acreage of potatoes, the province's major cash crop—a $20,000,000 industry—is expected to be down.

Prince Edward Island, famed for potatoes, likely will seed a smaller potato crop this year than last.

In Newfoundland, where farming is a minor industry, acreage sown will be unchanged. The crop consists chiefly of such vegetables as potatoes, turnips and carrots.

Urges Radio Promote Conservation Program

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 30 (CP)—The Rev. Norman Rawson of Hamilton Wednesday urged Canadian radio operators to wage an all-out campaign for a national conservation program to protect Canada's natural resources.

The United Church of Canada minister made his appeal in a luncheon address to delegates at the 25th annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

Deploring as a "national calamity" what he termed the "wastage of our forest heritage in northern Ontario," he said he personally would continue to campaign for full implementation of a recent royal commission forestry report.

Sam Cuff, television consultant from New York, estimated minimum cost of initial television operation, with skeleton equipment, at $75,000. Cameras and mobile equipment would run the cost to upwards of $100,000.

He spoke during a TV forum under chairmanship of Malcolm Neill of station CFNB, Fredericton.

Pogo Sick Race Walk The Plank 'Consequences'

HOLLYWOOD, March 30 (AP)—Ralph Edwards is celebrating 10 years of squirting seltzer water in the face of the United States.

Just a decade ago, a bright young radio announcer went on the air in New York with a show called "Truth or Consequences." The gimmick was that the contestant suffered dire results if he failed to answer a question correctly.

The truth element "went by the window eight years ago" Edwards admits. But the consequences have kept the show in the top ratings and its operator in a top income bracket.

The Stunts

Among the "T or C" stunts:

Filling New York's Town Hall to hear the violin concert of Yiffnuff, who turned out to be a housewife contestant who had never touched a violin.

Racing a man on a pogo stick from the Los Angles International Airport to City Hall against another person who had to fly around the world first. (The pogo stick man won).

Making a man live on a traffic island at a busy intersection for three weeks.

Started in 1940

Edwards trail of nonsense began in 1940. His first contestant was a sailor who had to act out the role of a grocer clerk with a lollypop in his mouth. The gob won $5 for his trouble.

The "T. or C." prizes have so mounted that the winner of a recent contest took $25,000 in cash and a similar amount of merchandise. Edwards claims to have raised $8,000,000 for the heart, cancer, polio, mental health and other funds and to have helped sell $500,000,000 worth of war bonds.

Edwards has been speechless only once during the decade.

"I had just made a contestant walk the plank, 'pirate-style,'" he recalled. "I leaned over the tank to interview him as he came out and he gave me a tug. Into the water I went, microphone, watch, wallet, tuxedo and all."

U.S. Power Co. Asks For Merger

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 30 — (AP)—The Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation Wednesday petitioned the United States Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Power Commission and the State Public Service Commission for permission to consolidate with the Niagara Falls Power Company, a subsidiary.

A. T. O'Neill of Buffalo, president of Niagara Falls Power, said the merger would result in no changes in operation of his company.

"The reason for the merger application are a desire to complete the simplification of the Niagara Mohawk System and to prepare for an enlarged power development program that would be authorized by the recently-announced Niagara water diversion treaty with Canada," said O'Neill.

Niagara Falls Power was not included in the merger of Niagara Hudson's principal operating subsidiaries which resulted in the formation of Niagara Mohawk.

Canadian Niagara Power Company, at present a direct subsidiary of the Niagara Falls Power Company, would become a direct subsidiary of Niagara Mohawk under the proposed merger.

Student Killed

SASKATOON, March 30 (CP)—A light plane crashed Wednesday in hilly country south of here, killing a young woman passenger and injuring the pilot. The plane, owned by the Saskatoon Flying Club, was piloted by Par Fletcher, Regina golf professional. The passenger was Jacqueline Phillips, a student nurse at Saskatoon Hospital.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Though we're a long-distance Detroit hockey fan, we disagree with the Wings' claims that Ted Kennedy deliberately tried to injure Howe in the game the other night. Didn't see the affair, of course, and wouldn't put it past some of the Leafs—as well as members of other clubs—but Kennedy isn't the type. A classy game player, Teeder might certainly try to soften up an opponent in an important game, but he'd do it legitimately. That is part of hockey and why a stiff bodycheck is quite legal. Ted has never been considered a dirty player and we doubt very much if he intends to start being one now.

* * * * * *

A certain amount of deliberate stuff shows at times in hockey, and we saw incidents here the past winter in Petes-Legion games. Not many real nasty cases, but a few, where a guy would try to injure an opponent. Like trying to hit him in the face with a stick. We warned the opponents several times in this column that a man could be blinded easily that way—yet it happened two or three times afterward. But there isn't much of that stuff in sport, thank goodness. There shouldn't be any. A player caught trying to injure another should be given a match penalty and automatic suspension—making him appear before the OHA ere he is again allowed to play.

Those "Fighting 52nds"

Legionnaires were back to top form last night and laced Markham 6-1 to go one up in their series. Now have three wins in five games of this best-of-seven serial. They go to Oshawa on Saturday and back here, if necessary, on Monday. Yes, Jim Ellis had his charges in the right mood and that touch of strategy—flooding the ice between periods—didn't hurt the speedy Legion crew any, either. They figure, on fast going, they can outstep the Millionaires, who are by no means slow, either. It seemed to work, but of course that old fighting, hungry spirit is the real answer to Legionnaires' success. It was quite apparent last night. They were trying to make it 7-1 at the gong.

* * * * * *

All looked good, but we always like the scrappy spirit of Bert Hill. And Reg Stewart was battling last night. Ditto Bob Parnell and Dootch Vitarelli. Another one who never quits trying is Doug Mortimer—and he led in scoring, as well as penalties. But then, none of the locals are the curling-up kind, nor the loitering type. Not when they really want to win. And they sure do in this series. Markham battled back hard and will be plenty tough in Oshawa again, but we think Legion will rub 'em out now—and quite possibly Saturday. A display in Oshawa like that here last eve by Legion, and the series will be over this week.

Marines Head North

Let's see the basketball setup locally. Marines are off for the Soo to open their best-of-three finals for the all-Ontario intermediate "A" championship. Last e'en in Stratford, our Towne Togs faded after a 12-11 first half to lose out 41-19, and now face a 22-point deficit in their return LOBA two-game intermediate "B" final here next week. Joan Dunk and Ruth Hewitt led the Togs while Dot Callan and Jean Vass went well defensively, but the team will have to hustle plenty to overcome that lead. In the YW loop this Friday at eight, Black's meet CGE in the second intermediate final (two out of three), Black's winning the first. At nine, Neill's play Nurses Srs. the second of their two-of-three senior finals, with Neill's one up.

Bill Thistlewaite, local long distance runner, is ahead on the 1950 Harriers Club track schedule by more than 12 points over his nearest rivals. McNeil, Flowers and Brown are all bunched for second place with 10 points each, with J. Martin back in third slot with 4½ points. A couple of others trail him. That's the position at the end of the indoor season which saw two new records established here and a former track record broken. Harriers are now preparing for outdoor spring training and will hold a full club meeting this coming Monday at the YMCA. It is open to everyone interested.

PUNCH LINE—Alan McFater demonstrates for Jack Dempsey, and the old champion says the Toronto lad won't let him down.

Dempsey Tabs McFater Coming Welter Champion

TORONTO (NEA). — Jack Dempsey rates 19-year-old Alan McFater as a coming welterweight champion.

After only seven professional fights, young McFater is the biggest ring attraction in Toronto. Limited to eight-round bouts because of his age, he regularly draws gates of up to $12,000. He had 40 amateur matches.

McFater twice outpointed Jean Richard, the Canadian feather champion who has boxed as a lightweight the past year. Ricnard dropped a decision to Ray Famechnon, the French feather ruler, in London six months back.

"McFater is an old-fashioned body puncher," says Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion who drops into Toronto to see the youngster every chance he gets. "He throws a left hook after the fashion of Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle."

McFater, a good-looking kid with freckles, a slightly-pugged nose and wavy hair, now boxes at from 133 to 135 pounds, should be a welter in a year. He is of Irish-Scotch descent, a student at a Toronto business school. He is managed by the veteran promoter-handler, Jack Allen.

Alan McFater is to be taken along easily, and from all accounts, he'll be something to see when they torn him loose.

Stratford Gets First Against Togs

STRATFORD, March 30—The Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association team from Stratford YWCA took a huge strike towards the intermediate title here Wednesday night in the Stratford Collegiate gym. When they ripped down the floor in the second half to slowly pull away and rack up a 41-19 trouncing over Peterborough Towne Togs, Stratford thus takes a 22-point lead into the second game of the two-game, total points series, the date of which is yet to be settled.

During the first half of the tilt Peterborough was in the battle all the way, with neither team being able to get away to any sizeable lead. The score at the half was 12-11 in favor of the home quintette—a half that saw very close checking by both teams.

The Stratford "big guns" went to work in the second half. Rita Butler took command on the scoring parade when she dumped in 11 points in the final period including five baskets—all on lay-up shots—and a foul shot. Kaye Johnston swished the hoop for a total of seven points in the final stanza, five of them on foul shots, while Shirley Gladding, the steadiest performer on the floor, racked up 11 points as well as playing a heads-up defensive tilt.

Joan Dunk was high scorer for Peterborough with seven, and she also gave forth with a good all-round display. Ruth Hewitt was next in line with six points. Dot Callan was very steady on the defence for the visiting crew as was Jean Vass.

The skirmish was played at a fast pace throughout, with Stratford having the edge both in shooting and in drive, particularly in the final half. The only period in which Peterborough had the edge was in the second, when they outscored Stratford 6-4.

Peterborough—Ruth Hewitt 6, Dot Callan 2, Marg Freeman 2, Marg Kennedy, Joan Dunk 7, Jean Vass 1, Dorothy Saunders, Marg Freeman, Jean Castle 1, Polly Stewart.

Stratford—Kaye Johnston 9, Dorothy Johnston 5, Rita Butler 11, Ruth Madden, Lois Pope, Helen Pogson, Shirley Gladding 11, Doreen Mulford 3, Dorothy Gladding 2, Vivian Sandey.

Referees, Jim Miller, Bob Burt.

LEADING SCORER — Ted Lindsay, of the NHL champion Detroit Red Wings, has captured the Art Ross Trophy as the top point-getter this year. The Renfrew native, with 23 goals and a record 55 assists, amassed 78 points, nine more than his linemate Sid Abel who was in second place. Detroit is banking heavily on this pair to help them take the Stanley Cup.

ON INJURED LIST—Gordie Howe, brilliant 22-year-old right-winger with the Detroit Red Wings, will be lost to the NHL champions during the crucial Stanley Cup playoff series with Toronto Maple Leafs following serious head injury suffered during the first game of the series in Detroit Tuesday night. An emergency brain operation was performed after the young player was rushed to the hospital following a crash into the boards.

Garza The Winner

At Detroit, Joe Garza, 148¼, Detroit, Wednesday night knocked out Harry Goulding, 145¼, Oshawa, in the last round of a scheduled four-round bout. In another four-rounder, Mickey Warner, 133, Windsor, Ont., won a decision over Charley Terrana, 134¼, Detroit.

Legionnaires Move One Up With Neat 6-1 Triumph

Trouncing Markham Millionaires 6-1 here before more than 2,000 fans last night, the local Legionnaires took a game edge in the fifth tilt of their best-of-seven OHA senior "B" playdown series. They resume in Oshawa on Saturday and here again Monday, if necessary. With the ice flooded between periods, the speedy Legion crew flew all the way to earn the decision handily, having a 1-0 margin in the first, leading 3-1 to end the second and rapping home three goals without a comeback in the third of a clean contest.

Toodie Greenlaw got two goals for Legion, with singles each going to Johnny Godfrey, Dootch Vitarelli, Bob Parnell and Bill Crowley. Doug Mortimer had three assists, Parnell and Vitarelli each aiding on a goal and Montgomery helping once. Sluce scored the lone marker for the Millionaires in the second, with Perry drawing the assist.

Really Stepped

All the Ellis outfit were tramping hard throughout in this important game—possibly the real payoff fray of the lot, as Legion now have to win but one of the next two to rub out Markham. They showed their old hustle, fighting hard for that puck every minute, back-checking furiously, and still pouring in hungrily for more goals with a sizeable lead in the dying minutes. Nicholls was good again in goal, back of a strong defence. Up front, Vitahelli, Parnell, Greenlaw, Hill and Stewart stood out, with the rest of their mates almost as good. It was Legion at its best in a fast-skating fray.

Markham didn't quit, but kept battling bitterly right down to the wire. They had an edge in play for a good part in the first frame, and they had many close-in chances in the second and third. But they were checked closely and outplayed handily over the route. The game was clean enough but threatened a few times in the third to roughen up, though no damage was done.

Close Checking

Markham bore in for a time in the first till Fred Scott went off for tripping. He was back and Legion took a turn whamming rubber at Stunden but both sides checked carefully and closely and there weren't too many real scoring chances this chukker. Play was fast and generally pretty even, the Legion first line twice nearly counting on neat tries. Greenlaw finally dented the hemp late in the stanza when he tipped in Doug Mortimer's shot after a pass from Montgomery. The latter went over then for interference but Markham were held well in check during his absence.

Fred Mortimer was hurt in the second but returned later, and twice fans were hit by flying pucks. Doug Mortimer drew an interference penalty but there was no pressure before his return. Sluce tide the score then when he took Perry's angle pass fairly close in and slammed the disc into the far corner of the cage. Legion roared back then in fighting style and took the lead again when Godfrey whistled Doug Mortimer's pass in from outside defence on a partially screened play in a gang-up act. The Hill line pressed and then Rochetta and Crowley were thefted at the goal-mouth. Greenlaw slapped home Parnell's pass-out at point-blank range to make it 3-1 just before Clement drew a trip for tripping near the finish of the frame.

A Solo Job

Vitarelli sashayed in alone to blaze a hot angle drive into the cord early in the third and it was 4-1. Parnell came close and then Brennan was robbed by Nicholls. Crowley and Perry roughed it slightly and drew minors. They returned and Doug Mortimer hit the trail again for hooking. While short, Legion tallied another, Parnell fighting up after a puck in a Markham corner and then backhanding it home from an almost impossible angle, shocking the goalie considerably. Clement later got the nod for tripping and Crowley counted the final one, tipping in a drive by Doug Mortimer on a pass-back from Dootch Vitarelli. Burns hit the sin bin next for interference, followed by Doug Mortimer and Perry for some high-sticking and angry looks, with Clement joining the gang just before the gong for tripping, as Legion kept pressing in.

Markham. Goal, Stunden; defence, G. Scott and F. Scott; centre, Singleton; wings, Brennan and Bell; alternates, Sluce, Watson, Jewett, B. Forgie, Rumney, Baker, Perry and Clement.

Legion. Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnell, F. Mortimer, Greenlaw, Hill, Stewart, Coombs, D. Mortimer and Montgomery.

Referees, M. Walsh and A. Wood of Toronto.

Howe Improved But Wings Now Underdogs

DETROIT, March 30 (CP) — Absence of the injured Gordie Howe cast Detroit Red Wings in the role of underdogs today as they prepared for the second game of the Stanley Cup semi-finals against Toronto Maple Leafs tonight. Toronto won the first game of the best-of-seven set 5-0 Tuesday.

Howe, who suffered a severe head injury during the opening game, was reported showing more improvement at Harper Hospital. Spokesmen for the Detroit team said the 21-year-old ace winger had made considerable progress following an emergency brain operation early Wednesday.

The operation relieved pressure which physicians had described as a threat to Howe's life. He also suffered a nose fracture, cheek fracture and eye lacerations in the Tuesday night incident.

Campbell Discounts Charges

Red Wings' coach Tommy Ivan charged immediately after the game that Howe had been butted by the stick of Toronto's Ted Kennedy but Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, discounted such charges Wednesday after conferring with the officials who handled the game.

Campbell said his preliminary investigation led him to believe that Kennedy was not involved in Howe's accident. He expressed belief the Detroiter suffered the injuries when he rammed the boards while trying to check Kennedy.

The league president voiced criticism of coach Ivan for making "a very vicious charge" against the Leafs and Kennedy. He said "I assume it was made in a fit of anger after the game, because we all get excited at times like that."

Second Operation

Hospital sources indicated there was some question whether Howe would undergo further surgery. One report Wednesday said a second operation was planned to relieve pressure on the brain, but a spokesman for the club said no decision had been made yet on such an operation.

It appeared possible that Joe Carveth would be moved up to the ace forward line, top point-scoring combination in the league, on which Howe served with captain Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay.

Leafs' great centre, Kennedy, himself is a doubtful starter tonight. Before the Howe incident he had crashed into the goal-post and he came out of the game with a severe charley horse.

Rangers Squeeze 3-1 Win In Opener Over Montreal

By AL COLLETTI

NEW YORK, March 30 (CP)—New York's Rangers, an in-and-out team n[illegible] of the season, today loomed as the darkhorse in the Stanley Cup playoffs after their hard-earned 3-1 victory over Montreal Canadiens in the opener of the best-of-seven cup semi-final series.

It was an important game for the Rangers to win. For it put them one up on the Canadiens and placed New York in the driver's seat when the series shifts to Montreal Saturday night for the second game.

The third game will be played at Madison Square Garden Sunday night. After that the circus moves in and the Rangers will play the remainder of the series in Montreal.

Wednesday night a crowd of 13,662, watching the first playoff affair on Garden ice since April 4, 1948, saw the Rangers come from behind to tie the game late in the first period and clinch it with another tally in the middle session. Both goals came while the Canadiens had men in the penalty box.

Five penalties handed out to big Ken Reardon, the all-star Montreal defenceman, led directly to the Canadiens' downfall.

Canadiens Get First

Speedy Norm Dussault put the Canadiens ahead in the eighth minute of the opening session when he scored from close-in during a power play while Fred Shero and Frankie Eddolls, Ranger backliners, were in the penalty box.

The Rangers struck back at 14:40 of the period, Don Raleigh scoring while Reardon and Glen Harmon were in the bastille.

Reardon was serving his fourth minor when Mick Mickoski scored the winning goal at 11:18 of the middle session. Pat Egan, the flying boxcar, completed the scoring in the closing seconds of play when he fired a 50-footer into an unguarded net after Durnan had been yanked out.

Rangers' goalie Chuck Rayner made 30 stops while Durnan, the Vezina Trophy winner, chalked up 23.

Say Blackmail Just Prank, Pair Get Off

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 30—Convicted of attempted blackmail, two youthful members of prominent families were given suspended sentences by Magistrate James McEwen Wednesday. They were Erlyne Traynor, 20, and Edward Pearse, 18. The girl was given a 30-months' suspended sentence, and the youth 18 months.

The court decided that Miss Traynor was chiefly responsible for sending three letters to a local woman demanding $200. Failure to pay would result in the revealing of "embarrassing family secrets," the letters said.

Carrying out directions contained in the letters, the money was taken to a place on the Gros Cap Road and police nabbed the pair when they showed up.

Defense Counsel A. A. Wishart said the whole affair was just a prank by his clients to find out if they could "pull it off without anyone finding out who were involved".

In suspending sentence, Magistrate McEwen said he was taking into consideration the previous good character of the pair.

Killed Self Laughing

CLECKHEATON, Yorkshire, England, March 30 (Reuters) — A man laughed himself to death here after inhaling napthalene fumes. Derek Haley and Allen Downend were pouring naphthalene into a 40-gallon drum in a back garden air raid shelter, half full of water. They became intoxicated by the fumes. Downend collapsed laughing into the water and was drowned.

6 Dozen Pints Beer Stolen At Brewery

LINDSAY, March 30.—It is probable that somewhere in Lindsay or hereabouts, quite a party took place Tuesday night.

Police Chief Webster said that sometime between the hours of six o'clock Tuesday night and nine o'clock Wednesday morning, someone broke into the local brewers' warehouse, making off with six dozen pints of beer. Police say that something else is reported missing and that they are investigating the theft.

Entry was gained by forcing the east cellar window.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Jake Mintz, vociferous manager of the National Boxing Association's heavyweight champion, Ezzard Charles, said Wednesday at Pittsburgh the Cincinnati Negro definitely will defend his title again in June.

"I'm only following the doctor's orders," said Mintz on his return from New York where Charles underwent physical examinations. "They said he could have fought Wednesday night, but there was a chance he would crack that bum rib again and hurt himself for good.

"Naturally, I decided to protect my boy. The doctors said he'll be in first class shape in two months if he had a complete rest and allows that rib and the bruised heart muscle to heal."

St. Catharines Lions won their eighth straight Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile championship by edging Toronto Marlboros 3-1 Wednesday night at Toronto in the second game of a best-of-three series.

Coupled with a 12-0 triumph in the first game, the victory gave the Lions a clean sweep of the series. Sokolowsky was the big gun for the winners with a two-goal performance with the single going to Gora. Taylor was the Toronto sniper.

German Youth Train As Guerrillas, Police

BERLIN, March 30 (AP)—The United States High Commission said Wednesday night East German Communists are training their young boys in guerrilla warfare and Gestapo police methods. The assertion was made in an exhaustive history of the Free German Youth. The study said the movement, established by the Russians in 1945, now has reached a powerful corps of 2,000,000 future guardians of communism.

Awake And Sing "Terrific" Says Adjudicator

TORONTO, March 30 (CP) — For the first time in weeks, Adjudicator Maxwell Wray found no occasion to make any critical notes Wednesday night during "Awake and Sing"—third production of the Central Ontario Drama Festival.

It was, he said: "An absolutely terrific, splendid production of a good play."

The Toronto Belmont Players' presentation of the Clifford Odets play marked the half-way mark of the last regional festival in preparation for the dominion finals at Calgary, May 8-13.

The acting of Sylvia Paige, who won the president's award for the best actress in 1948 in the local festival, was "a performance which held me magnetized the whole time; she gave a superb performance . . . without putting a foot wrong, without being out of place at any time."

It was, he said, a good choice of play—"no hooey art." The cast gave a "remarkably good performance."

As on the previous night, Mr. Wray found fault with the lighting. A lack of foresight was obvious when daylight still streamed through a window when the blind was drawn. The available equipment at Hart House Theatre gave little excuse for sloppy work in this regard. Occasional inaudibility was also criticized.

Ball Club Picks 1950 Officers

HASTINGS, March 30 (ENS)—The Hastings Softball Club met at the Memorial Centre and elected the following slate of officers for the coming season:

President, Robt. Scriver; vice-president, J. R. Jones; secretary, M. A. O'Shea; treasurer, E. H. Richardson; executive body, A. Thompson, J .S. Stevenson, H. G. Fairman, F. S. Crate.

On motion of J. Jones and F. Parker, Hastings will enter a team in the TVL again this year. The manager and coach are A. Thompson, F. S. Crate. All cheques are to signed by any two the three officers, president, secretary or treasurer.

It was moved by Murray Fife and F. Crate that H .G. Fairman contact the bowling club regarding the clubhouse. It was moved by F. Parker and Les Scriver that the executive approach the council regarding jackets for last year's junior champions.

H. G. Fairman and F. S. Crate moved that the Hastings Softball Club request the municipal council when issuing a dance licence to Riverside Pavilion to specify that when Recreational Centre is sponsoring a night street dance the dance hall remain closed for that night.

Lost For 3 Weeks Woman Gets $2,958

MONTREAL, March 30 (CP)—A 72-year-old charwoman received a big surprise Wednesday when her life savings of $2,958 were returned to her by a grocer who mistook the paper-wrapped parcel for stale sandwiches.

Mrs. Julia Yuzda, a Lithuanian lost her purse while shopping three weeks ago. Unable to speak English or French she reported the loss to her priest.

About that time the purse was brought into the grocery store of H. Boileau, who tossed the battered and mudy handbag under a counter when he saw that it contained only a paper bag. He did not open the bag, mistaking its contents for sandwiches.

Tuesday night Boileau opened the bag just as he was going to throw it in the garbage, and discovered the money. He called police and they returned the money to the happy charwoman.

Defeat Labor Gov't On Technical Issue

LONDON, March 30 — (AP) — Winston Churchill's Conservatives Wednesday night handed the Labor Government its first defeat in the new House of Commons, but it was on a technical issue and does not mean the overthrow of Prime Minister Attlee's government.

The Government was defeated 283 to 257 on a motion for adjournment.

The Conservatives forced the technical issue to a vote in a surprise move. It apparently was part of the Conservative stategy to keep under pressure the slim over-all majority of three which Labor holds in the House.

After the vote was announced there were cries of "Resign" and "We are the masters now" from the Conservative side of the House.

Attlee merely smiled.

Noronic Inquiry Ideas Said Too Costly To Use

OTTAWA, March 30.—(CP).—Transport Minister Chevrier disclosed Wednesday that not all of the Kellock recommendations to prevent another Noronic disaster will be implemented.

Ship iperators, he told the Commons Railway Committee, have stressed that to enforce all recommendations would be too costly, and would drive them out of business.

The disclosure followed a question as to what implementation would cost the Canadian National Steamship Lines.

Mr. Chevrier said it was too early to make a guess of the cost.

One recommendation was that ship bulkheads be reinforced with steel. This was a costly measure and would mean that some of the operators would be eliminated from the industry.

It was a matter for the government to select between implementation all the recommendations and facing curtailment of the Canadian steamship service. It was decided to implement only a part of the recommendations, which together with the international convention on safety-at-sea to be brought before the commons shortly for approval, would be sufficient.

"If we have enough disasters," observed G. K. Fraser (PC, Peterborough West), "we'll have more regulations."

He referred to the Canada Steamship Linens Noronic which caught fire in Toronto harbor last September 17, taking the lives of 119 persons.

We have to "temper justtice with common sense," Mr. Chevrier said.

Kingston Ferries Start 2 Weeks Early

HOWE ISLAND, Ont., March 30 (CP)—Ferry service between the mainland and this St. Lawrence River island nine miles east of Kingston was started today, two weeks ahead of schedule.

The little steel-nosed ferry Howe Islander, with 30 men lending a hand with picks and axes, slugged through thaw-weakened ice Wednesday to clear the 1,200-foot strait.

Islanders go to and from the mainland across the ice during the winter. Recent mild weather weakened the ice to the point where it was dangerous for automobiles and horses.

Machinery Set To Arbitrate Pollution Claims

TORONTO, March 30 (CP) — Premier Frost Wednesday introduced in the Ontario legislature an amendment to the bill dissolving the injunction against the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company at Espanola.

The injunction against waste disposal in the Spanish river would have been returnable April 4. The amendment sets up arbitration machinery for dealing with claims for damages and if arbitration is not successful the claim may be taken to the district judge.

Lands and forests department estimates were approved after Lands Minister Scott said it would be inadvisable to implement the extensive changes recommended by the Kennedy Royal Commission at this time when a vast forest inventory is nearing completion.

CCF leader E. B. Jolliffe (York South) said the only statement on policy made by the department consisted of "meaningless generalities."

Public Interests

C. W. Cox (Lib.—Fort William) said Ontario timber resources were not handled in the best interest of the public.

"Personal and political gain have been the main motives in securing these enormous areas of land," he said.

J. G. White (PC—Kenora) suggested research should be made into the possibility of using jackpine, now a "weed" tree for manufacturing newsprint.

J. M. Newman (Lib.-Lab.—Rainy River) suggested the $15 bounty on wolk pups be removed and the $25 bounty on adult wolves increased. This might encourge wolf hunting from airplanes, he said.

Russians In Shanghai

HONG KONG, March 30 (AP) —The China Mail said today Russian troops—men and women—are beginning to appear in Shanghai. Marshall Plan Half Way US Offensive In Cold War

(Editor's Note: Two years ago next Monday—April 3, 1948—President Truman signed into law the Marshall Plan to help rebuild war-ravaged Europe. This story deals with the four-year European recovery program as it reaches the half-way mark.)

By BILL ROSS.

WASHINGTON, March 30 — (AP). — Just across Lafayette Park from the White House is a modernistic 12-storey building that is the nerve-centre of the United States' mightiest offensive in the cold war with Russia

From this headquarters is directed the Marshall Plan which Monday passes its second birthday.

The building houses the Economic Co-operation Administration, the agency established by Congress to run a program due to cost American taxpayers about $13,000,000,000 by the time it ends June 30, 1952.

Marshall To Speak

To mark the second anniversary and half-way point of the project Soldier-Statesman George C. Marshall—who, as Secretary of State, first devised the plan—will make what ECA officials call a "major speech."

The Marshall Plan today is far more controversial—both in the United States and abroad—than when the General first suggested it in a speech at Harvard University in June, 1947.

Marshall's idea in the beginning was this: All Europe—including Russia—should get together to rebuild the Continent in a co-operative effort which would restore production and trade. The United States would provide the countries with necessary aid to give them the chance to make good the losses of war and to build for the future.

The Soviet Union refused to have any part of the scheme. Moscow charged the proposal was a "sinister attempt of American capitalistic imperialism to control the destiny of Eorope." Thus Russia, taking the satellite countries of eastern Europe along, turned its back on the Marshall Plan.

Prime Target

Because of these developments —and subsequent moves by the Kremlin to counteract the rehabilitation of western Europe under the Marshall Plan—the program has become a prime target for Communist propaganda attacks.

Paul G. Hoffman, EGA administrator, who has bossed the recovery effort since it started, feels the Soviet strategy is obvious. Russia doesn't want western Europe to get to its feet, Hoffman argues, because an economically-sound Europe, adequately fed and housed, would never go Communist.

And so the Marshall Plan, which seeks to help Europe attain these goals, has become the "big stick" of U. S. foreign policy to stop the westward thrust of Communism.

Plan Results

The program so far has cost the United States nearly $9,000,000,000. Has it been worth the money and natural resources? Here's what the record shows:

France, Italy and Greece seemed on the verge of having Communist-controlled governments two years ago. Now the power of Communism in those countries has waned.

Industrial production across western Europe, as a whole, is 15 to 30 per cent above pre-war levels. After the first World War it took the countries that make up the Marshall Plan block seven years to regain a peacetime output; this time it took only three years.

Western Europe now has an adequate diet. Europeans still aren't well-fed by North American standards but the threat of starvation, which existed when the Marshall Plan started, is no more.

Trade between western European countries is nearly back to pre-war levels.

But there still is the pressing matter of the "dollar gap" and other complex factors of international economy and finance.

Western Europe presently is spending four times as many dollars on imports from the U. S. and Canada than it is earning in exports to the western hemisphere. The difference—the "dollar gap"—is largely made up by ECA with Marshall Plan dollars.

Western Europe still must find ways to sell more goods in the dollar markets if the Marshall Plan is to succeed.

New Brunswick Introduces 4% Sales Tax

By The Canadian Press

A four-per-cent sales tax was announced in the New Brunswick legislature Wednesday when a record budget of more than $30,000,000 was brought down by Secretary-treasurer Boucher.

He told the Fredericton House that the new sales tax is expected to yield about $2,000,000. It would contain "liberal exemptions" to lessen the burden of the lower-income group. Delegations from many centres had attended a protest meeting Wednesday against the new tax.

Full details of the new tax await introduction of the necessary legislation but Premier McNair has said it is a consumer tax and would be known formally as the "social services and education tax."

Public accounts were tabled in the Nova Scotia legislature and Premier Macdonald said Nova Scotia, like other provinces and the federal government, has reached the point where revenues cannot be increased without new taxes. He did not elaborate.

N.S. Has Surplus

The accounts showed a surplus of about $112,000 in the fiscal year ending last Nov. 30, while the government had budgeted for a surplus of $492,000. Revenues were $35,404,000, or $936,000 over the estimate. Expenditures were $35,291,000, higher than estimates by $1,316,000.

The Prince Edward Island legislature cleared the way for prorogation today after Wednesday's sitting approved in principle the annual appropriations bill. Royal assent will be given some 40 bills passed during the 23-day sitting.

The Ontario legislature held a night sitting on various departmental estimates, discussing old-age pensions, unemployment relief and homes for the aged.

The Manitoba legislature received health department estimates, with Health Minister Schultz hinting there would be few new taxes in the provincial budget. Mr. Schultz said the government so far has been able to avoid a "burdensome" sales tax such as that enacted in Saskatchewan.

The Saskatchewan legislature gave second reading to a bill allowing the government-owned power corporation to enter the coal-mining, oil-refining and power-pole-manufacture businesses. Public Works Minister Darling said that the right to produce and sell coal, and to refine crude oil, while desired by the government is not required immediately.

At Victoria the British Columbia legislature gave second reading to an amendment to the Hospital Insurance Act, giving the government power to charge municipalities whatever it chooses for hospital grants. Municipalities now pay 70 cents a day per patient. Three members of the coalition and Tom Uphill, veteran Labor member, joined the seven-man CCF opposition in opposing the measure.

FARMING PEOPLE

Agriculture in Italy engages a third of the country's population.

Permanent Floor Prices 'Dynamite' Says Senator

The Senate locked Wednesday in a lengthy debate on the question of making floor prices for farm products part of the permanent law of the land and finally gave the government measure approval in principle. It now goes to committee.

Approval came after warnings against the measure by Senator T. A. Crear (L, Manitoba) and Senator Arthur Roebuck (L, Ontario) that haggling over where the floor was to be set could become a political football and that it tended to set the urban classes against the rural classes.

Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, warned the legislation was "political dynamite" but said the situation was that if the Marshal Plan ended tomorrow "we couldn't give our wheat away." The farmer had to be protected and he was for the principle of the bill.

Given second reading without discussion was the Agriculture Products Act, continuing for another 12 months the government's power to requisition products for the fulfilling of contracts with Britain.

Senators Salter Hayden (L, Ontario), A. W. Aseltine (PC, Saskatchewan), J. J. Kinley (L, Nova Scotia), G. H. Barbour (L, Prince Edward Island), W. D. Euler (L, Ontario) also spoke in the Agricultural Prices Support Act debate.

Senator Kinley said he did not agree with Senator Aseltine's estimate that farmers had lost $2,000,000,000 in the last several years because of poor farm prices. Just to keep the record straight much of Canda's taxes were paid by industry.

Senator Roebuck said the legislation tended to bring a clash between the urban and rural populations and therefore was wrong in principle. He knew the farmers had some complaints but one mistake did not justify another. Farmers should protest legislation that worked against them in the past and not accept more unsound legislation just because it was in their favor.

Senator Euler said he could not understand Senator Haig's argument that while floor prices were not a good thing because once started they had to be continued.

He was tired of hearing of "pressure groups." There was no better example than the margarine sales tax. The government had taken the sales tax off ice cream and he was not against that because ice cream was a food in a way. But so was margarine.

Latour Plans To File Appeal

SUDBURY, March 30 (CP)—J. N. Lacourciere, Sudbury lawyer, said today he will file a notice of appeal before Saturday against the death sentence imposed on Adelard (Eddie) Latour, 49, of Sudbury, in connection with the hunting knife slaying of a Sudbury woman last September.

He said the appeal will be based on general grounds. He will not press for an acquittal, but will ask that the charge be reduced to manslaughter or a new trial ordered.

"No motive or malice was proved against the accused throughout the entire trial," Lacourciere said. He added that the accused had been drinking when the offence was committed and was temporarily out of his mind due to extreme provocation after being attacked."

Latour is scheduled to be hanged May 16 for the murder of Mrs. Cecile Rainville, 23.

Eliminate Smog

HOUSTON, Tex., March 30—(AP)—Dr. M. Katz, of the Canadian Defence Research Board, Wednesday described to the American Chemical Society a new process which may eliminate much of the "smog" problem and add considerably to the world supply of sulphur. The process extracts sulphur from smoke before it leaves the chimneys of smelters and other industrial plants. The sulphur thus extracted then can be reclaimed.

Pollution Appeal Considered By Court

TORONTO, March 30 (CP) — The Ontario Appeal Court Wednesday reserved judgment on an appeal by McKinnon Industries Ltd., of St. Catharines, against an anti-pollution injunction obtained last year by William W Walker, an orchid specialist.

The injunction, awarded June 15 by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, prohibits the auto firm from damaging Walker's property with factory fumes. But the injunction was stayed for nine months to enable McKinnon to rid itself of the nuisance.

Company counsel said the company has done its best and asks that the ban be quashed to avert a shutdown which would put 3,500 McKinnon employees out of work. As an alternative, he asked for another nine months' stay of the injunction to enable the company to improve equipment which might eliminate the fumes.

Wandering Body Dead-Not Slain

HAMILTON, March 30 (CP) — Authorities today cleaned up one of the mysteries of "the case of the wandering corpse."

They said the man whose body was seen near Hagersville Feb. 25 and nine miles away March 25 was not slain.

But his identity still is unknown. So is the identity—and motive—of the person who moved the body.

A newspaperman spotted the body Feb. 25. When he returned with police, it was gone. Two men found the corpse again in a creek at nearby Caledonia last Saturday.

6 Million Feet Of Pine Cut

FORT FRANCES, Ont. —(CP) —Approximately 6,000,000 feet of white pine sawlog material was cut this winter in the Rea Lake area of Northern Ontario, the Fort Frances office of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests reports.

The Rea Lake area is in the southeast section of the District of Kenora and borders on the District of Rainy River.

The material, cut by J. A. Mathieu Limited, was landed on Old Man Lake and will be water-driven to Fort Frances for processing. This is reported to be the largest quantity of white pine cut by any one timber camp operated by a Fort Frances district industry. The company operates the largest white pine mill in Canada.

The timber will be driven down to Seine River to the sawmill site, necessitating the construction of a sluice in a dam located at the south end of Finlayson Lake near Steep Rock lake, Ont.

Fish-Game Ass'n Holds Ladies' Night

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30 — (ENS) — The Annual Ladies' Night of the Campbellford and District Fish and Game Protective Association was held, Tuesday night in the Masonic Temple. A large number of members and guests attended the banquet.

Doug. Maybee, president of the Campbellford club, acted as chairman, and welcomed the women to the banquet. He also explained the purpose of the club, and its objects. Mr. Maybee was presented with a boutonniere by Dr. Ross Richardson, and Mrs. Maybee was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Mr. Forrest Dennis, on behalf of the club.

Mr. George Nicholls played the piano, and Dr. Ross Richardson led a sing-song in which all those present took part.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Sid Hopping, and was responded to by Mrs. A. D. Bennett.

Present Program

A program of entertainment followed the dinner. This was in charge of Mr. George Nicholls, and was made up of vocal and instrumental numbers by local talent.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. Forrest Dennis, chairman of the committee in charge of the banquet, was thanked by Mr. Walter Wiggins on behalf of the club, for making the evening success.

Third Time For 'Prince of Reactionaries'

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 30—(CP) — Look for some lively scenes in the House of Commons now that high-spirited, hard hitting Sir Herbert Williams has won his way back to Westminster for the third time.

Once called the "prince of reactionaries," Sir Herbert has returned to Parliament at 65, ready to add to the 4,000 speeches he has made in 18 years as an M. P.

Sir Herbert first entered the House in 1924, lost in 1929, came back in 1932 and stayed there until the Labor landslide of 1945. In the General Election Feb. 23 he was returned for Croydon East with a majoity of 8,000 votes.

That was his 10th election. He believes only two men in Britain —Winston Churchill and Earl Winterton, father of the House— can better that mark.

Hard on Hecklers

Tall, board-shouldered Sir Herbert in his younger days made it a point of honor personally to eject hecklers from meetings he addressed. Once he put two men out at one meeting, and neither tried to come back.

Always a staunch Conservative, Sir Herbert in 1943 called the independent times a "threepenny edition" of the Communist Daily Worker because it supported the Beveridge report on Social Security.

In the same period, he characterized the BBC as an "entirely fascist institution," opposed the wartime call-up of women and had some harsh things to say about Socialists and Communists.

The News Chronicle, Liberal, called him "prince of reactionaries." Lady Astor, since retired from politics, wheeled on him in a debate and pronounced him "one of the worst die-hards the world has ever known."

Highly Vulnerable

Sir Herbert sums up this political career in an autobiography, "Politics Grave and Gay," which includes as amusing account of his introduction to contract bridge. He sat down as a fourth for what he thought was a game of auction with three multi-millionaires — Lord Beaverbrook, movie magnate, Joseph Schenck and the late Lord Melchett, a Liberal and a free trader.

They played for high stakes. Sir Herbert confessed himself baffled by the bidding, but won 5s. (About 75 cents at the present rate of exchange).

Later, it came out that they had been playing contract.

"That was a great stimulus to me," Sir Herbert said in a recent Canadian Press interview. "I soon learned to play contract."

Sir Herbert visited every province in Canada in 1928 as a member of an empire delegation.

Learn French, English

VANCOUVER, March 30 (CP) —Mrs. H. R. Bray, president of the Vancouver Women's School for Citizenship, Wednesday urged all Canadians to learn to speak both French and English. She told a group meeting: "It may seem strange that so many Canadians do not speak English but it is equally strange that so many Canadians do not speak French. As Canada is bilingual, I feel every Canadian should have a knowledge of both languages . . .

Easter finery...
Martha Logan's

"FRILLY LILIES"

A festive garland for your ham! Peel large carrots; slice thin lengthwise. Loop 3 slices; fasten bottoms together with toothpicks. Insert thin strips of green pepper or green beans in centre of each flower for stamens. Keep in ice water; drain well before using. Cut leaves from cucumber peel.

To bake Swift's Premium Ham (Blue Label)

Place fat side up on rack in open pan. Use no water. Bake in slow oven (325° F.); Ham 15 lbs. or over, 15 min. per lb.; 12 to 15 lbs., 16 to 17 min. per lb.; 10 to 12 lbs., 18 min. per lb.; under 10 lbs., 20 min. per lb.; half hams, 22 min. per lb. To give your ham Martha Logan's special Easter-gold glaze, remove ham from pan when time stated in cooking schedule is complete. Score fat in diamonds, spread with 1 cup pineapple preserve (or your favourite glaze). Increase oven heat to 375° F. Bake 20 to 30 min. longer, or till glaze is golden brown. Before serving, place whole clove in centre of each diamond; garnish platter with carrot lilies.

... the kind that's always grand!

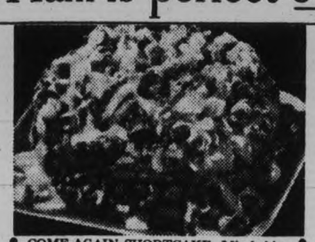
FOR a crowd or a couple, Swift's Premium Ham makes Easter dinner a festive feast. That wonderful sugar-mellow flavour never varies. Every rosy bite is sure to be tender yet firm. No wonder Swift's Premium Ham is the best-liked ham in all Canada!

SWIFT'S PREMIUM Ham is perfect every time

EASTER FEAST FOR 2: Gash fat on 1½" centre slice of Swift's Premium Ham. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 1½ hrs. Increase oven heat to 400° F. Mix ½c. pineapple preserve and 1 tbsp. prepared mustard; spread on top of ham. Bake 30 min. more. Garnish with "Frilly Lilies."

Canada's favourite ham comes in 2 styles: Blue Label, for easy home cooking; Red Label, fully cooked.

NOTE: Not so-called "ready-to-eat"... but really, deliciously fully cooked as you'd do it at home!



COME-AGAIN SHORTCAKE: Mix baking powder biscuit dough, using 2 c. flour. Add 1½ c. drained, whole kernel corn. Bake in two 8" layers. Heat 3 c. diced, cooked Swift's Premium Ham and ½ c. diced green pepper in 2 c. med. white sauce. Serve between and on top layers.

Swift's unique system of quality-control assures you the same superbly mellow flavour, the same delicious tenderness, in every Swift's Premium Ham.

RED TIDE HITS A BREAKWATER — Trained observers see recent events in China as signposts of two significant trends—growth of Nationalist strength in adversity and weakening of the Communists in the midst of victory. Significant factors are indicated on map. Nationalist aggressiveness under Chiang Kai-shek's renewed leadership, Red confiscation of sorely-needed foodstuffs and the effect of famine are reported diminishing the people's submissiveness to the Commuist conquerors.

Kate Aitken Fined

TORONTO, March 30 (CP) — Kate Aitken, writer and radio commentator, Wednesday was fined $25 and costs or 10 days for not filing a 1948 income-tax return. Mrs. Aitken, visiting in Rome, entered a plea of guilty through her lawyer, J. F. Perrett. The offence, he said, was that Mrs. Aitken neglected to submit a completed tax form. Most of her tax had been deducted at the source.

Mystery Hovers On Bridge At Steiwacke

STEWIACKE, N. S., —(CP) — During the 30 years that Angus Henry Taylor has been police chief of this community near Truro, N. S., his troubles have centred around the bridge across the Stewiacke River.

Several bridge mysteries remain unsolved.

The narrow iron bridge crosses the river on the fringe of the settlement of 961 persons. From there the river flows into the muddy Shubenacadie River and on into the Bay of Fundy.

There have, of course, been plenty of routine accidents on the bridge. But some of the incidents haven't been so routine.

There was the parked car, for example, that Bob Walker found unoccupied near the bridge as he was going to work one morning some time ago. When the car was still there several hours later, Walker called Chief Taylor.

No Struggle

A search of the car showed it belonged to William Robert Brown Glace Bay, N. S. Baggage and clothing in the car convinced Chief Taylor that Brown's wife had been with him.

After several days, attention turned to the river. But there was no evidence of foul play Cigaret butts were on the floor of the car, two packages were on the seat and a lady's purse contained money, a bank book and a receipt showing Mrs. Brown had just bought a new fur coat.

Baffled, Chief Taylor called in the R.C.M.P. Investigation showed that Mr .and Mrs. Brown, both in poor health and in their 70s had started out on a trip to central Canada just before they disappeared. They had stopped at the service station where Walker worked and asked about the road to the river. The car was found empty next day.

The river was dragged but nothing was found. After a long vigil, the hunt for the bodies was abandoned.

The elderly couple — or their bodies — have not been found.

Rent Controls

Mr. Coldwell said the government should take action in the case of 50 Ottawa families being removed from emergency shelters so a gasoline company could erect a parking lot.

Last Lap Of Controls

Mr. Sinclair said the bill was the last lap of eight years of controls arising from the war. In perspective, the government's orderly decontrol had worked satisfactorily. Too little attention had been paid to the job done on decontrol compared to the eulogies for the success of wartime controls.

From Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) came the contention that "very sweeping" powers still are unnecessarily conferred on the government to investigate the private records and activities of any person or corporation in Canada.

If the government intended only to continue rent control, there was no need for such powers.

Mr. Sinclair said that if those powers were eliminated the board would have no authority to pay certain claims and settlements still hanging over from the period when price controls generally were in effect. The board had to investigate those companies which were making the claims.

The powers, he went on, were necessary to clean up "odds and ends" remaining from war and post-war control.

Eamon Park (CCF-Toronto Dovercourt) who asked the Government's attitude toward relief Mr Goodfellow said the Provin Government gave relief only to "unemployables." He did not consider it was "passing the buck" to say that the responsibility for unemployed employables rested with the Federal Government.

Unemployment, the minister said, arose from economic conditions over which the Federal Government had greater control. The Federal Government also was able to raise revenue from sources not available to either the province or municipalities.

This brought from Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver (Grey South) the remark "surely a government with $21,000,000 in its vest pocket can do something to help these municipalities that are paying the full shot of unemployment relief.

Miss Macphail said the Ontario Government accepted responsibility for unemployed only when they became mentally or physically ill, or committed some crime. She had seen Toronto newspaper photographs showing unemployed sleeping on bare floors. "Surely the least we could do, from now until the sun shines warmly again, is to get blankets for them," she said.

Planning Minister Gisiesinger presented his department's estimates and said a survey would be made of Ontario's housing needs in connection with the Federal-Provincial low-cost housing plan. He said the work of Ontario House in London, England, was well worth the $150,000 included in the estimates, and he then agreed with C. H. Taylor (CCF-Timiskaming) that more industries should be located in Northern Ontario.

Peterborough Opposes Plan To Permit Teachers Hold Municipal Office

Both Peterborough and Brantford council are supporting London in its opposition to a proposal that would let school teachers qualify for election to municipal office. A resolution of London city council objects that school teachers draw their salaries from the public treasury which is administered by the elected representatives of the ratepayers. The possibility of teachers reaching that position would afford them a degree of preference over other employees of the municipality.

The letter from London further comments that boards of education were the only local municipal bodies on which the city council was not represented.

"It has long been contended by municipal officers that it would be a proper step to have council representation on the boards of education, or, in the alternative, that there should be some other means of controlling educational expenditure.

Backward Step

"It is respectfully submitted that the proposed amendment to the Municipal Act, permitting school teachers to be elected to municipal councils, is a step in the opposite direction, since it would give educational authorities representation on municipal councils."

London asks that "further consideration be given to this drastic deviation from the time-honored principle that persons employed by the corporation or its local boards should not be qualified for municipal office."

Both in Peterborough and Brantford the city clerks were directed to telegraph council objection at once because it was felt that the government bill might become law before the next meeting of council.

Likely Solve Medical Costs Within 10 Years

Canada's solution to the problem of meeting the cost of medical care will probably be reached within the next ten years, even though the form it will take is not yet known, Bishop Gerald Berry declared Wednesday at the regional conference luncheon of the Victorian Order of Nurses at the Empress Hotel.

Whether this country or the U. S. would step into the national organization was up to the State. There was some confusion of mind about it. Even a national pocket book did not begin to meet all the needs.

Canada was fortunate in being able to witness the development of such schemes in other countries.

The plan which seemed most near the solution was a scheme proposed by an insurance man. People should be allowed to calculate four per cent of the total budget they handled and on anything above that percentage, they should be allowed a deduction as they were on income tax.

U. K. Plan Unsuitable.

The centralized plan now operating in Britain would not be suitable for Canada because the country was too large. It would result in a large bureaucratic organization.

No matter what happened there would be differences of opinion. That did not matter. What did matter was that the people who were directly concerned, social workers, nurses and the medical profession, discussed it and did not leave it to the newspapers and politicians.

The Bishop spoke of the nurse's opportunity to speak with the patient about physical pain and mental pain and anguish.

People had come to worship the office interview as affecting the destiny of their lives. But from office interviews, either by the doctor or the nurse "you cannot guess what the patient's home lifes."

Need To Use Heart.

Not only training in nursing but an eye and a heart to deal as far as they can with social problems was required of members of the V.O.N. staff.

The bishop's address dealt with nursing in retrospcet and prospect. He told the story of the founding of the Daughters of Charity by St. Vincent de Paul in 17th century France.

One of the troubles before the revolution of the following century was the neglect suffered by the people in rural areas. Vincent de Paul visted the homes of these people. He introduced home nursing when he started an occupation for women by training them to help in the homes of the people.

Until that time, there was no occupation in the church for woman. She was a great person to live in cloisters bu not to go out among the people.

On New Footing.

In more recent times, Florence Nightinglale placed nursing on a new footing at a time when the occupation had reached its lowest stage.

Th Bishop was introduced by P. D. Scollard and a vote of thanks was extended by Miss Rachael Young.

At the hea dtable were Mrs. Smith of Oshawa; H. I. Bradburn Mayor Max Swanston, Bishop Berry. Miss Dorothy Mickleborough, assistant National Superintendent of the V. O. N.; Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., and Dr. R. A Kelly, Peterborough Medical Officer of Health.

At the afternoon conference, Wilson M. Gemmell, treasurer of Peterborough branch was chairman. Oshawa branch introduced a discussion on finance, Lindsay on public relations, Belleville, stimulation of pre-natal programs; Peterborough, should branches charge actual costs per visti under group insurance plans and Belleville, the community campaign as it concerns V.O.N.

Daisy D Cheese Plant Opens For Season

The first stirring in the new agricultural year in Peterborough was the opening of Daisy D cheese factory near Norwood Wednesday.

Farmers supplied enough milk for 2½ cheese made by Frank Lain who had all the machinery shining and oiled for the new dairy season.

Actually, Trent Bridge factory has been making cheese all winter, but of those which was dormant Daisy D is first to revive production. Other factories in the area will be close on its heels in making Peterborough Cheddar.

FIGURES DOWN.

The clearing house figures for the last week in Peterborough amounted to $2,024,382. This is a drop of $380,501 from the week previous.

LOOKING FORWARD to another giant birthday party 10 years from now is Mrs. Lavinia Kitchen of 381 Water St. who was 80 Tuesday night. She was hostess to 59 members of the Old Country Club as well as other friends and relatives at a special party in the YWCA. An active woman still, Mrs. Kitchen keeps house for her son in the temporary absence of his wife, shops, keeps abreast of what's going on in the family and the world outside, and generally gets a kick out of life. Woman Of 80 Entertains 75 On Birthday

A bright-eyed and active little Yorkshire woman Tuesday night celebrated her 80th birthday and marked the occasion by being hostess to some 75 guests. She is Mrs. Lavinia Kitchen of 381 Water St., a Canadian resident for the past 38 years.

The birthday party was held at the YWCA with 59 members of The Old Country Club as guests and other friends and relatives bringing the total number up to 75.

Mrs. Kitchen was not just a nominal hostess. A woman of 80 years might be expected to sit back and take it easy while the work entailed was shared by others. Not her. She pitched in and prepared refreshments along with the helpers.

And she was the centre of the fun and festivities all night.

Looking Ahead

"I'll see you all again on my 90th birthday," she said before the guests left.

Actually it was a double family celebration. Mrs. Harry Lavoie, her granddaughter, was marking her 3rd wedding anniversary.

The apple of Mrs. Kitchen's eye is her great-grandson, two-year-old Johnny. He too was at the party and popped into the limelight as often as possible. Young Johnny (John Alfred Lavoie) and his great-grandmother were never far apart.

Both of them (representing a span of four generations in the family) enjoyed every moment of it as the guests disported themselves and the cameras flashed.

Next morning, not a bit tired, Mrs. Kitchen was up early to talk over the night's happenings. And now she's planning for her 90th birthday celebration.

Ten years ago she was the honored guest of the Old Country Club but this time the situation was reversed. And 10 years from now she hopes to do it again, and make it an even bigger success if possible.

County, Twp. Highways Reported In Bad Shape

Frost and thaw have left local highways, county and township roads in worse shape than usual for this time of year. Wednesday night's frost eased the situation somewhat but many township roads, particularly in the north country, are nearly impassable. Rural residents who regularly commute between Peterborough and their homes are stranded in some cases—either due to inability to get through side roads or fear that a change for the worse might seal them off for days.

At least one Otonabee man is remaining in hospital here in Peterborough because he is not sure the road home is open. An Asphodel patient was brought into hospital as a precautionary measure. It was feared if she took a turn for the worse she could not get quick transportation from her home.

A half-mile stretch of the Buckhorn Rd., beginning at its junction with Highway 28, has been closed off to motor traffic.

Other Roads Passable

Other County roads are passable, County Engineer J. D. Kean said today, but in some places the going was heavy.

He inspected the Cordova road on Wednesday, and found it "very rough."

Earlier in the week flooding was reported at Lockies' bridge in North Monaghan and Steeles' bridge in Asphodel. Tuesday traffic was cut off, but since then the water has gone down, due to colder weather on Wednesday and early today.

Trucks are now carrying half loads in view of the poor road conditions and the ore trucks travelling between the Nepheline Mines and Lakefield have not been operating since Monday.

New roads are the ones standing up poorest. Besides the half-mile on the Buckhorn road blocked off, there is a very soft section on the one-and-a-half mile stretch from Stewart Hall to Wallace Point.

Earlier this week it took a tractor to pull cars through the mire but now it is frozen. The ruts mean rough travelling but it is passable. That section of the Wallace Point road has not yet been gravelled.

Winter Wheat Looking Brown

In the lore of farming it is generally said that weather favorable to the flow of sap in the maple bush is likely to be a threat to the fields of fall wheat.

Frost by night and sun by day fills the buckets on the maple trees, but that sequence may also leave the wheat with damage to the root structure that was formed last autumn.

This was one of those days, the effect of which on the cereal crop and meadows can hardly be determined until the season has settled into its stride.

Fields are bare of protective snow. Temperature during the night was down to 15 degrees. Freezing by night and thawing by day is a combination of hazard to Cornell and Dawson's Golden Chaff wheat.

Earlier in the week flooding was reported at Lockies' bridge in North Monaghan and Steeles' bridge in Asphodel. Tuesday traffic was cut off, but since then the water has gone down, due to colder weather on Wednesday and early today.

The wheat looks "pretty brown," Harry Young, of North Monaghan, remarked this morning. That ominous color is seen not only beyond the borders of Peterborough, but also across the counties of Central Ontario. It might indicate a lack of nitrogen in the heavy top that grew on the wheat before winter spread its blanket last December.

On the credit side of the frost there should be an entry of saving in the maintenance of township roads. The freezing of the surface tends to halt the traffic damage which was beginning to worry rural municipal heads after a winter that had reduced expenditure for keeping roads clear of snow.

Car Strikes Bus

Overtaking a bus on Park St., near Wolfe St., Wednesday, a car driven by Alex Riel, 517 Glengarry Ave., hit the front bumper of the bus. The bus was undamaged but the side of the car was damaged to the extent of approximately $25.

Poultry Panic Cuts Supply, Imports Likely

Remember the poultry panic in January when controls were withdrawn from the egg market and export to Britain was folding!

Flocks were decimated, producers generally were deeply alarmed and some of them cancelled orders for chicks, and generally retreated from the business overnight.

Hatchery business has been improving gradually since that upset of production, but settings of eggs have been only half of normal for this season.

The egg market has been steady and satisfactory. Eggs have been coming out of storage lately at 42 cents. They were bought probably around 20 to 25 cents during the slump in the market.

May Be Imported

It is said in the trade there may be some necessity of importing poultry products before the year is over.

In the meantime, and even this week Co-Op Services have had to place orders in Toronto for poultry to ensure sufficient stock on hand for their local customers at the present week-end.

BOYS TO VISIT YMCA

A group of boys from Lakefield will visit the YMCA in Peterborough Friday evening with their minister, the Rev. W. Tonge. A program of gym, swimming and movies have been arranged.

BELLEVILLE COMING

Belleville Hi-Y Club will pay a return visit to Peterborough's club Saturday. Peterborough cub visited Belleville before Christmas. Saturday's program will include basket ball and a dance and party.

TEAMS SELECTED

Ten schools entering the Examiner Trophy swimming meet at the YMCA Wednesday have all completed their trials and practice meets. Some 264 boys entered the trials, from whom teams representing each school have been selected.

CHILDREN VISIT DAIRY

Two groups of school children were shown through the plant of Silverwood's Dairy this morning. Of special interest to them was the big ice cream plant that was put into operation last year. The 70 boys and girls were from Lakefield and the Smith border of the city.

Japanese Tackle Dumping Swamps Market, Cobourg Branch Hit Worst

The dumping of Japanese fishing tackle on Canadian markets will necessitate the laying off of 50 per cent of the employees of the Lucky Strike Bait Company in Peterborough, 18 employees, according to owner Frank Edgar. Faced with an increasing lack of Canadian sales, working days have been reduced to three a week for some time here. In the Cobourg plant, 20 employees face lay-off at any time. The Lucky Strike Bait Company's Cobourg plant is the only factory in Canada making both brass barrel swivels and fish hooks and these are used by the factory in Peterborough in making baits, while a certain amount is shipped to other companies for their use in manufacturing baits.

The Cobourg plant sells swivels at $1.50 a gross but are up against the unfair competition now of Japanese swivels which are laid down here at 90 cents a gross and in some cases even less.

"Our girls average $30 a week but we can't pay wages and meet overhead when faced with the competition of the Japanese product made under conditions of low overhead and very low wages. I will have to lay off up to 20 employees in the near future," Mr. Edgar told The Examiner.

Cobourg Hit Worst

Twenty-eight employees are on the payroll at the Cobourg plant and 40 are employed in Peterborough, but the affect of the Japanese competition will be felt more in Cobourg than in the other centre. The English manufacturer sells his swivels in Canada at $1.50 a gross and has no duty to meet. In United States the swivels sell at $1.60 a gross and if they are imported the duty is 20 per cent but if a Canadian manufacturer exports them to the States he must meet a 50 per cent duty.

The Hon. Mr. Howe, in asking for measures to conserve the dollar balance, once asked Canadian manufacturers to make items which they used to import from the United States.

"Acting on that suggestion from Mr. Howe, we laid in machinery and did engineering research and started to manufacture swivels, instead of buying them from the States. We did our part but now we are faced with most unfair competition in the form of the Japanese swivels which are being dumped in Canada. It appears from the reduction in orders that there are companies in Canada who are using this Japanese product instead of ours, or instead of buying English swivels," said Mr. Edgar.

No Alternative

"Last year," continued Mr. Edgar, "we manufactured 8,000 gross of swivels and we used 5,000 gross in our plant at Peterborough and sold the remainder to other manufacturers of baits. It is our estimate that this year our own consumption will be 4,000 gross and we will be selling 1,200 gross outside.

With the Japanese swivels coming in here at such a low figure we simply would not be able to dispose of as large a stock in 1950 as we did in 1949, and the natural consequences of the drop in sales will be that we will have to lay off employees. We have no other alternative, unless the government decides to protect the bait manufacturing industry in Canada by putting up a tariff which will enable us to meet competition on a reasonable basis."

South End Boys Ask To Tidy Playground

A group of boys in the south of the city has decided to ask the principal of Grove School for permission to tidy the playground in readiness for the spring and summer season. The boys, members of the South-End Model Club, made these plans at their monthly meeting at the YMCA Wednesday.

The club is the first of a number of neighborhood clubs the YMCA is organizing in districts on the outskirts of the city.

Other ylans were to have a full program for Easter week. The business meeting, at which these arrangements were made, was under the chairmanship of the president, Scott Pearton.

The evening's program included gym, floor hockey when Jimmy Brown's team defeated a team led by Fred Davey 5-2, swimming and a movie.

Ice Cream Cones Same Size With Tax Off

Removal by the Federal Government of the 8 per cent sales tax on ice-cream is not likely to add any bulk to junior's cone.

Business practice has been to tack the tax on to the invoice to the retailer, who in some way absorbed it. The change makes no difference to the ice-cream manufacturer. It means only that the retailer is relieved of approximately 1½ cents on the cost of an ice-cream brick, and some fraction of a cent off the cone's cost.

J. E. Weir of Silverwood's said there would be no change in the 5-cent package.

Lifting of the tax leaves the retailer in the position of being a little more generous with the fringes on his scoopful.

Margin of profit to the retailer has been so narrow that he will probably accept the removal of the sales tax as a little advantage to him that has been long overdue.

Both Own Car Claim Cheating

A dispute arising from joint ownership of a car which was wrecked several months ago, was thrashed out for more than half an hour before Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court today.

The two parties to the dispute were Bruce Clinton Floyd Wakeford, 24, of 95 Lansdowne St., and Edward Lee, 20, of Lang, Ontario.

Wakeford claimed that Lee did not bide by the settlement agreed between them when the car was wrecked, but, in addition to receiving his share of the inurance settlement, retained certain accessories which, under the agreement, were to go to himself.

The magistrate ruled there was no evidence of Lee having stolen the articles and dismissed the case. He explained to Wakeford that the matter was more appropriate to the Division court, where civil action could be taken.

Questioned by G. H. T. Farquharson, defence counsel, Wakeford said he received $1.5550 as an insurance settlement on the car, $1,000 of which he gave to Lee. His share was the remaining $550 plus the wreck.

Wakeford claimed that certain accessories which were to come to him with the wreck were being retained by Lee.

Easter Bunny Comes To Town

Lots Of Eggs and Toys Lure Youngsters

By this time of year nobody cares a hoot whether or not the groundhog can see his shadow. Spring is here (or almost) for all to see. And the Easter bunny pops into the limelight.

Kiddies are in luck this year for the local stores seem alive with Easter bunnies — some the cuddlesome, furry toys, and others delicious chocolate.

There is a wider variety of confections than in 1949 but prices are approximately the same, storekeepers say. In some cases there has been a slight drop. It is the best assortment since pre-war days.

Most of the novelties have a rabbit or rooster as the central figure with a miscellaneous variety of gaily-colored eggs in an equally bright-colored basket. Cellophane and ribbon give the packages extra sales appeal.

The large novelties vary from $2.39 to $2.75.

No Need To Strain

But there's no necessity to strain the pocket book to ensure the boys and girls an Easter treat. The half-pound chocolate eggs of one well-known confectioner (chocolate layer, cream fill, with bright yellow yoke) are selling for 45 cents; and the full pound for 80 cents.

The gift is wrapped in the traditional Easter box with rabbits stamped on the outside in light spring colors. One novelty is packed into a pail—suitable for a beach pail—and should prove an unusual attraction for young children.

More expensive candy eggs have decorative handwork, usually in green or red, to give that extra aesthetic appeal. They come in pound, half-pound and quarter-pound sizes.

Retailers are expecting top sales this year and already local residents have started buying, they say.

To the men, Easter is just another Sunday; while to the women it's a chance to flash that saucy new hat and attractive spring coat. And to the kiddies — well, what would Easter be without a chocolate bunny.

Defeated Gov't Ministers Try Other Jobs

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, March 30—(CP) — Seven ministers of the 1949-50 Labor Government, one of cabinet rank, are missing from the administration formed by Prime Minister Attlee after the Feb. 23 General Election.

Of these, six were defeated at the polls. The other, Lewis Silkin, was not adopted as a candidate and has been replaced as Minister of Town and Country Planning by Hugh Dalton.

The only member who lost his seat at the election and retained his ministerial post is Sir Frank Soskice, who earns £7,000 ($21,700) a year as solicitor-general.

He is contesting the April 5 by-election in the Neepsend division of Sheffield. Col. Harris Morris resigned to provide an opening for Sir Frank.

The defeated cabinet minister, Arthur Creech Jones, was colonial secretary throughout most of the last government. Unseated at Shipley by 81 votes, he is holidaying on the continent and has not announced his future plans.

The new colonial secretary is James Griffiths, former insurance minister.

Among the missing junior ministers is Christopher Mayhew, 34-year-old former under-secretary at the foreign office. Mayhew created a stir at the United Nations last spring with a speech on Britain's economic recovery which some critics deemed over-optimistic.

Now he hopes to become a playwright. "I am dedicating a few months," he said, "to proving that I cannot write a play."

David Rees-Williams, who lost his job as Colonial Under-Secretary, practised law at Cardiff before the war. He has not decided whether to resume the practice or turn to journalism.

Evelyn King, former under-secretary to Silkin at the town planning minister, may return to his pre-government job as a schoolmaster.

The other two junior ministers-in-exile are Thomas Steele, formerly with the insurance ministry, who may go back to his old job as railway stationmaster, and L. J. Edwards, who has taken an advisory job with the post office engineering union. Edwards left the union in 1947 to become Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade.

Exports Insured At $35,000,000

OTTAWA, March 30 (CP) — The government's export insurance agency insured Canadian exporters to the tune of $35,000,000 in 1949.

This big underwriting job to help Canadian shippers fight current day international market risks resulted in payments of claims to exporters of $515,000 last year.

However, after deducting income from premiums and other sources, the Government's Export Credits Insurance Corporation ended up the year's activities with the loss of only $34,515.

The Corporation's annual report, tabled Wednesday in the Commons, by Trade Minister Howe, noted that an increasing number of Canadian shippers are taking advantage of this type of government insurance.

Chandos WI Holds Annual Men's Night

APSLEY, March 30—(ENS) — The Chandos W. I. held their annual Men's Night at the home of Mrs. Stanley Johnson. The evening began with a pot luck supper of ham, scalloped potatoes, and pie.

After the business was over the men entertained by decorating women's hats. The Easter Bonnet brought a great deal of hilarity. The prize going to Jack McEven Mr. Bott entertained with two solos, and a duet with Mrs. Stanley Johnson. Jack McEven and Laverne Bott sang a duet 'Let The Rest of The World Go By'.

It was decided that a Bingo be held in the school Friday evening.

The evening closed with dancing.

The next W. I. meeting will be at Mrs. Bott's home, April 12 in the afternoon.

Legion Pledges $500 Gift To Cavan Arena

MILLBROOK, March 30 (ENS) —At a meeting of the Millbrook and Cavan Arena committee held Monday night in the waiting room the finance committee reported that the Canadian Legion had pledged $500 to the Arena fund. The arena committee expressed their hearty appreciation to Branch No. 402 of the Legion. The arena fund now stands at more than $11,000 in cash and pledges.

A cost statement was received from the Keene arena committee, which it was felt would be a valuable guide in the undertaking here.

The "site" committee reported receiving an offer from the local Lions' Club of the present rink site which they hold in trust, with everything on it for $100. A motion was passed that this generous offer be accepted. It was felt that this site was the most desirable one in the village.

The boys' and girls' committee reported good progress. The teenagers have been holding Saturday night dances to raise funds, and have also sold tickets on a doll dressed in $1 bills. Pupils of the senior public school room have been painting silhouettes which they will later offer for sale.

Locate Timber

The timber committee, under Ed. Hutchison, reported that about 10,000 feet of timber had been located so far. It was asked that if anyone had suitable timber to donate would they call Ed. Hutchison by phone.

Alex Wood was put in charge of arrangements for a lucky draw.

Mr. Percy Hamilton, public school principal, is the chairman of the Millbrook-Cavan arena committee; Mr. F. Hindle is secretary; Mr. Ron Palmer, press secretary and Mr. John Coulter, treasurer.

Cold Delays Opening

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 30 (CP)—A new cold snap Wednesday night led to the belief that navigation will not open at the Sault, gateway to Lake Superior, until around April 15. Mild weather of the last 10 days had caused hopes of navigation opening before that date. The cutter Mackinaw left her berth at Cheboygan, Mich., for a trip to the lower end of St. Mary's river Wednesday and encountered ice up to 24 inches in thickness.

Eating Less Butter

OTTAWA, March 30—(CP)—The Commons was informed Wednesday that the butter consumption dropped at a rate of 3,500,000 pounds a month last year as a result of the use of margarine. Robert McCubbin (L, Middlesex East), parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said that 1949 butter consumption totalled 42,343,461 pounds against margarine consumption of 73,000,000 pounds.

In 1936 she won the Lady Tweedsmuir award for the best female lead in "The Magnanimous Lover," presented at a drama festival.

TORONTO, March 30 (CP) — The Royal Winter Fair made enough money last year to wipe out a 1948 deficit and establish an $11,789 surplus, president John W. McKee told the annual meeting Wednesday. Some 3,200 exhibitors showed almost 17,000 entries at the 1949 fair. More prize money was paid than in any year since the fair was started in 1922.

Change Boundary

TORONTO, March 30 (CP) — A bill to add 270 acres to the territory of Ontario was introduced Wednesday in the legislature. The additional territory — mostly spruce trees — accrues from changes in the Ontario-Manitoba boundary. When the boundary was established in 1912 information about the area was not as complete as it is today.

Consulate Closes

MONTREAL, March 30 (CP)— The Montreal Gazette said today that the Polish consulate will close its Montreal offices April 1 and Consul Emile Semil may resign if his government recalls him to Poland. Labor Problems In Canada Have Two Sides Says Business Head

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

One of the toughest positions to be in is one where you are trying to see straight down the middle.

If you go around to meetings of various bodies you will find people who, allied to one side, still are trying to see all sides.

Sometimes you will run into it from a so-called "big business" spokesman, sometimes from a labor spokesman.

Judging from what he says at various gatherings, Harold V. Lush of Toronto, a past president of the Canadian Exporters' Association, is one of those who is trying to see the point of view of all sides, and at the same time give a caution signal to all sides.

For instance, here are some excerpts from a speech he made Wednesday night to the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce.

Big Business Natural

"Big business is a natural development of our free enterprise system. It is a credit to the vision and intelligence of the industrial leaders of our way of life. It has in the past and is still constantly raising world standards of living.

"Big business usually means bigger profits. Greater wealth brings greater responsibilities .. unless the moral sense of community responsibility on the part of our industrial leaders keeps pace with the growth of big business, then big business will simply hasten the end of our democratic free enterprise system.

"Business, whether it be big or small, if it is to continue to be successful, must serve employees, stockholders, consumers, and the community at large, and it is management's responsibility to keep the interests of all these elements in balance . . .

Pay For Square Deal

"It has never seemed right to me that labor, which in my opinion is in the main honest and industrious, should be obliged to buy a square deal from us, their employers, by paying dues weekly or monthly into a union to ensure them of that which is rightfully theirs.

"I know that labor has been and is, in many cases, badly led, but is not that also true of management? Have we not failed to do those things which we as leaders should have done yesterday and should do today?"

Mr. Lush's statement, of which only a small part is given, is obviously the sort of statement which can't have complete agreement from any side. But it does seem important that people, Mr Lush and many others, from one side of the fence or other, are trying to see the whole yard: even if you should think they are not seeing it in the proper perspective.

LINEAR STANDARDS

Until 1931, the United States and all English-speaking countries used inches, feet and yards as the basis of linear measurement, while other nations used the metric measure.

Gets Mail Through In Mud Or Snow

ROSENEATH, March 30 (ENS) —Mr. Leslie Sherwin walked around his mail route on Monday, owing to the muddy conditions of the roads.

Mr. Sherwin is the driver of the rural route No. 1, Roseneath, going straight east from Roseneath to Dartford. He also delivers the mail on the back road to Roseneath, a distance of 17 miles. Once or twice every winter or spring Mr. Sherwin conscientiously walks around his route and delivers the mail, when roads are almost impassable. Mr. Sherwin said the only one car he saw on the road was stuck in the mud.

Strikes Man Abusing Horse

TORONTO, March 30 (CP) — An animal-lover who struck a milk-wagon driver he thought was abusing a horse was convicted Wednesday of assault.

Magistrate F. C. Gullen, giving suspended sentence to Charles B. Haney for hitting Marvin McKay when McKay sought to punish the horse, commented:

"Two wrongs never make a right. McKay was in the wrong when he slapped or ill-treated the horse. Haney was in the wrong when he assaulted McKay, who suffered a broken bone in the face."

General Motors, Union Start Contract Talks

DETROIT, March 30 (AP) — General Motors and the United Auto Workers (CIO) Wednesday opened contract talks that will be watched keenly by all industry and labor in the United States.

A joint announcement that bargaining already is under way came as a surprise—a week earlier than expected. It was the earliest possible start for negotiations under the cost-of-living agreement now in effect. That expires in 60 days.

Meantime, pension negotiations at strike-bound Chrysler Corporation were recessed until Monday at the request of the federal and state mediators amidst reports that the negotiations were hopelessly snarled. It was the longest recess since negotiations resumed several weeks after the strike started.

In the fire at the Cocoanut Grove night club in Boston, in 1942, 493 people were burned to death.

Trimming Turns One Hat Serve Wardrobe of Costumes

By ALICIA HART

How to turn one hat into a wardrobe of pretty bonnets is a penny-wise trick any traveller—or girl with budget troubles—can learn. And the expert to teach you is Mary Goodfellow, a millinery designer noted for her clever changeabout tricks with hats.

If one hat is all you can swing on your budget, settle for a well-designed basic hat silhouette, she advises. Your choice might be a bonnet, a sailor or a medium-brimmed picture hat. To make your hat serve a variety of costumes, use a variety of different detachable trims.

Accessory trimmings, Miss Goodfellow suggests, are snap-on facings, bands, flower wreaths and veils. These can be assembled for a modest price and take up a minimum of space in vacation luggage.

Snap-on facings for a bonnet trim can be made in firm-textured materials to match or to contrast with tailored dresses and suits. To make a white pique facing, for example, all you need to do is to cut a paper pattern to conform to the curve of the brim. Using the pattern as a guide, cut two thicknesses of pique on the bias and seam together as you would a collar. Sew snap fasteners to the inner band of the hat and to the inside edge of the pique to attach facing to brim. Stiffly starching the pique keeps the facing crisp and more resistant to soil, says Miss Goodfellow.

To pretty up your hat for wear with an afternoon sheer, wreathe the crown with flowers, advises the designer. Copy custom-made bonnets by picking flowers in a shade to match your dress. To make your wreath, tack flowers to a velvet ribbon and tie around the crown or tuck the ribbon ends underneath the brim at each side and snap to the fasteners on the hat band.

Veils provide more headline changes. Miss Goodfellow's trick to make a face veil fit neatly over the hat brim and under the chin is an easy one to follow. For this you take a strip of veiling, gather the ends and shir across the top with elastic thread.

FLAPPER'S RETURN—Some "new" spring styles look an awful lot like the flapper fashions worn in the Twenties and laughed at in the Thirties. Parisian artist Van Longen's portrait of a 1920 belle is almost duplicated by the model wearing the latest Jacques Fath short-skirted evening gown.

PENNY-WISE PLAN of this clever girl makes one hat serve a wardrobe of costumes. To make a detachable facing from the brim of her basic blue straw bonnet, she bastes a homemade paper pattern to yellow linen (left) before she cuts the material.

Another facing of white pique made from the same pattern is shown (lower right) snapped in place for wear with a tailored suit. A wreath of pink rosebuds ties around the crown (upper right) to dress up the bonnet to complement a pink afternoon dress.

Faulkner-Millen

At the parsonage of George St. United Church, the Rev. Dr. Jas. Semple, on Saturday afternoon, performed the marriage of Barbara Gloria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Millen, R. R. 1, Omemee, and Donald Faulkner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Faulkner of Kinmount.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown, becoming veil headdress and carried an arm bouquet of red roses. Miss Lona Martin as bridesmaid was in yellow moire and carried talisman roses and narcissi.

Mr. Roy Millen was groomsman.

At the bride's home she received wedding guests, assisted by her mother, wearing a grey chiffon dress, and the groom's mother in navy, each wearing a red rose corsage. A buffet lunch was served by the bride's sister.

For going-away the bride chose a pale blue suit, navy accessories and a wine shortie coat. The couple left on a wedding trip to Toronto and points west and on return will live in Peterborough.

WomenSolonsFew Yet Rights Equal In Most Nations

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (CP)—Women around the world are still leaving most legislative jobs to men, a United Nations survey has disclosed.

In 52 countries women have political rights equal to men. But only exceptionally does the percentage of women in legislative assemblies exceed 10 although electorates are usually more than 50 per cent women.

The report was made for the U. N. Commission on the Status of Women which meets again in May to continue pressing for equal rights for women.

The commission has said it will continue the fight until "all women throughout the world have the same political rights as men."

The report does not say why the percentage of women legislators is low. But it does hint that there are reasons other than discrimination. It says:

"Members of the commission will realize. . .that many factors other than possible discrimination against women are reflected in these statistics."

Russia Leads

The statistics show that the percentage of women members of legislative assemblies is highest in Russia, with 277 women reported in the Supreme Soviet. But even there women make up only 20 per cent of the 1,339 total.

Following Russia on the list is Finland, with 12 per cent. Israel, Denmark, Poland, Sweden, France, China, Australia and Norway are next in line with smaller percentages of feminine representation in legislation.

At present there are no members in the Canadian House of Commons. There are two women in the Senate.

In 12 countries women are not permitted to vote or hold elective office. They are Columbia, Costa Rica, Egypt, Haiti, Honduras Iran, Iraq, Jordon, Lebanon, Leichtenstein, Nicaraugua, and Switzerland.

A separate report shows that of 588 representatives, alternates and advisers at the last UN general assembly, 24 were women. Canada's delegation included Senator Cairine Wilson of Rockcliffe Ont.

Oft the 3,916 U. N. employees, the report said, 1,737 are women There is one woman with 85 men in the top four grades of UN officials. The woman is Mrs. Alva Myrdal of Sweden, top ranking director of the Department of Social Affairs.

Lylah Gerow Weds L. C. Thornington

In St. Luke's Anglican Church the Rev. W. J. Gilling on Saturday afternoon performed the marriage of Lylah Gerow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Gerow of Sexsmith, Alberta, and Laurence Thornington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thornington of Oshawa.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. P. Gerow of Peterborough. She wore a powder blue suit with navy accessories and a corsage of red Sweetheart roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Jean Curtis, was wearing a brown suit with matching accessories and yellow roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Duncan McCallum.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amie Rishea, 269 Lake St. Receiving with the bride was her aunts, Mrs. P. Gerow, who wore a beige suit with brown accessories and corsage of white carnations. Also the groom's mother attired in a navy ensemble with corsage of white carnations.

After their honeymoon the couple will live in Peterborough.

This week's meeting of the YWCA Old Country Club took the form of a dinner party at which Mrs. Lavinia Kitchen was the hostess. She was celebrating her 80th birthday and her granddaughter Mrs. Harry Lavoie her third wedding anniversary. The table was laid with a lace cloth and centred with a basket of roses and pink candles, and a large decorated cake. President Mrs. E. Ray presented gifts to Mrs. Kitchen and gave roses to two other members of long standing, Mrs. Matthews and Mrs. Lewis. Mrs. Jean Isles entertaining with a song and the evening was spent singing and dancing with Mrs. Wm. Davies of Toronto providing music at the piano.

Continue Series

Continuation of the "Round-the-World" lecture on London, England, by Mrs. W. J. Gilling, which began during So-Ed classes this winter, was given Wednesday evening at the YWCA. A film on Westminster Abbey and another of the city illustrated the speaker's remarks. Plans were made to hold another such evening when New York City will be studied. Those present enjoyed a social time and refreshments prepared and served by Miss Marion Foster of the YW staff.

Present Skits

Worship service at this week's meeting of George St. YPU was conducted by culture convener Miss Hazel Mutton, and was in the form of three short skits, each entitled "Mind your P's and Q's." Those taking part were Marion Pound, Dorothy Graham, Lloyd Starke, Hazel Mutton, Shirley Packard, Bill Shepphard, Dorothy Leslie, Phyllis McClennan and Joe Whetung. Prayer was offered by Miss Mutton and Miss McClennan read the scripture. Arthur Embury was at the piano.

Lloyd Starke conducted the meeting and Dorothy Graham led in a sing-song.

Unique Plans Made For Tea

Those who will assist at the Centennial Tea on Friday afternoon at the YWCA have been making unusual preparations for their attire on this occasion. "Unusual" because they have collected most of their clothing from cobwebby attics and old trunks and they will be representing the various periods of fashion in the past 100 years. There will be one complete outfit that was purchased in 1896. A cape more than a century old will complete another ensemble.

On the tea table there will be a damask cloth with border interwoven with pink roses that is many years old. The flowers will be in an antique china bowl and heirloom silver tea services will be used.

The event has been arranged by the Local Council of Women, under direction of citizenship convener, Mrs. E. B. McWilliams. President Mrs. William Steinkraus will receive, assisted by Mrs. M. J. Swanston and Mayor Swanston will also take part in this tea when he cuts a large cake with "100-Year" decorations.

Tea pourers will be Mrs. G. A. MacDonald, Miss Florence Hamilton, Mrs. W. G. Ovens and Mrs. A. A. McIntyre.

Learn Us of Flannelgraph

Forty teachers and officers of George St. Church Sunday school met Wednesday at the supper hour in the basement auditorium. The meal was supervised by members of the co-workers Bible class, with Mrs. Ruth Reynolds as convener, and they were thanked by Mr. Otto Mackey, superintendent of the mission department. Miss Isabel Connolly was the speaker of the evening, giving instruction and a demonstration of the use of flannelgraph in teaching Bible stories, taking the life of Joseph as an example. Miss Lareta Sedgwick, superintendent of the primary department, expressed appreciation to her for bringing this information. In absence of Mr. C. McBride, superintendent, his assistant, Mr. Quirt McKinney, conducted a brief business session. Next meeting is scheduled for the third Wednesday in May and plans for the summer will be formulated.

Party Honors Couple

A surprise party was arranged by family members to fete Mr and Mrs. E. R. Armstrong, Carlisle Ave., on their 30th wedding anniversary Wednesday. The couple received many lovely gifts and enjoyed a gala evening of canasta and other games at their home which was flower-decked for the occasion. Delicious refreshments included an anniversary cake. Among those present was their son LAC E. G. Armstrong who is with the RCAF, his wife and children Carol and Linda Armstrong. Also Mr. and Mrs. C. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. R. Armstrong, Mrs. E. Baumer, Misses Helen Warner, Sandra Menzies, Don Armstrong and Gerard Armstrong.

Big Crowd Enjoys Wide Range Of Entertainment

An air of gaiety prevailed at Prince of Wales School Tuesday evening, when a crowd of parents and interested friends joined in the festivities of "Fun Night," arranged by the Home and School Association.

The strains of violin and piano, (played by Mr. A. Parker and Mrs. Foster respectively), echoed through the halls, and the mellow voice of Mr. Stanley Jackson as he "called off" for square-dances was an invitation to all. This room was filled to capacity, while many waited outside in the hope of partaking in the fun. Each square dance was followed by a folk-dance under the able direction of Mr. R. Scrutton. Most popular of these, a merry Danish number, had to be repeated again and again, and was enjoyed by both onlookers and participants.

Another room, which was filled to overflowing most of the evening, was the "euchre room." Prize for the men was carried off by Mr. Vic. Wilson, while Mrs. A. H. Witherstone held top honors for ladies. Some guests found the "crokinole room" more to their liking, and here Mrs. J. S. McClelland captured the first prize. Junior prizes were won by Doug. Livingstone, and Paul Sparrow.

The "book room" attracted a large number of visitors. Here, used books in good condition, found a ready market. Magazines and periodicals could be had for the taking.

The candy table, laden with an abundant supply of home-made candy of all kinds, was well patronized, and the white elephant table with its assortment of odds and ends, attractively arranged, made a pleasing display, and drew a fair share of customers.

In the music room, in the basement, movies were shown all evening, and in this cool spot, many found a quiet haven after going through the strenuous paces of a "square." "Westminster Abbey" and "Scenic Beauties of Banff" were among the pictures shown; both appealing to the eye.

It would be remiss to neglect giving a special word of praise for the refreshment booth. Tea, coffee and sandwiches, soft drinks and hot dogs were supplied to an ever-growing crowd, whose appetite seemed to increase as the evening wore on.

Association president Mrs. F. Gray, and program convener Mrs. J. Morley were responsible for the evening.

MR. AND MRS. KEITH VICTOR CLYSDALE whose marriage was solemnized Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Fred Horton at his home in Peterborough. The bride is Marilyn Yvonne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Cecil Oliver of R. R. 2, Lakefield. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart J. Clysdale, R. R. 2, Warsaw. Attendants were the groom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Payne. After a reception at the bride's home the couple left on a short motor trip. Duke Studio Photo.

35 Hats in Star's Trousseau

NEW YORK, March 30. — There'll be none of those new short skirts in the trousseau of movie actress Elizabeth Taylor when she takes off with her husband for a honeymoon in May.

The violet - eyed 18-year-old girl whirled, docile as a dummy, while master tailor Seymour Fox fitted shoulders and waistlines on $1,000 worth of suits and coats to her figure. But she stamped when he reached the hemline.

"Fifteen inches, I think," said Fox, who first knew Miss Taylor as a little girl of 12. "No!" said Elizabeth. And she won — they will be 13 inches off the floor.

And it's a pleasure, Fox said, to give in to such a charming customer. In a whirlwind three weeks between radio appearances and dancing evenings with fiancee Conrad H. Hilton Jr., the beautiful Elizabeth has bought so much trousseau she can't remember all of it.

In addition there have been dresses and belts and gloves and blouses and trousseau lingerie. And some 35 hats from Sally Victor!

"I love it all," said Miss Taylor. 'I can't even wait. I've worn some of them already.'

The Fox suits and coats, advance models from his fall collection for the stores, included a navy blue gabardine suit with wide white pique revers; a grey flannel suit with a red velvet collar; suits in pale blue wool and back silk faille. The coats are double - breasted, flare-skirted faille to matching suit and a swinging grey tweed Fox hand made in Dior's Paris workrooms.

Two trunks and some suitcases and hatboxes will hold the trousseau, it is guessed by Elizabeth, for the grand tour of Europe. The honeymoon will start with a week somewhere in the west and a visit back home for Mother's Day.

Follows Trail of Odd Events By Lying On Her Stomach

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK —(AP)— Maxine Allen Schoyer has already worn out one rug.

Attractive Mrs. Schoyer is unusual in two ways. She is an anniversary detective, and she's the only known history reseacher who does most of her work lying on her stomach.

"I went shopping for a new rug recently," she said, "and the saleswoman was considerably upset when I told her I wanted a comfortable rug to lie on."

Discovering anniversary dates started out as a hobby with her. Always a bear for history, as a former newspaper reporter, advertising copy writer, radio commentator and publicist, she understands the importance of keeping track of the dates of past events.

The hobby is threatening to become a profitable business. Mrs. Schoyer and her husband, William, now publish an annual digest of important anniversaries. Orders come from newspapers, radio stations, advertising agencies, publicity firms, librarians, free lance writers, publishing firms, music publishers and from people who like to read about anniversaries the way others like to read almanacs.

Maxine does the anniversary hunting, with occasional spare-time assists from her three teen-age sons and her husband, who edits the volume.

There's nothing that gives Mrs. Schoyer more pleasure than getting on the trail of a new anniversary. Anniversary fanciers consider a first-rate anniversary to be a first, fifth, 10th, 25th, 50th 100th, 500th or 1,000th.

She claims she lives constantly in the past—finding anniversaries—or in the future—compiling next year's edition. Never the present.

Toad Superstition

"I have just about forgotten the anniversaries in this year's edition," she confesses. "But there was one that was fun hunting down. It's the 125th anniversary of an experiment disproving the old superstition that toads will live for ages in solid rock.

Mrs. Schoyer is a native of Columbia, Mo., and showed an unusual interest in books at a tender age.

"When I was two I had a book that I took to bed with me the way most children take their dolls to bed," she said. "I think it was Ruskin's 'Sesame and the Lilies,' of course, I couldn't read."

The Schoyers do much of their research at home in Pittsburgh. They have a huge collection of old books, almanacs and magazines. The Americana books alone total more than 2,000. Anniversary hunting consists of reading just about everything you can get your hands on, particularly if it's old. On vacations, the five Schoyers spend an appalling amount of time crawling around musty attics and cellars looking for material.

The three boys take great joy in finding anniversaries and have a knowledge of history and odd facts which is almost frightening. The whole family can scarcely stand to listen to quiz shows.

"I was on one once in Pittsburgh," Maxine said sadly. "and instead of asking me straight questions, they gave me trick ones like 'what month do women talk least?' After I got around to saying 'February' they paid off in 12 silver dollars—which I had to split four ways with the kids."

New Felt Jacket Covers Teapots

LONDON —(CP)—Britons like their tea hot, and a special teapot with a heat-insulating "interlining" of felt has been devised to meet this need.

The new device, adapted to both tea and coffee pots, is the idea of a Birmingham firm and will be shown at the British Industries Fair in May at London and Birmingham.

The pots themselves are of ivory-colored earthenware, and are fitted with an outer casing of chromium metal lined with felt. The felt keeps the beverage piping hot.

Stewardesses Man Lifeboats

SOUTHAMPTON, England —(CP)—Stewardesses aboard British ocean liners will be trained to care for passenegers in lifeboats if the order "abandon ship" should come.

The girls soon will be taking a course in lifeboat handling at the National Sea-Training School here. They'll receive Board of Trade lifeboat efficiency certificates if they pass examinations at the end of the week's course.

Explained Captain Reginald Noyce, commandant of the school: "It is compulsory for all members of a ship's crew with more than a year's sea-going experience to take the course, but not for stewardesses."

"Now several shipping companies have told me they are sending their stewardesses to take this course, so that they will know how to look after passengers if they have to abandon ship."

At present 120 Merchant Navy men a month take the week's course at the school.

The men are taught to handle the equipment a lifeboat contains, boat sailing, compass reading, how to share out the rations and water supplies to make them last, and how to keep the passengers cheerful. The seamen carry out emergency boat-lowering drill from davits on the dockside.

DOROTHY DIX

Successful Stepmother Feels Rewarded for Her Efforts

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: More than a dozen years ago I gave up an excellent position to invest two college degrees and the savings of a few years in life with a man who had small children. I know what it means to put up with old furniture and to wear old clothes because the money had to be spent for small boys' shoes, countless quarts of milk, doctors' bills, etc. I know what it means to pass sleepless nights attending sick beds, what it means to be driven nearly frantic by childish noises and thoughtless mischief.

But we all tried to play the game, and now when they call me the best mother in the world and when I see them grow into fine me and women I am rewarded. There can be such a joy in the stepmother's lot if one is only willing to be patient and to pay the price. A STEPMOTHER.

ANSWER: I commend this fine, wise, brave letter to the many women who have married men with children and whose souls are fainting under the misery and hardships they have brought upon themselves.

The lot of every mother is a hard one. And the stepmother must put up with everything that the real mother must put up with, without the mystic mother love that make sacrifice sweet, that makes a woman blind to children's faults and deaf to their noises. The stepmother has nothing to take the curse off the irritation of children, nothing to turn them from brats into angels. Not only has she no mother love to inspire her. She is often bitterly jealous of her stepchildren and resentful of the affection their father bestows upon them.

Most Are Miserable

I get thousands of letters from disgruntled stepmothers who bewail their unhappy fates and declare they are of all women the most miserable. The trouble with them is that they are not like the stopmother who wrote this letter, willing to pay the price of stepmotherhood. They are not willing to make the sacrifices for their stepchildren they would gladly make for their own. They are not willing to do the labor for their stepchildren that they would rejoice in doing for their own. They are not willing to give their stepchildren the same forbearance they would show their own or make the excuses for them that they would for their own.

If they did, they would reap a great reward. For somehow, children do grow up, they do get civilized, they do pass through the awful hobbledoy stage, they do turn into men and women. And if the stepmother has shown them love and tenderness and understanding, often they love her better their own children do and are more considerate of her, because there is always the feeling in their hearts that what she did for them was a matter of grace and not of duty, and that she was such a darn good sport about it all.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a married man with three children. Am 35 years old. Recently I met a girl of 16 who fell in love with me at first sight and told me so and asked me to write to her. I told my wife about this affair and she was very angry because I told her that I intended to write to the girl and keep her in love with me until she was older. By doing this I will keep her out of trouble she is headed for as being in love with a man she cannot have may keep her from doing things she should not do. My wife thinks I should not write to her, for it will make things worse and it will be harder for her to give me up later than now. She says I should let the affair drop and let the girl fall in love with someone else. What do you advise? I want to do right.—X.

ANSWER: Well, if you want to do right and also if you want to keep yourself out of trouble, you will take your wife's advice. A girl like that is about as dangerous to handle as an H-bomb. Your only safety consists in keeping as far away from her as possible.

The trouble with you is that you are flattered by the little moron falling in love with you and you are not averse to a little flirtation on the side. Face that fact, Mister, and quit trying to deceive yourself into thinking that you are altruistically bent on saving the girl. In your heart you know this. Also, you know that the way to put out a love fire is just to let it burn itself out, not by piling fresh fuel in the shape of love letters on it.

DEAR MISS DIX: We have lost our dear oldest sister. Our big brother is at home and his only pleasure is to listen to the radio, but since this sister's death we have never turned it on, although it would be a great comfort to us to hear it. Is it too early yet to have the radio on? How long does mourning last for a daughter and a sister?—C.B.

ANSWER: If you loved the dear, dead girl, your grief will last as long as life lasts but people no longer make the fetish of formal mourning that they used to do. So turn on your radio and get what pleasure and comfort you can out of that. It will take your thoughts off your sorrow and you need to have that done. Life is for the living, not for the dead. Those who have gone hence would not add to our grief by having us deny ourselves any innocent pleasure.

Engineer, Editor Woman Success

SYDNEY, Australia, —(CP) — Seventy - one - year - old Mrs. Florence Taylor, O.B.E., is one of the Australia's most successful business women.

For many years a qualified structural engineer and architect she also runs a profitable business as managing director of a publishing company in Sydney which puts out three technical magazines for the building and engineering trades.

Mrs. Taylor, born in Bristol, England, didn't always find easy going in invading the man's world of engineering. In 1905, when she applied for membership in the Institute of Architects of Australia, she was refused. It wasn't until five years later that she overcame prejudice and was accepted by the institute.

By that time she was firmly established as Australia's first woman architect and first woman structural engineer. For many years Mrs. Taylor was also the only woman member of the Master Printers' Association.

6—In Memoriams

GRAHAM—In memory of Albert Edward Graham, who passed away March 30, 1942.

We lost a husband and dad with a heart of gold,
Who was more to us than wealth untold,
Without a farewell he fell asleep,
With only happy memory for us to keep.
We have lost but God has gained
One of the best husbands and dads the world contained.

—Sadly missed by wife and family.

French Broadcast Lessons In Love

PARIS, March 30 —(Reuters)—French author Andre Maurois Wednesday night warned wives against the dangers of monotony in marriage.

Broadcasting the seventh of his "eight lessons on love" over the Paris radio, Maurois said monotony could drive even the most perfect husband to folly.

His advice to retain just that touch of "coquette" would serve a double purpose, he said. It would keep the husband interested — and induce him to hand out the modicum of 'loving words' which keeps wives young.

But if things did go wrong and a wife found that her man had been unfaithful, Maurois suggested forgiveness on the basis of the knowledge that "the strongest man is weak before a bold woman."

In love, he said, "tout comprendre c'est tout pardonner"— to understand all is to forgive all.

Northern School Gets Coal, Opens

TIMMINS, March 30 —(CP)— The Timmins office of a coal distributing firm reported today that American coal is on its way to Hearst, where the public school has been closed for lack of heat and extra blankets have been issued in the hospital.

He said jammed railways in the United States have held up the shipment since the end of the coal strike.

St. Paul's Hospital in Hearst, where 55 patients are shivering under extra blankets, borrowed one carload of coal destined for Spruce Falls Power and Paper Co. at Kapuskasing.

It was reported to have provided a certain amount of heat for the hospital but was too fine to work satisfactorily.

The seventh line of Otonabee, west of Keene, was also impassable Tuesday and the going is still heavy. The same applies to the Crowley Line in Otonabee. In an attempt to restore the sinking surface quantities of crushed gravel and pit-run gravel were dumped on it.

Keep Off Roads

"Keep off the roads altogether unless you have to drive," is the advice of Provincial Constable Bert Howden of Apsley. "The roads are breaking up all over, and the side roads are just about impassable in this district."

Constable Howden reports the Burleigh-to-Bancroft section of Highway 28 is "badly broken up" and motoring conditions are poor. Few cars seem to have been stuck in the Apsley district, he says. And the chief reason is that the drivers have kept them in the garage.

Flooding of Highway 62 still exists north of Bancroft and on another section just east of Round Lake. Motor traffic can get through, however.

The general consensus is that the thaw has come sooner and quicker than usual. Those charged with looking after roads are hoping for at least a few more weeks of cool weather to cushion the thaw.

The Department of Highways assesses Ontario road damage to date as about $5,000,000.

Prague Renews Credentials Of 3 Reporters

PRAGUE, March 30—(AP)—The Czechoslovakian government today renewed the press credentials of three western correspondents here. Only Wednesday it ordered the expulsion of the lone American representative of the Associated Press in Czechoslovakia.

Accreditations were extended until June 30 for Dana Adams Schmidt of the New York Times, Robert Bigio of Reuters, and Gaston Fournier of the Agence-France-Presse.

John R. Higgins of the United Press will learn tomorrow whether his accreditation will be renewed.

The government Wednesday ordered AP correspondent Nathan Polowetzky to leave the country before April 8. A Foreign Ministry official said the ban was ordered because of "unobjective reporting." Polowetzky's predecessor as Chief of the Associated Press Bureau here, Richard Kasischke, and three other veteran western newspaper men were expelled last January.

The three correspondents who were reaccredited reported they were told the Czech government had no "hostile" policy toward western newspaper men.

They said Bedrich Runge, deputy press chief of the foreign ministry, told them government officials had refused to extend Polowetzky's accreditation because he showed "constant hostility to the present regime."

Shocking Affront

(In a cable sent from New York to Czech Minister of Information Vaclac Kopecky, Associated Press general manager Frank J. Starzel Wednesday protested Polowetzky's expulsion as a "shocking affront to an organization which has been the foremost accurate and objective reporter of news in your country and the rest of the world.")

The correspondents said Runge told them:

"We don't expect you to write propaganda. That is not your job. We admit that Czechoslovakia is not a paradise. We expect you to be critical and analytical. But Polowetzky never ceased to attack the government.

Runge, the correspondent said, told them he had many clippings of Polowetzky's news reports which had appeared in American and Canadian newspapers.

Runge said all of them showed Polowetzky's bias and partiality.

Owen Sound Saucer Sounds Like Diesel

OWEN SOUND, March 30 (CP) —Here's a report about a flying saucer that "sounded like a Diesel engine."

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blakey of nearby Wareham district in Osprey Township said today that early March 26 they watched a strange object in the sky for half an hour.

Mrs. Blakely described the sight in the northwestern sky as "a sheet of light and above it a disk of light as large as the moon." She said the object made a noise louder than a truck and similar to that of a Diesel engine.

Woman Of 8

English, Irish, Scotch and Welsh, as the name implies), presented Mrs. Kitchen with a bouquet of roses and lingerie items on behalf of the members.

Four special guests were given corsages by Mrs. F. Ball, a club official. They were Mrs. Spencer Kitchen, Mrs. Harry Lavoie and Mrs. William Davies and Mrs. Reg. Denyer of Toronto.

Mrs. Spencer Kitchen is the 80-year-old woman's daughter-in-law; and Mrs. Lavoie was singled out because she was a granddaughter and was also celebrating her wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Larry Parton was another special guest.

A widow, Mrs. Kitchen left England in 1912 to make a new home in Canada. Her son Spencer, now a watchman at De Laval, recalled it was only two weeks after the Titanic went down.

Lived in Campbellford

The family lived in Campbellford till 1922 and then came to Peterborough. A daughter, Margaret Louisa, died nine years ago and since then Mrs. Kitchen has lived with her married son.

At present his wife is working in Oshawa and the elderly woman is keeping house for her son in his five-room Water St. flat. Not a speck of dust is to be seen; the apartment is spotless.

Although her hearing is poor, Mrs. Kitchen's other faculties are alert. Besides looking after her son's apartment she does the shopping (though often accompanied by him) and takes a lively interest in the family's affairs. She reads extensively but requires glasses.

One thing she finds tricky is navigating the 36 steep stairs leading up to the apartment. They are both tiring and hazardous.

"I enjoyed the party," she said afterwards reflectively. "And I wanted my son (she indicated her 56-year-old son Spencer) to have some pictures of me and the rest of the family. It will be nice for him when he grows older."

23 Doukhobors Face Charges On Rail Damage

NELSON, B. C., March 30 — Twenty-three Doukhobors, members of the radical Sons of Freedom group, Wednesday night were committed for trial on charge of conspiring to damage and of destruction of Canadian Pacific railway property.

The 23 said in statements "we have repented and will not take part in such action again."

The group was committed in connection with two dynamite blasts and one attempted blast last Fall in the area near this south-central interior city.

Dynamited Rails.

The group committed for destruction of a stretch of track at Saghum, three miles west of here, testified at the prelimniary hearing that sacks of dynamite were placed on the rails and that three freight trains passed before the fuse could be lighted.

Some 60 trains a day are dispatched in the Kootenay division of the C. P. R. where last Fall the fear of bombings caused crews to patrol ahead of trains on speeders and guard bridges No trains were damaged, however.

The same group said their action took place after a meeting in nearby Krestova, one of the Sons of Freedom strongholds, where it was decided to "disturb the people of Canada and the Government and to awaken the Doukhobor people and let them know we are leaving the country for we cannot live here without our leader."

They did not reveal what they meant by their "leader" although they referred back consistently to the wish of government "find our leader."

Easter Selections Given At Mission Circle

Mrs. Grace Samson, 313 Reid St., was hostess Wednesday evening to members of Jean Wagar Mission Circle. President, Miss Gladys Langton conducted an inspiring Easter program, which opened with a hymn and litany of praise.

Easter readings and poems were contributed by Miss Jean Hammond and Mrs. L. Aikenhead, while Miss Lottie Leggett read a story, "The beauty of the lily." Guitar accompaniment for hymns was played by Mrs. Samson, who also sang the Easter solo "Gethsemane." The offering was received and the offertory prayer given by Miss Connie Wagar. All joined in the "Affirmation of Faith," prayer by the president closed the worship service.

Mrs. Hill, Presbyterial secretary of Mission Circles was a guest and brought greetings and good wishes.

"Stewardship of the Family" was an interesting topic introduced by Mrs. E. Ephgrave who stressed that such stewardship is measured by "love." "In Health and Healing" was the chapter for study this month presented by Mrs. R. Booth, who told stories of the work being done by medical missionaries in the overseas mission fields and in Canada.

During the business session, arrangements were completed for visiting Mark St. Circle for their April meeting. Literature secretary, Miss Shirley Potts, distributed literature and recorded the number of books read by the members during March. A book prize for a poster on the needs for missionary candidates was presented by the candidate secretary, Miss Wagar. Miss Leggett expressed appreciation for a sunshine box sent during her recent illness.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Mel. Hunter, and a happy social hour was enjoyed.

Danes Keep Gubitchev Under Cabin Arrest

COPENHAGEN, March 30 (CP) — Danish police placed Soviet engineer Valentine Gubitchev under virtual arrest today during his brief stay here.

Gubitchev, given the chance of leaving the United States after his conviction on espionage charges, was locked in his cabin aboard the Polish liner Batory to prevent anyone meeting him when the vessel docked today.

The Batory was due to stay in Copenhagen only a few hours. The ship is scheduled to arrive in Gdynia, Poland, tomorrow morning.

Open Shipping Apr. 10 On Upper Great Lakes

CLEVELAND, O., March 30.—(AP).—O. T. Burnham, Lake Carriers Association secretary, said today navigation in the Upper Great Lakes probably will start some time between April 10 and 16.

The Association's ice committee has scheduled a meeting for some time next week at the call of its chairman. Further study of the ice situation will be made then, Burnham added.

The committee's meeting this week made the April 10-16 prediction, he said, after studying weather Bureau reports from Detroit.

The committee and the coast guard decide when to put icebreakers to work and get the season under way.

Mrs. Ron McGee Elected Head Lions Wives Club

Wives of Lion's Club members have decided to organize a club of their own and held a meeting Wednesday evening at the Empress Hotel. Mrs. Ron McGee acted as chairman after an election of officers took charge as president.

Other officers are: first vice-president, Mrs. Vert Reynolds; second vice-president, Mrs. Bill Dorrington; secretary, Mrs. E. L. Horning; treasurer, Mrs. T. Doughty. Appointed as directors for one year are Mrs. Jim McCulloch and Mrs. George Hildenbrand, and for two years Mrs. Doug. Anderson and Mrs. Harvey Weidner.

This executive will meet next week to decide on a name for the organization and the place and date of monthly meetings.

The ladies spent part of the evening playing canasta and bridge and enjoyed a buffet supper.

Kill Or Get Ulcers

LOS ANGELES, March 30 (AP) —Dr. Robert Lindner, expert on criminal psychology, said Wednesday: "Many of us want to murder, but few of us do. Those who do not, perhaps, get ulcers instead." "The only essential difference between a lawbreaker and his fellow man is that the offender acts out what others suffer."

MIRACLE "READING" PENCIL—The blind can "read" an ordinary book or any printed matter using this new electronic pencil demonstrated at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, by James Fika. Developed by the National Research Council, the pencil scans print with a beam of light, which is converted into "readable" sound signals by means of a photoelectric cell. Researchers are working now on a model which will actually pronounce the letters.

Thessalon Dam Said Leaking

THESSALON, March 30—(CP)—Rumors that the new Mississagi Hydro Electric dam here leaks was confirmed by resident engineer W. M. Reynolds today, but he explained that such leakage was expected and provision for drainage was made.

The engineer explained that cement is poured in blocks of 30 and 40 feet dimensions with expansion blocks being placed between to act as joints. The weather affects the concrete joints which open up and consequently develop small leaks.

"We have been aware that this would happen," Reynolds said, "and we placed drains at these points to carry away the leakage."

The engineer said the rumors have been exaggerated and that the situation is not nearly as bad as was expected.

"There's nothing serious about this," he added.

Smart Variety Concert Given At Norwood

NORWOOD, March 30 (ENS)—A splendid variety concert was presented in Norwood Town Hall, Saturday. The talented group, all of Toronto, were organized by Miss Kitty Dodds of that city.

The Rev. C. J. Carroll welcomed the entertainers on behalf of the parish and introduced Mr. George Barrett who took over as Master of Ceremonies.

Highlight of the program were the numbers by sixteen of the 32-voice Boy's Choir of St. Mary's Church, Toronto, first prize winners at the Kiwanis Festival, under the direction of Brother Walter.

Popular item was the Irish Jig and Puzzle dance routines by the Morrison sisters of Toronto.

Solos were sung by Miss Theresa Doyle "My Hero", "I'm in love with Vienna", "Heart That's Free" and "Alice Blue Gown". Miss Kitty Dodds sang "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "Annie Laurie". Mr. George Barrett sang four songs "Mother O'Mine", "Bluebird of Happiness", "Dear Little Boy of Mine" and "I'll Forget Thee". Near the end of the program, a draw was made. Winners were, Mr. Richard Coughlin, a linen luncheon set; Miss Lillian McLaughlin, overnight case, and Mrs. Robert Crowhurst, one pair of sheets.

Later the group were served lunch by the women of the parish

Hold Protest Of Rules On Border Crossings

FORT ERIE, March 30 (CP)—The Greater Fort Erie Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night failed to take any official action to protest proposed changes in border crossing regulations effective April 1 by which Canadian tourist automobile owners will have to obtain trip permits from customs at border points prior to visiting the United States.

The decision not to protest was made in view of a telegram received from Federa Labor Minister Mitchell which said the only effect the proposed change will have on Canadian automobile owners who cross the border regularly is that instead of procuring an annual permit from the Canadian customs, a semi-annual permit will be required.

The Cramber decided to instruct managing director Ross McCarty to make a survey of the situation at the Peace Bridge sometime after April 1 and if any delay exists again bring the matter to the attention of the Chamber.

Flying Saucers Visit Mediterranean Area

LONDON, March 30 (Reuters)—Flying saucers, variously described as full moons, moons with wakes of fire, or strange bodies emitting smoke trails, have been reported skittering in all directions across the heavens above the Mediterranean.

In Haifa Wednesday, reports circulated that they had been seen over northern Israel.

A Lebanese pilot said he had seen them over Acre—travelling at a high speed in a westerly direction. Others described them as "discs travelling northwards at a great altitude and emitting a smoke trail."

Italy reported that they had been sighted over various parts of the country five times Tuesday.

Saucers were also observed Tuesday at Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital; at Santiago in Chile; over Nicosia airport, Cyprus; over Bogota, Medellin and Cali, all in western Colombia; and at the northern Caribbean port of Barranquilla.

Got Prompt Relief From Gas, Stomach Disorders

Also Suffered Two Years Backache and Rheumatic Pains, Nerves On Edge, Couldn't Sleep, Tells How Syntona Helped Her.

How often have you heard a friend or neighbor tell of the good results they got by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound? Time and again you read or heard of people who obtained gratifying relief from common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels, and how it helped to rid them of gas, bloating and heartburn, lame, aching back, dizzy spells, or nervous rundown condition.

Here is what Mrs. Edith Gunby, Caledonia, Ontario, has to say of her experience with Syntona:

"My digestion was so bad that even the lightest foods gave me gas, cramps, and sour acid risings. I would get attacks of heartburn often followed by a nauseated, dizzy feeling and sick headache. Many days I didn't care whether I ate or not. My entire system became rundown, nerves were so on edge I couldn't sleep well and rheumatic pains set in my limbs, joints and muscles. My back was lame and sore and I often felt completely tired out.

"So many people were recommending Syntona that I decided to see what it would do for me, and now I cannot praise it too highly. It is all due to this medicine that I can now enjoy my meals again and have no trouble with gas, sourness or heartburn. I am free of headaches and dizzy spells, my nerves are better and I am able to sleep more soundly at night. Also, the rheumatic pains and backache have gone away and I now have more strength to do my work."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Cardy Fined $40,000, No Jail Term

Defence Says Money Used To Bring Tourists To Canada

MONTREAL, March 31 (CP) —Vernon Cardy, retired hotel owner and internationally-known sportsman, today was fined $40,000 for violating foreign exchange control board regulations. He pleaded guilty last month to five charges involving $200,000.

Although prosecution counsel had suggested a $100,000 fine plus a jail term, the sentence handed out this morning by Judge Gerald Almond contained no prison term.

Maximum sentence for the offences is double the amount involved as a fine and a year in jail.

Counsel for the 60-year-old Galt, Ont., native pleaded for a minimum fine because the money involved had been used for publicity purposes which brought United States tourists to Canada.

Judge Almond said:

"In the country's opinion the accused or any other party has no right to take upon himself to pursue a policy which is in violation of the laws of the country even though it may appear to him that the results obtained will be profitable to the country.

"The court has taken into consideration the jurispdudence and sentence imposed in similar cases throughout Canada and also the fact that Cardy pleaded guilty, thereby obviating the necessity of a lengthy trial."

Several Charges

Charges to which Cardy pleaded guilty through his lawyer, Raymon Noel, were: Dealing in foreign exchange to the extent of $200,000 between Feb. 9, 1948, and Jan. 28, 1950 failing to declare forthwith possession of $182,000 in foreign exchange; transferring securities or a right, title or interest to a non-resident and having prior to Jan. 28, 1950, incurred, acknowledged, guaranteed or given security for a debt payable to a non-resident.

It was originally stated by John Ahearn, Clarence Quinlan and Andre Montpetit, government prosecutors, that the offences involved $500,000. But later they agreed that the true amount was $200,000 as amounts mentioned in the complaints were dulicated.

Defence counsel claimed that Cardy himself was not benefitted from the illegal dealings.

Inmate Arsonist Admits Starting Sanitorium Fire

PHILADELPHIA, March 31 — (AP)—A convicted arsonist told authorities a "sick feeling in the pit of the stomach" prompted him to start a sanatorium fire which killed nine other patients Wednesday night.

Nicholas Verna, 29-year-old Second World War veteran discharged from the United States Army for medical reasons, confessed Thursday that he put the torch to the Belle Vista sanatorium in suburban Springfield township.

Police said Verna told them he touched off the tragic blaze by lighting a towel in the basement of the institution for convalescent, senile, nervous and mental patients.

Verna was convicted of arson in 1949 and was committed to Belle Vista.

Authorities said Verna told this story of events leading up to the sanatorium fire Wednesday night:

Had Run of Building

Verna, recently given the run of the institution because of apparent improvement in his condition, ate a couple of hot dogs with an attendant on night duty in the office. When the attendant left to make his rounds, Verna heard a noise in the basement. He went downstairs to investigate and began experiencing a "sick feeling in the pit of the stomach."

The feeling grew worse. He spotted some dirty clothing in a laundry chute and set them afire. Then he returned to his room and later was removed from the blazing building along with other patients.

State authorities will confer today on what steps will be taken against Verna.

Meanwhile, agents of the State's Department of Welfare investigated reports that at least five of the patients who suffocated were strapped to their concrete beds in violation of state regulations.

The nine suffocation victims—all men—were in a wing devoted principally to "violent" cases.

Sunday Sports Allowed On Municipal Plebiscite

TORONTO, March 31—(CP)—Details of Ontario's Sunday Sports Bill were approved by the Legislature Thursday after four C.C.F. amendments were voted down. The Bill allows sports to be played on Sunday in municipalities where a majority of those eligible to vote in municipal elections express their approval in a plebiscite. The sports may be played only between the hours of 1.30 p.m. and 6.00 p.m. Municipalities may designate in by-laws which sports may be played. A plebiscite may be held on the petition of 10 per cent of those eligible to vote. Sunday sport may be voted out of a community by the same terms.

Attorney - General Porter amended the Bill to make it clear that the hours during which sport may be played will be daylight time where a community adopts that system.

Reid Scott (CCF - Toronto Beaches), moved that Sunday sports plebiscites be taken on the basis of the provincial voters' list, rather than the municipal one. He said thousands of young people, who live in single rooms were not eligible to vote in municipal elections.

Asks Wording Changed

William Dennison (CCF-Toronto St. David) said the wording of the plebiscite refers only to "public games and sports" and does not differentiate between amateur and professional or commercial sports. He moved that the wording be amended to allow municipalities to list the type of sports, they were considering.

T. H. Ilsley (CCF-Waterloo South) moved that municipal votes on Sunday sport should not be allowed at intervals of less than two years.

All the CCF amendments were defeated without a recorded vote.

G. B. Ellis (CCF-Essex-North) asked during the committee stage of the Sunday Sports Bill if the Act would allow theatres to be open on Sunday. He quoted a dictionary definition of sport which included "amusement or pastime."

Mr. Porter said the meaning of the word as used in the Act was the same as used in the Lord's Day Act and did not include theatres.

U.S. Navy Hunts Mysterious Sub

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31—(AP)—An unidentified submarine reported off the northern California coast was the object on Thursday night of the United States navy's most intensive sub hunt in this area since the end of the war.

Vice-Admiral George D. Murray, commander of the western sea frontier, ordered search planes and the only immediately available destroyer in San Francisco Bay on the hunt. It centred off Trinidad harbor, about 280 miles north of San Francisco and some 70 miles south of the California Oregon border.

A navy flier and the skipper of a fishing boat reported sighting the sub outside the three-mile limit from the coast.

The dead: Stanley Waite, 33; Gladys Waite, 3; Ronald Waite, 6; Maxine Simpson, 13; and Marilyn Flett, 11. The Simpson and Flett girls had been in the house as baby-sitters.

The fire is believed to have broken out shortly after midnight. Waite's wife is reported to have been on the way to Winnipeg at the time.

The mother was reached at an hotel in Winnipeg, 75 miles southwest, and informed of the tragedy.

Strangling Suspect Held; Inquest Starts

HULL, Que., March 31 (CP)—A 23-year-old Ottawa man is being held on a coroner's warrant in connection with the hand-towel strangling of Gertrude Marion Davis.

Ordered held on the warrant is John Ralph Hooper, one of four men detained earlier as material witnesses in the murder of the comely, dark-haired Ottawa girl whose nude body, a towel knotted about the throat, was found in a Bridge Street roominghouse Wednesday.

The order was issued by Coroner Dr. Gerald Brisson, of Hull, will preside at a formal inquest into the girl's death tonight. The inquest opened Thursday night and was adjourned after the body had been identified.

Oil Explodes; 10 Tenants Escape Blaze

Fire Believed Started In Clothing Store $75,000 Stock Burned

BELLEVILLE, March 31 — (CP)—Fire raged for four hours through a three-storey downtown building, causing $150,000 damage before being brought under control Thursday night.

One thousand gallons of fuel oil in the basement exploded, caving in the roof and adding to fire fighters' troubles.

Ten tenants of apartments above ground floor stores were driven out by heavy smoke, some losing all their personal belongings.

The blaze is believed to have started in Wiseman's clothing store on Victoria Avenue at Front Street. The store was gutted and stock worth $75,000 was reported destroyed.

Smoke and water damaged contents of stores flanking the clothing shop, one a bake shop the other a furniture store.

Flee Homes

Forced from their dwellings were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McGill; Mr. and Mrs. Herb Boothbe and their two children; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shorey and child; Mr. and Mrs. John Muirhead and child.

Firemen used 12 lines of hose in preventing the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Brooke To Fly 'No Interference'

LONDON, March 31 (AP)—Sir Basil Brooke, prime minister of Northern Ireland, decided today to fly to the United States rather than go by ship.

He cancelled his cabin on the Queen Mary, which sailed from Southampton today, the Ulster office here said, in order to keep a number of urgent private engagements.

"There's no question of official interference," the Ulster office spokesman said.

Sir Basil will leave sometime before next Thursday, the spokesman said, arriving in plenty of time for his first speaking engagement in Washington April 6 before the National Press Club.

The Northern Ireland prime minister's impending American visit has drawn both pro and con comment in the United States, where Congress tentatively voted to withhold aid from Britain until the partition of Ireland is ended.

Two Babies Lost One Recovered

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP)—One of two infants missing under mysterious circumstances was found early today in the home of a Brooklyn woman who said she "took the child because I thought it was cold."

The child, six-month-old Diane Marie Rantzi, disappeared from a theatre lobby Thursday night while her mother watched a movie. Police after a futile all-night search had feared the child had been kidnapped.

Police said they believed Mrs. Catherine Palmore had mistaken the baby for a neighbor's child and had felt she should take care of it. No charges were made against her.

Still missing was a premature negro baby, nine-day-old Chaneta Holden, who vanished from a Lincoln hospital incubator Thursday night.

Minute Millionaire

TOLEDO, O., March 31—(AP)—Ed Shea, Toledo appliance dealer, thought he was a millionaire for a few minutes Thursday. He got a cashier's cheque from a Toledo bank through the mail. It was officially countersigned and made out for $1,000,300. He had been expecting a $300 cheque. The bank cashier sheepishly explained an error had been made—but he couldn't tell how.

Mother To Hang For Shooting Of Daughter, 17

RIMOUSKI, Que., March 31—(CP)—Mrs. Elise Dube today was sentenced to be hanged July 7 for the jealously murder of her "favorite" daughter, Irene, 17.

The 45-year-old woman was found guilty by an all-male jury Thursday night of the shotgun killing of the girl as the climax of an all-night drinking party in her Matan-Sur-Mer home last April 5.

A French-speaking jury deliberated 70 minutes before returning the verdict of murder while the black-haired woman stood near collapse in the prisoner's box.

The verdict came at the close of a two-day trial in this lower St. Lawrence River town, 40 miles from Matane-Sur-Mer where the woman lived with two of her daughters Irene, 17, and Anita, 18.

The shooting occurred April 5 in the woman's two-room frame house at the height of a 24-hour dancing and drinking party during which the woman and her two daughters entertained six men. She had been separated from her husband for seven years.

As the trial drew to a close Thursday night and Mr. Justice Edge told the jury they had a choice of three verdicts, murder, manslaughter or acquittal, the woman shouted hysterically:

"Irene, come get your mother."

Denied Quarrel

The woman denied quarrelling with her daughter Irene during the party.

"I was very tired. I had taken a lot of liquor and the young people in my house refused to leave," she said.

She said she could remember nothing of the shooting. Her first knowledge of her daughter's death came in a visit from a priest to her cell at Matane, she told the court.

During the trial witnesses described the party and the shooting.

Anita, the other daughter of Mrs. Dube, testified she was in the attic with a man when she heard the sound of a gun shot. She said they both raced downstairs and found Irene lying in a pool of blood in the kitchen.

Roland Fournier, another man in the house, testified Mrs. Dube threatened her daughters for "going out with boys without getting paid."

Other men said she had wielded the gun at various times during the party. They said she was jealous of her daughters because the men asked her daughters to dance but did not ask her.

Charge Gov't Minimizing Gravity Of Unemployment; Congress Asks Public Works

CCL Advances 7-Point Program To Boost Work Available In All Regions Jobless At Highest Peak Since War End

OTTAWA, March 31—(CP)—Taxing the government with trying to "minimize the seriousness" of unemployment, the Canadian Congress of Labor today asked the Cabinet for a seven-fold program to boost the amount of available work. In its annual submission to the government, the 360,000-member C.C.L. said changes in Canadian economic and social institutions might be needed. It placed emphasis on a demand for a planned effort to increase consumption of Canadian goods—at home and abroad—and to keep increasing it as fast as the country's productive power grew.

Chiefs of the Congress under President A. R. Mosher delivered the brief to Prime Minister St. Laurent and members of the Cabinet at a meeting in the Parliament buildings.

The brief concentrated heavily on anti-unemployment measures with these proposals:

1. Use of the government's monetary and fiscal powers to maintain demand for Canadian-produced goods.

2. Maintenance of consumer demand by circulating more money through a broad social-security program.

3. Diversification of industry to encourage mobility of labor and cut down regional unemployment.

4. Action to curb seasonal fluctuations in unemployment.

5. Use of the government's "rainy day" shelf of public works project (which the cabinet earlier advised the Trades and Labor Congress it does not propose to use at this time).

6. New methods of keeping and expanding foreign markets.

7. Adoption of the 40-hour work week, which by reducing hours of work would tend to spread employment.

Declaring that this year unemployment has reached higher levelsthan at any time since before the war, the Congress said it was "amazed to find that the government not only has no policy to deal with unemployment, so far as we are aware, but has endeavored to minimize the seriousness of the situation with a view to justifying its own failure to anticipate wide-scale unemployment."

Cupboard Bare

It would appear, said the Congress, that "the shelf of government projects which had been envisaged is bare, and government

20 Homeless In Montreal By $100,000 Fire

MONTREAL, March 31—(CP) —More than 20 persons are homeless today following a three-alarm fire that caused an estimated $100,000 damage to a four-storey business and residential block on downtown St. Catherine St. Thursday night. No injuries were reported.

The building housed 18 apartments and a number of business establishments, including the gutted Honey Dew restaurant where the blaze broke out.

Some persons, living in the apartments above the business premises, were evacuated.

Stores Damaged

Damaged by the fast-spreading flames were the International Music store, the Toronto Book store, the Mulcair Tailoring shop, the Manart Photo Centre and the Shoe Outlet store.

After the first fire was brought under control, a second blaze broke out in the medico-dental building, a short distance away. It was brought under control in 20 minutes but damage from smoke and water is expected to be heavy.

More than 300 firemen from 20 stations answered the three alarms and all available police officers were ordered to the area to reroute traffic and keep back crowds of onlookers.

At the height, flames were visible for miles.

Senator Charges Lattimore Again

WASHINGTON, March 31. — (AP).—Senator Joseph McCarthy's fresh barrage of "Soviet agent" charges against Owen Lattimore—accusations which Lattimore promptly termed lies—generated a new headache today for Senate investigators.

McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, told the Senate in a 4½-hour speech Thursday that he can produce a mystery witness who will swear that Lattimore, an American expert on Far Eastern affairs, was a member of the Communist Party.

McCarthy also waved documents which he said prove that Lattimore is a Soviet agent who received instructions in Moscow as far back as 1936.

In the Senate Thursday, McCarthy coupled his attack on Lattimore with a new assault against U.S. ambassador-at-large, Philip Jessup. Jessup already has denied McCarthy's charge that he has an "unusual affinity for Communist causes." The ambasador called McCarthy irresponsible.

Truman Denounces Red-Baiting Senator

KEY WEST, Fla., March 31 — (AP)—President Truman Thursday bitterly denounced Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis) and Senate Republicans associated with him for trying to "sabotage the bipartisan foreign policy of the United States."

He described McCarthy, instigator of an investigation into alleged Communism in the State Department, as the Kremlin's greatest asset in the United States.

His denunciation came in a press conference in which he announced sweeping changes in his administration.

Judge 16 Years Not U.S. Citizen

DENVER, Colo., March 31 (AP) —Thomas Evans, 78, who served 16 years as a Colorado judge, has discovered he is not a citizen of the United States.

He said Thursday he did not discover the lack of citizenship until moving to Denver from Leadville, Colo., and applying for an old age pension.

Evans is the son of a Welsh immigrant who came to the United States in 1877.

"My father did not become a citizen until two months after my 21st birthday," Evans explained. ". . . That made it necessary for me to take out citizenship papers. I never knew exactly when my father received his final papers. I thought the matter had been taken care of."

Evans, who has voted in every U.S. election since 1892 except one, has applied for citizenship.

Award $477 Damages In Chair-Tipping Row

BRAMPTON, March 31 (CP)— Damages of $477 were awarded Thursday in a suit and counter-suit arising out of a chair-tipping and ear-thumping episode at a Malton farm club social evening in February, 1949.

Howard Graham was awarded $357 for a punctured ear drum suffered when struck on the ear by Toyne Grice. Mrs. Grice was awarded $10 for injuries to her back. She testified that Graham had pulled a chair from under her when she was about to sit on it. Her husband hit Graham for it.

French Actress Missing Stand-In Warned Over Part

PARIS, March 31 —(Reuters) —Illiane Ernoult, young French actress who took over the role of "Miss Blandish" at the Grand Guignol Theatre here after the disappearance of 22-year-old Nicole Riche, has been warned she will "suffer the same fate" unless she withdraws.

Sacha Terride, who plays the part of the inspector in the French version of "No Orchids for Miss Blandish," said several warnings to this effect had been passed to him on the telephone. Mlle. Ernoult's mother received two similar warnings.

Several police inspectors were in the Grand Guigol theatre Thursday night while the actress was being kidnapped and mauled by gangsters on the stage— her first performance.

Continue Inquiries

Police were continuing their inquiries into the disappearance of Mlle. Riche, who vanished—wearing a fur coat and flimsy underwear— between the second and third acts of the play.

A strange young man had sent a note to the dressing room of the first "Miss Blandish" saying: "I want to see you urgently about your mother."

Earlier she had received three threatening letters telling her to give up the part of "Miss Blandish" because it was "immoral."

$3,900 Lost, Not Doubled Wrapped In Magic Hanky

VICTORIA, B. C., March 31— (CP)—After hearing a story of a "magic" handkerchief, Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane Thursday ordered 19-year-old Tina Kaslov extradited to face trial in Buffalo N. Y., on a charge of fraud.

Jumped Bail

She is accused of obtaining $3,900 from Mrs. Anna Doerfler of Buffalo by means of a drinking glass, an egg and two handkerchiefs. Buffalo police also say that the girl jumped $4,000 bail.

Affidavits read in court quoted Mrs. Doerfler as saying she was cured of a "rare" disease after watching Miss Kaslov and the girl's mother, Mrs. Catherine Dennis, say incantations over the egg, glass and handkerchiefs. The affidavit said Mrs. Doerfler handed over $3,900 to the women as an investment.

Don't Peep

Mrs. Doerfler said in the affidavit that she was told her money wrapped in a handkerchief and "magically endowed," would be returned to her and that, if she left it in a safety deposit box for three months without peeking, her money would be doubled.

When she looked in the box, she said she found nothing there but the handkerchief.

3-Year-Old Girl Saves Year-Old Baby Sister

AURORA, Ont., March 31 (CP) —A 3-year-old girl was credited with saving her baby sister from possible loss of an arm yesterday when the infant was caught in the wringer of a washing machine.

Sharon Foote, attracted by the screams of Jo Anne, aged 1, ran into the kitchen of their Yonge St. home and found the infant's arm being pulled into the wringer. Sharon pulled the plug which supplies the machine with power and called an upstairs tenant.

Dr. Crawford Rose said Jo Anne's arm would have been torn off if her sister had not stopped the machine.

Egg Dealers Make Killing Bought At Low Prices Now Storing Says Milburn

Producer, Consumer Will Take Beating When Eggs Scarce Next Fall Many Dropped Out When U.K. Market Shut

TORONTO, March 31—V. S. Milburn, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture told the agriculture committee of legislature Thursday that consumers will be paying abnormally high prices for eggs this fall. The collapse of egg prices some months ago, following loss of British market, drove many egg producers out of business, he said. The irony of the situation was the high prices which will be obtained for eggs bought when the market collapsed and which are now in storage.

"Neither of two main groups—the producers and consumers—will benefit from the low prices that were in effect", he remarked. "It will be the wholesalers and the stores, including the co-operatives, that will make a killing."

Dairy Committee

The committee received a brief from the dairy committee appointed by Agriculture Minister Kennedy to advise him on problems of that industry.

Rap Margarine

The brief was extremely critical of margarine legislation passed at the last session, claiming it fell far short of its intent. It recommended that coloring material should not be attached to, or placed within, any package of butter substitute and that steps should be taken to prevent misleading advertising. Slogans such as "milk makes the flavor" and "country fresh" should be outlawed.

Control Sale

Mr. Kennedy informed the group that provincial ministers of agriculture will meet in Toronto in September and that margarine will be foremost on the agenda.

If before that time the privy council rules that the Dominion has no authority to control the sale or manufacture of margarine the conference would attempt to adopt a uniform policy which would apply to all the provinces.

As to criticism of administration of margarine act, Mr. Kennedy said inspectors of dairy branch had checked Toronto restaurants and found only two operators breaking the regulations.

John Ballantyne of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association speaking on the recommendation of a provincial subsidy for Ontario export cheddar cheese said a two-cent per pound subsidy would cost approximately $1,200,000. He said that figures would show that cheese cannot be produced at the price obtained on the export market.

"It is unfortunate that it is the cheapest market which sets the price for cheese in all other markets," he added.

Youth Describes "Kissing" Death

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 31 — (AP)—While some of the jurors wept, Robert E. Bednasek, told of a "lover's kiss," which ended in the violent death of the pretty co-ed he is accused of strangling.

He said it was a nightmarish accident, so horrible that he could not recall its full details until he underwent "truth serum" treatment just before his trial began March 14.

A hushed courtroom heard the 24-year-old University of Iowa Senior's taut voiced story of Margaret Anne (Gee-Gee) Jackson's death in a campus men's rooming house last Dec. 11.

Bednasek said she gasped and fell after they playfully put their hands on each other's throat moments after they had kissed. He said he tried to revive her and then ran to the police for help when life seemed to be ebbing from her.

The State contends Bednasek deliberately strangled the 20-year-old blonde in a fit of jealousy because she was "drifting away" from him.

Action Suited Words

BRISTOL, England — (CP) — Squirrel hunter Rodney Bradbury slipped while climbing a tree and caught his foot in one of the branches. He was found by friends hanging headfirst over a pool. Appropriately the pool is known locally as "Hangover Pool."

Suggest Council To Run County, Include Toronto

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — A proposal to set up a county council to govern all of York County, including Toronto, is favored by the mayors and reeves committee set up in January to consider problems of the Toronto area.

The proposal, favored by an 11 to 2 vote, was embodied in the report of the committee tabled on Thursday night in the Ontario Legislature. Premier Frost requested the report which involves the thorny local issue of amalgamation of Toronto with its 12 suburbs.

The minority proposal, set out by Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto was for amalgamation. Some suburban leaders have opposed unification of the area on the grounds of loss of local autonomy and other reasons.

The plan favored by the committee would distribute voting power on a basis of population.

Hydro Discussed

The Legislature's night sitting also considered hydro matters and health department estimates.

Hon. George Challies, Hydro vice-chairman, told the House that further increases in the wholesale cost of power to Ontario municipalities are inevitable as new developments come into production. He said municipalities must adjust their rates to consumers.

He was speaking during discussion of an item in the Department of Agriculture estimate for rural hydro. Power is supplied to municipalities at cost. In some cases municipalities which now have a cushion between their interim rate and the actual rate will not necessarily have to charge their consumers more.

The interim rate is that which the commission charges each month, Mr. Challies said. At the end of the year there is generally a refund which last year aggregated $1,203,000.

Mental Hospitals

When health department estimates were discussed Acting Health Minister Goodfellow said works under way or planned will meet Ontario's accommodation needs for care of mentally-defective and mentally-ill patients within five years.

He said another hospital for defectives at Smiths Falls probably will admit 450 patients this year. It will take upward of 1,800 when completed.

Mining Stocks Active But Gains Are Small

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Low-priced mining stocks continued as feature performers on the Toronto Stock Exchange today but price changes were held to a narrower path than Thursday. Volume for the first three hours was 1,689,000 shares.

Gold issues with property in the Bourlamaque district, northwestern Quebec accounted for almost half of the turnover. Aumaque Mines was under profit-taking pressure for a slight loss. Norseman was the most active issue, gaining 3½ cents at 16. Queenston, D'Aragon, Goldora, New Thurbois and West Ashley were among the more active low-priced stocks.

Industrials firmed from Thursday's declines. Market leaders slowly gained fractions. Winnipeg Electric highlighted a stronger utility list with a gain of 1⅜ at 37⅞. Papers, constructions and liquors were also higher.

Western oils climbed steadily on gains ranging up to 20 cents in key stocks. East Sullivan featured base metals, adding 40 cents at $6.40. Noranda, International Nickel and Quemont slipped fractions.

Bombay Goes "Dry"

BOMBAY, March 31.—(AP).—The bars closed down in Bombay province Thursday night, with complete prohibition scheduled for the area's 30,000,000 citizens in a week. Until April 6, when the Provincial Legislature's new prohibition law takes effect, Indians can drink up what they have at home. Then all stocks are to be sealed and the only source will be the bootleggers. The city of Bombay, population 3,000,000, will become the largest legally "dry" metropolis in the world.

Committee Set To Study Old Age Pensions

OTTAWA, March 31 —(CP)— The Commons, despite divided opinion on the type of old-age pensions most suitable for Canadians, agreed Thursday to establish a committee to study the whole pensions question.

A government-sponsored motion providing for establishment of a 40-man committee was adopted after a dozen members from various parts of the chamber expressed various views on what should be done for the aged.

Health Minister Martin said the government hopes that the committee, to be composed of 28 members of the Commons and 12 of the Senate, will meet Monday to plan work to start after the April 5-17 Easter recess.

Cuts Party Lines

The debate, probably a preview of what will occur before the committee, showed that the diversity of opinions on the pensions' question cuts through party lines.

Ralph Maybank (L—Winnipeg South Centre), parliamentary assistant to Mines Minister McCann, said that old-age pensions must be "made adequate" and the means test "must go." He spoke as a private member.

The basic pension now is $40 a month, of which 75 per cent is contributed by the Federal government and 25 per cent by the

Clothes Can Make A Big Difference

LOS ANGELES, March 31. — (AP).—Clothes still make the man. If you don't think so, try going without them sometime.

Two men tried it here Thursday and wound up in jail.

Consider, first, Thomas Williams, 31, arrested on suspicion of robbery of a New Orlean's jewelry store. Detectives found him stranded without trousers in a hotel room. His alleged accomplice was picked up in San Francisco wearing Williams' pants and carrying most of a $25,000 loot.

Williams was waiting for his buddy's pants to come back from the cleaner.

Then there was Van Christiansen, 33, booked on suspicion of rape after Mrs. Milado Denham, 32, said a man had grabbed her while she was dumping coffee grounds in the back yard. She swung the pot and he fled.

Police found Christiansen nearby, pantless and coffee grounds in his hair.

Feminine Burglar Gets $11,000 Loot

TORONTO, March 31.—Attractive and smartly dressed, Myrtle Poole, 25, Thursday admitted a five-month career of housebreaking in Toronto and suburbs. She and two male companions got loot valued at $11,000, the court was told.

They stole a wide variety of articles, ranging all the way from a child's piggy bank containing $10 to a mink coat and diamond necklaces. The woman, with George R. Haskin, 35, and Fred Moore, 53, of Ontario St., pleaded guilty to 29 charges of housebreaking and receiving. They will be sentenced April 6 by Magistrate Martin.

Labor Gov't To Carry On Till Autumn Latest Guess

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 31.—(CP).—Prime Minister Attlee's statement that the Labor government will carry on unless defeated on a major occasion prompts the question: "How long?"

Members, who a week ago gave the government a good chance to survive until mid-1951, now are placing their bets on an autumn general election.

Opposition newspapers, in full cry since Labor's surprising 26-vote defeat in a snap division Wednesday night, said today the government is wondering whether Labor ministers and the rank and file will be able to stand the strain imposed by the long vigil in the House of Commons due to Labor's single-figure majority.

Attlee echoed this feeling Thursday when he told the Commons that Government members have to be on hand all the time, whereas the Opppositon can bide its time, waiting for the best moment to attack.

Need Full Strength

"The Government forces ought to have been in full strength," Attlee said, referring to Wednesday's vote. "I regret that they were not."

In a front-page story today, the anti-Labor Evening Standard dwelt on the "new fear" it said had gripped the Government about the physical strain involved in the long hours at the Commons.

It noted that two Labor members have died since the Feb. 23 general election, "both of whom were at the House when they should have been in bed."

21 Get Talking To

Other papers, unfriendly to Labor, gleefully pictured the biggest party discipline "purge" in years. The Daily Express listed six ministers and 21 Labor backbenchers who it said would be scolded for missing Wednesday's vote.

The Express named the ministers as Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell, Colonial Minister James Griffiths, Supply Minister George Strauss, Foreign Undersecretary Ernest Davies and Hector McNeil, Secretary for Scotland.

The tone of Thursday's exchanges between Conservative leader Winston Churchill and Attlee on whether or not the government proposed to carry on was light-hearted in extreme, but there seems little doubt that underneath it all Attlee was chagrined at the defeat.

It is understood the Labor whips have issued instructions that any vote on the budget and finance bill, due for debate in April, will be regarded as an issue of confidence.

Meanwhile, Westminster wits are busy. Attlee's reference to his decision to "undertake" the burden despite Labor's small majority led members to christen it the "undertaker" government—a variant on the term "caretaker" administration.

spokesmen quite calmly dismiss the unemployment of between 400,000 and 500,000 workers as negligible or as season, and therefore bound to disappear with the advent of warmer weather."

Apart from unemployment, the Congress made these recommendations:

1. Increases in benefit payments and other changes in unemployment insurance coverage.

2. Housing measures including the lowering of interest charges, encouragement of a group of co-operative projects and greater development of subsidized, low-rental housing.

3. Maintenance of "strict" control of rents, with a statement that the government has shown "undue haste" in divesting itself of control and allowing increases.

4. Every effort to prevent further increases in the cost of living.

5. Extension of the coverage of the Federal Labor Code and changes in several provisions.

6. A Federal social-security program covering the whole field of health, invalidity, old-age pensions and others, and paying old-age pensions without the means test.

7. Continuance of the government's present policy on radio broadcasting.

8. Further development of the National Film Board.

9. Federal financial aid to education.

10. Legislation to promote racial and religious tolerance including passage of a Bill of Rights.

11. An immigration policy which would hold down mass immigration in view of shortage of housing and unemployment, and which would be under a Commission including representatives of labor and industry.

12. Federal aid in providing more markets for coal mines.

13. Establishment of the proportional representation system in Federal elections.

14. Legislation outlawing injunctions against "peaceful picketing or other interferences with the rights of labor."

St. Laurent Answers

Development of more employment opportunities in Canada is a matter of "very serious concern" in cabinet thinking, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

The Prime Minister, replying to the annual brief presented to cabinet ministers by the Canadian Congress of Labor, announced:

1. Fisheries Minister Mayhew next month will head a Canadian contingent to the first meeting of the Commonwealth consultative committee on development of Southeast Asia in Canberra.

2. Hospital workers who "normally do unionized labor" will be brought under the provision of the Unemployment Insurance Act but this won't extend to those who care for patients.

Mr. St. Laurent, ranging down the list of CCL recommendations, found approval there for Mr. Mayhew's recent personal advocacy of organized international exchange of goods. Industry must be encouraged to go out into the world and seek trade for Canada.

On the employment question, the Prime Minister said it was true that while there is a high level of work, in some cases opportunities had not developed as fast as the population had grown.

The government, however, was "not entirely without policies." There were a great many public works projects ready to be launched "whenever we feel that by launching them we will increase the overall activity of the construction industry." So far that point had not been reached.

Make New Plans To Help Europe

WASHINGTON, March 31.—(AP).—The Truman administration was reported today to be well started on a plan for developing a new foreign economic program for the United States.

In line with State Secretary Dean Acheson's call for the use of "total diplomacy" in the cold war with Russia, officials said that a major objective of the program will be to increase substantially United States imports of western European and other foreign goods.

The first step in carrying out the plan which was proposed to him by the State Department was taken by the President Thursday in a press conference a Key West, Fla. He announced that Gordon Gray, recently-reisgned Secretary of the Army, had been designated as his special assistant to work on a bi-partisan program to reduce the dollar gap between exports and imports.

A few hours later, Acheson announced here that he was sending Herbert Feis, an economist and member of the State Department's policy-planning staff, to western Europe "to study independently the situation there and its bearing on American foreign policy."

Overdose Of Drugs Blamed For Death

TORONTO, March 31.—(CP).—A man identified as Frank Zaza, 32, was found dead with a dirty hypodermic needle and a syringe on his chest in a west-end rooming house early today.

Slumped nearby in a deep sleep was Jack Marcel, 33, who had been rooming in the house for two years.

Coroner Dr. W. Easson Brown said Zaza's death was due to coronary thrombosis, believed brought on by an overdose of narcotics. Police said he was a suspected drug addict.

After Marcel awoke he was charged with illegal possession of narcotics.

The men were found by Matthew Zegil who smashed down a locked bedroom door.

Man Stabbed, Wife Charged With Murder

Wound In Throat Bloodied Knife Found After Chatham Fight

CHATHAM, March 31—(CP)—A 28-year-old woman tapped with bloodstained fingers on the garage office window of Alderman Ronald Todgham Thursday night and reported the slaying of her husband.

"I've killed him," Mrs. Emma Johnston was quoted as saying. "I wish I hadn't done it."

The Mulatto woman was charged with the butcher-knife slaying of her Negro husband, Sherwell Johnston, a 30-year-old army veteran.

Police found Johnston face down in the couple's one-room flat, a deep wound in the right side of the throat. There were signs of a struggle in the room.

Mrs. Johnston clutched her five-year-old daughter, Shirley, to her breast as she went to Todgham.

Todgham took her to provincial police stationed above his garage and telephoned city police who made the arrest after investigation. The child had to be torn from her grasp before she was committed to city jail.

Find Knife

Police said they found a bloodstained knife in the hallway of their flat. They said the couple apparently had been drinking and the woman was slapped after a quarrel.

Todgham said he thought the woman had tried to commit suicide when he saw the blood on her hands.

Johnston was a night worker in a local factory. Police questioned a man who claimed to have been sleeping on a bed in the room during the slaying but did not disclose the results of their questioning.

When officers entered the room they found a fried steak on the floor and a pot of potatoes boiling on the stove.

Mental Patients Calm As Staff House Burns

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP).—Hundreds of mental patients watched calmly early today as a fire roared through a staff dormitory at Manhattan State Hospital for the mentally ill. The blaze sent 69 nightgown-clad women, all hospital employees, fleeing from the 2½-stotrey brick dormitory. One woman was injured.

Although there were screams and panic among some of the dormitory occupants, officials said no disturbance occurred among the 4,000 mental patients housed nearby. Officials estimated damage at $100,000.

PEI Legislature Prorogues, Passes 103 Bills

By The Canadian Press

The legislatures are beginning to shut up shop for another session. Provincial houses of Prince Edward Island and British Columbia prorogued Thursday and two more may close next week.

At Charlottetown, Lieutenant-Governor Joseph A. Bernard prorogued the 30-member P. E. I. house. Most bills passed during the session were designed to bring the laws of the province into conformity with those of other provinces.

Main bills of the 103 passed by the 48-member B. C. house provide for merging of the Provincial Police Force with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, changes in the Hospital Insurance Act giving the cabinet wider powers, and a reduction in the amusement tax from 25 to 17½ per cent.

Traffic Trouble.

Montreal's traffic troubles bobbed up in Quebec's legislative council, where the Liberal opposition struck out a provision for an Oct. 23 referendum on a metropolitan subway system and on a reform of Montreal's system of ad-

The Liberal opposition holds a majority over Premier Maurice Duplessis's Union Nationale administration in the Upper House. The bill already had been passed by the legislative assembly.

Premier Smallwood told the Newfoundland legislature that an extensive investigation of Newfoundland's water, forest and mineral resources will be carried out during 1950, mentioning specifically forest stands of Labrador and the water power of the south coast.

Farmers' problems occupied the Nova Scotia legislature. Speakers suggested government loans to aid farmers and more courses on subjects like farm management.

The Alberta legislature gave second reading to a bill prohibiting purchase of land to set up any Doukhobor colony. The Doukhobors of British Columbia have been reported interested in moving into Alberta.

Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse said the time to take action against such groups as the Sons of Freedom, radical Doukhobor sect, was now, not after they dynmited a train or burned a school.

Premier McNair told the New Brunswick House that legislation for a new four-per-cent sales tax may be introduced tomorrow.

Jill Brought Home 'All Is Forgiven'—Jack

VICTORIA, March 31.—(CP)—Jill has her Jack and all Victoria breathes easier.

Jill, the royal swan, left her home and husband Jack in Beacon Hill park two weeks ago because a female interloper, dubber Jezebel, was breaking up her domestic life.

For the two weeks, she cruised just off shore in the harbor, although not a salt water lover, trailed by newspaper reporters and photographers and scads of Victorians.

Thursday afternoon, she came a bit too close to shore.

While 200 spectators cheered wildly, reporter Trev Collins of the Victoria Colonist, jumped into the water and arose with Jill in his arms.

Jill was taken back to the park. Jack dropped Jezebel the moment he saw Jill back.

Two Stand Trial For Passing Forged Cheques

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31—(ENS)—Two Picton men, Kenneth A. Johnston and John Greenly will appear in police court in Barrie shortly to answer a number of charges of passing forged cheques.

Chief constable George H. Hardy of Campbellford has forwarded information concerning three charges of uttering forged documents under Section 467 of the CCC to the Barrie police, where the two men are to be tried. Johnston and Greely were picked up by Provincial Police at Stayner recently, after they attempted to cash a cheque in a garage. The alert operator notified the police and the pair were picked up on the highway.

The two men arrived in Campbellford on December 16 last year, and cashed cheques totaling $152. One cheque cashed by Joe Dunk was for $45, one by Claud Post for $52, and the pair purchased two overcoats values at $54 from Herb Leonard's mens' furnishings store, and paid for their purchase with a $55 cheque, receiving a dollar in change.

All cheques were made out on the Cobourg Lumber Company, and bore the company's official stamp. The men were reported to be carrying many thousand dollars worth of the worthless forged cheques when they were apprehended at Stayner.

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP)—Former showgirl Joyce Matthews has obtained a divorce—for the second time — from television comedian Milton Berle. Counsel Samuel I. Hartman said the divorce was granted yesterday in the Virgin Islands to Miss Matthews, who was given custody of the couple's daughter, Victoria, 4. The couple first was married in 1941, and divorced in 1947. Remarried last June, they separated a few months later.

Man Pleads Guilty To Stealing Tickets

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31—(ENS)—Thomas Burwood McAvilla, age 23, of Campbellford, pleaded guilty before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court Thursday on a charge of theft. McAvilla is alleged to have stolen milk tickets to the value of approximately $1,000 while in the employ of Rutherford's Dairy in Campbellford. The tickets were supposedly sold to customers on the accused's milk route.

The charge of theft under section 359A of the C.C. was laid by Chief Constable George H. Hardy who apprehended McAvilla. The thefts were committed at various times during the past year. Magistrate Baxter remanded the accused until April 13 for sentence.

Sentence Reduced

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Ruling that a five-year prison term for breaking and entering was too severe, the Ontario Court of Appeal Thursday reduced to 18 months in reformatory a sentence imposed on Albert Berthelette, at L'Original, Ont. Jean Paul Lauzier, convicted of the same offence, was freed by the court.

Have Chimney Fire

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31—(ENS)—The Campbellford Fire Department was called upon late Thursday night to extinguish a chimney fire at a home on Rear Street. The fire soon burned itself out however, and the prompt action of the firemen was unnecessary. There was no damage.

Humpty-Dumpty Fell Off The Wall

Last January there was a great noise among poultry men. It was gravely said that the egg market had crashed. All was lost unless Ottawa intervened with a floor price. Actually, prices in this district tumbled below 25 cents a dozen. Poultry farmers decimated their flocks, eggs and hens were dumped on the market (and quickly bought up and put into cold storage), breeders reduced their settings. But the panic petered out quickly. The egg market has been fairly steady, and eggs are selling locally at 42-45 cents a dozen. There is no plentiful supply of them, and a shortage of chickens for the table does exist. One large local firm has had to send to Toronto for poultry to keep his customers supplied.

* * *

Humpty-dumpty did have a fall but he picked himself up again pretty quickly. It will take a longer time for the farmers and breeders who panicked to get their flocks back to normal size; a job which all the King's men in Ottawa could not do. It takes only a minute to kill off a hen; it takes months to raise a chicken for the table or a bird which will lay eggs. Have poultry-men too thin-shelled confidence in the own product's saleability not to sit out quietly a short seasonal fall in price?

Phoney Maturity

In its current issue Saturday Night makes some tart comments on the modern and popular use of the word "maturity". This is what it says:

> We have noted with considerable interest in recent months that nobody in Canada or the United States is any longer exhorted—outside of a church at any rate—to be "good," that indeed the term has acquired a faint odor of the discreditable. We are now exhorted to be "mature". When we examine into the behaviour of the "mature" man or woman, we find that in many respects (not, however, including that of sexual chastity) it is much like that of the "good" man or woman of past generations.

The Toronto weekly then goes on to point out the fallacies which are concealed in this use of "maturity", saying "It is part of the great American optimist policy which maintains that human beings whose privilege it is to live in 'God's country' are by nature exactly what they ought to be, that they have only to let themselves grow up, to let nature work her perfect work, without any effort on their part, and they will be 'mature' and therefore have nothing to repent for".

We agree with his judgement. And there is another use of "mature" to which we strongly object. It is very widely assumed by the popular philosophers that "maturity" brings passive acceptance of the world as it is (except of course that we must have more technical progress) and of people as they are. Anything savouring of discontent, or a yearning for what is strange or obscure, is "immature". The Ideal Man of the merchants of phoney maturity lives in a world of intellectual and moral stodge. He need struggle no more; he has arrived.

All glory, laud and honour, then, to those who are still so immature as to wish to explore and extend the boundaries of thought, imagination and aspiration. For "maturity", in the now popular sense of the word, means nothing but a horrible death in life, the existence, in Browning's phrase, of a clod, untroubled by a spark.

Ban Professors

Last week the National Dairy Council met in the august Seigniory Club. It discussed margarine, butter prices and milk sales. It heard talks. One was given by the professor of agricultural economics of Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue. The dairy men heard him and were stunned. Next day they had sufficiently recovered to give expression to the alarm with which they had listened to Professor Burton; they voted unanimously that university professors be not allowed to address any future Council conventions.

What had Professor Burton said to bring down the ban on all professors? He had merely made some statements, presumably scholarly and based on economic truths and careful study, with which the dairymen did not agree. Professor Burton suggested that the price of milk be reduced, and he outlined ways of doing it without a great loss of profit to the dairy industry. He even had the boldness to suggest that lowering of the price of bottled milk would increase consumption and therefore sales and profits.

By way of apology for such a preacher of such heresy, the chairman of the Dairy Council explained that Professor Burton had been asked to address the Council last January and had not submitted a text of his address. "Had we had a chance to discuss with Burton his speech before he delivered it, chances would have been that the professor would have had nothing to say". Well, the Dairy Council will not be ruffled any more; professors are banned.

This should be a lesson to all clubs, societies and organizations which suffer speakers to address them. Never engage a speaker on his face value. He may not be what he seems. He may have ideas of his own, and depart from the rule that all speakers are to entertain amusingly, or to pander to the prejudices of the audience. Every organization should have a Speaker's Committee to whom the manuscript of the intended speech must be submitted before the speaker gives public utterance. If the speech is not straight down the party (or society's) line, it and the speaker must be turfed out. Such organizations as the Dairy Council do not convene in order to have their milking stool upset by a mere professor with ideas different from their own. They know how best to milk; it is a speakers' job to give reasons why their way is best; not to suggest other ways.

Despite her present Western unpopularity, Russia has some imitable practices. Its writers, scholars and teachers are not expected or even allowed to range freely in thought and word. Their job is to find reasons why the nation's leaders are right to bolster the party line. Scholarship and freedom of speech are dangerous without reins.

Freedom of speech may be revolutionary, upsetting to complacency. A case may be made out for not permitting ideas freedom in the dairy market-place. At least, we presume that the Dairy Council can make out such a case.

Platitudes On Laski

Piety for the dead is overdone. Professor Harold J. Laski, phenomenal Marxist economist and Labour Party executive died last week. Canadian newspapers have remarked editorially on his life, his works and death, and much of the provincial press has done a shocking job of it. This man who was anathema to them during his life, whose economic philosophy tore at the roots of their own, whose political attitude they abominate is given a mealy-mouthed, pious editorial parting.

His great mental power is eulogized by a newspaper which feared it. His power as a teacher is praised by journals which spat at it during his life-time; his influence in the high councils of the Labour Party is remarked on in elevated tones by editors who before Laski's death would write of his nefarious, snaky 'power behind the throne'.

Laski was without doubt an important political influence and possessed remarkable mental power. To thousands of his students and political friends he was a great man. But why should the Canadian press which almost uniformly execrated him during his life turn face at his death and crawl along editorial alleys of sentimental slush? It was a sickening, confidence-shattering contortion. Has it no principles except the milk-sop meekness to speak no ill of the dead? If the Devil is dead should he be given wings?

Two good exceptions to the general Canadian chorus of mawkish panderers were the Ottawa Journal and the Ottawa Citizen. The Tory-blue Journal hates men and policies of the Laski type. It gave the Devil his brief due but did not abate its usual vituperation. The rosy-hued Citizen carried an excellent appraisal of Laski in the generous and liberal terms it is entitled to use because of its editorial policy. Perhaps some other papers have no guns by which they can stand.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: Do you think they will ever get rid of the railway tracks on Bethune Street? It really astonishes me that a city the size of Peterborough, and with the progressive outlook it pretends to have, would put up with such a situation; freight, passenger and yard trains spewing and puffing, ranting and roaring, down a street in the very heart of the city.

ANSWER: C.N.R. tracks occupy half of Bethune Street for about one and a quarter miles of its length. Twelve east-west streets cross the Bethune Street tracks, including two thoroughfares. Shunting locomotives south of Hunter Street block east-west traffic in and out of the central business district for long periods at a time. And the noise and dirt are shocking. Nevertheless, the tracks are probably there for another fifty years, unless the C.N.R. decides to stop serving Peterborough at all. The master plan for the city, devised in 1946-47 under the direction of Dr. E. G. Faludi, town planning consultant, calls for the removal of the Bethune Street tracks (bringing the C.N.R. Lindsay line in around the north-east boundary of the city), and a Union Station on the site of the present C.P.R. station. But the Peterborough City Plan seems recently to have slipped into the limbo.

QUESTION: What is a tartlet?

ANSWER: A tart. In the English meaning of tart (a whole pie) a tartlet is a little tart, suitable for one person. Hence, in Canada a tartlet is a tart, and the diminutive tartlet is not used.

✧ ✧ ✧

ALPHA: Why do the Americans not have titles? Can a republic not bestow them?

ANSWER: In general a monarchy, with a hierarchical system of society where the king sits on top, is the only form of government addicted to giving titles of nobility. Subsection 8 of Section 8 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the United States reads: "No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States. And no person holding any office of profit or trust under them shall, without the consent of Congress, accept any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever from, prince or foreign states".

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR ALPHA: I see by the paper that they are going to put the old fountain back in Victoria Park, this time with water pipes so that it can spout again, and with a new "figurine" on top. The paper says that Mr. A. Butcher of the Parks Department is on the look out for a good figure, not too expensive. I have a suggestion: A full-size replica of the famous mannekin—little man—in the Brussels square. Every tourist brings home a replica of it, so you know the one I mean. It would be about the right size for our Victoria Park fountain, too, and as useful as the original in Brussels. Of course, there would have to be more water outlets than the one naked little boy would provide. The Brussels fountain is supposed to be a drinking fountain, and Victoria Park's is not.

RESPONSE: Suggestion noted without enthusiasm. I would like to see a new and original piece of carving, and failing that, something that was not merely quaint or curious.

✧ ✧ ✧

"IF I HAD A MILLION DOLLARS": This question I put last week has drawn several interesting solutions. To readers who have written to remind me that there would not be much left of the million after inheritance and income taxes, may I clarify my question: I make the fanciful assumption that the million comes as a million, without the pinch of taxes; e.g. it would be like capital gain (for instance, discovering a gold mine) which is not yet taxable.

A.S. says: I'd put my million into rural churches; set up a fund to beautify all southern Ontario small country churches, so that God could be worshipped with beauty as well as truth. Ontario's small churches, with their box stoves, ugly brick buildings, plain windows, bare plank floors, are an insult to the Deity. A million dollars would go a long way to refurbishing them, to make them more pleasing in the eye of man as well as God.

M.N. writes: I'd set up some sort of small manufacturing firm in Peterborough whose chief employment policy would be that the majority of workers be persons of sixty or more who have been retired, and want some kind of useful work, even if they do not need the pay, some work within their physical capacity. In my factory the older workers would be part-time, putting in three or four hours a day. If the firm failed, well, I'd at least have given one decade of Peterborough's over-sixties a chance they deserve. But I suspect it would prosper with such able, experienced and sensible workers, and that my million would grow so that I could set up similar factories in other cities.

J.Z.C. writes: With a million I'd buy me a yacht and retire to the south seas there to live with lotus-eaters; so there would be at least one man on earth neither toiling nor spinning, and living like a lily of the field. The million would merely be humus. Wine, women and song are still the most important joys on earth.

FOR THE RECORD: Tomorrow is April-Fool's Day or All-Fools' Day, a calendar token that winter has passed. The custom of playing jokes on friend on April 1st is a survival of festivities held at the vernal equinox, beginning on the old New Year's Day, March 25 and ending on April 1st. In India at the fest of Huli, the last day of which is March 31st, the chief amusement is befooling people by sending them on useless and foolish errands. In Scotland the custom of making April-fools was known as "hunting the gowk"—i.e. the cuckoo; April-fools were "April-gowks". In France a person fooled is a poisson d'avril, an April fish.

The estate agent was showing Bodger over the house.

"Isn't this rather a poor district?" asked Bodger.

"Certainly not," replied the agent. "You will find that your neighbours never borrow less than five dollars."

Giles, Cartoonist Squire

(By JAMES DUGAN in MACLEAN'S MAGAZINE)

(Ed. Note: Our readers are familiar with the famous Giles cartoons which The Examiner publishes several times a week on this page, by special arrangement with the London Express. Here are a few excerpts from a lively article appearing in the current issue of Maclean's magazine on the man himself.)

CARL Ronald Giles, known to 40 million Britons as "Giles"...is the most popular cartoonist in Britain. He has been called the Cockney Hogarth. After the original 100,000 impressions of his first book of cartoons sold out in 24 hours in 1945, the Times of London called him, "a potential originator of opinion rather than its mirror," and added that he was "a wielder of scorpions."

Giles is the editorial-page cartoonist of the 4-million-circulation London Daily Express, and of the Sunday Express, with 2,500,000 pair circulation. He is not exactly a political caricaturist, or a gag cartoonist, or a comic-strip artist, although his drawings have elements of all. He is a direct descendant of the classic 18th-century English cartoonists, Hogarth, Rowlandson and Gillray.

Giles draws with pen, brush and crayon in a four-column rectangle. His subject matter is English Life today, "seen from the druidic point of view," as an essayist has put it. He draws the common frustrations — rationing, erratic railways, bureaucratic snooping, horrid weather, the tyranny of holidays, perfidious foreign policy, and peril by children. His cartoon figures act against land-and-city scapes drawn as lovingly in detail as the backgrounds of Currier and Ives.

While Britain laughs and foreigners relish Giles' panorama of his time, some people regard Giles as a misanthrope. Dr. Marie Stopes, the well-known birth-control writer, canceled her subscription to the Express in a note alleging that Giles' cartoons "degrade humanity and are very seldom funny, and their injurious effect is corrosive." Giles replied with a rear-view carciacture of himself juggling ten babies. "Very well, Marie," said the caption, "if you're not going to take the Express any more because of my cartoons, I'm not going to read any more of your little books."

The cartoonist is a wiry fellow of 34 with crisp sandy hair cut in the popular farmer fashion of the fourpenny all-off. Two years ago in a U.S. visa application, under Colour of Eyes, he crossed out the "s" in eyes and wrote Blue. He lost the sight of his right eye and the corresponding eardrum in a motorcycle crash in his teens.

✧ ✧ ✧

GILES visited Canada and the U.S., in 1948 for the first time to verify his hunch that the North American continent was fraudulent. The American Embassy in London gave him a form to fill which included the question, Do you advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. Government? Giles wrote "Yes." His application was immediately cleared and he sailed on the Queen Mary.

Giles is a cockney, born at The Angel, Islington, London, within the sound of Bow Bells. His father, Berty, was a jockey, the son of a jockey. Ordained to be a jockey also, Giles disappointed his father by going overweight at an early age and sprouting to an impossible stature of five-ten.

When he was sixteen Giles decided to become a comic-strip artist. He made some drawings and advanced on Printing House Square, the seat of the magisterial Times. He figured the Times could use a comic strip, a feature he had noticed was lacking. The Times city room is still shaken by the intrusion. Not then, nor since, has the Times published cartoons. Giles crossed Old Thunderer off his list and approached the cartoon film studio of Alexander Korda. He started washing brushes. At eighteen he was chief animator. When Korda's studio failed Giles hit the road. He played a concertina in pubs for his bread and bitter beer, roaming the country roads, sharpening his eye for landscapes and characters. He found Tuddenham, the wondrous hamlet near Ipswich, where he lives today.

In 1937 a wise man named Bernard Boothroyd, who writes satires for Punch and Reynold's News, the Sunday paper of the British co-operative movement, discovered Giles' folk comedy and had him taken on at Reynold's. Giles married a girl he had known since childhood, and settled into a flat at drab King's Cross, London.

Giles was bombed out of King's Cross in 1941, and leased half of the parish constable's house in Tuddenham. The cartoonist is a good shot. He became leader of the local poacher band, which had some splendid midnight shoots in Hillbrow Farm. When Giles bought the place after the war, he appointed the next best poacher as his gamekeeper. The arrangement has assured that Giles' rabbits go only to local people; the gamekeeper bounces strangers.

Hillbrow Farm is more than 500 acres, a veritable Texas ranch in Britain. Giles pools two dozen farm machines with three neighbours.

Giles has a large lavishly equipped workshop on the farm, humming with power tools, welding gear, compressed-air gadgets, and metal and wood-working lathes, which he employs to build pig trailers, household furniture, and toys for the Tuddenham kids. His masterpiece of craftsmanship is a studio on wheels which he converted from a surplus U.S. air force bus.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

In all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty: from the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head there was no blemish in him. (II Sam. 14: 25.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And Absalom rose up early, and stood beside the way of the gate: and it was so, that when any man that had a controversy came to the king for judgement, then Absalom called unto him, and said, Of what city art thou? And he said, Thy servant is of one of the tribes of Israel. And Absalom said unto him, See, thy matters are good and right; but there is no man deputed of the king to hear thee. Absalom said moreover, Oh that I were made judge in the land, that every man which hath any suit or cause might come unto me, and I would do him justice!

And it was so, that when any man came nigh to him to do him obeisance, he put forth his hand, and took him, and kissed him. And on this manner did Absalom to all Israel that came to the king for judgement: so Absalom stole the hearts of the men of Israel. (II Sam. 15: 2-6.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Fret not thyself because of evildoers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity... For evildoers shall be cut off: but those that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the earth....

I have seen the wicked in great power, and spreading himself like a green bay tree. Yet he passed away, and, lo, he was not: yea, I sought him, but he could not be found. (Ps. 37: 1, 9, 35, 36.)

A real telephone makes speech and hearing therapy fun for Joanne, shown trying hard to imitate the lip and mouth movements of her speech therapist at the cerebral palsy centre in London. Such training is made possible through the Ontario Society for Crippled Children's Easter Seals Campaign handled locally by Rotary Club of Peterborough.

The number of patients is nearly double last year. More funds are needed to carry on this work!!

–BUY EASTER SEALS–HELP CRIPPLED CHILDREN–

There are over 35 patients in the Peterborough area now receiving corrective care.

Many parents are unaware that aid is available for their afflicted children. For this purpose, the Rotary adopted Easter Seals as a means of publicity four years ago. So successful were seals in raising funds and publicizing aid to afflicted youngsters, that today, there are many children who owe their happiness to them.

Many never would have received the curative powers of modern science if it were not for these little bits of adhesive stamps which people affix to their letters during Easter.

With the money provided in the past, crutches, braces, wheel chairs and other orthopedic helps have been supplied. Deformities have been corrected, twisted limbs straightened. Children who couldn't walk last Easter are walking today.

Whip Trounces Vern Baxter As Referee Takes A Beating

Whipper Billy Watson didn't have too much trouble in disposing of big Vern Baxter at the Brock Arena last evening in the main match of the pro grappling card. A good-sized crowd saw the champ take Vern in two straight falls, and Referee Bert Maxwell—who took quite a beating before the first fall—must have been happy, too, to see it end so soon. Steve Stanlee and Johnny Barend went to a semi-final draw, while Bill Stack and Jack Wentworth were both counted out of the ring in the prelim.

Watson, scaling 230—which was 10 pounds lighter than his opponent—won the first fall in 15 minutes. He had an assist from the referee, who was holding Baxter in a full nelson at the time, trying to break up a grip, and the Whip crashed in on in with a smash to Baxter's jaw and top spread. The befuddled official would have counted out any passing spectator who slipped at this point. He had been mauled plenty, getting between these huskies and was down as often as either of them. Once, the Whipper (who was flinging Vern into turnbuckles quite casually) had Maxwell in a corner and Baxter crowded against him. Every time the Whip hit Vern, the latter banged back into the rotund referee, and the latter was so mad he nearly awarded the fall to Baxter. Each grappler in turn clouted his nibs in a post-fall mixup and the fans cheered heartily.

Uses Whip Hold

The second fall came in 14 minutes with the champ using his whip hold after a hard slam. He was in trouble for a time when Vern, who saw he couldn't match him on the mat and tried rough stuff, started slashing Watson across the throat with the side of his hand. Referee Maxwell warned him repeatedly but let him get away with a lot of it before the Whip himself finally recovered enough to get him back in the hunt and polish off his big but inexperienced rough antagonist.

The semi-final went to a time limit draw in 30 minutes between the 231-pound blond Steve Stanlee and Johnny Barend, popular 220-pound grappler. Steve decided to play it rough this time and wasn't so popular, though he had his following, while Johnny was his usual workmanlike self. It was a fair bout, with some scientific stuff shown at times, and the referee not too busy. There was lots of action and the fans for a time weren't sure whom to cheer for, most of them settling for dark-haired Johnny before the finish as the chunky blond seemed angry and didn't pay too much attention to the rules.

Bill Is Bigger

A heavier Bill Stack, now going 235, and 224-pound Jack Wentworth dished up a dandy prelim. It was good, clean mat action for some 10 minutes before Wentworth, finding Stack an improved and husky grappler, turned to rough tactics. Then the belt was off the power line and everything went. They were in and out of the ring in furious fashion with the ref vainly trying to keep things under control. They used ropes, fists and elbows, Wentworth once rolling free in the nick of time after Stack spun him with an airplane spin. They were out of the ring singly and together, usually getting back in time to beat the count, but at 21 minutes they were both out and mixing it hard when counted out. The referee had to go out then and separate the pair to break it up as the fans gave with the applause.

The end draws nigh for the colleen cagers, and tonight in the YWCA may mean curtains for a couple of the loop finalists. At eight, Black's meet CGE in the second of their best-of-three intermediate finals, Black's having won the first. This tilt is followed by Neill's vs. Nurses Srs. in the second of their two-in-three senior finals. Neill's have a one-game lead. Junior series isn't finished as yet. Meantime, Towne Togs, the local lasses' entry in the LOBA intermediate "B" class, face a stern task here next week in the return game with Stratford in provincial finals. Togs are down 22 points. They'll have to really fly on their familiar floor.

Vern Dawson has received a couple of snapshots from Knotty Lee, who is sojourning in sunny Florida and visiting the various big league ball camps. Knotty couldn't be that close to his beloved baseball and not be right in the middle of it. One picture shows him talking earnestly to Burt Shotton, veteran manager of Brooklyn Dodgers, and another has him posing beside Conny Mack, grand old pilot of Philadelphia Athletics. The former Petes' diamond skipper—for three years back in the middle 30s—once acted as Canadian scout in his spare time for Conny. Knotty's hotel must be doing a good business in Smiths Falls, and more power to him.

Amendment To A Rule

Looking over the proposed amendments to rules for the OASA, we note where Secretary Frank Feaver wants an added line to the infield fly rule. It would read: "If hit by the ball while standing on base, the baserummer shall not be called out, but the ball is dead and the batsman shall be called out; and, if the baserunner is hit while off the base, both the baserunner and batsman shall be called out and the ball is dead." Thus two could be snuffed out just like that without a fielder touching the ball. But it's a good rule and would now protect the man standing on his base where he has every right to be.

* * * * * *

Feaver also wants this added to Rule 44 of base-running rules: "A base-runner who is not standing on his base and is not actually running towards the next base when the pitcher assumes the pitching position with the ball in his possession is out unless he immediately returns to the last base occupied." And he stresses that "immediately". With that we agree, too, as some runners loaf around and take their own time stepping back on the base while the pitcher is preparing to pitch. It holds up the game. If the guy wants to make his break for the next base, okay, let him go to it—but otherwise let him step back on his base when the pitcher is ready to shoot.

Ref Was In The Middle

Vern Baxter took quite a beating from Whipper Billy Watson at the Brock last eve in the main pro mat bout, but Referee Bert Maxwell took a worse one. He kept getting in the middle, and then Vern and Whip in turn knocked him down for bothering them. A referee's life is not a happy one when he's trying to handle heavyweight wrestlers. The pudgy house dick from the Royal York should know that he can't cuff the Whip like some hotel bum—the champ cuffs back, and hard! Vern tried to play it rough but didn't have a chance against Watson, who is off now for a week in Texas and then has two weeks in Western Canada booked up. Barend and Stanlee drew in the semi-final, while both Bill Stack (who has stepped his weight up to 235 lately) and Wentworth were counted out of the ring in a hot prelim.

Legionnaires are prepping today for their invasion of Oshawa on the morrow for the last time this hockey semester. Win or lose, they won't be back there again before next winter. Now one up in the best-of-seven OHA senior "B" serial after five games have been played, Legion can wrap it up Saturday in the Motor City. If they should lose, the deciding game will be held here Monday night. And the Ellis outfit don't want to take chances on that as they could be eliminated the same as Markham in a sudden-deather. But such a fray here would bulge the building's walls. Incidentally, about 200 more fans could have been accommodated rather comfortably in any of the last three playoffs here, the place holding 2,200 without serious jamming.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

We haven't all the details regarding our banquet next Tuesday evening, but one thing we are sure of and that is W. M. Crothers, just recently back from the curlers' visit to Scotland, will show many pictures of the trip. We'll have more information later regarding the program.

By the score of 12-9, J. Dutton's rink won the club championship and the Harry Foote Memorial Trophy from F. Stenson's rink last evening. Although we did not see all of the game, the part we did see was a real high class exhibition of the "draw" game, and judging from the score handed in it would seem that the draw game was played right up to the finish.

It's been a long schedule, commencing away back in November, and the boys deserve all the honors.

And so as another curling schedule draws to a close, we offer our congratulations to all.

Soo Cagers Beat Marines To Open Provincial Finals

By DON GRANT

SAULT STE. MARIE, March 31—The Sault Ste. Marie Algos Thursday night went one up in their best of three series for the Peterborough Marines for an All-Ontario intermediate "A" basketball honors, drubbing their opponents 61-39 at the Memorial Gardens. Lukenda paced the winners' attack with 19 points. Teammate LaPointe and Siltanen garnered 15 and 13 points respectively. Nicholls was the losers' best with 11 points.

The Algos have won the title for the past two years.

Although the Marines had the edge on the play in the first quarter the Algos were up 17-10 at the end of the first of four shots. While the Outboards were trying long shots to break the stiff Sault Ste. Marie zone defence the Algos were getting the rebounds to break fast up the floor to score at the first of the second. Foul shots again slowed the game down to a snail's pace. Peterborough came to life just at the half which ended 29-20 for the Soo cagers.

Shooting Off

Marines started with an edge on the play in the third but couldn't hit the basket. The rebounds were taken by the Soo to build up the score. Referees Jim Tinkus and Jim Alford, both of the Soo, Michigan, started on another foul spree near the end of the quarter, 46-33. They continued their strict work at the first of the last quarter. The Outboards were trying long shots both for field baskets and rebounds to forwards in close. The small Algos guards went high for the ball getting it to build up scoring palys.

The Algos were hot on the offence and defence throughout the game. They would work the ball in close with fast passes and finally with dead-eye shooting score. Lukenda, besides leading the scoring with 19 points, played a standout game on the defence, grabbing the Marine rebounds. Team-mates LaPointe and Siltanen had 15 and 13 points respectively. The Marines on the other hand were hampered by the refereeing which was the hardest they have met this season. Foul shots put them behind the eight-ball at the start of the game and continued to plague them. They received 29 to the Algos 21.

Nicholls Good

Eddie Nicholls played a standout game on the offensive, getting 11 points and missing others as he was off the hoop. Joe Stewart picked up points and assisted on others as he intercepted Algos passes.

In the first two minutes' play, LaPointe with three foul shots and Ab Stewart with one had the score 3-1 for the Soo. Siltanen put the Soo up to six with a breakaway basket and foul shot. Ed Nichols sank a foul shot. Burns made the score 6-4 on a long drifter only to have Lukenda follow on wtih a quick set shot. Ed Nicholls and Lukenda again scored on rebounds. Joe Stewart intercepted a pass to break in for a basket and it was 10-8 for the Soo. Siltanen flipped in a rebound which was followed by Nicholls' foul shot and a one-hander by Siltanen. Ed Nicholls sent home an overhead corner shot. Lukenda finished the quarter scoring at 17-10 with a set shot.

Foul shots by Ed Nicholls and Lukenda opened the second. Lukenda picked up another two points on a set shot. Gillespie sank a foul shot with Harris retaliating with a one-hander for a basket. A long field shot by Harris was good after Joe Stewart's foul shot. LaPointe and Plunkett made a foul shot. Nicholls whipped home a rebound. Joe Stewart had a fast break and Ab Stewart two foul shots to end the half 20-29.

Rolled It Up

Siltanen made the score 33-20 in the first minute the second half. Abbie Stewart was good in close for a basket after which Fisher broke loose for a fast two points. Nicholls replied with a rebound shot for the Marines. Ab Stewart's foul shot was followed by Lukenda's good rebound shot. Ab Stewart, LaPointe and Lukenda sank foul shots before Gillespie split the cords with a long slider. Siltanen with a corner shot, Lukenda a set shot and Godfrey a foul shot, made the score 45-29.

Burns with a long basket, Ab Stewart and Harris with foul points and Burns counting another point ended the quarter 46-33.

Dibber opened the fourth with a foul shot. Harris got a two-pointer from close in. Godfrey and Dibben added foul shot points on a rebound and a foul shot. Eddie Nicholls had a foul good. LaPointe added two baskets and a foul shot. Smith ended the Marines' scoring with a foul shot. LaPointe with a basket and Kahle with two good foul shots made the score 61-39.

In the past three seasons the Algos have rolled up 67 victories in 75 starts with 4,206 points for and 2,963 against. In 1948, the year after the Marines won the All-Ontario championship, the Soo cagers, under the name Grads, won the Dominion intermediate championship and last year the All-Ontario. They lost the Eastern Canada title by two points to the Nova Scotia entry.

Lineups:

Peterborough Outboard Marines—J. Stewart 5, A. Stewart 9, Dadson, Plunkett 1, Nicholls 11, Dibben 1, Gillespie 3, Smith 4, Griffin, Burns 5.

Sault Ste. Marie Algos—Nichols 1, Fisher 2, Lukenda 19, Siltanen 13, LaPointe 15, Robertson 2, Kozak 2, Harris 5, Godfrey 2.

Brintons Take Industrial Puck Honors

Brinton Carpet Co. defeated Ventilating Shades at Civic Arena last evening 6-2 to capture the Industrial Hockey League championship for the first time, winning the final series in three straight games. It was a fine puck playoff, with but two minor penalties apiece, as both sides turned it on throughout. The victors had their big margin in the middle frame after a 1-1 opener, scoring four goals without a comeback. Each side counted once in the third.

Lawson paced the attack for Brintons with a goal and three assists, while Douglas and Eakins each had a marker and two assists. The other goals were tallied by Harris, Anderson and Dracup. For the Shades, Broadhurst and Henwood were the marksmen. Both goalies made some smart saves in the lively struggle. The teams:

Brintons: Goal, Byers; defence, Berardi and Riches; centre, Eakins; wings, Lawson and Douglas; alternates, Harris, Anderson, Dracup, Lackie, Anderson and Jones.

Vent. Shades: Goal, Peters; defence, Simpson and McIndoo; centre, Henwood; wings, McMasters and Broadhurst; alternates, Parsons, Maudsley, Webb, Morgan, Fontaine, Huard and Boyle.

Top U.S. Coach Joins Hamilton

HAMILTON, March 31 (CP)—Carl Voyles of New York, a top-ranking United States football man, Thursday night was named coach and general manager of the new Hamilton Tiger-Cat Football Club.

Red Wings Take Leafs 3-1 Even Series At One Each

DETROIT, March 31 (CP). — Two games and 40 penalties after the start of their Stanley Cup semi-final, the only thing settled between Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings is that they don't like each other.

The Red Wings, National Hockey League champions, felt better today. They had avenged a 5-0 drubbing and an injury to right-winger Gordie Howe by whipping the Leafs 3-1 Thursday night. That squared the best-of-seven series at a game apiece, but the Red Wings still felt they had some scores to settle.

Howe, the Wings' top goal-scorer, was still in hospital with a fractured nose and brain concussion after crashing into the boards in Tuesday night's series opener while trying to check the Leaf centre, Ted Kennedy.

End 12 Wins

The Wings ended a 12-game playoff winning streak for the Leafs at their expense when they whipped them Thursday night But they feel the Leafs still owe them a Stanley Cup or two, after beating them out of the big money three times in a row.

Those 40 penalties—21 in the first game and 19 in the second—haven't improved personal feelings between the two clubs. Twice Thursday night, every man on the ice picked an opponent and started throwing punches.

When the clubs chose to play hockey, Detroit had the best of it. They fired 11 shots at Leaf goal Turk Broda, and scored on one of them, before Harry Lumley was called on to make a stop at the other end. Lumley made 17 saves during the night to Broda's 36.

Defenceman Len Kelly put the Wings in front midway through the first period while Toronto's Bill Ezinicki was sitting out a penalty. Five minutes later, veteran centre Sid Abel made it 2-0 sinking a rebound off the stick of Jerry Couture who filled Howe's spot on Detroit's first line.

Leafs Score in Third

Joe Carveth scored for Detroit in the second period and Fleming Mackell got Leafs' lone tally in the third, but neither club seemed primarily interested in playing hockey in the last two frames. The boarding, high-sticking, roughing and general mayhem increased as the game went on, and Referee Butch Keeling kept a stream of offenders on their way to the penalty box.

The game ended with a slugfest between Lindsay and Ezinicki that touched off simultaneous sessions between four other pairs of battlers.

"The Lord and 12 Apostles could not have kept the Red Wings under control tonight," was the Leaf president Conn Smythe's comment on the game. Coach Tommy Ivan of the Wings was critical of the way Keeling called his penalties.

Howe, on the mend in Detroit's hospital, won't be with the Wings when they face the Leafs at Toronto Saturday night. He is through for the season and doctors would not even let him have news of Thursday night's game, for fear that the excitement might slow his recovery.

Gamblers Attempt To Change NHL Odds

TORONTO, March 31 (CP).—A Toronto paper said Thursday that gamblers are moving in on the 1950 Stanley Cup playoffs.

In a newspage story, the paper caid:

"This morning (Thursday) they tried one of those dodges calculated to sway the odds by making phony telephone calls to the sports departments of the evening papers. Checking sports writers caught up with the stunt before it got too far."

The story added that a man representing himself as Ted Kennedy, captain of Toronto Maple Leafs, telephoned the paper's sports department and said that an injured knee would keep him out of Thursday night's Toronto-Detroit game in Detroit. A check by the paper's staff writers in Detroit revealed that Kennedy had placed no calls.

Cuffe Captures "Y" Shield At Swim Meet

Turning in very fast time for the 440 yards free style swim and clipping 1 minutes, 22 seconds off his best time for the distance, David Cuffe earned 19 points in last evening's workout of the YMCA Swim Club to win the monthly swim shield with a total of 45 points or six point ahead of Alec Baptie with 39 and Ralph Wood with 38.

The most interesting race of the session was between Cuffe and Baptie who fought along together over most of the 440 yards. Baptie pulled ahead to a 10-second lead at the 200-yard mark to clock the fastest time recorded by a 12-year-old in the local pool at 2 minutes 50 seconds. Cuffe gradually pulled upon even terms with 100 yards to go and both swimmers stroked together until Baptie spurted for a one-second advantage to win by a touch.

John Boorman and Jim Starr swam well and are showing splendid improvement. Altogether 17 out of the 22 swimmers recorded improved times. Coach Gordon Minty had reason to feel proud of the showing his lads are making and is confident they will keep at home a few of the Ontario championships which are being held here in the YMCA pool on April 15. Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Walter (Babe) Pratt, a rollicking defenceman—coach of 34, figures he has made about $100,000 out of hockey but admits he hasn't much of it left.

Then he adds: "If I had it all to do over again I would probably have less."

The Babe, with 15 years in pro hockey behind him, has no intention of giving up the game: "the owner of our club says my contract will last forever. I only hope we don't have a bad season."

Saturday, Pratt leads his New Westminster Royals into the northern division finals of the Pacific Coast Hockey League. Royals topped the six-team division during the regular stretch and are more or less favorites to take the bundle.

New Westminster can — and does—give Babe credit for their team's showing. This season he won the award as the most valuable player in the league. If they gave awards for it, he would probably win the "most colorful player" medal as well.

Three players who were named to the Negro all-American football team last season will try for positions with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four.

President Bob Moran of the Interprovincial Football Union senior club said Thursday the three are Warden Braden, a quarterback; Ulysses Curtis, a halfback, and Marvin Whaley, an end.

Another United States player who Moran said is applying is Elmore Harris, backfielder last year for New York (pro) Bulldogs. Harris is National College outdoor running champion over distances of 440 and 220 yards and gave up his chance to make the U. S. Olympic team by turning pro with Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947.

Les Douglas, centre for Cleveland Barons who led the American Hockey League in scoring this year with 100 points, has been selected as the circuit's most valuable player.

Douglas, a native of Perth, Ont. will receive the Leslie Cunningham Trophy and a bonus of $300, the league announced Thursday at New York. He already has received $300 for leading the league in scoring, and another $300 for being chosen on the all-star team.

The dangerous, high-speed Thompson Trophy race Thursday was dropped out of the national air races in a drastic overhaul of future programs.

This was the closed-course dash for daredevil pilots of souped-up planes which last year brought death to global flier Will Odom and two other persons.

Thursday's decision by air race officials at Cleveland covered far more than the Thompson. All old-type surplus military planes were banned from the 1950 program here.

Now Condemned To Soviet Paradise

Letter Slips By Censor, Tells German Degradation

From behind the Iron Curtain has come a shocking document, a bitter letter that somehow slipped through the censors, which details the brutality of Soviet masters over a subjugated people.

The letter was received in the U. S. by a woman who lived in Germany from 1939 until 1947. While there she became a close friend of a talented young woman painter. This young artist now lives in Leipzig, in the Soviet Zone.

It was signed with a pseudonym which the American woman recognized as a code to identify her good friend.

To protect the writer, neither her name nor the name of home city of the recipient are being divulged and any names in the letter are disguised.

Some excerpts from the letter follow:

Not Well Informed

"We received your dear letter yesterday and thank you for it. As I'm just now in the possession of a typewriter I want to answer it immediately — though anonymously, so I may write more openly. Please acknowledge this letter at your earliest opportunity, provided you receive it. Just mention the date without reference to its content.

"You write, with complete lack of knowledge of existing conditions, that you read such terrible things about the Russian Zone and how do we stand them.

"Living conditions have improved somewhat. But don't forget, we have learned to measure by Russian standards—we don't know any others any more. We get enough to eat, if you are satisfied with potatoes, barley and bread. The Russians are bursting out of their uniforms but we still don't get any milk. The smell of the margarine is so rank even the government doctors warned the population not to use it.

Slave at Work

"But that is of no importance. Man has become a number. He not only has to work—he has to slave. If he breaks down under the strain or from malnutrition, then he gets four weeks of vacation. If he hasn't recuperated sufficiently in that period to take up slavery again, then he gets a rationing so small that his suffering will soon be over.

"The individual is of no importance any more. You don't wish for anything unless it be for release from this earth. Even success in your profession changes nothing in this attitude. Nothing at all.

"My boss used to be a convinced Marxist. But some of the happenings made him shake his head. So they put him behind bars for a time. It's dangerous business to shake your head.

Drain Out Life

"I must beg of you never to say anything like that in your letters—it could not only cost us our livelihood, but it could also condemn us to lifelong slavery. Free utterance of opinion is a thing only on the paper of the statutes of our new highest democratic republic—which has at last brought 'freedom' to us.

"We've all listend to anti-Communist propaganda, before and during Hitler's time. We've heard of the cruelties employed in their fight for world domination. But all that propaganda never made you fully realize how those Bolshevistic methods slowly painfully drain the very marrow out of the individual who is condemned to the Soviet paradise.

"Life here is such that you actually become a spy on yourself. You distrust everybody, including yourself. They have an uncanny way of keeping everbody in constant fear because that is the surest way to make you conform.

"Not so long ago Anna was raped by two Russian soldiers right in the middle of the town. They stuffed a dirty rag into her mouth to prevent her outcry, threw her to the pavement and held her there with an expert wrestler's technique, and then dismissed her with probably the only German words they knew: 'You German swine.'

Daily Experiences

"Things like that happen daily. It isn't the actual degrading experience which is the horrible part of it. What really crushes you is the impression it leaves on your very soul.

"Unless you've lived here, you cannot know what it means to be exposed, without means of defense, to such occurrences. During those endless minutes Anna had to think: 'And over this, too, shine the stars.' We had to fight very hard to have her regain a semblance of balance again.

"During those endless minutes, Anna had to think: 'And over this, too, shine the stars'."

Just Like Vise

"I myself have been urged for the last year to join the SED (the Soviet-supported, Socialist Unity party). Now finally they have me so securely by the neck that I won't be able to elude them any longer without losing my livelihood.

"This week I had to attend one of their meetings. Never before had I more clearly the sensation of being in a vise. The members are put together into groups of 10 and everyone's behavior and attitude is marked for with points—minus and plus. You're only a number.

"Keeping silent is the only temporary refuge for most of us. Should you get a letter from me which tells you of my dismissal from my job, then you will know that I continued to keep silent and was therefore found unworthy of my position.

You've probably read how all the Germans in the East Zone contributed heavily to Stalin's birthday. It's hard to understand those Germans. Fact is, that contribution was taken from their pay envelope before they got to see it. Also, all the teachers with their classes had to write personal congratulations to Stalin.

"I'm trying, through all my connections, to get into the West Zone. But I'm too weak and tired to venture such a move without the security of a job.

"You'll be glad to have finished reading this letter—if you ever get it. For you in America, I can only hope that your politics may be such that you never get Communism into your country. Once you get it it is too late. Nobody can free himself from those claws. Then you, too, would have to recite—as we have to here: 'Any peasant in Russian has more culture than an American professor.'"

WAR'S DEATH TOLL

Approximately 1,089,000 officers and men in the British Empire forces lost their lives in the First World War.

Prescription Tests Check Druggists

LONDON—(CP)—Two London doctors who objected to supplying test prescriptions on the ground they would be parties to "snooping" on druggists, were told by the Medical Benefit Committee that their view was mistaken.

The committee said that under National Health Service regulations practitioners are asked to supply, from time to time, prescriptions for use in testing drugs and appliances. All doctors but two asked for these test prescriptions had complied.

"We are of the opinion that the two practitioners hold a mistaken view of the position," the committee told the London executive council of the National Health Service. "The request of the council is not made with the object of setting a trap for the chemist, but only to confirm that he is dispensing in accordance with his agreement."

Peers To Finance Vacations On Time

LONDON — (CP) — Lord Tweedsmuir, 38-year-old son of the former governor-general of Canada, has gone into business—a "holidays for hire" business.

Along with 53-year-old Lord Teynham, Tweedsmuir has formed Holiday Finance Limited a £10,000 ($31,000) company which will lend money for holiday purposes. People who borrow to meet vacation expenses will be given several months to pay.

The son of John Buchanan has travelled extensively in Canada. Lord Teynham, a deputy speaker of the House of Lords, also knows many parts of the world.

More than 100,000 tons of dirt and sand may be carried in one cubic mile of air above a desert sandstorm.

HIGH-LEVEL CONFERENCE—Secretary of State Dean Acheson (centre) and Ambassador-at-Large Philip Jessup (right) confer with Sen. Tom Connally of Texas before appearing before Connally's Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The committee held a closed session on America's world-wide foreign policy.

Build Refinery Kent Marshlands

ISLE OF GRAIN, Kent, England—(CP)—A £30,000,000 ($93,000,000) oil refinery which will provide jobs for 2,000 persons is planned for this lonely peninsula which divides the Medway and Thames Rivers.

Plans, yet to be given a go ahead by the government, would include establishment of a miniature township complete with ships and public services. It would cover 1,000 acres of what now is marsh land.

Fourteen jetties would be built out into the Medway river to accommodate large tankers which would bring crude oil from the Persian Gulf for refining.

The project is planned by the Anglo-Iranian Oil company.

PIPELINE PUSHED — International Pipeline Co. workers are shown on Regina's outskirts laying first sections of a 20-inch line which will eventually carry oil from Alberta oilfields across the prairies to the Lakehead. Sections of the pipe can be seen stretching westward along a 60-foot swath cleared of snow while in the foreground workmen unload pipe from a truck.

Ann Sheridan Enlarging Valley Home

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 31 (AP) —Ann Sheridan is enlarging her home, but not to accommodate a husband. She lives alone and (she says) likes it.

She's altered her San Fernando Valley home, adding about 15 feet to each room, she says. Being a collector of things—particularly perfume, antique China and French lingerie—she needed more space. She also added a swimming pool and bath house. She and her companion, Martha Bunch, will move back into the home next month.

Despite her long romance with publicist Steve Hannagan, Ann has no marriage plans. Said she: "I tried it twice (with Edward Norris and George Brent). I'm happy the way I am. I'll think it over very carefully before I try it again."

Theory of Failure

Director Alfred Hitchcock has a theory of why "Stromboli" failed to win critical acclaim.

"Don't forget that Rossellini was working most of the time with English dialogue," he observed. "Being an Italian, he cannot understand the American idiom. Lines that sound dramatic and stirring in Italian might seem silly when translated into English.

"I recall many years ago I made pictures simultaneously in English and German. The English versions were okay, but the German ones were flops. Even though I thought I understood German, I had no grasp of the nuances of the language."

Capsule Review

"Cheaper by The Dozen" (TCF) is a cure for the box-office blues. Following the best-selling book, it presents a warming account of a large American family. The plot is actually a string of incidents which contain enough humor and heart to engross any audience. After playing snippy roles, Clifton Webb changes pace with a hearty portrait of the father. Myrna Loy and Jeanne Crain perform understandably as the mother and daughter.

DEAD-EYE HAZEL—Sub.-Lieut. Hazel Mullin of Outlook, Sask., is shown racking up a score of 98 to pace her RCN squad to a one-point win over Princess Louise Fusiliers, a reserve army unit in the Halifax garrison indoor rifle league. The navy also won the all-season aggregate trophy of the league by edging out the army by two points. The nurse joined the navy at Hamilton, Ont., in 1943 and began her rifle shooting at HMCS Naden in British Columbia.

NOT YET OUT

CARLTON, Sask. (CP)—Dobbin got his own back recently at critics who says he's on the way out. Section men from Laird arrived here by horse and toboggan when the Canadian National Railways track was blocked.

Government's Broker Resigns

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, March 31—(CP) A man whose nod can stop a slump or add millions to the value of British government securities soon will disappear from the London financial scene.

Called the most powerful man on the London Stock Exchange, Sir Edward Cripps is retiring as government broker. After Easter, his place will be taken by 40-year-old Derek Mullens.

Sir Edward, a genial, red-faced man in his 60s, buys and sells stocks and shares for government departments, the National Debt Commissioners and the Bank of England. These between them hold more than $3,500,000,000 of government debt.

Every morning Sir Edward has a talk with the directors of the Bank of England. From then on his movements are probably the most closely watched in London

Cause Boom With Look

The mere appearance of his top-hatted figure through the door leading to the Stock Exchange floor brings a flurry of excitement in the market. A stroll by him afound the gilt-edged market has been known to start a boom

One day this winter a sharp rebound in government securities added nearly £200,000,000 to stock values after Sir Edward came into the market and announced he was a buyer.

But it can work the other way. After bad economic news last June a selling wave knocked £60,000,000 off values in a couple of hours. Brokers knew that only government buying could break the selling wave, but Sir Edward did not appear.

Sir Edward, who is not related to Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has been government broker 13 years and holds the post as senior member of the Brokerage Firm of Mullens and Company. This concern has handled the government business for 120 years.

Derek Mullens, Sir Edward's successor, is a great-grandson of the first holder of the post.

Mrs. I. Frederick Pioneer Dies

Mrs. Irvin Frederick, who died Saturday at the age of 93, was the last of a family of 14 children of pioneer parents in Rawdon Twp., Hastings County. She was the daughter of Robert Clancy and his wife, Rosella Breaults.

In the early days Mr. Clancy conducted a singing school in the winter months at Wellman's and the family is still remembered for its singing ability.

Mrs. Frederick was a member of Wellman's choir at the time of the church's dedication and returned to sing again at the 65th anniversary.

The funeral service held in the church on Tuesday, was conducted by her son, the Rev. Ernest Honey of Lindsay.

Water Almost Reaches Ceiling Of Cellar Vegetables, Sealers Float Gaily In "Lake"

MILLBROOK, March 31 (ENS) —Flood conditions in Millbrook are much improved with the return of cooler weather. Mrs. Morton of Tupper St., reported that early in the week the flooding water filled her cellar almost to the top. Her hot water tank which stands in the basement was completely covered. She managed to get jars of fruit out in time, but vegetables stored in the cellar floated in the water. Some empty fruit sealers were broken. The motor which runs the electric pump for the waterworks system was put out of commission and is down at the electrician's for repair. Until it is repaired the water works system of the house cannot be used. Mrs. Bullied, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Vanderburgh, in the Harvey Sanderson house also on Tupper St., said the water put the furnace fire out, and they had to depend on the kitchen range for heat the early part of the week. Since their laundry equipment is in the cellar the washing had to be delayed. Although Mrs. Morton said there was still more than six inches of water in her basement, both households said they could now get into their cellars by wearing high rubber boots.

Back From England

COTTESLOE, March 31 (ENS) —Mr. Harold Teall has returned from his trip to England where he had spent the winter months visiting his brothers and sisters. He is spending a few days at the home of Mr. Henry Dewart and Miss Annie Dewart of Warsaw where Mrs. Teall has spent the winter while her husband was in England.

Why Seagram's sells Canada first

This advertisement is an adaptation of one of a series created by The House of Seagram to tell the peoples of other lands about Canada and her various products. For the past two years this campaign has been appearing in newspapers and magazines printed in many languages and circulated throughout the world.

Our prosperity is based on our ability to sell our products to other countries. Every Canadian has a personal stake in foreign trade, for one out of every three dollars of Canada's national income results from our trade abroad. The more that the peoples of other countries know of the quality, variety and prestige of our products, the more likely they are to buy from us.

❖ ❖ ❖

Surely the horizon of industry does not terminate at the boundary line of its plants; it has a broader horizon, a farther view, and this view embraces the entire Dominion. That is why The House of Seagram believes that it is in the interest of every Canadian manufacturer to help the sale of all Canadian products in foreign markets. It is in this spirit that these advertisements are being published throughout the world.

FUNNY BUSINESS —By Hershberger

"How about a chaise longue for the maid, too?"

US Defence Cost Up $647,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 31 — (AP). — Members of the House of Representatives Armed Services Committee today disclosed plans to add about $647,000,000 to next year's defence budget.

This development followed testimony by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower that $500,000,000 more —at a "guess"—could be used to strengthen the defences of the United States.

The House next week will begin consideration of a Bill which calls for $13,911,127,000 in cash and contract authority for the US armed forces in the 12 months starting July 1.

Eisenhower told a Senate Appropriations SubCommittee on Wednesday that US defences are not as strong as they might be. The Air Force was one arm whose needs he stressed, along with Alaskan defences, anti-submarine weapons, and industrial mobilization.

Power Dim-Outs Gone For Years Says Saunders

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Robert H. Saunders, Hydro-Electric Power Commission chairman, predicted today that power shortages and cutoffs have been eliminated "for many years to come" in Ontario.

He told the second annual industrial promotion conference of Ontario municipalities that the recent agreement signed by Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost granting Ontario additional power facilities was "of tremendous importance" to the future development of power in the province.

The treaty will mean that by late 1953 or early 1954 Ontario will be able to produce an additional 500,000 horsepower and ultimately 900,000 additional horsepower will be available, he said.

The Commission does not anticipate any shortages or cut-offs in the immediate future and municipalities may assure industries planning to establish plants in their areas that there will be "an abundance of lowcost power available," he told the representatives of more than 100 Ontario communities.

Japanese Gloves Ruin Industry

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Louis Borsook, president of the Dorothea Knitting Mills, said today a tariff board decision against raising trade barriers to the import of Japanese-manufactured gloves and mitts will spell "complete destruction of the glove industry in Canada."

The board Wednesday ruled against a request by the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturing Association that duty be raised on the knitted goods.

Mr. Borsook said in a statement:

"Last year 81,000 dozen pairs of mitts and gloves entered Canada from Japan and we expect 200,000 dozen to come in this year. Canadian manufacturers can't compete against them."

Veteran Lumberman Dies In Kapuskasing

KAPUSKASING, March 31 — (CP).—A son of one of Northern Ontario's most widely-known railway and logging contractors and himself a logging operator for many years in the north, Daniel J. McCool died at his home here at midnight Wednesday. He was 62.

Born in Pembroke, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McCool, who lived for many years in Sudbury and North Bay, Daniel McCool came to the nickel district as a youth.

Some eight years ago Daniel McCool moved to Kapuskasing and he was employed with the Department of Lands and Forests at the time of his death.

He is survived by his widow, seven sons, four daughters and three brothers.

Mission Work Needed In Canada–Minister

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Expansion of home missions work is "the immediate task" confronting the United Church of Canada, the Rev. Dr. W. S. Godfrey of Sackville, N. B., said Thursday.

Dr. Godfrey, superintendent of home missions for the church's Maritime conference, said in address prepared for delivery to the annual meeting of the United Church Board of Home Missions:

"The question today is not 'can we conquer other countries for Christ?' but rather is 'can we hold our own country?'"

Halifax Character Was Premier's Son

HALIFAX, March 31 (CP) — One of the city's most colorful characters, Robert Milroy Thorburn, died Wednesday almost unsung and unnoticed on the eve of the first anniversary of confederation with his native Newfoundland—an event he protested to the end.

Thorburn, despite his 84 years, skipped about the city streets with a youthful vigor carrying his battles against bureaucracy and confederation to the doors of newspaper editors and government officials.

And between stops he carried on his work as self-appointed garbage collector. He gathered litter under his arm as he went and burned it in improvised incinerators on the broad concrete walk of the Nova Scotia Technical College or the substantial tombstones of old Camp Hill Cemetery.

Until the little obituary appeared in today's papers, most of his fellow citizens knew him only as one of the city's eccentric characters. They recalled his lean, gaunt figure, in ruffled and worn clothing and with a week's growth of stubble over his rosy cheeks, stepping lively along the streets, his mane of white hair showing under a battered old hat.

What most didn't know was that he was the son of a former premier of Newfoundland and had been educated in several top Europeon universities.

H-Bomb Article Tells Too Much

NEW YORK, March 31 (AP)— The magazine Scientific American said Thursday it stopped its presses to let the United States Atomic Energy Commission censor an article on the hydrogen bomb.

In a separate statement released at the same time as its April issue, the century-old science magazine asked if the AEC is not "suppressing information" the public needs to form opinions on H-bombs and atomic bombs.

"While there are certainly areas of information which must be protected for reasons of national security, there is a very large area of technical information in the public domain which is essential to adequate public participation in the development of national policy and on which the American people are entitled to be informed," the magazine said.

CREATION OF "ATOMIC-POWERED" harmones, a pioneering achievement, has been attained at McGill University. As a result of three years of intensive research by a team of 10 biochemists under the direction of Prof. R. D. H. Heard, shown above pointing out to Lloyd Thompson, McGill research student, the position of the radio-active atom in the carbon structure of the molecule. The substances are in demand by research institutions in Canada and abroad for cancer, psychiatric investigation and in studies leading to a better understanding of certain diseases such as high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and rheumatoid arthritis.

Develop Radioactive Hormone For Study Of Diseases

MONTREAL, March 31 (CP)—McGill University scientists announced Thursday that they have successfully made radio-active hormones for use in studying such diseases as cancer, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and rheumatoid arthritis.

Radio-active carbon from the atomic piles at Canada's Chalk River plant, and the United States Oak Ridge station is incorporated into the complex molecules of the hormones. Because each of the molecules has a radio-active tracer, medical researchers can then trace its path through the human body.

Associate professor of Biochemistry Dr. R. D. H. Heard, headed a team of 10 biochemists who carried out the research. He said the hormones, estrone and desoxycorticosterone, have been made radio-active for the first time.

Take Great Care

Prof. Heard emphasized that great care is being taken in the distribution of them because of the intricate knowledge required for their application in medical research.

The Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology at Worcester, Mass., has obtained a supply and workers there are using them in cancer research.

Both estrone and desoxycorticosterone have been known for years. Estrone is produced in the body by the ovaries. It is believed that estrone, or products related to it, may cause forms of cancer.

Desoxycorticosterone is one of the many steroid hormones of the adrenal glands, which are found adjacent to the kidneys. It is believed to be intimately associated with development of diseases such as high blood pressure.

Photographs may show the effects the hormones have on various parts of the body. The radio-activity, however, has no other effect than to make the molecules visible to the camera and researchers' instruments.

modation for 60 elderly female patients. Ontario Hospital at St. Thomas will have 1,800 beds this year, an increase of 32.

Health estimates for 1950-51 total $33,398,950, up $9,200,000 from last year.

Mr. Challies told the House it is hoped that "increased productivity and more active competition in manufacturing may contribute to the lowering of certain costs of the Hydro construction program."

More Power In 1950

The present economic situation suggested that power demands will continue to increase during 1950.

New home construction and building of new industries as well as "phenomenal growth in rural services and increased mining activity all point to continued load growth," said Mr. Challies. The budget for the current fiscal year was estimated at $162,570,000.

Changing To Industry

Agriculture Minister Kennedy, in presenting his estimates during the afternoon, said Ontario is changing from an agricultural to an industrial economy. Whereas 70 per cent of the population was engaged in farming in 1871, today the percentage was 15.

Mr. Kennedy predicted that if the present rate of rural electrification is maintained every farm will have Hydro within the next two years. Out of 173,845 farms of more than five acres in size in the province, 104,286 have Hydro.

Mr. Kennedy cited the tremendous demand for Ontario cattle as proof of the success of his department's breeding policy.

Last year 45,080 dairy cattle, valued at more than $10,000,000 and 102,575 beef cattle, valued at $25,000,000 were exported to 16 foreign countries.

Amendment Defeated

At the afternoon session opening, William Temple CCF—High Park) moved an amendment to the new Marriage Act. The amendment, requiring persons to be married to undergo a blood test for syphillis, was defeated 75 to 18.

Answering a question by A. A. MacLeod (Lab-P—Toronto Bellwoods), Mr. Kennedy said he had never used his political influence on the staff of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph "and never will as long as I live."

All Lake Ports Preparing To Open Season

By The Canadian Press

Along the Great Lakes system from Port Arthur to Prescott, from the St. Lawrence River to Thunder Bay, activity is brisk.

At some lower-lake ports, vessels have made their first runs of the season. Some have ventured timidly to the edge of vanishing icefields, then turned back to await safer navigating conditions. Others, gleaming with fresh coats of paint, lie quietly at their piers, awaiting the order that will send them on their way for another busy season.

A few days of mild weather are all that is needed to open navigation at most ports. Harbor officials generally expect traffic will be moving by mid-April.

Watching Tugs

At Port Arthur, where elevators are jammed with grain, shippers are watching the progress of tugs butting their way into ice ranging up to 32 inches in thickness. April 10 to 15 is the target date for arrival of the first vessel from the east.

Ice still blocks the canal at Sault Ste. Marie, linking Lake Superior and Lake Huron. Officials say it will be April 15 before ships can pass through in safety.

But ships were moving on Lake Huron Thursday. A tanker left Sarnia for Goderich and was turned back temporarily by ice. Others cleared Sarnia for Windsor, Port Stanley, Toledo and Alpena, Mich.

Winter held its grip on Georgian Bay. Ice up to 26 inches in thickness sealed the ports of Owen Sound and Collingwood. Eastern Lake Erie also was reported icebound.

provinces. Some provinces pay supplementary payments.

Means Test

The means test is enforced in all provinces. Under it persons 70 and over must prove their need for a pension. In some provinces if a pensioner owns property, the province takes a lien on that property and from it recovers as much as it can from the pensioner's estate when he dies.

Another Liberal, James Rooney (L, Toronto St. Paul's) said he wanted to see a $60-a-month pension paid at 60 to all regardless of means. C. J. Henry (L, Toronto Rosedale) suggested the committee study United States plans under which $100-a-month pensions were being arranged.

John Diefenbaker (PC, Lake Centre) urged Mr. Martin to announce immediately the government's pension plans for the next 15 years. This would enable the committee to call representatives of labor and industry and work out a correlation of the individual industrial plans with the national plan.

Contributory Plan

Mr. Diefenbaker's party is in favor of a contributory old-age pensions system, with pensions payable to all as a matter of right at 65.

Ross Thatcher (CCF, Moose Jaw) said his party wanted to see the means test abolished and pensions of $50 a month paid at 65. This would cost about $800,000,000 a year, a "staggering burden" for a federal budget that was already "bursting at the seams." The people would have to pay on a contributory basis.

Victor Quelch (SC, Acadia) said the basic old-age pension should be at least $50 a month and payable at 65 instead of 70. The means test should be eliminated. When unemployment increased as a result of changes in the methods of production the pensionable age should be rereduced to 60 to make room in the labor market for younger people.

Says Senate Republicans Torpedoing US Policy

KEY WEST, Fla., March 31 — (AP)—President Truman's bitter declaration that Senate Republicans are endangering world peace by trying to torpedo the bipartisan United States foreign policy set the pattern today for the 1950 Congressional elections.

The President unleashed his fury on Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep., Wis.), whom he described as the Kremlin's greatest asset in the U. S., and on Senators Styles Bridges (Rep., N. H.), and Kenneth Wherry (Rep., Neb.), whom he named as McCarthy's associates.

At a press conference in the peaceful setting of this tropical naval submarine base, Truman, stung by Republican attacks on State Secretary Dean Acheson and McCarthy's charges of Communist influences in the State Department, came sharply to the defence of Acheson, whom he described as one of the country's greatest Secretaries of State.

Strike Back

In Washington McCarthy, Bridges and Wherry struck back angrily at Truman's charges.

McCarthy said he would be glad to plead guilty to sabotaging the Truman administration's far eastern policies, adding that "they couldn't be any worse—our batting average is zero."

"If someone can disrupt the plans for turning the rest of the east over to Russia, it would be a good thing," he told reporters. "I wish somebody had sabotaged that policy earlier."

Bridges bristled that the only thing he is trying to do is "to sabotage some of the subversives and security risks so that they will be thrown out of key posts in the government."

Wherry, the Republican floor leader in the Senate, challenged the President to open the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other loyalty files to a Senate foreign relations sub-committee investigating McCarthy's charges that Communists have influenced state department foreign policies.

Junior Farmer Leaders Meet In City

More emphasis on the personal development of the rural boys and girls who enlist in junior club work was advised by E. A. Pineau of production services of the federal Department of Agriculture at a district conference of club leaders at the Normal School today.

Eight counties were represented by senior boys from eight counties from Ontario to Lennox and Addington with A. M. Barr, Toronto, associate director of agricultural representatives, Ontario Department of Agriculture, presiding.

The place of junior project clubs among the youth of Ontario was indicated by their record enrolment of 11,500 in 1949 as compared with 5,300 in 1935, said James D. Moore, Ottawa, public relations officer, Canadian Council on Boys and Girls' Club Work.

In numbers and in variety of enterprise of practical value to the young potential farmers of the future, Junior Clubs had shown remarkable progress, Mr. Pineau said. In that expansion much of the credit should be given to the graduates of Clubs who extended their interest into the field of leadership.

Primary Objective

The care and management of dairy and beef calves, as one phase of club undertaking, remained the primary objective, Mr. Pineau said, but there was abroad in rural Canada today a deeper sense of citizenship which clubwork could engender among the teenage boys and girls of the homes of agriculture.

Officials Agree South End Protection Vital, Probable Cost $30,000

Rough estimates of the fire and light committee Thursday afternoon suggested that a suitable fire department substation in the south end might be built for $25,000 to $30,000, but a community centre with accommodation for firemen, police, public library and board of health would probably cost up to $85,000. Action skidded with the remembrance of the 50-mill tax rate, and a resolution or hope that the rate next year will be held at the half century mark.

"This is a big spending year," Ald. J. E. Gillespie said, "and if there is some chance of it being more favorable in 1951 I think we might let this project stand for twelve months.'

The committee is asking the property committee to investigate sites worth considering south of Lansdowne St. Most of the thinking has been along Park St., but City Clerk Outram recalled that the city owns two acres on Monaghan Road at McKellar St. that was worth attention.

Ald. Doug Miller was chairman with Aldermen Dewart, Gillespie, Burrows and Mayor Swanston present.

Began Work Early

The chairman said the committee had begun early in January to consider the sub-station question, recognized as a need and recommended for years in the annual report of George Gimblett when he was chief.

Later discussion elicited a proposal that other community services should provide space in the public building. Heads of these departments were asked for estimates of their requirements. Replies were received by the committee Thursday, and they added up to something like $85,000.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., wrote that a well babies' clinic would require 1,000 feet of floor space and four separate rooms; Wm. Graff of the public library suggested 3,600 square feet, Chief Thompson one cell with four lockups, guardroom desk with telephone, radio and similar incidentals.

Ald. Miller switched the concern of the committee back to the need of fire protection in the south end, but the discussion was restrained by the stalking tax rate. Nine firemen at the substation, three on duty in each of three shifts would cost $27,000 in salaries, debenture charges were estimated at more than $2,000. The approximate total was $30,000 or four-fifths of a mill.

Up To Council

The chairman said it was entirely a matter for the council to decide, but he wished to present something to the council on which they could make a decision one way or the other.

"After all," said Ald. Miller, "people living 2½ miles from the station are paying the same rate for fire protection as those who live only a block away from it. That's not fair."

"We all realize the importance of this matter," said Ald. Dewart.

Chief George Smith related an incident of a few days ago, a call to a chimney fire at 110 Cameron St. at 11:57 a.m.

"On Park St. we ran into the CGE and De Laval noon hour traffic. I was halted three times by the traffic. We were in the thick of it. When we got to Cameron St. the chimney had burned itself out. But, what if that had been a house on fire?"

Lucky Outs

Previously Chief Smith said the department had been "very, very lucky" in escaping serious fire loss attributable to the longer distances from the fire hall to the fringe of the city.

Ald. Miller said he had estimated in January that a bungalow type of fire station could be built for $20,000. Revision was still close to that figure, and the building would be suitable for a substation detachment.

The committee deferred further discussion until a site report was received from the property committee.

Warsaw Farmers Tap Most Trees Sap Run Slow

"As slow as sap in March" could be the coining of a new phrase as far as the spring syrup business is concerned. It has been very light to date. Lack of frosty nights, except for the few days of this week, and then it was too cold, have held up the sap run. Boilings have been few.

Out in Cavan township, Harry and Thomas McCamus have tapped 1,200 and 900 trees, respectively, about 10 days ago. They have had no boiling bees. Bruce Sharpe tapped 400 trees, William White, 700, and Percy Stewart, 500 trees. Mr. Stewart boiled down a small batch on Tuesday. They all said today, however, that conditions are ideal and they expect Saturday will be a busy day for evaporating. Regardless of the slow start, the run may still be sufficient, they feel.

The district north of Warsaw takes the honor of having the most trees tapped. On the farms of both Chester Hamilton and Ernest Batten a combined 4,000 trees are hung with sap pails; tapping was later than in Cavan, about four days ago. Each of these farmers said that today should give them their first good run and both will boil down on Monday.

Sugar bush production in both Smith and around Westwood looks as if it will be smaller than the other areas mentioned. Roy Sanderson in Smith tapped 100 trees in his small grove and there has been no run to speak of so far. Bruce Graham near Westwood has tapped 300 trees, has had two small boilings and anticipates that there will be a fair season.

No one would commit themselves about prices. "Wait until we see what the Saturday market looks like," was their cautious reply.

Sparks On Shingle Roof Cause $7,000 Farm Fire

A $7,000 fire Thursday noon destroyed the six-room frame and insulbrick farm home of William Hartwick, in Otonabee township. Believed to have started from chimney sparks on the shingle roof the fire quickly devoured the building and the family is now without a home of its own.

Seeking accommodation with relatives are Mr. and Mrs. Hartwick and their three sons—John, 18, Joseph, 14, and Vernon, 10—and two daughters—Bernadette, 16, and Marlene, 12.

The quick onrush of flames made it impossible for Mrs. Hartwick, John and Bernadette—the only ones in the house at the time—to either cope with the fire or save much of the furniture. The isolated location of the farm made it difficult for neighbors to arrive in time to lend any valuable assistance.

Roads Slow Help

Muddy roads also slowed down possible help. The building on the 210-acre farm is half a mile from the nearest good road, being situated on RR 8, Peterborough, seven miles south-east of Peterborough.

Flames and smoke were first seen on the roof of the Hartwick home by another daughter, Mrs. Tom Heffernan, who lives on an adjoining farm. She had gone outside to do some chores and shouted across the field when she made her discovery.

Bernadette heard the alarm, looked up on top of the house and saw for herself. She then notified her mother. At the time Mrs. Hartwick was talking to her son William Jr., who lives on McFarlane Ave.

He had phoned to inquire about picking up some clothes for Mr. Hartwick about to be released from Civic Hospital.

Goes Right Out

"As soon as I heard what happened I jumped in the truck and went right out," William told the Examiner. "I couldn't have been much more than five minutes in getting there."

By the time he arrived the roof was one mass of flames and black smoke, and intense heat prevented any attempt to enter the house.

"I tried to get in but was met with a ball of smoke and had to turn back," said William. "There was nothing we could do at all."

All that was salvaged from the building was the wood stove and a few odds and ends of clothing downstairs. The bulk of the furniture, clothing and personal possessions were destroyed in the fire.

A neighbor estimates that 60 people were present. William Hartwick said the family appreciated their readiness to help but it was impossible to do anything except stand and watch the old house go up in flames.

Barn Saved

A barn with stock and the year's crop is situated about 100 yards to the north. But a northwest wind saved it from flying sparks and it did not catch fire.

The house had six rooms and a large kitchen shed in addition. Loss of the house alone is estimated at $5,000 with the contents extra. All that remains now of the family homestead is charred ruins.

Mrs. Hartwick and her youngest son, Vernon, 10, spent the night at her son William's on McFarlane Ave. Mr. Hartwick, just out of hospital, went to his son-in-law's, John Birchenau, George St. And the others—John, Joseph, Bernadette and Arlene—slept at the Tom Heffernan home.

It is not know if Mr. Hartwick intends to build again immediately.

Woman Injured In Car Crash

Mrs. Arthur Burley, 62 Cavan St., Port Hope, received head injuries when the car in which she was a back seat passenger, was involved in a broadside collision with another car at the Aylmer-McDonnel St. intersection Thursday at 8 p.m. After being treated by Dr. J. M. O'Brien, she was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital, where she is reported to be much improved today.

Mrs. Burley's son Clarence, of 62 Victoria St., Port Hope, was driving the car south on Aylmer St. when, three quarters across the intersection at McDonnel St., it was hit broadside by a car proceeding on McDonnel St.

Frederick Lajoie, 112 Princess St., Peterborough, was driving on McDonnel St.

Mr. Lajoie's car was towed to a garage with the left front fender dented and pushed in, left headlight lense smashed, grill bent, nose of hood dented and the radiator pushed back against the motor.

The right front and rear doors of Mr. Dudley's car were pushed in and the glass was broken in both doors and the rear panel.

Constable Jack Morrow investigated.

WILL HELP EXCHEQUER

Lindsay officials estimated today that the town is receiving in the neighborhood of $12,000 to $14,000 income from its parking meters. As soon as the meters are paid for, that amount will be a nice boost to the town treasury.

Cancer Society Re-elects Allan President

Jack Allan Thursday night was re-elected president of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Cancer Society. He is beginning his second term of office.

Other members of the local branch executive elected at the annual meeting were Mrs. Maurice Holt, vice-president; Roderich E. Macdonald, treasurer; Miss E. Miller, secretary. Also Mrs. Harry Digweed, Miss Mary Ross, Mrs. Ernest Thompson, A. S. Plaskett, J. G. Fraser, Dr. D. W. Clark, Dr. Louis Zacks, Dr. E. Ray, and Jack Duignan.

Objective of the Peterborough branch this year is to raise $5,000 for cancer work. On a Canada-wide scale the objective is $1,000,000 with $300,000 from Ontario alone.

Main speaker at the annual meeting was John Brighton, field director of the Ontario Division, Canadian Cancer Society.

He explained the importance of cancer detection and the necessity of educating the public to recognize the symptoms. This would be a substantial contribution toward cutting down the death rate in Canada which is now 15,000 annually.

At present there are two voluntary cancer organizations in Canada, he said—the Canadian Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute of Canada.

Three Main Aspects

The CCS, incorporated as a national society in 1938, is predominantly a lay organization and is interested primarily in three aspects of the cancer problem:

One, education of the lay public in the early symptoms of cancer that can be treated.

Two, welfare problems of the cancer patient.

Three, fund raising for these purposes and for research.

Dr. J. C. Meakins, emeritus professor of medicine at McGill University, is the present chairman of the board of directors.

The National Cancer Institute was incorporated in 1947 and its main aim is co-ordinating all professional and scientific cancer activities in Canada.

Five-Fold Program

At present the program includes:

One, sponsorship of cancer research.

Two, sponsorship of fellowships for cancer research workers.

Three, sponsorship of the Canadian Tumour Registry, Ottawa.

Four, professional education.

Five, co-ordination of provincial programs for the care of cancer patients.

In the educational part of the CCS campaign two things are stressed: early diagnosis and consultation with the family physician.

He quoted from Dr. O. H. Warwick, executive director of the CCS and NCI of C.

"The established and accepted treatment for cancer is the judicious use of surgery and irradication, using in the latter case either X-rays or radium.

Start Treatment Early

Treatment, to be most effective, must be administered early in the course of the disease. . . Early diagnosis is therefore important and more and more of our citizens are coming to realize this fact through a lay educational program. . . ."

"There is no longer the aura of superstition surrounding the word cancer," stated Dr. Warwick, "and the occurrence of cancer in a relative or friend no longer carries with it the stigma . . . (of) 25 years ago. Cancer has been brought out into the open and faced squarely as another medical problem against which we must bring to bear the armamentarium of improved of medical care and scientific research."

Four symptoms of cancer should be looked for, the speaker indicated are:

One, a lump in the breast.

Two, unnatural bleeding from a body opening.

Three, any lesion of the skin or mouth which will not heal.

Four, a change in the bowel habit.

Chooses Bride From 'Ad' Settling On Manvers Farm

Joseph Rajski took a quick leave of absence from his work on the new hydro project in Smith Twp. Thursday when he learned that his bride, whom he had not yet met, had arrived in Sudbury. Mr. Rajski rushed to his boarding house, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Bayliss, R. R. 2, Smith Twp. midmorning Thursday and after sprucing himself up, left for Sudbury, where he was a steel worker until coming to Peterborough County.

The bride, Mrs. Gertrude Timman, became betrothed to Mr. Rajski after an advertisement he inserted in an European newspaper. She lost her husband in 1946, when he died in a Russian prison camp.

Makes Plans

During a courtship by letter, Mr. Rajski made plans to provide for his bride. He has bought a 100 acre farm a mile north of Bethany from Frederick Thompson and plans to move in just as soon as he is married.

Mrs. Timman is a hairdresser and Mr. Rajski is hoping to set her up in business. Definite plans in that direction are not yet made however.

Mr. Rajski has been in Canada less than two years.

Vandal Wrecks Hedge 3rd Year

Mr. and Mrs. R. Brown's hedge at 271 Mark St. presents an annual mystery for the city police department and this is the time of year when the trouble arises. Mrs. Brown complained to Constable Jack Morrow this week that some one has cut the branches of her hedge and six fruit trees.

The same thing happened this time last year and the year before, but this year there is one difference in the appearance of the "crime."

In previous years the offender has removed the cut branches but this time they were left as they fell.

Film Board Work Discussed By Council

The importance of the National Film Board to the 250 Film Councils in Canada and films for Peterborough will be discussed at the Film Council meeting in the Public Library tonight at 8 o'clock.

In addition, three films will be previewed: "He Acts His Age", a film on child psychology; "Green Gold", a timber conservation film; and "Canoe Country", a color film of Northern Ontario.

Muskrat Season Latest In Years

Muskrat trapping, when trappers are able to start, will set a record this year in that it will be one of the latest seasons in many years. One fur man said he did not expect to see any pelts for another two weeks. He could not tell now what production might be nor how the price range might compare with former years.

Another buyer hazarded a guess that rat pelts might possibly be down 50 cents from last year which would bring them into the $1.50 to $2 price range. Trappers to whom he has been talking say that prospects around Burleigh Falls and along the Trent River look promising but they could make no observations on the situation on ice-filled marshes and lakes. Quality of fur should be better than standard, they think.

Bus And Car Collide

A car and a bus were in collision on Park Street near Wolfe Street Wednesday. The side of the car, driven by Alex Riel, 517 Glengarry Ave., was damaged but the bus received no damage.

REQUESTS ORATORS

Don Clarke, chairman of the public speaking course committee, Thursday night asked those Jaycees wishing to enter the national oratorical championships to register right away. The contest will be at the annual Jaycee convention here May 5-6-7. Ed Browne was the lone speaker Thursday, the ninth week of the course. His subject was "My Hobby". Four films were shown.

HIGHER ASSESSMENT

Lindsay Assessor Alex Kilner has announced that he expects the overall assessment of property will be increased there. However, he has a reassuring word for residents. He declared that the net result will likely be that the majority of people will be paying less taxes. This was explained as due to the overall assessment being increased, which causes the mill rate to be automatically reduced, provided expenses remain the same.

Ask Police To Help Find Jean And Amelia

Mrs. Thomas Ellis of Hamilton, Ontario, is trying to get in touch with two girls whose names she believes are Jean and Amelia and who once lived in Peterborough. With only that scanty information, she has enlisted the help of Peterborough city police.

The two girls are granddaughters of Mrs. Thomas' husband, who died in December and she is trying to locate them to settle her husband's estate.

Father of the sisters was Thomas Ellis, a marathon runner before his death about seven years ago.

Keep Young From Creek

This weekend is probably the most dangerous in the year for children playing near creeks, Police Chief John Thompson warned today. Every year at this time the department is called to emergencies involving children playing near water, he says. Jackson Park creek is probably the most dangerous point and parents are warned by the Chief to keep their children away from the swift currents of the swollen rivers.

Rocking Chair May Be Deadly As Thrombosis

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Are you thinking of the time when you will retire? Then listen to Thomas C. Desmond in the current issue of "Trust and Estates" trade publication of capital management in the United States. Says he:

"Successful reirement is one of the most difficult achievements of a lifetime. Aging can be hastened or slowed down. Inactivity speeds up degeneration. Develop now an interest outside your business that you can ride as a hobby. Above all, don't merely plan to vegetate, but retire to something active. The rocking chair can be as deadly as thrombosis."

Mr. Desmond is head of a New York State legislative committee studying the problems of the aging.

Uranium Mining

Here are some other items from the day's mail:

More than 1,000 technical representatives of Canada's $900,000,000 mining industry will meet in Toronto April 17-19 for the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. Round table conferences will include such matters as a probe of all means by which new uranium can be found and developed in order to maintain Canada's preferred position as a source of the atomic raw material. Retiring president is F. V. Seibert of Winnipeg.

George Weston, Ltd., big biscuit and confectionery business, notes that 48 per cent of its stockholders are women.

A. V. Roe Canada, Ld., Malton, Ont., states that it has developed a machine for the reproduction of three dimensional surfaces to any desired scale, primarily in connection with the manufacture of blades for gas turbine engines.

"Textiles," published by the Primary Textile Institue, says:

"Since imports of Japanese knitted gloves into Canada started late in 1948, four glove plants (at Mitchell, Alliston, Seaforth and Palmerston, Ont.) have had to close and more than 700 Canadian workers have lost their jobs. Japanese glove imports into Canada during 1949 reached a total of 82,000 dozen pairs, equal to nearly half of all Canadian production and one-third of the total Canadian market."

NEW MONTREAL ARCHBISHOP in his study—Monsignor Paul Emile Leger, rector of the Pontifical College of Canada, in Rome, who was appointed Archbishop of Montreal by the Pope on March 25. He succeeds Monsignor Joseph Charbonneau, who resigned Feb. 11. Monsignor Leger was Vicar General of Valleyfield, which is suffragan to the Archdiocese of Montreal. Monsignor Leger says that it has not yet been decided when he will leave Rome to take over his diocese. The picture shows Monsignor Leger at the Canadian College in Rome, March 25.

Salaries Higher

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP) — Despite a general falling off in employment, salaries and wages in the major industries were slightly higher Feb. 1 than the previous month on the same date last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

Swindler Caught

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Steve Popinlink, 36, was charged Thursday with theft on a warrant sworn by John Tiffert, a roominghouse operator who was swindled Wednesday of $3,600. Tiffert spotted Popinlink buying shoes in a downtown department store. Tiffert identified the suspect as one of three smooth talkers who relieved him of the $3,600.

Fight Freight Rates

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — A fight for restoration of special freight rates in transporting purebred livestock will be continued, a meeting of the Canadian National Livestock Records decided Thursday. Hugh Hill of Goderich, newly-elected president, said commercial breeders in many instances do not realize the service given them by pure-bred breeders in improving and maintaining breed standards.

Bills Introduced

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP) — The Commons Thursday gave first reading to two bills, one providing for the appointment of auditors for the Canadian National Railways, and another providing for a minor change in the Manitoba-Ontario boundary. Ralph Maybank, Parliamentary Assistant to Mines Minister McCann, said surveyors of the two provinces had agreed on the boundary changes. About 36 feet of Ontario would be given to Manitoba.

Easter Recess

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP) — The Commons Thursday adopted a motion providing for an Easter recess that will run from 6 p.m. EST Wednesday, April 5, to 3 p.m. EST Monday, April 17.

Woman Heckles Play Criticism, Judge Walks Out

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Adjudicator Maxwell Wray left the stage of Hart House Theatre Thursday night in the middle of his commentary when heckled by a female member of the audience.

The incident was the second such occurrence for Mr. Wray since he started adjudicating the Region Drama Festivals. When in Montreal recently he left when heckled.

The incident began while he was commenting on the production of "Rope," by Patrick Hamilton, the second of a double bill in the week-long central Ontario festival.

He called it "a cheap play — good theatrical entertainment, but really nothing but commercial melodrama."

"Don't Be Sarcastic"

From the audience came a female voice saying: "Don't be so sarcastic Mr. Wray."

As he tried to explain what he meant more fully the lady tried to interrupt again but was hissed down by the audience, which seemed almost wholly in the adjudicator's favor.

When she tried a third interruption, Mr. Wray broke in for the last time.

"I suffered these rude interruptions in Montreal," he said, "and I have no intention of suffering them any more in Toronto. I came here under a great mental strain. . . I had every good intention of helping these people, but I feel there is no point in continuing. Good night."

He walked off into the wings and the curtain was drawn.

Not a Member

The lady concerned was reported to be a member, not of the group, the Toronto Community Players, but an official of the community centre out of which the group works.

Robert Kent, bearded director of the play, was disturbed by the turn of events, and said that she in no way spoke for the group.

"It was unforgivable and not in very good taste," he said.

Dr. Park Jamieson of Sarnia, chairman of the Dominion Drama Festival committee, said: "None of Mr. Wray's remarks warranted the comments made. He was obviously trying to help the groups this evening. It was regrettable in regard to the fact that the audience was with him."

CHIRPY YOUNGSTER HOPES FOR EASTER — This little three-year-old just could not wait for her Easter chicks so she visited the Canadian National Express office in Central Station in Montreal, recently for a preview of what she may expect Easter morning. Barbara Howard saw hundreds of the little fluffy chirpers for they are now coming in daily in large quantities as dealers stock up for the holidays.

2 Charter Members Attend Lodge's 42nd Anniversary

The forty-second anniversary of the Duke of Manchester L.O.L. No. 50 was celebrated Thursday at a dinner in Mark St. Sunday School Hall attended by more than 100 Orangemen and their wives. Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army, who was guest speaker illustrated how the discords which arise in the lives of everyone can be harmonised by turning to Christ.

He based the main theme of his talk on the message "ask much, remember much and teach much."

By asking questions man broadened his knowledge. A child's mind developed most between the ages of three and five, when he was continually asking questions. But although many people could ask without difficulty, they often could not remember.

By teaching one learned more than during study time. When a man told what he knew he learnt more about it.

The Major also spoke of the fine record of the Duke of Manchester Lodge. During the Second World War it rendered great service, but in the First War it also had a great record. There were 77 members of the Lodge in the services during the First War and the membership was so actively engaged that it was often difficult to hold Lodge meetings.

Touching on many subjects, Major Everitt won the rapt attention of his audience. He told a little of his experiences in England when he visited that country a few years ago to extend his studies.

The Rev. B. S. Morwood, minister of Mark Street Church, welcomed the Orangemen. He said he knew of no sounder basis on which an organization could be founded than the basis of the Orange Order.

Ernest F. Reid introduced two charter members, who had been with the Lodge since its founding 42 years ago. They were Arthur Armstrong and Robert Wright.

The Rev. M. J. Aiken proposed a vote of thanks to Major Everitt.

Robert Hutton, Worshipful Master of the Lodge, was in the chair and conducted a sing-song.

Entertainment included songs by Mrs. Jessie Spencley and Mr. Chandler of Mimico, Robert Hardie, magician, and Mr. Mullen as novelty novelist.

The Rev. Dr. James Semple, who was to have been guest speaker, was unable to attend owing to illness.

Gordon Passes First Test As President

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP) — A Scottish immigrant boy, who came to Canada 36 years ago to seek fame and fortune, has emerged successfully from his first major test as a railroad president.

Donald Gordon, the burly former prices board chief and deputy-governor the Bank of Canada, three months ago took over direction of the Canadian National Railways, biggest railway system in North America.

He displayed his grasp of CNR affairs in four days of questioning before the House of Commons Railway Committee and gained the confidence of his examiners.

Mr. Gordon told them he has definite ideas on how to trim the long-time CNR deficit which last year was $42,000,000 and which may be cut this year to $32,000,000.

His ideas embrace plans to eliminate interest payments on government loans. He has plans, too, to take better care of his employees under a new department to be opened under a vice-president, W. H. Hobbs.

Other Suggestions

He displayed ideas of the use of oil against steam and although he told the committee of plans to bring in more diesel engines, he was not completely sold on the idea of eliminating steam locomotives entirely.

The committee, including more than a score of representatives of all parties in the House, expressed praise and astonishment at the vast storehouse of railroading knowledge gathered in three months.

Such men as E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops), Rodney Adamson (PC-York West) and Claire Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South) discarded party line to congratulate the government on appointing Mr. Gordon to handle one of the biggest assignments the government can offer.

Later, one of his business associates was asked how the president, in so short a time, mastered CNR affairs.

It was because Mr. Gordon was a giant, the associate replied, not only in stature—M. Gordon is six-feet-four and weighs 280 pounds—but in mental build. Also, Donald Gordon is a slave to work.

In his Montreal office, he works from eight or nine in the morning to late at night and then retires to a hotel room with a briefcase or two of work to take him into the small hours of the night.

LONE SURVIVOR—In Ramsayville, Ont., Sgt. Gwynne Long, 25, tells a medical corpsman how a fear of parachuting cost five lives, including that of US Ambassador to Canada Laurence Steinhardt, when an engine on their plane exploded. Long, from Vannoy, NC, parachuted to safety.

MPP Wants An Allowance Finds Toronto Expensive

TORONTO, March 31 — C. W. Cox, Liberal member for Fort William, Thursday told the Ontario Legislature something many Torontonians may have suspected for some time: Toronto is an expensive place to live in.

Mr. Cox, who backed up his assertion with restaurant bills and other figures, claimed that Toronto is one of the most expensive cities in North America. He even suggested that members of the Legislature should get an extra allowance for having to live in Toronto during sessions.

In Miami, he said, one got balmy breezes and resort atmosphere with one's meals and at better prices. Quoting from a menu he said rthee were breakfasts ranging from 25 to 60 cents, the latter including grapefruit, bacon, egg, and a muffin or toast.

"You can't even get into a restaurant in Toronto for 25 cents," said Mr. Cox. He was advised by A. A. McLeod (LPP, Belwoods) to try Bo les Lunch.

Mr. Cox, who spoke after Agriculture Minister Kennedy had reviewed Ontario's farm picture, questioned why, in this fertile province, the cost of living should be so high in Toronto.

He was aware of farm products prices and htey did not seem too high. It seemed that something happened between the time the goods left the farm and appeared on the restaurant table. Some one, he suspected, was getting more than his share.

"We're trying to cure that," said Mr. Kennedy.

Ward Off Effort To Whittle ERP Aid Again

WASHINGTON, March 31 (AP) —The administration Thursday got back control in the house of Representatives and warded off all further attempts to whittle down the United States foreign aid bill. The big vote on the $3,000,000,000 bill now is expected to come Monday.

In contrast to previous days, when the administration took three straight lickings, the House Thursday approved $1,000,000,000 for economic aid to the Republic of South Korea. It also gave new authority to spend about $100,000,000 of China aid funds left-over from previous authorizations and wound up the section which deals with aid to Western Europe, Korea and China.

Still up for argument: $27,450,000 for relief of Arab refugees from the Palestine war areas, and President Truman's controversial Point Four program.

Point Four, so-called because it was the fourth point in a Presidential foreign-policy statement, calls for $45,000,000 to help under-developed areas.

Thursday's session was in contrast to previous actions by the House on the administration's request for $3,372,490,000. The opposition then won tentative approval of amendments which would:

1. Block all aid to Britain until Ireland is united.
2. Knock a quarter of a billion dollars from the Marshall plan fund for Western Europe.
3. Earmark $1,000,000,000 of the fund for the purchase of United States farm surpluses.

Orson Welles Sued

PARIS, March 31 (AP)—Movie actor Orson Welles was sued on Thursday for $1,000,000 damage by the General Motion Pictures Company for alleged failure to go through with a contract to make a picture. The suit alleged that Welles agreed in December, 1948 to make a film entitled "Portrait of a Killer."

Even when dried indoors... EVEN WITHOUT RINSING

SURF gives you SWEETER WASHES

...snowy white, rainbow bright!

...fresh-air-sweet to smell!

"ORDINARY" CLEAN — Though you may think your wash is perfectly clean, a faint "musty" odor often betrays the fact that some remnants of dirt, grease or scum are still clinging to the fibres. Rinsing won't get rid of this... but Surf does!

SURF CLEAN — Even without rinsing, Surf removes every last trace of dirt, grease (and scum)... every trace of odor, too! That's why it gets your clothes so white, so bright... so soft... so wonderfully sweet to smell!

Surf contains an amazing detergent which removes not only every trace of dirt and grease... but all "dirty clothes" odor, too. Gets clothes sweeter smelling... cleaner than you've ever known them.

SURF-CLEAN CLOTHES are so deep-down clean that they not only look snowy white! Rainbow bright! They smell pure and wholesome... sunshiny-fresh... blown-in-the-sun sweet! SWEET... with the sweetness that proves how clean they are!

And that's not all!

They smell that way even if dried indoors! And they stay that way longer... retain that "new-washed" sweetness even after weeks in the linen closet or bureau drawer!

And that's not all!

You don't even need to rinse your Surf-clean wash! It will still be the cleanest, sweetest smelling wash you ever had.

First, because Surf has the magic power of grabbing and holding the dirt in the washwater, so when you wring out the water you actually wring the dirt out with it. Out goes every vestige of soil and grease!... to leave your wash really clean. At the same time, Surf's special purifying ingredient takes out every last trace of "dirty clothes" odor too!

When you don't rinse your Surf-clean wash, this purifying ingredient goes on working in your clothes—to keep them sweeter longer! (If you do want to rinse, add a little Surf to the rinse-water.)

Surf suds are rich and long-lasting. In hardest water, they do 3 times the work of ordinary soaps. They're safe, too... Surf is all you need for everything from the grimiest overalls to your sheerest lingerie.

All the Surf your grocer now has in his store is the new "no-rinse" Surf... especially developed for "no-rinse" washing. Get some today... and smell how sweet and fresh it will get your wash... even without rinsing!

If it's Surf-clean, it's really clean... EVEN WITHOUT RINSING

"The use of 2, 4, 5-T as a fruit-ripening agent is not recommended at present for commercial practice or large-scale tests," they said, "since there is considerable danger of immediate or permanent fruit-tree injury."

World's Money Troubles Hitting Canadian Ship Business

OTTAWA, March 31 (CP)— The world's monetary and exchange troubles are hitting the Canadian National Steamship business. As a result, the 10-ship fleet is budgeting for its first net operating deficit since the second world war.

Donald Gordon, head of the steamship lines as well as the Canadian National Railways, told the Commons railway committee today that lack of sterling convertibility is mainly responsible for the decline in business.

The fleet, which runs between Canada and the West Indies, last year finished with a net operating profit of $12,399, compared with $98,000 in 1948. This year the line believes it will end with a net operating deficit of $230,000.

Both operating revenues and operating expenses are expected to be down about 20 per cent.

Before the committee approved the steamship budget, as well as that of the CNR, members pressed for disclosure of what retirement sum had been paid to R. C. Vaughan, former president, last December. They said rumors were afloat that $50,000 had been paid. Mr. Gordon would not disclose the exact amount, but said a certain sum had been paid. This was in addition to normal pension payments.

E. D. Fulton (PC, Kamloops) called for a motion to compel Mr. Gordon to disclose details of an agreement entered into by the CNR with a Canadian oil company to explore lands in Saskatchewan for oil. Mr. Fulton was voted down 11 to 5, after Mr. Gordon disclosed that the company involved was the Imperial Oil Company of Canada.

Tasty Fillings Suggested For Noonday Box Meal

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 31—(CP)—At this time of the year Mother has to go some to find new treats for those daily school lunches.

Sandwiches are inevitable but tasty new fillings can be devised which will make Junior look forward to his noon-day meal.

Sandwich Fillings

Vegetables—sliced tomatoes and cucumbers; shredded lettuce with chopped peanuts or cheese; grated carrot with orange juice or honey; chopped onions with peanut butter; celery and apple chopped. To each of these add dressing and salt and pepper as needed.

Fruit—Mashed banana with peanut butter.

Eggs—Hard cooked, chopped with grated onion to flavor, curry, chopped cucumber or pickle. Add dressing to taste.

Meat and fish—Cooked meat finely chopped or sliced; fish flaked, crisp bacon with pickle syrup or salad dressing to moisten.

A thermos of hot soup also is a welcome addition to the school lunch, which may be completed by cookies for dessert.

Gingerbread also is ideal.

Ingredients: 2¼ cups flour; ¼ cup wheat germ (if desired); ½ cup sugar; 1½ teaspoon ginger; ½ teaspoon cinnamon; ¾ teaspoon soda; one teaspoon salt; 2-3 cup molasses; four tablespoons softened fat; ½ cup boiling water; ½ cup seedless raisins (may be omitted); one egg (if omitted use a little more liquid).

Mix and sift dry ingredients, add raisins which have been washed and floured.

Make a hole in the middle of mixture, pour in molasses, melted fat and boiling water (beaten egg if used). Mix quickly. Pour into buttered pan or muffin-tins, bake in moderately slow oven about 50 minutes (individual servings 25 to 30 minutes).

Health department officials say that eggs are a valuable source of protein and iron and are rich in some of the vitamins. Medium-size eggs often are a good buy. They contain almost as much food values as the higher priced large eggs.

In these days of high prices housewives should organize a food-buying schedule, accenting the lower cost, higher food value foods at the expense of the high cost, low food value items.

Fifty-year Suit Designer's View

NEW YORK, April —(CP)—The slim little suit with squared shoulders and skirt 13 to 14 inches from the ground is going to be around a long time— 50 years or so— predicted west-coast designer Adrian as he showed his latest fashion collection here.

Forecasting "no drastic changes for the next 50 years," Adrian said fashions started to crystallize during the war, when the clothes were created to fill actual needs. And air travel, with the space limitation it imposes, is going to be the big factor in keeping them trim and practical.

In the minor changes that occur, he added, American influence will be predominant because American living is "the culmination of luxury and the ideal of the whole world today."

His own collection illustrated his ideas, with efficient little wool suits, slim-skirted, easy-fitting jackets tied at the waist and buttoned to little round collars. Matching top-coats were of swingy type, just above knee-length. Many of these combined strips and plaids of varying widths worked deftly into intricate designs.

The tailored little silk suit was feature as a "must" in the well-dressed woman's wardrobe. Adrian's were of navy silk faille and a nubby, tweed-like silk in grey.

Dresses showed a leaning toward diagonal lines expressed in stitchings or in the handling of draperies and toward off-balance effects such as one bare shoulder, one gloved arm, or half a cape.

Monkey and tigers, tree bark and foliage formed the themes of prints which appeared in both daytime and evening dresses, in chiffons, taffetas and organdies. A "quilting party" group of prints in silk and cotton was inspired by early American quilt designs.

Too Many Canals Hurt Golf Score

EDMONTON, (CP).—A Canadian woman found that her golf suffered when she moved to the Netherlands three years ago. Her problem—too many canals.

Mrs. Walter Fairey moved to Amsterdam with her husband soon after the war when he signed on with the Royal Dutch Airlines. She liked golfing so she took to the fairways there.

"There's no margin for a hook or a slice when you have to shoot over two or more canals on each hole," she reported on a recent trip home to Edmonton.

Mrs. Fairey found that outdoor sports attract all members of Dutch families. "Each Sunday morning everyone from grandmas to two-year-olds are out cycling in their best clothes. And when the canals freeze over, as they do every year for a short spell, everyone skates."

Working Since 1876 Hasn't Missed Yet

TAYPORT, Fife, Scotland (CP)—Life begins at 40? At 60? At 80, maybe?

Well, Mrs. I. Campbell (age unavailable) has just completed a 74-year record of work with the same firm—hasn't missed a day or been late once—and says she's just going to keep right on going.

Her sister, Kate Haley, says that goes for her, too. She's put in just a bare 60 years, but "I'll go on till they carry me out.

And the old-timers will have none of this eight-hour day nonsense, either. Mrs. Campbell's official working day begins at 5.30 a.m. But more often than not she's at the spinning frame she operates at a Tayport textile plant from 1½ to two hours ahead of time to clean and "tune it up."

Theirs is an early-to-bed-early-to-rise routine. They're in bed at 8 p.m. and up for the new day's work at 2.30 a.m.

Skirts Too Tight For Shapely Legs

SYDNEY, Australia—(CP)—Australian designers say most of their country's women have shapely legs and good slim figures.

That's the reason they give for an Australian fashion rebellion against the tight, short skirts favored by Paris designers.

Of 10 fashion-conscious women recently interviewed in Sydney, only two favored a return to short tight skirts. Most said they consider them too unbecoming and uncomfortable for walking by women who are noted fo rtheir long steps and graceful carriage.

When the new look was launched in Australia, fashionable women rejected tightly nipped-in waists and wore the full skirts a little shorter than Paris and New York approved. Skirts, though somewhate straighter and narrower than last season's styles, achieve the effect by flat pleats allowing freedom of movement. No skirt is more than 15 inches from the ground.

Euchre Follows Dinner

Peter Robinson Chapter IODE combined in a dinner and military euchre party with the regular meeting and held the event Wednesday evening at the Empress Hotel. Decorations were carried out in red, white and blue and small flags and flowers centred the tables. Mrs. P. Sanders and Mrs. C. L. Upper were in charge of the games and the prizes were won by Mrs. W. Derry, Mrs. W. C. McCreery, Mrs. W. Jeffries, and Mrs R Gamble. Plans were made to hold a rummage sale in April. It was reported that a large box of clothing had been sent to the adopted school at Glenalda.

Seek Members New Group

The South End Welfare Group met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. E. A. Adams, 545 Arndon Ave., and made plans for a membership drive which will be under her direction. All work projects will be for the benefit of local charities, and the group is strictly undenominational. Plans for a rummage sale and spring tea are underway, and will be furthered at the next meeting on April 13 at the home of Mrs. John Holt, 607 St. Catherine St. A social time was enjoyed and at close of the evening the hostess served refreshments.

6 Cartons Gifts To Orphans

A most pleasant social evening was combined with the doing of a good deed Thursday when the WA members of All Saints' Afternoon Branch and friends numbering 54 in all, were guests at the home of Mrs. Alex. Watson, Gilmour St. Main purpose was to collect gifts of food, clothing and soap for an interdenominational orphanage that has been started in Bondville, Quebec, about which information was gained from the director. Outcome was six large cartons full of goods and in which most of the clothing is new. The ladies enjoyed games, contests and singing, arranged by Mrs. Roy Price, assisted by Mrs. S. Beardsmore. They also extended a hearty welcome to president Mrs. C. Thackeray after a lengthy absence due to a severely broken ankle. The hostess was assisted in serving lunch by Mrs. A. Williams, Mrs. H. Sloan, Mrs. J. Carroll, Mrs F. Edgar, Mrs J. Clark and Mrs. C. Curtis. Hearty thanks was extended to Mrs. Watson and to Mrs. Price.

Fire Brigade Holds Dance

Bridgenorthers had a gay evening of round and square dancing Thursday in the Forester's Hall at an affair arranged by the Bridgenorth Fire Brigade. The firemen have set an objective of $9,000 to be raised for a fire hall to house the new pumper, expected to arrive the middle of June. The money is to be raised entirely by local social affairs and donations.

A good crowd contributed through attendance at the dance and particularly enjoyed many new square dance calls introduced by "caller" Max Laidlaw. Music was by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keaton and Mr. Bert Shanques, all of Peterborough. Mr. Shanques also entertained with several humorous novelty songs and Mr. A. K. Nichols of Bridgenorth presented a number by his "darkie dancing man."

Five weekly card parties have been held to raise funds and are to continue every Wednesday night. The prize-winners this week were Mrs. J. Howard, Mrs. J. Ball, Mrs. L. Mills, Mr. Jack Forsythe, Mrs. G. Barnes and Mr. Jack Murray.

Local YW Creates Interest

Following the routine work-out of the monthly gym frolic at the YWCA Thursday evening, the girls gathered for a social hour during which Miss Shirley Milburn reported to them on the young-adult conference in Toronto last week-end at which she was their delegate. It seemed that she had held the floor longest in any discussion group she took part in, because Peterborough's Y has the most activities and most interesting methods of any organization represented. Other gym delegates questioned her often especially about the tunics worn in classes and the annual gym pageants, and girls from Galt, Toronto and Hamilton made plans to attend the big demonstration here in May. Underlying theme of the conference was the furthering of democracy and it was stressed that YM membership is valuable in this respect as it keeps girls in contact with other girls of all creeds and races. Mrs. Sophie Zakos who also attended the conference, representing ballet and gym classes, thanked members for supporting her as a delegate. Miss Edna Rule, social convener, and her committee served toasted cinnamon buns and coffee. The girls also enjoyed singing and dancing with Mrs. M. McBride playing the piano.

Rowland to say grace, Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army for an address, Mrs. Jessie Spencely for two delightful solos, and a guest, Mr. Chandler of Port Credit, for a solo. Mrs. A. E. DeNure gave her services as pianist for the entire evening. The speaker was introduced by Bro. E. F. Reid and thanked by Rev. Bro. M. J. Aiken. Congratulations on the anniversary were extended by County Master Gordon Trennum, and two charter members present Mr. W. G. Armstrong and Mr. Robert Wright, were introduced. Robert Hardie entertained the 150 guests very satisfactorily with his magical tricks.

Shower Bride-elect

LAKEFIELD, March 31 (ENS) —Miss Jean Geraldi, whose marriage to Mr. Tom Birch takes place in April, was guest of honor Wednesday evening at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Miss Florence Orr.

The bride-elect was seated in a prettily decorated chair while an address was read by Miss Lecanna Doubt and the gifts presented.

Among those present were: Mrs. Earl Orr and Murray, Mrs. E. Birch, Mrs. H. Geraldi, Mrs. C. Wasson, Mrs. Stanley Goodall and Roy, Mrs. J. Ryan, Mrs. R. Dunford, Mrs. S. Millage, Mrs. M. Myers, Mrs. W. Spencer and Misses Winnifred Orr, Betty Birch, Freda Floyd, Wilma Floyd, June Wannamaker, Kay Coughlin, Connie Orr, Florence Orr, Marie Spencer, Betty Montgomery, Carolyn Ann Erskine, Frances Erskine, Lee Doubt, Joyce Hutt, Peggy Samis, Ann Samis.

Those who sent gifts but were unable to attend were: Mrs. W. Moore, Mrs. F. L. Erskine, Mrs. W. Hamblin, Mrs. J. Saboatino, Mrs. P. Darling, Mrs. J. Birch, Mrs. W. Lee, Miss Hazel Moore and Sue Wasson.

COOL, CRISP WHITE two-piece miracord suit with button accent. Black velveteen trim on Cavalier cuffs and split collar is very new.

Fashion Flashes

DEAD LEVEL is the line adopted by some of the newest spring hats. Toast-colored straw in a fine linen weave is used for a level-set bicorne, its wide wings faced with black. A sling veil of fine black mesh is patterned with tiny black chenille dots.

✧ ✧ ✧

FROM HERE it looks as though the big coat of spring will be a little coat. Orders and re-orders are coming in fast for the short white wool topper. A typical winner is in white tweed made with easy, full three-quarter sleeves from a full, dropped shoulder line. High-placed breast pockets, an upstanding collar held by a self tie, and a slight flare in back are all important details.

✧ ✧ ✧

A GOOD CHOICE for a restricted wardrobe might be a suit of navy hockanum wool, the skirt with soft front fullness, the boxy jacket waist-length, with a big, detachable, bow-tie of navy and white checked taffeta spreading out under the high fastened little collar. Under the jacket is a sleeveless, V-necked bodice of the checked silk.

✧ ✧ ✧

A TONIC for a simple black wool frock is provided by a choir-boy collar of white pique with an edging of starched white cotton lace.

✧ ✧ ✧

COMING IN is the suit with the short, boxy jacket. Charcoal-grey flannel makes a new beauty, the skirt very slim to contrast with the boxy jacket made with a gay red, white and yellow plaid lining, a tiny round collar and short, loose, cuffed sleeves.

✧ ✧ ✧

EXPECTED to click in a big way is the patent leather bag and shoe duo. Handsome indeed is a pump of navy blue patent, the criss-cross strips piped in red calf. With it a softly worked pouch bag in navy patent lined with red calf, the gilt frame and clasp piped with red enamel.

✧ ✧ ✧

SUN SPOTS are likely to be polka dots, for dotted fabrics shine in beach and southern resort wear. A charming two-piecer hat adds up to a neat shirtwaist design, is of taffeta, the thin silk kind. The shirt is red with white dots; the skirt is navy with white dots.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANOTHER IDEA with a pre-war flavor is returning. That is the suit with two skirts, a wardrobe blessing if ever we saw one. A charming suit is made up of a belted jacket of bright red fleece, with two tiny breast pockets, and with it a matching skirt in red flannel and one in navy woollen. Incidentally, the jacket is swell on its own as a topper.

✧ ✧ ✧

HOLDING ITS OWN is the suit tailored on classic lines. But a big runner-up is the softly detailed dressmaker suit that stresses a neat if not a tailored look. A typical suit has a 23-inch length jacket, slim over the hips and belted in at the waist. The skirt 14-inches from the ground, is apt to be pleated all around, the pleats stitched down to where the jacket ends.

"Woman of Year" Controls 47 Men

VICTORIA, B.C., March 31 — (CP)—Control of one male — most women expect to achieve at least that in a lifetime—is peanuts compared to the accomplishment of Canada's "Woman of the Year". She has 46 of the most important men in British Columbia under her thumb.

If you want to count her husband, make it 47.

At first woman speaker for a Legislature in the British Commonwealth, Mrs. Nancy Hodges is capping a career that includes writing a daily newspaper column for the last seven years and being elected to the last three Legislatures for Victoria.

For those accomplishments, the tall, well-groomed politician has been named woman of the year in the annual award of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs. Last year the award for public service went to Mrs. Norah Arnold, a fellow British Columbian who was Mayor of Prince Rupert in 1948.

Women Modernize Lumber Camp Life

TORONTO, March 31—(CP)—Tin plates and mugs have given way to plastic dishes at lumber mill sites.

Mrs. M. J. Poupore of Skead, Ont., President of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association, told the Toronto Women's Association yesterday that linen is electrically washed and that plumbing, including showers, are among other modern touches in evidence at the camps since women moved in.

Mrs. Poupore has seen plenty of lumber camp life. Her father and husband both are in the business. For the last 10 years she has been resident supervisor of employees' welfare at one mill site.

"Women have replaced men as cooks and have inaugurated more modern ways of doing things," she said. "Women demand more comfort than men—and usually achieve it."

Toronto Mayor Raps Change In Health Ac

TORONTO, March 31 (CP) — Mayor Hiram McCallum Thursday criticized a proposed amendment to the Ontario Health Act, saying it will seriously interfere with the city's 1950 budget if it becomes effective April 1 as scheduled.

He said the amendment, introduced in the legislature Thursday by acting Health Minister Goodfellow, will increase the city's share of the cost of midnight hospital patients.

The amendment proposes daily increases for municipalities as follows: A group hospitals, $3 to $4 a bed; B group, $2.50 to $3.50; C and D group, $2.25 to $3 and others from $2.25 to 2.50.

Most Toronto hospitals fall in group A. It is believed the proposed change will cost the city some $200,000 more than the $900,000 set aside as the city's share of indigent hospital costs for 1950.

The legislation was ill-timed, the mayor said. There had been no advance warning and Toronto and other municipalities already have struck their tax rate.

At an early hour today, council approved a tax rate of 33.3 mills for 1950 by an 18-2 vote.

During 12 hours' debate, a motion to cut a lump sum of $500,000 from departmental estimates was defeated 14-6.

Teachers Give Tea In YW Sitting

The green room of the YWCA was a lovely setting for a spring tea given Wednesday afternoon in honor of collegiate women teachers by the Public School Women Teachers' Federation. Guests were greeted by president Miss Marion Mutton, vice-president Miss Cora Bailey and Miss M. Faulkner, past-president.

The table was lovely with a hand-embroidered cloth, through courtesy of Mrs. E. Huffman, now ill, member on city staff; yellow tapers in silver candlesticks blending with the centre piece of spring flowers. The piano and mantel also had bright touches added by daffodils and tulips.

Mrs. E. Tomlinson, now a retired member of Prince of Wales staff, and Miss M. Faulkner poured tea. Miss E. Glover played background music during the afternoon.

Miss F. Bonnycastle and Mrs. A. Eagles were tearoom hostesses with Miss D. Shannon and Mrs. M. King as tea table assistants. Other members of Prince of Wales staff served tea.

TWO-HEADED KITTEN

UNION CITY, N. J., March 31 —(AP) You never saw a purple cow, no doubt, but you can see a two-headed kitten at veterinarian J. J. Peterson's office.

Peterson said he delivered the two-headed puss along with three other normal kittens in a caesarian section performed on the mother Thursday.

Dr. Peterson said the kitten has 2 mouths and 3 eyes and appears perfectly healthy. It still is too early to determine if the separate mouths and eyes function independently.

DOROTHY DIX

Loveless Match Can Succeed For Unsentimental Woman

DEAR MISS DIX: If you were 29, lonely, and tired of making the sacrifices necessary to continue a successful business career, would you marry a splendid man eighteen years your senior if he adored you and could give you every luxury? Is the difference in age too great an obstacle?

Dorothy Dix

MARIANNE.

ANSWER: The difference in age is not an insuperable obstacle to the match because a business woman of 29 is mature in thought and feeling, she has had experience of the world and is, in reality, as old as a man in the forties.

Whether it is advisable for a woman to make a marriage of convenience or not depends upon the woman herself. If she is of a romantic temperament, it is a hazardous experiment, because if she is not in love with the man before marriage she will not fall in love with him afterward, and after she has got fed up on the luxuries that he can give her she will begin to regret her bargain.

Liking Good As Loving

On the other hand, there are women who are, one might say, more head and back than heart, and who can be perfectly satisfied with material things. Liking is as good as loving to them.

Personally, I belong among the sentimentalists, and I think that nothing on earth justifies marriage or pays for it except love. Especially for women. And marriage is bound to mean sacrifice to a woman, and whether this is a joy and a delight to her or a cross depends upon how much she loves her husband. It is so sweet to give up one's own pleasure, one's own desires, one's tastes if it makes some one happy who is dearer to one than one is to oneself, and so bitter to have to do it for one to whom one is indifferent.

Many women who are tired of working and supporting themserves are tempted to marry men for whom they do not care just to get a meal ticket. But they soon find out that marriage is no sinecure, either, that husbands are as hard to get along with as bosses, and that a wife can no more loaf on her job than an employe. And they discover that domesticity can be just as dull as an office.

So consider well before you marry for a home and a shopping ticket, and, if you do make the bargain, play fair. Give the man the worth of his money by being a good wife to him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do to break up a love affair between my 17-year-old high school girl and a 19-year-old boy who is also still in school? He is a good boy morally, comes from a nice family; but is the spoiled son of indulgent parents. He has a vague idea of marriage some day, but apparently not a prospect in the world. I thought it just calf love with them but the attachment is growing too deep and I sense the danger of a girl's best years being wasted on an admirer where there is no promise. With some sacrifice I could send her away for the summer, but she rebels at leaving. Is my only clue to stand by and let them work it out?

✧ ✧ ✧

WORRIED MOTHER.

ANSWER: The only thing you can do is to stand by, but you need not stand by idly. Your first move should be to stop discussing your daughter's love affair with her. Opposition is not only the greatest matchmaker in the world but the quickest. Let this affair ride. Let the boy come to see your daughter as often as he wishes. Be nice and casual to him. Just remember that Time is your ally, and that when the boy goes off to college the chances are that the affair will fade painlessly out. Sending the girl off is a good idea if you can send her to some amusing place, because absence makes the heaart grow fonder of someone else. Even if she resents leaving her sweetheart she will soon get interested in some other chap.

But I think you are worrying too much over your daughter's matrimonial prospects being blighted. If she were 25, the dilatory lover would be a tragedy, but at 17 he is only a pleasant filler-in of the time.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a married woman and have lived with my husband for many years. He is much older than I and is old and undemonstrative in his disposition. We have no children. I have made the acquaintance of several gentlemen who give me the love I crave. Do you think under the circumstances I am doing wrong?

S. M.C.

ANSWER: Because you want a thing that you do not possess gives you no right to take it unlawfully. You wouldn't think it right to steal a diamond pin out of a jewelry shop just because you had always longed for one and your husband wasn't able to give you one. You are acting disloyally and dishonestly toward your husband and violating your own moral code and you will never be at peace with your soul so long as you do.

What's Right

You hear a juicy bit of scandal.

WRONG WAY: Feel that it is all right to pass it along if you say "There may not be a word of truth in it but. . . ."

RIGHT WAY: Realize that you are just as responsible for spreading the story that way as you would be if you hadn't added that little phrase to ease your conscience.

SQUARE MEAL DOES IT

Doctors say that a normal human stomach, when fully distended, is about as large as a football, and when empty it may shrink to the size of a finger.

CHICKEN NOODLE SOUP

A light broth, the chicken flavour clear and true, the pieces of chicken and the egg noodles tender and tempting. A delicacy that appeals to every taste.

Find Ammunition In 16-Year Old's Room

TORONTO, March 31—(CP)—Police who raided the room of 16-year-old Robert Bangay early today found 1,350 rounds of ammunition, a .22-calibre rifle and 125 novels allegedly stolen from a printing company. Police said the ammunition was stolen from a public school.

Bangay was said to be selling the novels at cut prices.

Jailbreak Try Foiled By Noise

BRAMPTON, March 31—(CP)—An attempt by two youths to break out of Peel County jail, where they were awaiting sentence for breaking and entering, ended in failure Thursday night when the governor's wife heard sawing noises from a cell.

Mrs. Joseph Mitchell called her husband who went to the cell of Edward (Teddy) Everson, 19, and Roderick (Rocky) Morrossette, 23. He found one bar had been sawed through and three others partly sawed by a hacksaw blade.

Both youths refused to say how the blade got into the cell. Later, three more blades were found in the cell.

In court today, Everson was sentenced to one year definite and six months indeterminate, and Morossette to one year. They were convicted of breaking into a drug store and stealing goods valued at $160.

Junior Farmer

"What we do for ourselves dies with us; what we do for others lives on," Mr. Pineau quoted as an ideal of the lasting worth of the shaping of personality which should receive its grounding in youth.

Compensation to club leaders for the time and study they devoted to club projects was mostly intangible in the satisfaction of helping boys and girls to learn the first stages of farming, and also in other rewards of that experience and its reaction on their own development.

Leaders discovered abilities in themselves which were bound to be recognized in their communities, and opportunities usually were presented to those young men who had proved themselves through the medium of the leadership they had given to boys and girls' clubs.

Discussion of achievement day prizes recommended that club members should be inspired with the idea of learning rudiments of farming rather than in winning money awards, even to the King's Guineas, which have been the highest prize in the beef classes shown by juniors at the Royal Winter Fair.

The morning sessions of the conference stressed the idea of impressing upon rural children in their club enterprises the permanent values of sound farming. All that and prizes, too, but prize money more or less secondary.

RCAF ORGANIZE

All ex-RCAF personnel are invited to attend the Legion Hall on April 11 when an organizational meeting will be held. The object is to form a Petermorough wing of the RCAF Association. The last meeting Wednesday, Ross Thompson was elected temporary president. Other interim committees will be under the direction of Eldon Purvis, Percy Johnston, Ernie Adams and Gord Farquharson.

Saucer-Happy Citizens Excited By Vapor Trails

BRANTFORD, March 31—(CP)—Police and newspaper offices were deluged with telephone calls Thursday by citizens who were watching the formation of what appeared to be a vapor trail pattern in the eastern sky.

Most reports revealed that the trails could actually be seen forming but that the object responsible was not visible. The pattern could be seen for more than an hour before it drifted away to the east.

Three separate trails were reported—one in the morning and two in the afternoon. Employees of the Brantford Expositor watched the third trail. It started to form by an object flying in a southerly direction which made a complete vertical loop and sped off towards the north. The object was too far away and too high to be seen.

Officials of the Brant-Norfolk Aero Club were of the opinion that the trails were made by aircraft on altitude tests. Many citizens speculated about flying saucers.

Omar Khayyam Features Finance Debate

LONDON, March 31 (CP) — A parliamentary debate on financial estimates produced a salvo of quotations from the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam.

Nigel Birch, Conservative member for Flint West, started it. He said the Labor government's financial policy recalled two lines in the Rubaiyat:

"Ah take the cash and let the credit go
"Nor heed the rumble of a distant drum."

Birch told the Commons that with rising prices and the end of Marshall Plan aid two years away the rumble of the drum now can be heard pretty distinctly.

Health Minister Aneurin Bevan replying to the debate, said Birch could have adorned his speech with another quotation from the Rubaiyat.

"Like water and like wind I go."

Walter Elliott, Conservative member for the Kelvingrove division of Glasgow, said Bevan was misquoting. Bevan amended it to "Like water I came and like wind I go." Elliott again pronounced it a misquotation.

The line should read: "I came like water, and like wind I go."

Heckled Clergymen Bring On The Girls

TORONTO, March 31—(CP)—Rev. Allen A. Stockdale of New York, had been speaking for 40 minutes at an Ontario Safety League meeting Thursday night when heckling broke out in the rear of the banquet hall.

The 74-year-old retired clergyman, pleading with his audience —1,758 motorists—to "exercise courtesy" on the highway, sat down. With tears in his eyes, he said:

"Toronto is the last city in the world where I would expect this to happen."

Vernon Page, Toronto traffic inspector and one of the headtable guests, blamed the incident on five scantily-clad dancing girls waiting in the wings to entertain after Dr. Stockdale's speech.

"I guess some of the boys were anxious for the girls to go on," said Page.

Water Bomb Method Aided Curbing Fires

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., March 31—(CP)—Water-bomb attacks on forest fires will be intensified this summer in the Sault district, Forester Q. F. Hess said Thursday night.

Experiments carried out last year by the Ontario Lands Department will be the basis of this year's assault. Small Beaver aircraft drop water bags, each containing about 50 pounds of water obtained from nearby lakes. Each plane can carry 25 bags.

The water-bomb method is believed effective only in curbing fires at their outset. One plane's water load is equivalent to a 15-minute thundershower, if concentrated on the immediate fire area, Mr. Hess told a forest protection meeting.

Development of Maple Cattle Breeders' Association Similar To Northern Ohio Association As Related By Max Drake At Maple Meeting — Peterborough Boys' Tractor Maintenance Club First Organized This Season — Holstein and Shorthorn Sales Reflect Firm Prices

Ontario government has invested more than $15,000 in the plant of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association, and will soon make a further contribution of $18,000 in grants on expenditure last year for animals and new barn.

That is a fact of financing which Wm. P. Watson, ontario Livestock Commissioner, mentioned without emphasis at the annual meeting of the Association at Maple Monday. Manifestly that is a substantial investment by the provincial government, signifying among other things their confidence in artificial breeding and in the ability of Central Ontario farmers to set up and manage a sound organization.

If any farmers are still dubious about the merits of the system and of their own capital investment in the organization, they should find assurance in their partnership with the Department of Agriculture.

The number of members from the eight constituent counties was 1870 at the end of 1949. Assuming that the present total is 2,000 their investment, as capital, amounts to $80,000, most of which is in the form of loan and is conceivably repayable if earnings ever reach a volume warranting some distribution of profits.

Membership fee is five dollars, and the loan is $35 as provided in the constitution: "Each person becoming a member shall lend to the Association such sum as the directors may from time to time determine, provided that in no case shall the loan exceed $35."

An amendment to the constiution, adopted Monday, says: "The Association does not guarantee to repay the member's loan, but may as circumstances permit refund or reduce such loans".

Another amendment was: "Upon the decease of any member, the directors may, in their discretion, repay the estate of the deceased the money borrowed." In other words, if a member dies, the directors are authorized to pay to his estate the $35 he lent to the Association.

So, the Ontario government is substantially interested in the Association and in its right management.

The Association also decided that directors shall receive $5 compensation for each meeting of the board or executive, which they attend, or for other services rendered, as authorized by the Board. Members may be reimbursed for travelling expenses or actual expenditures.

A visitoes to the annual meeting was Max Drake, the young president of the U. S. National Association of Artificial Breeders and manager of the Northern Ohio Association. He was accompanied by the treasurer of his home group, Lester Hall, and herdsman, Joseph Neikirk.

Mr. Drake told the meeting that the Ohio association traced its beginning to a meeting of Seneca county farmers in 1943.

"We started with 60 members at $5 each, just the way you did up here in York. Our total capital was $300.We borrowed three bulls and engaged a young veterinarian just out of college.

You will be interested in the fact that last year we had 16,000 members, our business amounted to $450,000 and we bred 70,000 cows. Our board is constituted the same as you are doing now, one director for each county, and we have 30 counties. They are allowed $5 a day and some mileage for their meetings. We alsc have two fieldmen, one for fifteen counties."

"We turned a deaf ear to members who were demanding special pedigrees for their herd books. What counts with us are calves in the barn. We think that artificial insemination is the greatest benfit to the dairy industry since the introduction of the Babcock test. We are also like you in progress because we are just adding beef breeds to our barns."

Mr. Drake said every detail of operation was important. Everythings must be done right, and that applied to the herd owner just as definitely as to the technicians and his staff. Investigation had convinced him, and others, that the highest rates of conception began in the season with the coming of grass and hay, and that good nutrition was of first importance. In 1949 pasture in Ohio was the best quality in ten years, with much rainfall all summer. Conceptions increased to more than 70%, and veterans found that cows were in better health than for a good many years.

Mr. Drake expressed the opinion that research was beginning to catch up with field practice in artificial breeding, which had made extremely rapid headway in the ten years since its general introduction in the United States.

He explained a gradual and careful use of sulfanilmide, penicillin and streptomycin, with surprisingly helpful results. Use of antibiotics had reduced to a new low level the number of more than three services. In the worst year at Ohio that number had mounted to 75 during July and August. It was down to 265 at the end of the year.

"This is no longer an experimental, fly-by-night business You are responsible now for the kind of cattle that will be milked in your herds five to ten years from now."

NITROGEN ON CORNELL

W. W. Dawson top-dressed a five-acre field of Cornell wheat with nitrogen yesterday. It was an experiment with his entry in the wheat club.

"I thought it might be a timely pick-up for the wheat," Mr. Dawson said. "Frank Paterson has been advocating the use of nitrogen(and I know it is coming more into practice. Looking over the field Thursday morning it seemed to me there was not enough thawing by the sun to do any damage."

HERD SELLS FOR $7,675

Twenty-four Holsteins averaged $316 at the dispersal sale of the Shady Elm herd of George W. Barnard of Norwich last week. Top price was $660 for a four-year-old heifer, Shady Elm Lady Abbekerk.

The year old herdsire, Graymar Lord Wayne, was bought for $520 by Samuel Brigham & Son of Hamilton. Heifer calves brought up to $340; a seven-year-old cow $380; three-year-old heifer $375.

$600 TO FEDERATION

Directors of the Federation of Agriculture accepted Wednesday the application of Paul Lewis of Smith for the position of county fieldman, recently vacated by John Edmison who is now working in Ottawa.

W. W. Dawson, Henry Sharpe and John Kitney were appointed to interview Mr. Lewis Saturday night to confirm his acceptance. Seven applications were considered.

The directors decided to pay at once their $600 affiliation fee to the Ontario Federation.

✦ ✦ ✦

SIXTY FARMERS JOIN

Norwood Fair board will likely close the books for its Beaver Oats Club at the end of this week Present membership is 60 with the possibility that a few more farmers may sign up.

Prospects are that that club will distribute between 900 and 1000 bushels of top grade seed.

G. A. Brethen, president of the agricultural society, mentioned to the Examiner that club with the largest membership last year enrolled only 30 farmers, indicating the comparative strength in number of the new Norwood organization.

Crop samples will be exhibited at the Norwood Fair next Thanksgiving Day, and if the Board accomplishes their hope of a new building the display of Beaver oats will be featured in it.

✦ ✦ ✦

JERSEY CLUB MEETING

Peterborough Jersey Breeders are holding a barn meeting Saturday April 8 at 1.15 at the Bamforth and Kelly farm, one mile east of Scott's Corners.

Ed. A. Summers, agricultural representative in Durham, will conduct a junior demonstration, and Harold Butcher, fieldman, will be in charge of four judging competitions.

Prof. A. D. Runions of O.A.C will conclude the program with a discussion that should be an educational feature. Harry Young is president of the Club.

✦ ✦ ✦

AUCTION OF HEREFORDS

Peterborough Hereford Breeders have announced an auction sale at Exhibition Park May 26, offering 25 females and 10 bulls, according to the present indications. Lt.-Col. F. E. Birdsall is president and E. V. O'Toole is secretary.

✦ ✦ ✦

$10 FOR MARCH OF DIMES

Members of Stewart's Hall Forum collected ten dollars for the March of Dimes Fund to combat poliomyelitis at their meeting Monday night. They have also obtained information on the cost of paint spraying equipment which they intend to buy for the use of the members. That probably promises brightening of barns, inside and out, in that western section of Otonabee.

The final meeting of the forum season was at the home of Mr and Mrs. W. W. Dawson. Thirty-two members were present. The winter average has been around 30 to 35. It was review night of the Forum. The Stewart's Hall group is closing its most successful season.

The program after the broadcast Monday night included eight tables of cards and refreshments.

WON AT LINDSAY

T. M. Weatherilt and Sons of Bethany won a championship, two first prizes and one second prize on their potato exhibit at the Quinte Seed Fair in Lindsay. The first prizes were won on the Sebago variety and the second prize was for Irish Cobblers.

The Weatherilt family are members of the Durham 500 Bushel Potato Club and have grown potatoes extensively for a number of years. Their most notable award was at the Royal Winter Fair in 1946, when in competition with 28 other entries from all over the province, the Weatherilt exhibit won first prize and reserve championship. They received a silver trophy and cash award of $25, as well as several other prizes in open classes.

✦ ✦ ✦

SHEEP INDUSTRY NEGLECTED

Decline in sheep production in Canada in the last ten years was largely a result of the subsidization of other farm products, said J. A. Telfer of Paris, secretary of the Brant District Sheep Breeders Club.

Consumption of lamb was never lower in this country. It is less than four pounds a year per person, Mr. Telfer said. "But it is not the consumer's fault. That is all we are producing, and the public can't eat more unless we import it.'

Market for wool and lamb should be steady for a number of years, and "As a result some "easy money" should be made by men who know the job.

✦ ✦ ✦

TRACTOR MAINTENANCE CLUB

First Tractor Maintenance Club for boys to be organized this season in the province was the Peterborough group of 25 who chose John Waterman of North Monaghan as their president, David Stewart of Otonabee, vice-president, and Elwood Hall of Cavan as secretary in their organization Thursday night.

The purpose of this junior club is to demonstrate and encourage efficient and economic use of tractors in farm work, to focus attention on safety measures in operation of the machines, to keep a record of costs and generally to learn and know mechanical details and simple adjustments.

Keeping an accurate record of the cost of operating and maintaining the farm tractor throughout the club season is of special importance at achievement day next fall, and father and older brothers of the young members are requested to co-operate with them from day to day.

Prof. W. Kitching of the engineering department of OAC talked to the boys on their club objectives and discussed many phases of the care of tractors. With him were Ralph Gregg of the engineering department of the College, Irvine McIntosh of Peterborough, Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, who is promoting club work in the county this year.

The roll call Thursday night was: Orland Brown and Eldon James Darrett, Raymond McGowan and Don Youmans of Belmont, Elwood Hall, Jack Whitnell, Don McIndoo and Chas. Danford of Cavan; Gerald Bolton, Ivan Bolton, Gerald Coughlin, Fred Fitzgerald, Donald Garbutt and Lec Maloney of Douro.

Sandy Carlow of Dummer, John Batten, Neil Whitfield, Howard Johnston, John Waterman of North Monaghan; David Stewart, Francis Walsh and J. N. Blodgett of Otonabee; Henry Guyatt, Smith.

The boys will be visited at their home farms during the summer and monthly meetings will be held.

The Peterborough club got off to an enthusiastic start, indicated by the attendance and by the many questions the boys asked.

SPUDS GET THE BLUES — At Cohocton, N. ..., workmen at a government storage plant spray a freight carload of potatoes with a dye of "taxpayer blue" color. The surplus spuds, bought by the U. S. to keep prices up, are died blue to prevent their being used for commericial purposes.

RICARDO ZUCCHI, Italian hotel official, who is trading a few days far from his sunny native Venice, "for the land of snow and trees." A guest at a hotel in Montreal, Mr. Zucchi predicted that this summer in Italy was going to be a record tourist year, and Holy Year pilgrims could still find lots of hotel accommodation.

ARRIVES TO TAKE WASHINGTON POST—Gen. Sir Neil M. Ritchie, former commander of British land forces in the Far East, arrives in New York, March 28, with Lady Ritchie, aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth. He is en route to Washington to assume a new post as commander of the British Army staff and army representative on the Joint Services Mission.

Marmora School Will Get Trees

MARMORA, March 31 (ENS)—The regular open meeting of Marmora Home and School Association was held in the Public School, Wednesday, with the president, Mrs. W. G. Chrysler, in the chair.

The meeting opened with "O Canada." During the correspondence period, Mr. P. Webster, secretary, read a letter from the Department of Lands and Forests mentioning that they would send trees to be planted on the school grounds as windbreaks. A motion was then carried that $25-$30 be expended in the purchase of ornamental shrubs.

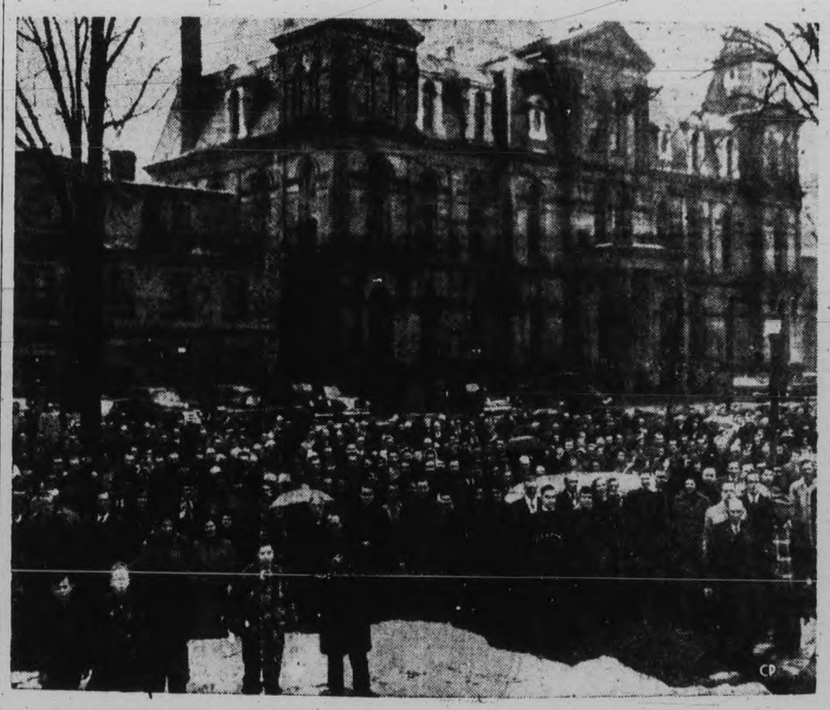
Messrs. J. Sproul and W. J. Cottrell and Mrs. A. F. Frasey were appointed as nominating committee.

Students of Miss Hilda Taft's class presented two numbers in choral speaking, "The King's Spectacles" and "What Is Pink."

Mrs. N. Mawer played tow piano numbers, one being by Percy Grainger and the other by Paul Watts. The Rev. G. D. Young presented a film strip, "Happy Times At Home." This was given two showings, the second time being to invite discussion on each phase of family life.

Miss Taft's room was awarded the banner for highest parent representation at the meeting.

Refreshments were served after the meeting.



TAX PROTESTED—This crowd, including delegations from many New Brunswick centres, stood in the rain at Fredericton to protest a retail sales tax proposed by the provincial government. More than 2,000 attended the orderly public meeting outside the legislative buildings. They heard 30 speakers address them during the meeting.

Photographer Wins Top Award

MIAMI, Fla., March 31 (AP)—First prize for 1949 in The Associated Press national contest for excellence in news photography goes to William F. Augustine, Philadelphia Enquirer photographer.

The announcement was made Thursday night by Lee Hills of the Miami Herald, president of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, which conducts the contest. It is limited to photos produced by Associated Press member newspapers.

Augustine's photo, "Killer Siege," shows detectives at Camden, N. J., trying to get a shot at Howard B. Unruh, the crazed war veteran who killed 13 persons and wounded three last Sept. 6.

The winning picture, which was transmitted by Associated Press wirephoto that day, received 17 points out of a possible 30. Of the three judges, one chose it for first place and another for third.

Augustine will receive a $100 cash prize and a photograph of a silver and oak plaque bearing his and previous winners' names. The plaque is kept on permanent exhibit in AP general headquarters in New York.

With 10 points each, two entries tied for second place. They are "Tragedy in the Rain," by Peter A. MacGregor of the Detroit News, and "Harry, Just One of the Boys," by Robert McCord of the Kansas Democrat, Little Rock.

Angry Nergoes In Revolt Under South African Rule

By OLIVER WALKER

CAPETOWN, March 31—(CP)—A sullen, persecuted race is in revolt against South Africa's creed of "apartheid."

Voted into power by a narrow margin on a policy of "apartheid" (separateness) — which critics spell "apart-hate" — the Nationalist Government of Dr. D. F. Malan is looked upon by many as the cause of racial disturbances giving South Africa the name of the land of race riots. The situation after 18 months of sporadic outbreaks is officially described as "explosive."

Hundreds of lives been lost and millions of dollars' worth of property damage caused in clashes between Africans and Indians and between both these races and Europeans. The causes are rooted deep in the history of South Africa: a determination to maintain the political dominance of a white minority of 2,300,000 over a non-white majority of 9,000,000—7,750,000 Africans, 1,000,000 coloreds, 280,000 Asiatics—and efforts to maintain 19th century master-servant relations as between white and black in every sphere of life.

Cheap Labor

The immediate cause of the riots—the most serious was the 1949 Durban outbreak in which more than 140 persons died — is the presence of nearly 2,000,000 Africans in the big cities who have been drawn there by a demand for cheap labor; a minor revolution in secondary industry stimulated by the war and impoverishment of the overcrowded, eroded native reserves. A constant irritant is the government's policy of apartheid.

By "apartheid," the Nationalists promised a solution of South Africa's racial problems. Africans native blacks, would be permitted to enter towns and cities on temporary permits as migrant laborers. Their "national home" would be reserves where they would have increased powers of control and opportunity under a central all-white government.

Home Representation

Asiatics, chiefly Indians in Natal, were termed an "unassimilable element," to be whittled down by repatriation to "an irreducible minimum." The colored race, centred in the cape province would be removed from the common voters' rolls, a democratic privilege they had enjoyed since 1854, and given separate and qualified representation by three white members of Parliament in the House of Assembly.

Few Indians—most are third- and fourth-generation families born in South Africa — availed themselves of the proferred government bonuses to go back to India or Pakistan. The colored peoples spurned the government's proposals.

Mass police raids on hostels and townships for Africans not conforming to the multiplicity of by-laws have acquired the nature of raids into enemy territory.

Newspapers Criticize

The Malan government has been criticized by newspapers for its racial policy. Recently the Johannesburg Sunday Express published a cartoon showing natives in a hut being attacked by a man with a bludgeon.

At the door of the hut was Dr Malan inviting two natives — representing the protectorates — to enter.

Over the cartoon was the caption: "Won't You Come In?"

Government reaction was swift. Three members of the newspaper's staff were charged with promoting hostility between Europeans and natives and were fined £50 each.

Policy Set To Defend West World

Pact Countries Will Defeat Aggressor Representatives Meet

THE HAGUE, THE NETHERLANDS, April 1—(AP)—Defence Secretary Louis Johnson of the United States today set three objectives for the 12 country North Atlantic defence program.

"First, we seek to deter aggression; second, to defend ourselves, and finally to defeat the aggressor if he forces war upon us," Johnson told the third session of defence ministers from the countries signing the North Atlantic Treaty.

The ministers met here to adopt an over-all unified military defence plan.

Johnson, opening the meeting of the ministers' committee as its chairman, said:

"Let us get on with the urgent business that the free peoples of the western world have entrusted to us. And let us do it well. Let us work for peace through strength—the best guarantee for the protection of our freedom and our way of life."

The ministers had before them a detailed program adopted here earlier this week by their joint chiefs of staff.

The plan has been described as a middle term one, covering the next few years before western defences can be brought to full efficiency. The plan defines the role each country is to play in mutual defence during this period. The United States is to take care of strategic bombing and most of the naval work. Britain and France are to take care of medium bombing and fighter cover and the continental powers are to provide an infantry screen.

Police Hunt Driver Of Vehicle

Girls Walking Road On Way To Church Father Posts Reward

TORONTO, April 1—(CP)—City and suburban police today were searching for the driver of a heavy motortruck which struck and killed two children on their way to church.

Suburban North York police received a report today that a truck answering the description was bogged in mud on Ranee Ave.

A resident telephoned police to say that the truck with two men in it had been driving without lights.

Lorine Watson, 13, and her niece Barbara Jones, 5, were on their way to a Friday evening Lenten service at St. Eugene's Catholic Church in suburban North York township when hit by the truck.

The Watson girl was killed instantly and the younger child died three-quarters of an hour later after being admitted to the Hospital for Sick Children.

Police said the driver of the truck failed to stop at the scene. Acting on information of an eye-witness they questioned two men but cleared both of them.

Only witness to the accident was Ernest Berry, who was driving behind the truck. He said the truck was going between 40 and 45 miles an hour when it swerved "and what appeared to be a sack flew across the road."

Berry said when his car got to the scene he saw what appeared to be two bodies and he took off in pursuit of the truck. When he reached the crest of the hill however the truck was not in sight. He telephoned police.

Meantime the accident had been discovered by the father of the elder girl, Charles Watson, driving along in his tow truck. He found his own daughter dead at the side of the road and the younger girl barely breathing.

Watson announced he was posting $100 reward for information leading to the arrest of the driver. Police said they had chased a truck on the Weston Road, in the same vicinity, but lost it after getting the licence number.

The girls walked along the road, which has no sidewalks at that point, every Wednesday and Friday during Lent to the church services. Mrs. Jones, mother of the girl and sister of the other, said that "ifthe driver feels half as bad as we do he'll give himself up. Perhaps now we'll get some streets lights up here."

Lowdown On Atlantis

LONDON, April 1—(Reuters)—A Briton hopes to end all speculation about the existence of the "lost continent' of Atlantis by getting photographs of ruined buildings and other relics of the vanished civilization reported to be hidden under the Atlantic waves. Egerton Sykes aims to raise $6,000 to set out in a fishing smack to look for Atlantis off the Azores.

U.S. Foreign Aid $3,000,000,000, Attacks Expected

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—A $3,102,450,000 administration foreign aid bill, passed by the House of Representatives after a week of rough handling, faced fresh attacks today from both sides of Capitol Hill.

As the measure headed for the Senate, House opponents laid plans to launch a new onslaught when debate starts on a bill providing money for the various world recovery programs involved.

The measure sailed through the House Friday night on a 287 to 86 vote, after a week of battering by Republicans and southern Democrats.

"Irish Block" Defeated

While its total was $270,000,000 less than the state department wanted, the bill was stripped at the last moment of two administration-opposed amendments. One would have tied up $1,000,000,000 of the total for the purchase of farm commodities in the United States; the other would have halted aid to Britain while Ireland remained partitioned.

In addition, the measure contained the controversial "point four" program intended to help backward countries get on their feet through technical assistance from the United States. However, the program was cut almost by half.

Continues Marshall Plan

The over-all purpose of the bill, which continues the Marshall Plan, is to provide economic aid

Exports Up To US In '50 Howe Sure

Drop In Trade Seen With Other Countries Good Staples Market

OTTAWA, April 1 —(CP)—Trade Minister Howe, expressing confidence in Canada's ability to deal with trade problems, told the Commons Friday he foresees a 1950 increase in exports to the United States, but a drop in trade with other countries. Generally, said Mr. Howe, "I think we can expect to continue to have a good market for staple products which Canada traditionally exports, such as wheat, flour, metals, lumber, pulp and paper."

"These markets seem to be in excellent condition and we do not expect any particular difficulty there.

"Canadian manufacturers, however, find it easier to sell their manufactured goods in the United States than in Europe. I believe that our sales in Europe of manufactured goods will depend largely on the amount of effort that is put behind the selling."

Spokesmen for opposition parties said they were not inclined to share Mr. Howe's optimistic outlook.

Bilateral Trade

John Diefenbaker (PC, Lake Central) wanted to know what the government was doing to encourage imports from the United Kingdom. He said the British were turning to bilateral trade with other countries to obtain goods ordinarily purchased in Canada. Canada could sell more to the U.K. if she bought more British goods.

Hazen Argue (CCF, Assiniboia) said Canadian trade should not be tied too closely to the U.S. The government might consider bilateral trade deals which would exchange Canadian farm products for British farm machinery.

J. A. Ross (PC, Souris) suggested the government keep in mind the U.S. produced many of the same surplus commodities as did Canada, especially in the field of agriculture.

The debate, which will not be resumed until after the Easter recess, was on Mr. Howe's departmental estimates for 1950-51.

Professor Jumps From Hotel, Dies

BOSTON, April 1 (AP) — An internationally renowned Harvard professor who left a note saying he was "depressed over world conditions" plunged to his death early today from the 12th floor room of a Boston hotel.

He was identified by police as Francis Otto Matthiessen, 48, professor and tutor of history and literature at the university. Police said he apparently was a suicide.

Matthiessen, a world authority on author Henry James, had been on a year's leave of absence to write a book on the life of novelist Theodore Dreiser. He was the author of several books on James' career. In addition to his writings and teaching, he was active in political affairs as a member of the Progressive party.

Deer Slaughter Not By Shooting

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 1—(CP)—Game Conservation Officer Roy Muma said today that the deer slaughter on Navy Island, in the middle of the Niagara River, was not due to bullets.

Accompanied by provincial and mounted police, Muma visited the island Friday, and observed 17 dead deer. One doe died in full view of the investigating party 20 minutes after it had been running in the big flock.

Muma forwarded two carcasses to the Department of Lands and Forests laboratory for tests to determine the cause of death.

"The deer were definitely not shot," he said. "They died from some cause, which at the present time we do not know."

Eisenhower Asks Tighter Defences Outlines Plan

By EDWARD B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower today proposed a three-point program for stiffening the defences of the United States.

Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem. Okla.), who received the written recommendations of the wartime allied commander in Europe, told a reporter they call for:

1. Strengthening Alaska and its major airfields against surprise airborne attack, by a permanent force of well-trained and equipped ground troops and a radar screen to detect and warn against air forays.

2. Assurance that the 48-group first-line air force is equipped with the most modern aircraft and backed up by a powerful reserve of 12 well-equipped air national guard groups.

3. Sufficient funds for the navy to start a special anti-submarine force, including destroyers, small aircraft carriers, aircraft and other special equipment.

SUGAR RATION ENDS

BONN, Germany, April 1 —(AP)—The West German Government today decided sugar will no longer be rationed after May 1. It is the only remaining rationed food in West Germany.

'Highest Paid Pensioners' May Be Retired At 75

OTTAWA, April 1—(CP)—Members of the Senate, labelled by one of their own members as "the highest paid pensioners in Canada," learned Friday that life appointments to the Upper Chamber soon may cease. Possibility that in future Senators might have to retire at a certain age was advanced by Senator Wishart Robertson.

The government leader in the Chamber did not indicate the proposed retirement age, but it was learned later that it may be 75—the same age at which members of the Supreme Court of Canada retire.

Later Senator John T. Haig drew down coals of fire on his head when he labelled members of the Chamber "the highest class and the highest paid pensioners in Canada."

He made the remark during debate on a resolution to appoint 12 members to a proposed Commons-Senate committee on old age pensions.

The Progressive Conservative Senate leader added that he meant "no insult" to his colleagues—but it did not quell the storm that sprang up about him.

Catch Headlines

Senator Norman Lambert (L—Ontario) asserted that Senator Haig had given the description merely because he knew it would catch the headlines in newspapers.

Red Chinese Try New Landing

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 1 (AP)—Chinese Communist invasion forces today began a new assault on Hainan Island, but the Nationalists claimed they had the situation in hand.

There were only fragmentary reports of the operating directed at the big Nationalist island 10 miles off Luichow Peninsula, which juts out from the South China coast. These rports said 19 of 40 craft making up the Reds' first wave were sunk by Nationalist warships. At one point 1,000 Reds got ashore but the Nationalists said these "were contained." At another point, 200 Reds were reported to have surrendered.

There was nothing to indicate how the Red strength in this invasion compared with the strongest previous attack—a 4,000-man force which hit last Monday.

Amusement Tax Drops; Racing Commission Set

TORONTO, April 1 (CP) — It will cost a little less to go to movies and other places of amusement in Ontario as a result of the approval by the Ontario Legislature of the government's bill reducing the amusement tax.

The tax, labelled for hospital aid, is reduced roughly from 20 to 15 per cent by the bill given Royal assent Friday. The measure is effective today.

The tax was reduced on the express understanding that the reduction must be passed on to consumers. Night clubs, cabarets and other establishments where elaborate entertainment is presented however will cost more. Food and drink bills at such places will be taxed 15 per cent up to maximum tax of $1. Formerly the tax maximum was 40 cents.

Chief Justice R. S. Robertson, acting in absence of Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson, gave Royal assent to 26 bills. Among the others are bills to establish an Ontario racing commission and to dissolve an injunction restraining the Kalamazoo Parchment Company from polluting the Spanish River at Espanola by waste disposal.

Appearance of the Chief Justice Friday marked the end of noisy debate in the Legislature.

The Legislature approved estimates of the Labor Department during a morning sitting, and spent the afternoon on estimates of the Department of Education. Although Premier Frost had hoped to finish the estimates Friday, last day of the old fiscal year, the house did not get past the first item of education estimates. Estimates of five other departments remain to be considered, probably next Wednesday.

Planning Convention Select Liberal Leader

TORONTO, April 1 — (CP)—Two committees of the Ontario Liberal Association will meet today to lay plans for a leadership convention possibly in May. The Leadership Committee will convene to consider a list of possible candidates for the position left vacant by the resignation of Farquhar Oliver last May.

May Subpoena Red "Evidence"

WASHINGTON, April 1 (AP)—Two Republican lawmakers today took exception to a Democrat's talk of issuing a subpoena for Senator Joseph McCarthy's documents on the Owen Lattimore case.

McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, has said he can produce proof that Lattimore is a Soviet agent and is or has been a member of the Communist party. Lattimore, an American expert on Far Eastern affairs, has called the McCarthy charges "an unmitigated lie" and "pure moonshine."

Lattimore arrived in New York today by plane from Ireland. Director of the Walter Hines Page School of International Research at Johns Hopkins University, he has been accused by McCarthy of being "the top Communist agent in America."

Senator Theodore F. Green (Dem. R.I.) said Friday in Providence that if McCarthy has such proof he should turn it over to the Senate foreign relations sub-committee investigating McCarthy's charges that the state department is harboring Communists and fellow travellers.

If the Wisconsin Senator won't produce the documents, Green said, it would be logical for the inquiry group to order him to do so.

Group Asking Work Barred Legislature

QUEBEC, March 31 —(CP)—A group of 50-odd men carrying placards saying "We want public works" was barred Friday from entry to Quebec Legislature Buildings by provincial police.

The police were put on guard at the doors of the buildings when word was received that the delegation organized by the Federation of Councils of Unemployed planned to call on the Premier.

More than a dozen officers were stationed at the main door of the buildings when the marchers filed up St. Louis St. toward the Porte des Sauvages (Indian door).

Col. Leon Lambert, Quebec district provincial police chief, told them they would not be admitted.

Enough Hospital Beds Soon To Fill All Needs—Martin

LEAMINGTON, April 1—(CP)—Health Minister Martin said today that Canada now is approaching the time when hospital accommodation will catch up with her needs.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the opening of the Leamington District Memorial Hospital, the minister reviewed the progress of the national health program started two years ago.

The Leamington hospital, with accommodation for 51 adults and 18 infants, was one of many completed in the last two years or still under construction with federal assistance.

Exceed Target

"It looks now," he said, "as if we will exceed our 1953 target for Canada of new hospital accommodation totalling 40,000 beds as federal aid has already been allocated for hospital construction totalling 20,000 beds."

Great impetus had been given to hospital construction by federal grants for general hospitals serving areas with 3,000,000 people, for mental hospitals with beds for an additional 3,000 patients and for tuberculosis sanitoria with beds for an additional 2,900 patients.

The minister noted that 2,000 federal projects were underway to train individual health workers; the tuberculosis death rate among Indians had been reduced at least 40 per cent since 1944 and $2,000,000 had been allocated to fight tuberculosis generally.

Five Health Units

Mr. Martin said that in Ontario five new county health units had been established to care for 200,000 rural people.

In Toronto special studies were being made of emotionally disturbed school children and a training centre had been established for those mentally deficient. Federal funds would pay the costs of patients from Ontario mental hospitals brought to Toronto for the leucotony operation.

Unemployment Jump In Alberta Coal Mines

EDMONTON, April 1 —(CP)—Lack of orders—a pre-war seasonal condition—has hit Alberta coal mines this spring. Unemployed ranks are being swelled by miners laid off from closing collieries.

Hardest-hit are mines in the Drumheller valley of east-central Alberta and the Crow's Nest Pass area west of Lethbridge in the south. These mining centres are almost wholly dependent upon coal.

At least four mines have closed in the Drumheller valley and several more have closed, or are expected to suspend operations in the Crow's Nest Pass area.

"More than 1,000 men are out of work in the domestic coal fields" John Crawford, provincial director of mines, said today. He said he is not prepared to say how many mines have closed.

Mass meetings in Drumheller district union halls have been called for Sunday when miners are expected to protest the lack of Canada's coal policy.

Left Two Widows Court Decides On One

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 1 (AP)—Mrs. Mary M. Babcock, of New London, was declared the legal widow of Col. William T. Babcock, former United States deputy commander of Berlin, Germany, in probate court here Friday.

Babcock, former head of the police department here, died suddenly in Berlin Jan. 23. Two women, each claiming to be his widow, attended the burial in Washington. One was the New London Mrs. Babcock. The other was Mrs. Florence M. Babcock, of Berlin, who said she and Babcock were married at Berlin in 1945.

UK Should Use Timber From Canada, Not Steel

LONDON, April 1 — (CP). — Ernest Marples, a consistent crusader for private building, has renewed his call for more timber from Canada.

The 42-year-old member of Parliament, regarded as possible ministerial material if the Conservatives come to power, told the House of Commons Britain should use more timber and less steel in building houses.

"We have this anomalous position," he said in a housing debate, "that we are using subsitute materials here which would fetch more dollars if sold in the dollar area than the timber it replaces would cost."

Marples comes from a working-class family in Manchester. He started business as a builder with £20 ($62) borrowed capital, and became financially independent in 10 years. He now heads one of Britain's largest civil engineering firms.

Describing a "personal experience" in building, Marples told members his specifications called for steel instead of timber for shuttering purposes.

"For that particular type of shuttering, I had to use steel because it was technically possible and not because it was economically profitable," he said.

"The ton of steel I used in substitution for timber could have bought three tons of timber in Canada if it had been sold to Canada."

In a letter to the Independent Times, Marples said:

"To force contractors to use steel which in its cheapest form produces from eager Canadian purchasers £50 worth of dollars a ton in substitution for timber at £16 worth of dollars a ton shows a rigidity which must lead to economic suicide."

Steals 1,055 Books Student 'Promising'

SHEFFIELD, April 1—(CP)—A psychiatrist testified in court here that Brian Charles Walsham, 21-year-old laboratory assistant, admitted stealing 1,055 books from booksellers and Sheffield University.

Detective F. Slack said that when Walsham was 15 he was found in possession of books without authority and was barred from using any Sheffield library.

Recommending a course of treatment for the youth, Dr. F. J. S. Esher, psychiatrist, said: "In view of his intelligence and scientific ability, he is worth working on and is likely to become of great social value."

4 Czech Priests Plead Guilty, 8 More Charged

PRAGUE, April 1—(AP)—Official Czech sources said two more Roman Catholic monks pleaded guilty today to high treason, espionage and anti-state activities in Czechoslovakia's first big trial of Catholic churchmen.

The official news agency and the Prague radio said the two defendants were Sylvester Braito of the Domincan Order, Professor of Theology at Olomouc University, and Jim Blesik, of the Redemptroist Order.

Altogether 10 abbots and monks are being tried at the Prague state court. Western correspondents have been unable to gain admittance to today's session of the trial.

Two defendants pleaded guilty to high treason at the opening session Friday, a third pleaded "partly guilty," and three others pleaded innocent.

Here's what happened at Friday's session:

The two who confessed guilt to high treason were identified by the news agency as Abbot Bohumil Vit Tajovsky of the monastery at Zeliva, in Central Bohemia, and Abbot Machalka also was said to have confessed to spying for the Vatican.

The news agency reported that "foreign and domestic news correspondents" attended the trial. However, representatives of western news agencies were refused admittance Friday because, they were told, no more tickets were available.

Abbot Machalka was quoted as testifying that he was involved in the "gathering" of firearms and the distribution of illegal leaflets" for an anti-state campaign shortly after the Communist coup of February 1948 which put the present regime in power.

"He also buried a treasure belonging to the monastery in its cellars, consisting of jewels, Czech money and other valuables including some American dollars," the news agency reported.

The indictment against the 10, as reported by the news agency, said:

"After the war the Vatican Espionage Service was joined with the United States organization, the Counter Intelligence Corps. Their activities were concentrated mainly against the People's (Communist) Democracies which they wanted to liquidate.

Senator A. W. Roebuck (L-Ontario) said the remark was unfortunate. Perhaps what Senator Haig meant was that Senators had achieved a certain security, and did not have to concern itself particularly about obtaining bread and butter.

Senator Robertson made his retirement age disclosures in a statement replying to a question by Senator W. H. Dennis (PC-Nova Scotia) who had asked several days ago whether the chamber was satisfied with the news coverage it received.

Senator Robertson said he was not so concerned with the headlines the Senate makes as the kind of work it gets done. He realized that much of the chamber's work was "tedious and unspectacular."

He was certain that if the chamber's work was of news value, "the press will be keen to note, report and print the facts, as developments of recent weeks have clearly demonstrated.

"Our major concern should be to do what we should do, and what we do, we do well."

A government source later gave some idea of how the retirement proposal may work. Members of the Senate and perhaps even members of the Commons, on appointment, would contribute to a pension fund.

On leaving the chamber, they would receive payments based on contributions, to which may be added additional payments from the federal treasury.

Senate To Continue

As to the Senate's future, Senator Robertson said: "I have not the slightest doubt that, in due course, changes may be made in our constitution."

"For example, consideration may be given to a compulsory retiring age for future appointees to the Senate as well as to the superior courts of the provinces.

"This, and possibly other proposals may well be considered by the responsible authorities, but it is my considered opinion that the Senate of Canada will, in some form, continue indefinitely to be a part of our parliament institutions."

Protects Minorities

Defending the work of the Senate, Senator Robertson said it had been constituted for the express purpose of protecting racial, religious or geographical minorities in the country, against the possible action of a transient majority in the Commons.

"It is a tribute to the good sense and the spirit of fairness which has characterized all governments since confederation that it has not been necessary for the Senate to exercise its power."

But should the occasion arise, Senator Robertson was certain that "any encroachment of the rights of the minorities in Canada on the part of any government, would be fiercely resisted in this chamber."

He believed that only a small minority was agitating for abolition of the Senate and that the Canadian constitution in the future be left to a one-chamber parliament.

The Senate could safely conclude that no matter what reforms may be in store, its life as a second chamber of the Canadian parliament would remain intact.

With this worry cleared away the Senate should then consider at least four types of other services it should render.

The chamber, for instance, should undertake a special inquiry each session into "some outstanding problem with which the Canadian people are faced."

This had been done in the past in the case of income tax, immigration and human rights. The next inquiry probably should cover the future position of Canada's international trade.

Government Spending

An investigation should be made into governmental expenditures. This has been "far from sufficient."

"The reasons for our shortcomings in this request have been varied," said eSnator Robertson "but have been partly due to the fact that the estimates were not tabled in parliament in the past as early as they have this year."

The Senate Divorce Committee, has been doing good work, but it was "tedious and unspectacular work." Although not reported to the newspapers, the work was being done well and thoroughly and Senator Robertson believed "it will continue to be done well as long as that responsibility rests on our shoulders."

As to detailed study of legislation, this was being done by standing committees to a great extent and therefore did not attract as much attention as it would if the study were carried out by the main body of the Senate.

The standing committees however, were doing good work.

"Whether or not the newspapers appreciate it—and say so—is another matter entirely."

Actual cash to breathe life into the programs is to be provided in an omnibus appropriation bill on which the House will start debate next week.

There was no trouble removing from the bill the "Irish" amendment. The House put that into the bill Wednesday by a vote of 99 to 66 but knocked it out Friday by a count of 226 to 60.

In its present shape, the bill carries:

$2,850,000,000 or aid to Marshall-Plan states in Europe, including a $150,000,000 carryover from previous funds.

$100,000,000 for aid to Korea.

Authority to use $100,000,000 for aid to China and southeast Asia.

$27,450,000 for help for Arab refugees in Palestine.

Russia Gets China Minerals

WASHINGTON, April 1 (CP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson charged today that China's Communist Government had handed over to Russia, in a secret agreement made in Moscow, preeminent rights in the strategic western Chinese province of Sinkiang.

This effect of one of the unpublished agreements of the Sino-Soviet conference "off a few weeks ago, the United States secretary said, was disclosed by the announcement this week of agreements for Russian exploitation of the mineral and petroleum resources of the huge province.

Under these agreements, announced in both China and Russia each country will receive one-half of the mineral and petroleum production. Acheson said that the device of a joint stock company is the same as that which has been used to advance Soviet economic penetration and control in Manchuria and Eastern Europe.

Although March went out like a lamb over Southern Ontario it was a tight squeeze. On this first day of April a developing storm over Michigan state is moving steadily eastward and the storm centre will cross Southern Ontario this afternoon. In advance of the storm, rain is spreading across the Lower Lakes while snow is spreading across Georgian Bay and Southern Kirkland Lake toward the Haliburton region. In these areas there will likely be falls of between two and four inches and with high winds expected there will be some drifting.

The storm centre will be east of the province tonight and northwesterly winds will sweep drier and colder air down to the Lower Lakes. Temperatures tonight will be in the low 30s over Southern Ontario, and will range from five to 20 above in the northern sections.

Sunday is expected to be generally sunny by afternoon with temperatures just about normal. This means maximums between 40 and 45 degrees in the Lower Lakes regions and between 30 and 35 in Northern Ontario.

Forecasts:

Haliburton, Eastern Lake Ontario regions. Wet snow or rain this afternoon, ending tonight. Sunday cloudy, clearing during the morning. Not much change in temperature. Exports To States

Mr. Howe told members of his recent trip to Europe and said he was confident the Continent soon would have free convertibility of exchange, a logical first step towards global convertibility Europe was becoming less and less dependent on Marshall Aid.

Howard Green (PC, Vancouver-Quadra) asked if the European convertibility would include the pound sterling.

"Yes," said Mr. Howe "is is hoped that it will."

"The pound people are not fully in agreement, but they seem to be coming into line. It is hardly workable without the pound . . . you might take the off-hand view that this will mean an European bloc that will affect trade with America adversely. I do not agree with that view."

Initiative And Energy

Mr. Howe dealt with the market outlook for various Canadian products and said his forecasts were based on the assumption that Canadians will show the same initiative and energy they had shown in the past, that relations between management and labor will continue to be good.

These were his forecasts for the year:

Wheat—The Canadian product was preferred in every country of the world and he had "no particular worry" about being able to dispose of Canada's wheat crop.

Lumber — The industry is booked to capacity and has sufficient orders to keep it running for the remainder of the year.

Pulp—The pulp market was soft in 1949, but now has strengthened and the industry is at full capacity, with indications that it will continue at this pace.

Mining—Gold production is increasing while metal prices, particularly of lead, are falling. However, prices generally are still highly satisfactory and metal mining throughout 1950 will make the same contribution to export trade as it did in 1949.

Fish—Markets for fish are likely to absorb Canadian production.

Shipbuilding — This industry will be "down" in 1950. Demand for shipping is not as brisk as it was immediately after the war.

Railroad equipment—The great post-war demand has been filled and the industry now is falling back more and more on domestic orders, which still are substantial.

Machine tools—This industry, too, is "fairly well dependent" on domestic demand, where there will be an active year.

Construction—1950 will be the greatest building year the country has ever experienced, with investment expected to rise from $3,200,000,000 in 1949 to $3,600,000,000.

Value of gross national production—Expected to rise from $16,000,000,000 to $16,300,000,000.

Wages and domestic demand—Wages expected to be slightly higher and domestic demand expected to be good.

Imports Fall

Dealing with the question of trade with the United States and other countries, Mr. Howe said he expects Canadian exports to the U.S. to "raise substantially" and imports from that country to "fall."

He noted that exports to the U.S. during the first two months of the year had gone up $38,000,000 while imports had declined $15,000,000, bettering the country's trading balance with the U.S. by $53,000,000.

He expected that trend to continue for the remainder of the year. One reason for this expectation was an anticipated increase in exports of petroleum and iron ore.

KINER HURT

X-rays disclosed Friday that Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh Pirate slugger, is suffering from a severe wrist sprain and may not be ready to play opening day. Kiner sprained his right wrist in a collision at first base during an exhibition game March 14.

7-Year-Old Dies After Accident

TORONTO, April 1—(CP)—Six hours after he was found unconscious near the Parkdale railway station, Friday, seven-year-old Ronald Zufelt died in the Hospital for Sick Children early today.

Rushed to hospital Friday night suffering critical injuries after an unidentified person reported his presence near the tracks, police were unable to tell whether the lad was struck by a train or had fallen from the top of a box car.

The boy's grandmother, worried when he was late returning from school, called police who advised the mother to visit the hospital. Mrs. Betty Zufelt identified the victim immediately.

Special Music Palm Sunday

To mark Palm Sunday and the beginning of Holy Week in the Christian church, city choirs are giving special music tomorrow both during regular services and in the evening. Sacred cantatas will be heard in four churches.

Knox United choir with string orchestral accompaniment, and under the direction of W. R. Potter, is presenting at the 11 o'clock morning service "From Manger to Cross," a cantata by Whitty. At the seven o'clock evening service at George Street United, Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" will be sung by the choir under the direction of Charles E. Allen. Wishart Campbell, well-known baritone fror Toronto, will be the soloist.

"The Crucifixion"

Sir John Stainer's famous "The Crucifixion" is again being given by F. G. Mann and his St. John's church choir at the regular evening service. Soloists, memebers of the choir, are V. D. Coleman, A. Browne, L. F. Dyer and R. B. Pitchford.

Trinity United and St. Paul's Presbyterian choirs are combining their 70 voices also for a performance of Stainer's "The Crucifixion." This hour-long cantata will be given in St. Paul's at 8.30, after evening services have ended in the churches. Christopher Gledhill will be at the organ and the dual choir will be didected by Donald Kennedy.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

Tonight we will have the final games in both events of the Sturgeon Trophy. The remaining ices are being reserved for curlers and their families only, for skating. You curlers bring along your children and your skates and have a good time.

The ladies held a "farewell" bonspiel yesterday afternoon. They drew for rinks and they played a couple of rounds. Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Doughty were the winning skips.

Last night the men had a bonspiel all their own. Played one game at 6.30 p.m. and another one at 9.00 p.m. Who won? Who cares?

The boys were out for a good time, and they had it.

The games committee would appreciate it if the skips would let them know just how they are getting on with the banquet tickets. It helps a lot and the committee could then get on with other details.

Late last evening we heard that Dr. R. Clark's rink was playing in the finals up in the Midland mixed rink bonspiel. He had with him Mrs. A. James, Mrs. L. Browne and F. Green.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, April 1 (CP) — Coarse grains prices generally continued to advance under fairly active trading at Friday's session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Trading was stimulated by light offerings in oats and barley. Prices advanced in sympathy with firmness in United States markets.

Christ's Appeal To The Mind

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Let this mind be in you that was also in Christ Jesus. Phil. 2; 5.

Christ called men to be His disciples. He appealed to their mind. They were convinced in their minds that He was indeed the Christ, the Anointed God. Saul of Tarsus, the most bitter of His persecutors, was convinced in his mind that the crucified Carpenter is the Son of God. He brought his highly trained intellect upon the duty of preaching the Christ to the thoughtful men he met in his missionary work: Perhaps the greatest peril of this generation is that too much emphasis was laid upon the simple Gospel, a half truth. Educated people saw the difficulties in the faith and rarely were given any help by the preacher who pointed to the simplicity of the Faith. Truly the deep things of Christ should make its appeal in this age of education.

The mind of Christ

Are you thrilled with this thought. Hearken to the men who have paid the price. St. Paul says: I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus our Lord; that I may win Christ and be found in Him." Your thoughts will sooner or latter reveal themselves in your face. An artist after many years of study away from his home returned to see his aged mother. Next morning he remarked to his sister: "Mother's face is becoming very beautiful."

"Mother has spent her days in prayer" was the reply. Her mind was saturated with the thoughts of the Christ. Are you old? Do your friends see the change in your face as you are preparing for your passing on into the nearer Presence of the Christ.

The Christ revealed His mind along three lines. When God became a Man He desired to be undistinguished. Born a poor Man. A startling thought for an advertising age. He chose a poor but devout virgin, who by the operation of the Holy Ghost gave birth to the Son of God. The word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

The mind of Christ was full of compassion for the poor, the sick, the leper, whom He touched. He went about doing good and comforting the mourners. Take heed to His invitation: "Come unto Me all ye that labor and I will give you rest." "The poor have the Gospel preached unto them" is the key word of the new religion. Multitudes have drawn near. They have listened and discovered in their personal religion that Christ changes their character and through them—their fellows.

Above all the Mind of Christ is saturated with a deep and wonderful faith in God the Father "He trusted in God" is the testimony of His enemies. His disciples drank in that spirit to more or less extent. When He was crucified their faith received a terrible shock. But the resurrection revived, their faith.

When the end came He fulfilled His own teaching: Father, into Thy Hands I commend my Spirit."

I BELIEVE THAT THOU ART THE CHRIST THE SON OF THE LIVING GOD.

Prayers, Bologna Don't Mix Coldwell

OTTAWA, April 1 (CP) — It isn't good radio, M. J. Coldwell told the Commons Friday night, to present a mixture of prayer, sentimental music, hymns, pork and bologna.

The CCF leader said during a debate on the CBC that he was referring to the morning radio program known as the "Breakfast Club."

(The "Breakfast Club" program, carried each morning on CBC networks, originates in the United States, with Don McNeil as master of ceremonies.)

"It seems to me that if there is anything sacrilegious," he added, "it is the use of prayer and hymns for the advertising of pork and bologna."

BETTERS RECORD

Electric Power Peak Up 17 Per Cent

The new booster station on Weller St. pumped 1,613,600 gallons of water during February, an average of 57,600 gals. a day or 1.4% of the total pumpage, R. L. Dobbin, manager, reported to the Utilities Commission Friday afternoon.

This pump at the southeast corner of Queen Mary School ground was installed to improve pressure in the locality and especially to Civic Hospital.

Electric power peak increased 17% during the month "evidently due to the lifting of Hydro regulations".

Construction was completed on a new 2300-volt line from Park Hill Road to Ashburnham substation for water heater control; a similar circuit from Romaine St. substation to Monaghan Road; a water heater control circuit from Park and Westcott Streets to the Romaine St. substation; the rebuilding of the 2300-volt line on Maria St. from Mark St. to Armour Road.

Loblaw Groceteria, George St., was connected up for 100 KW light and 55 hp power. Forty-nine new water heaters were connected in the city, making a total connected load of 2854.09 KW.

The report included details of other work during the last month of winter.

A letter from City Clerk Outram, secretary of the centennial celebration committee requested the Comimssion to give "serious consideration" to festive lighting in the central area to mark illuminatively this 100th anniversary of the city's municipal incorporation.

Man Responsible For Slaying -Coroner's Jury

HULL, Que., April 1—(CP)—Police said a charge of murder will be laid today against John Ralph Hooper, named by a coroner's jury Friday night as "criminally responsible" for the hand-towel slaying of Gertrude Marion Davis.

Hooper, 25-year-old son of a well-to-do Ottawa family, was identified by witnesses at the inquest as the last person seen with the comely Ottawa girl whose nude body was found Wednesday in a Bridge St. rooming house in downtown Hull, a hand towel tightly knotted about her throat.

The brown-haired, six-footer showed no sign of emotion during the 90-minute hearing but followed the proceeding attentively.

The coroner's jury required only 23 minutes to bring in a verdict. The jury found that she died of asphyxiation induced by strangulation caused by pressure of a towel wound about her throat.

Covered By Sheet

The verdict was returned after three witnesses testified to seeing Hooper with the 25-year-old brunette a few hours before her body was found lying on the bed of a third-floor room at the hotel-style rooming house, her body carefully covered with a sheet.

Alfred Gachet, chief crown witness and operator of the tidy brick rooming house, identified Hooper as the man who registered with Miss Davis about 1 a.m. Wednesday. He said Hooper signed the registration card under the name of J. L. Holson.

Gachet said the couple went to their room and that about an hour later Hooper came down to the office and asked where he could get a meal.

Trouble Finding Room

He said he left and "that is the last I saw of him."

Harold Sharp, 22, testified that he spent Tuesday afternoon with Miss Davis. He said he met her again at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday and that Hooper was with her.

Sharp said he accompanied the pair to Hull and that they had difficulty finding a room. He said Hooper and the girl finally left him in a restaurant while they went to try another place.

Sharpe testified that after waiting at the restaurant he eventually left and saw Hooper come out of the rooming house.

George Hutcheon, 20, of Niagara Falls, Ont., also told of seeing Hooper with Miss Davis late Tuesday night.

CCF Wants Commission On Education Abolished

TORONTO, April 1—(CP)—The briskest debate of the Ontario Legislature's present sitting Friday saw the C.C.F. opposition make a move which would in effect abolish the Royal Commission on Education. The Commission, appointed in 1945, has yet to submit its main report.

The motion, put forward by C. H. Millard (CCF—York West), would reduce from $50,000 to $1 the amount set out in the estimates to cover the Commission's expenses this year. At adjournment the motion was still being debated.

But Premier Frost criticized the opposition as hypocrites.

Mr. Frost said the motion amounted to telling the Commission members: "Here's your hat. Get out of here."

C.C.F. leader E. B. Jolliffe said the impression was growing, "and I think with reason, that if this Commission cannot report now it has no value."

Work Obsolete

Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver said what the Commission did in the first three years after it was appointed now would be "obsolete."

"The whole situation in relation to this Commission and its inability to report is becoming a farce," he added.

Mr. Frost said that if the Commission was dissatisfied with the attitude of the government it would resign.

Mr. Jolliffe said removal of the Commission's appropriation would be an incentive for it to bring in a report.

The debate became heated and T. L. Patrick (PC—Middlesex North), chairman of the Committee of Supply, several times ordered members to sit down.

Porter Interrupts

As Mr. Porter repeatedly interrupted Mr. Millard, Mr. Jolliffe warned that cabinet ministers would be heckled during their speeches if the education minister did not allow Mr. Millard to finish. As Mr. Porter continued to speak, C.C.F. members kept up a continuous desk thumping that drowned out his words.

Premier Frost earlier in the debate told the legislature the government does not feel obliged to implement any part of the commission's report.

Planning Ahead

The government was hopeful the report would be broad enough to set a course "for generations to come," Mr. Frost said. It was not, however, "abdicating our responsibility or our right to govern." The government itself would decide what would be done about implementing the report.

"Don't think for one moment that we are going to stand still and wait for the report of this commission," the premier added.

Mr. Millard said the government had made sweeping changes in organization of schools, the system of examinations, teachers' supply and "the whole question of construction and maintenance of schools" without reference to the commission which was studying these problems.

Education Minister Porter said: "That's right."

Mr. Millard: "You are abandoning the Royal Commission's recommendation in this matter?"

Mr. Porter: "Conceded."

Oil Started In Pipes

EDMONTON, April 1—(CP)—Crude oil is expected to enter the 1,180-mile pipe line, which will move Alberta oil to eastern markets this fall and will reach the Great Lakes by the end of the year, Dr. O. B. Hopkins, president of Interprovincial Pipe Line Company, said Friday.

Stocks Decline Slow, Steady Radio, TV Active

By The Canadian Press.

Security markets were thrown for a loss this week under pressure of realizing sales.

Brokers termed the downward trend a "corrective" movement. They say that a technical reaction to an almost uninterrupted nine-month advance is to be expected.

The decline was comparatively slow and steady although accompanied by brisk turnover. Prices did not have to come down very far before offerings were well absorbed.

Some comparatively wild advances in individual stocks and groups tended to frighten away the more conservative investor. Radio and television stocks were particularly active and strong in Wall Street.

Decrease In 1950

Indications point to a slight decrease in 1950 earnings, but streeters expect the record dividends of 1949 to be well maintained and possibly increased in certain industries.

One Wall Street firm commented in recent market survey: "While the industrial average is historically high, equities remain under-valued when correlated to earnings, dividends, book value, and worth of money."

Low-priced and generally ignored stocks attracted some attention when market leaders were being pushed downwards.

On Canadian markets, the spotlight switched to small mining and Western oil stocks.

New York dipped Monday, moved narrowly Tuesday while radio and television stocks boomed and were highly selective, on Wednesday. Selling spread rapidly in one of the sharpest breaks of the year on Thursday, but became erratic Friday when low-priced issues gained.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed the five days at 74.1, a loss of .9 from the previous Friday—one of the largest weekly declines of the year.

Golds Heavy

In Toronto, penny golds traded heavily to give the market two of the busiest sessions in eight months Friday and Thursday. A particular group of companies with property in the Malartic district, North - western Quebec, accounted for most of the activity. Rumors circulated wildly on Bay Street as business boomed. Leading gold producers moved narrowly and the gold index showed a small gain of .41 from the previous Friday.

Brisk early demand in base metals—especially in East Sullivan Mines, with property in the Maraltic area — listed the group for a gain of 1.17 on the index.

Volume for the five days totalled 9,235,000 shares, compared with 5,440,000 shares the previous week.

Papers were strong in a mixed Montreal market, gaining 6.76 on the averages.

"Death Holiday" Well Done Commends Wray

TORONTO, April 1 — (CP) — The Playgoersmen Friday gave a "good production" of a "very difficult play from the actors' and the director's point of view" for their entry in the Central Ontario Drama Festival.

Adjudicator Maxwell Wray found their production of Alberta Casella's "Death Takes a Holiday" "a very good show. There were some shortcomings, but in all a very good show."

The group played to the first sold-out house at Hart House Theatre in the current local festival, which ends tonight. It is the last of the regional festivals before the dominion finals in Calgary, May 8-13.

As he took the stage Friday night, Mr. Wray exclaimed: "Good gracious, I've got footlights!" One of his principal objections so far this week has been in the matter of lighting. This was the first group that had used the footlights.

"I thought I could see their (the actors') faces," he said.

Generally, he thought it "a very workmanlike job, but I should like to see more finesse in direction and acting." The acting was generally good, he said, inasmuch as the type of play gave the cast a difficult task.

He termed the play, in which death takes a three-day holiday on earth in the shape of a man and falls in love, "a gruesome fantasy."

The set was "good, and the play was very well dressed."

Pope Indisposed

VATICAN CITY, April 1 — (Reuters)—A crowd of 4,000 pilgrims became alarmed Friday as Pope Pius, preparing to say mass in the Vatican Hall of Benedictions, suddenly withdrew to a private room to sit down. Vatican officials said the Pope, 76, was overcome by "a slight indisposition."

Fred Allen says

Only two actors could've played the part... Francis and Jack Benny ...and I'm glad the one with the talent got the part.

Waste Water In Ontario

At this season of spring freshets there is more water than we sometimes can manage, as, for instance, in suburban flooding of low land, in the Moira river at Belleville, the Ganaraska at Port Hope, the Thames at London and Chatham; Brampton's property loss from a single flood of the small Etobicoke Creek in 1947 was at least half a million dollars. Evidence such as this makes it hard to believe that southern Ontario is becoming hard-up for water. Pure, fresh water is regarded as a natural right, yet there are many Ontario communities, and thousands of acres of parched summer farm-land which are now finding that the "right" does not fall as the gentle rain from heaven. Ontario, unlike England, gets its water in floods and sudden violent storms. It runs off and is gone.

* * *

A basic and urgent problem faced by the Select Committee on Conservation which lately made its report to the Ontario legislature, is how to husband our water. The building of large dams to prevent floods and maintain summer flow is a new engineering concept in the western world, although it was successfully done 1,500 years ago in China. This city and its environs are not unduly concerned, because of the presence of lake water and a canal system. It is noteworthy that the canals like the Rideau and the Trent, built originally for transport, are now most valued as water-level stabilizers, with their locks and dams. But even in this district, due to farming methods, the clearing of the forests, and the increased demands for water for farms, homes and factories, the summer scarcity is becoming a problem.

* * *

Conservation methods in rural areas are given special place in the Report which makes recommendation on the restoration of tree cover to non-arable land, proper land-use on the farm, the plantings of crops which will lessen the run-off (grass land is a good conserver), the preservation of meadow ponds, the replenishment of the soil with organic matter (humus) such as straw, barnyard manure, dead roots, leaves. (Organic matter tends to bind loose soil, to open up the heavier soils, and to increase the water-holding capacity of all soils.)

* * *

Experiments were carried out at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, to determine the water-loss under different crops from a ten per cent. slope. The corn crop was accompanied by an average annual loss of 289 tons of water an acre; the oat crop only 58 tons. and alfalfa 28 tons. Thus ten times as much water escapes from a corn field as from an alfalfa field, with only a ten per cent. slope. Incidentally, corn is a thirsty crop, and cannot afford to lose that water which runs away so quickly. Experiments in Iowa to contrast the results of contour and up-and-down cultivation showed that when corn was cultivated on the contour the loss was only 0.1 per cent of the precipitation, and the loss when corn was cultivated up and down the slope was 10.3 per cent. of the rainfall.

* * *

As the Report on Conservation recommends, much more experimentation and fact-finding has to be given the whole situation in Ontario—for instance, very little is known about the subterranean water levels, and few of our rivers are metered to gauge their flow. Detailed and widespread water-control and conservation measures must be introduced. Before our inland Ontario cities begin stealing water from the Great Lakes (a necessity suggested in the Ontario Legislature this week), conservation methods to restore river and well levels should be vigorously pursued. The water of the Great Lakes is not inexhaustible, and it has certain shipping and hydro-electric power uses.

A Great Daughter Of Canada

The death of Julia Arthur at the age of 81 brings to mind a great era in the theatre, and the contribution made to its greatness by two actresses of Canadian birth—Julia Arthur and Margaret Anglin. Neither was able to make a career in this country, but both were seen here, from time to time. Julia Arthur's last appearance in this country was in 1925, when she toured here briefly in Bernard Shaw's St. Joan. That appearance marked a return to the stage after many years of retirement; her period of greatest popularity was between 1891 and 1899. During that time she appeared with many actors of the first rank as leading lady. She played for a time in the company of Sir Henry Irving, and she created the role of Lady Windermere in Oscar Wilde's play Lady Windermere's Fan. The list of her roles evokes the atmosphere of an earlier and in many ways a more exciting theatre than we enjoy today; romance and great emotion were its principal offerings, and these were qualities with which Julia Arthur was nobly endowed.

She held the stage at a time when actresses were remote and mysterious beings, rarely seen outside the theatre. Their job was to create an illusion of beauty and romance, and they knew that nothing would kill that illusion more quickly than too great a familiarity with the public. They were content to be seen on the stage only, and there they acted with an exaggeration of manner which sometimes degenerated into posturing, but which was at its best noble and triumphant. They spoke and moved like queens; they knew nothing of the modern actress's desire to court popularity at the expense of dignity.

Miss Arthur retired at the height of her powers, and her legend has survived untarnished. In her sphere she was a great daughter of Canada, and her country remembers her with affection.

Leon Blum

Despite the fluctuation of governments in France there is a core of political leaders who for two decades have served their country in one cabinet or another with few interruptions. One of these leaders was Leon Blum who died yesterday. He had been a power in France since the end of the first world war. Before he actively engaged in politics (1919) he practised law, took part in the Dreyfus campaign with Jaures and was a dramatic critic for two Parisian papers. He had joined the Socialist Party in 1899 and during the Herriot ministry of 1924-25 was the real governing power because Herriot needed the support of the Socialist Party which Blum headed.

Fifteen years ago the Conservative world trembled for France when the Left gained undisputed power from Poincare's Rightist coalition, and M. Blum established the Front Populaire government. It was the first of three periods, the longest only a year, when he served France as its Premier.

The veteran Socialist suffered under the Germans, but at the close of the war was returned to his country, broken in health, esteemed as a patriot and elder statesman. He headed a government again for a brief period in December, 1946, but resigned because of ill health the following month. His foreign policies were liberal, his domestic policies pink. He was a consistent champion of working people, but would have no truck with Communists. He was in the great tradition of French liberalism and learning. His stabilizing medial influence will be missed in present-day France.

First Anniversary

A year ago today Newfoundland became a part of Canada. The Union was attended by ceremonies and affectionate hopes which gladdened hearts on that day a year ago, and which will ever be a pleasant memory. It was a momentous, historic occasion. What of the Union now that it has been tested by a year? There have been surprisingly few disagreements, and probably no separate country has united with another with so little ruffling of life, so little political disruption. True, Newfoundland's voice, officially and unofficially, has been raised in St. John's and at Ottawa about special interests, but these have been no more acrimonious than the rumblings from other Maritime provinces which periodically reverberate in Ottawa and Upper Canada. Newfoundland's first birthday as a province is as happy an anniversary as the moulders of the federation could have hoped for.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The Marchbanks Correspondence

To Haubergeon Hydra, Esq.
Dear Mr. Hydra:

Just before the Royal Commission on the Arts and Sciences in Canada shuts its books, permit me to draw attention to a fact which in itself explains the low estate of art and science in our beloved country. I read in a recent report — based upon I know not what snooping, window-peeping and wire-tapping —that 70 per cent. of all the flavouring material used in Canada is chocolate. Consider what this means.

Chocolate in moderation is a very fine thing. But the charm of chocolate, unless I am greatly mistaken, resides in the placidity, the passive acceptance, the dark-brown fatalism which it induces in the consumer. To eat chocolate in moderation is to become a philosopher; he who eats it to excess becomes the toy of circumstance and the intellectual peer of the cow.

Persuade our nation to cut down its chocolate intake and immediately art and science will flourish, intellectual curiosity at the universities will become so fierce that the professors will have to go to work, and trade will achieve new and unbearable heights. Either do this or persuade the manufacturers of chocolate to doctor it with cayenne in order to offset its sedative properties. I refer this matter to you in your capacity of Eighteenth Permanent Semi-Confidential Clerk of the Ministry of Agriculture.

Yours permanently and semi-confidentially,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Chandos Fribble, Esq.
My good Fribble:

You are a man of enquiring mind, and a psychologist of note. Can you explain the lamentable decline in the art of face-making among modern Canadian children? You will recall that when we were boys the making of faces was taken seriously; children devoted hours to the evolution of new and horrifying faces, and a certain distinction attached to the boy or girl who led his circle in this respect.

The child of today seems utterly dead to the delights of really masterly mugging. Now and again they stick out their tongues in a lackadaisical fashion, but not far. I remember the days when tongues were tongues, and nothing under four inches of exposure was considered respectable. Gifted children could turn the tongue upward, touching the tip of the nose, and exposing the frenulum, or blue string, which is one of the tongue's special features. Dragging down the under lids of the eyes was carefully cultivated, so as to expose the maximum of wet red flesh beneath the eyeball. The nostrils were drawn upward with the fingers. The ears were violently wiggled. The combinations of these basic distortions were many and, in capable hands, produced brilliant efects. But all of this glory is departed. Why is it so, Fribble? Has some of the elasticity gone from youth?

Yours reflectively,
S. MARCHBANKS.

To Mrs. Kediajah Scissorbill
Dear Mrs. Scissorbill:

It is useless to reproach me because I have publicly confessed that I am a regular reader of the comic strips. I have read them ever since I could read anything, and I am not likely to change now. Your concern about comics arises, I think, from the fact that you do not understand them. They are not as great an influence on the lives of their readers as you think. For instance, I read every day certain adventure strips not because I like the characters but because I detest them. I sneer cruelly at their dreadful predicaments, their dangerous, overstrained lives, and at the tawdry charms of their women. I hope, in an idle sort of way, that they will at last get themselves into a fix so desperate that they will never escape. It troubles me not at all that they never do so.

There are certain strips, on the other hand, which are social comment. By reading them I can find out what millions of my fellow creatures believe and what they think.

And finally there are a few strips of great strength of imagination, or of whimsical charm. I read them quite simply because I like them.

You may say that I might devote the ten minutes a day I give to the twenty comics I read to some better purpose. I reply that I doubt it. Hoping that the strain of policing your fellow citizens is not proving too much for you, I am,

Yours unregenerately,
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS.

To Samuel Marchbanks, Esq.
Esteemed Sir:

The costs of pursuing your case against Richard Dandiprat, Esq. are mounting. As you know, there are many charges involved in legal proceedings apart from the charge brought in court. (Ha ha: a legal jest, Mr. Marchbanks, and a great favourite with Mr. Mouseman, senior; pardon me for bringing it up but I could not help myself; the spring weather.) There is the cost, for instance, of having all the relevant documents copied in octuplicate. You may say that there were no relevant documents in your case, but you would be wrong; we have created several. That is part of the service a lawyer offers his client. And there are carrying charges, as well; these are the fees required to induce your lawyer to carry your case in his head; these are utterly indispensable. And there are incidental charges; for instance during the typing of some documents related to your case a typewriter ribbon frayed away to a juiceless shoestring; there was nothing to be done but to replace it, the first time this has been necessary since the purchase of the machine in 1908.

We never plague our clients for money, but we suggest to you that we do not live upon air, though we have been known to live upon heirs. (I crave forgiveness, sir; another pleasantry of the elder Mr. Mouseman; it slipped out, somehow.) A little something to be going on with would be a lovely Easter surprise for,

Yours faithfully,
MORDECAI MOUSEMAN,
(for Mouseman, Mouseman and Forcemeat).

To Amyas Pilgarlic, Esq
Dear Pil:

I see by the papers that next autumn there is to be a musical comedy based on Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest". Offhand, I cannot think of anything less likely to provide the foundation of a musical comedy than this work, which is perfect and complete in itself, and does not need to be decked out with anybody's musical tinkling. I am not one who believes that fine words are necessarily enhanced by the addition of music. I point to Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet" and Verdi's "Othello" as cases in point. I have the highest regard for composers, but I wish that they would not think it necessary to spray great works of art with their black little notes. Particularly is this so in the case of a masterpiece of comedy like "The Importance of Being Earnest". Music can convey almost any emotion, but wit is not an emotion, and sackbuts and psalteries merely serve to obscure its brilliance. Let us have no orchestral galumphings in this farcical masterwork.

Yours in all pernicketiness,
SAM.

Letters To The Editors

TENANTS ARE TAXPAYERS

Sir: Taxpayer complains of home-owners paying all the taxes, and says that tenants should also be taxed. Does he not think that tenants also pay taxes, only indirectly? What about young married couples paying exorbitant rents, such as $50 or more for only two rooms, when the owner pays perhaps $125 per year for taxes on the house. Surely the tenants are paying the taxes there! And in our case, regardless of rental controls, our landlady received an increase equivalent to the raise in taxes every year, with permission of the Rental Control Board, besides being allowed to take all other increases without a lease.

It's about time that home-owners quit thinking that they are the only ones entitled to call themselves "Taxpayers".

Thanking you,
TENANT TAXPAYER.

GIVE US ONLY SAND

Sir: A short time ago our City Fathers were scratching their heads as to where to keep the costs down in regards to setting the taxation rate.

As far as I can see, our sidewalk snowplow could be very well done away with as in other cities bigger than ours, you have to shovel your own sidewalk or the city did it and charged you with it.

This snow plow only pushes the snow to both sides and packs it there where it freezes, then some more on top of that. The result is that when a thaw or rain comes, it means our sidewalks are just a canal where you will go over your boot-tops in either slush or water, mostly water, where it cannot get away. And I for one, and many others, have had to walk the road the whole length of the street in place of where we should be able to walk, namely on the sidewalk, and further our wives when going out with a carriage or sleigh find it impossible to climb over the banks piled up from the snow plow, at all the intersections.

I, for one, am willing to clean my own sidewalk, I do it anyway, and all I would ask is for the city to supply us with sand to put on the icy spots when needed.

This is done in other cities and I have done it and the result is you could walk down the sidewalk without knee rubber boots on and this could be done in our city here in Peterborough or have we got to put up with this nuisance.

A TAXPAYER.

ALTERNATIVE TO FINING NON-VOTERS

Sir: "E.G." has lost faith in mankind. Most Canadians are literate we are informed; if this is so they should be able to obtain some knowledge of what constitutes Capitalism, Socialism and Communism, from the multitude of articles written about each.

The intention of imposing a fine was based on the reasoning, though possibly over optimistic, that a majority of the people when compelled to vote, would of their own accord study the political situation more thoroughly, rather than vote blindly and in consequence become politically informed.

I must agree with "E.G." that the best solution is in educating the people before voting, but how is this to be accomplished? The Canadian education system is considered of a high standard; still, they do not teach even the basic fundamentals of the "isms" and the various aspects that conflict between them.

If "E.G." would kindly state a solution to educating the people politically, I shall be grateful.

Yours truly,
VIRGO.

QUESTION CLEANLINESS OF MARGARINE

Sir: I read your editorial re margarine and would like to say that anyone who wants, may—and should—have it, but as long as the jobs of my husband and son depend on the dairy farmers, I'm using good old butter. My men work in the DeLaval. If all the men employed in Peterborough industries which depend on the farms for their very existence would consider their jobs before the few cents they "save" by using margarine, they wouldn't be so fond of it. How do you know it's clean? True, it may be made here under sanitary conditions, but who knows the conditions where the oil is made? I read where the oil from white whales caught in Hudson Bay is also used for margarine. You may have it. Margarine is vile on hot toast or hot vegetables and is no better than shortening for cooking.

CANADA FIRST

THE SPHERICAL AERIAL PHANTASMOGORIA

Sir: Mr. Tully chooses to be facetious on the subject of flying saucers, and the experience which he tells of will not carry much weight with genuine flying saucer lovers.

The point which makes the possibility of Mr. Tully's saucer out of the question, is that the first saucer capable of sustained flight was not patented until 20 years later than the date he mentioned.

He is possibly thinking of the time the circular saw slipped its moorings, and struck down a horse which was standing a few yards away. When asked by the insurance agent what had killed his horse, the owner is said to have replied "He was struck by a flying saw, sir".

Yours truly,
J.G.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick. (Matt. 14: 14.)

* * *

And a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living upon physicians, neither could be healed of any, came behind him, and touched the border of his garment: and immediately her issue of blood staunched.

And Jesus said, Who touched me? When all denied, Peter and they that were with him said, Master, the multitude throng thee and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

And Jesus said, Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me. And when the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and falling down before him, she declared unto him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace. (Luke 8: 43-48.)

Robust rivalry is a good thing, as we all know, but when it gets to the nattering stage over important issues, it's like throwing sand under the wheels of progress There's a verbal wingding going on in peaceful Peterborough right now among two factions of the fish and game boys

Both groups, being unable to wash their linen in the sparkling Kawarthas, put on a tell-tale gray laundry display last week at Queen's Park, of all places The occasion, the annual fish and game meeting held by the lands and forests department The question, when should pickerel fishing be opened in the Kawarthas

It looks to me as if one faction of the fish and game outfit wants the pickerel season to open on May 1st to detract hard-to-hold fishermen from the few county trout streams and lure them to acres of open lakes and rivers. "Leave the streams to us few fly-rod purists and keep out the steel-rodders and worm-users,—give them somewhere else to go," they seem to say.

The other half say "NO". By opening the season early, it will leave less fish for resort guests when the big trek starts from the States about July 1st.

• • • •

The embarrassing thing about this scrap aired at Queen's Park, was that one of the delegates made an early verbal motion for the fish and game association, that the pickerel opening date be set back to May 1st. He was NOT AWARE that his own club, in a combined fish-and-game-tourist meeting held before leaving Peterborough, had rescinded the early opening clause and were all finally in agreement.

It was up to speaker delegate Jim Fraser to try and straighten out the mix-up and table the true message as diplomatically as possible. What other delegates from across the province thought of this razzmatazz, would be interesting to contemplate; they would most certainly feel that the Peterborough crowd were a very divided lot and most inefficiently at cross-purposes.

My stand on the matter? I'll go along with the group that want May 15th date let alone. Resort operators are rooting for this, quite naturally. Why can't we all realize the extent of our stake in the tourist "industry", fourth largest in the province?

Rolling Up Sleeves At Bide-A-Wee

Cottage owners who dream of all the work to be done around Bide-A-Wee this coming spring are legion, but ones who actually are doing something about it are rare indeed. Insuranceman Hal Barker is one of these rare birds. He and his wife spent last weekend at their Stony Lake cottage on Breeze's Island painting the upper structure of their boathouse from the ice. They had a grand time doing it and got a million-dollar suntan into the bargain, rugged people.

• • • •

Although the Kawarthas had no resort publicity at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show, they are slowly but surely preparing lure literature for the district, now. Peterborough Chamber of Commerce will have about 20,000 folders off the press and mailed by mid-April. Its Lakefield counterpart has already mailed 800 Huntsville-printed booklets and will soon send out the balance of 10,000. Peterborough Police Benevolent Association will distribute 15,000 district info pieces about May 1st. It is estimated that the 470-odd registered tourist accommodation places will post-office about 200,000 folders. So, as a rough guess, about 250,000 mailed messages will tell tourists of Kawartha district attractions. Thar's a lotta lure in that there literature.

Small Big Round-Up In Mag.

In a large unwieldly article entitled "You name it—the lakes have it," writing team Henry and Vera Bradshaw tried to wrap up the vacation lands story in one bundle in a recent issue of an American homes and gardens magazine. Following a long general color story, the article is broken down into 18 areas around the Great Lakes. Some excerpts:

Hunting in Ontario? Excellent for bear, deer, MOOSE, partridge—and around Kenora, ducks.

There is no moose hunting allowed anywhere in Ontario, they should have known.

Old established resort areas . . . the Kawartha region, 100 miles north of Toronto.

Are they confusing the Muskokas and the Kawarthas? Could be.

Fishing: (in eastern Ontario) Walleyes and muskies in Nipissing and a few other waters.

With all our fishing publicity and proof, we are out of the running.

These are only a few of the incorrect statements. To think that such reading is gobbled up by three million families, according to publishers figures! There are going to be a lot of misinformed tourists arriving in our province this summer.

PLUGGED NICKELS' WORTH: Muskrat trapping is now 13 days old and results, says Joe Vinnette, are just about nil; too much ice . . . Travelling muskrat trapper Charlie Binnington of Lakefield arrived at Hanlon's Point, Toronto, on Tuesday for some early rat pelt-taking; when lake-river ice opens here, he will try Stony and after that, Haliburton . . . Hardwareman Roger showed me a new fish lure this week, a pink plastic mermaid equipped with a regulation set of hooks; "Will catch more fishermen than fish", was his observation . . . Pete McTelygillen has appealed for assistance in compiling and swapping fish record data; Alan Barker, Sudbury Star, is willing to co-operate in his area and so am I here, BUT, come to my cluttered desk, Pete, and let's dope this thing out in true bookkeeping fashion . . . Among the early birds heard and seen around the city lately is a blue heron on the banks of the Otonabee at the Monaghan Rd end; Bob Runnett heard a killdeer at Burnham's Point on Little Lake . . . Kawartha Conservation Association's Clare Collins has chosen three winners from more than 500 entries in the naming of the Cedar Lake project—name and names next week Two fishermen I know have a new name for pink elephants; "Beasts of Bourbon", they calls 'em.

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

Sweet Day So Cool, So Calm, So Bright

Sweet day, so cool, so calm, so bright—
The bridal of the earth and sky—
The dew shall weep thy fall to-night,
For thou must die.

Sweet rose, whose hue, angry and brave,
Bids the rash gazer wipe his eye,
Thy root is ever in its grave,
And thou must die.

Sweet spring, full of sweet days and roses,
A box where sweets compacted lie,
My music shows ye have your closes,
And all must die.

Only a sweet and virtuous soul
Like seasoned timber never gives,
But, though the whole world turn to coal
Then chiefly lives.

Progress of Peterborough: XIII

Genial Peter Robinson, 37, Gets Irish Pauper Settlers

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

The years from 1817 to 1823 are one of the blackest periods in Irish history. To the political unrest after the Union with Britain was added the social and economic disintegration caused by the industrial and agricultural revolutions which increased after the Napoleonic War. As wheat prices fell from 120s. a quarter in 1814 to 50s. in 1823, tenants were unable to pay rents and wages, and when leases ran out landlords (often absentee English gentry) refused to renew them. Consolidation by large landowners hastened evictions, increasing distress, and the hated middlemen took large leases and sublet the land at extravagant rents of £6 to £10 an acre, to the swarming lower classes.

The cotter class, over three million people, lived on farms of one to 10 acres, and raised little except potatoes and a few pigs. Agrarian outrage, including murder, arson, sabotage and theft, died down during the famine and plague of 1817, but broke out more bitterly in 1820. Parts of South Ireland were in a state bordering on rebellion, under the Whiteboys and Blue-Ribbon-Men, against tithes and rents. In spite of constant applications of the Insurrection Act and shipment of convicts to Australia, the reign of terror continued until the spring of 1822, when famine again brought an end to anarchy.

From 1823 on, although crops were better, religious conflict was increased by O'Connell's Catholic Association, directed against absentee Protestant landlords. Under these conditions, the landlords in Ireland eagerly supported the plan of Wilmot Horton, Under-Secretary for Colonial Affairs, for state-aided emigration from the disturbed areas of South Ireland to the colonies. Horton admitted in a letter of July 7, 1823, to J. B. Robinson, Attorney-General of Upper Canada: "As a police measure, the removal of the disaffected part of the population may be deemed advisable."

Robinson Selected

Horton selected for the job of superintending the emigration of pauper Irish peasants to Canada a handsome genial Canadian of 37 years, Peter Robinson. Peter was one of six children of a leading Loyalist family, and in 1822 was a member of the Upper Canada Legislative Assembly as well as a landowner, merchant and trader at York. His younger and more famous brother, John Beverley Robinson, was a member of the Executive Council, Attorney-General, and one of the most upright pillars of the Family Compact clique which ruled Upper Canada.

Peter accompanied brother John to England in 1822 on government business; while there, he was offered the post of selecting and leading to Canada a trial group of 500 to 600 paupers from the area in Munster where poverty and unrest were greatest. As a result, in 1823 Peter Robinson took charge of 571 persons, in 105 families, mostly the rebellious agitators, the poachers and "criminal elements," and other paupers selected by the landlords from their estates in northern Cork and southern Limerick and Tipperary Counties.

In September, 1823, he settled them along the Upper Canada side of the Ottawa River near Bytown (Ottawa) in Ramsay, Pakenham, Goulburn and Huntley townships on 100 acre lots, at a total cost to the British Government of £12,539, about £22 for each man, woman and child. There was much opposition to this state-aided settlement in both Britain and Canada; complaints were common later that some Irish had remained on their lots while getting aid the first year, and then had promptly deserted to the U.S.A. Actually the majority settled down to farm on the Ottawa valley frontier; 477 out of the 571 were still on their lands in 1825. The district is predominantly Irish in poplation 125 years later.

£39,000 Voted

Due to growing opposition, the Colonial Office with difficulty obtained from Parliament in April, 1825, a vote of £30,000 to send 1,500 more Irish paupers to Upper Canada. Six months before this, however, Peter Robinson was back in Ireland to consult with the landlords in selecting families for the second expedition.

On October 7, 1824, posters were displayed throughout Munster stating "To all who may be disposed to emigrate from South Ireland and who may be accepted by the Superintendent, the Government will afford a passage to Canada and will convey them to their lands free of expense. Provisions will be found them, and they will be furnished with medical assistance, upon their arrival at the tract destined for their settlement. Every male emigrant above the age of 18 years and under 45 will receive a location ticket for 70 acres of land; the utensils necessary for a new settler will be furnished them at the public expense, and they will receive provisions for one year after taking possession of their lands . . ."

Over 50,000 people responded to this princely offer, and deluged Robinson with petitions, many of them pitiful in their revelations of poverty, injustice and longing. For example: "The bearers, Prince Braning and Thomas Fahy are the two men you promised when you were last here you would positively take out this time to Canada. Fahy has been treated most barbarously by his landlord; he ejected him out of his farm and threw down his house to make an addition to his lawn, although the poor fellow paid him up the last penny of his rent. Should you not take them out this time, it will be the cause of bringing their unfortunate families to misery and starvation . . ."

Michael Sullivan most humbly petitioned that "he and his boys are willing to go to the remotest part of the globe that they could get a piece of land to cultivate . . ." Another mentioned five families "at this moment confined to their miserable hovels for want of clothes to cover them. All anxious to get employment on any terms; but that is unfortunately quite out of the question . . ."

One gentleman wrote ambiguously, "The bearers Edmond Lyne and brother have every wish to be taken to Upper Canada . . . You would serve this country very materially to take them away . . ." Many of the petitions are included in the documents preserved in the Peterborough Public Library collection, along with Robinson's confidential reports, recommendations for applicants, tickets of passage, ship lists, expense accounts, rations ledgers and other data.

Mostly From Northern Cork

Applications were received from all parts of South Ireland, but Robinson took nearly all his emigrants from the estates of a few landlords in northern Cork County, whence the 1823 group had been picked. This district north of the Blackwater River, 40 miles by 20 miles, contained the estates of Lord Kingston, who picked 52 families to emigrate; Captain Roberts, who chose 36 families; Lord Doneraile, 33 families; Lord Ennismore, 30; Lord Mountcashel, 26; C. L. Jephson, 24; D. W. Beecher, 24; R. O. Aldworth, 14 — i.e., eight gentlemen selected 239 families, and 3 other landlords in the district chose another 68 families.

Even before Parliament authorized 1,500 emigrants, Robinson pledged himself to take 30 families totalling 2,024 persons. Horton's instructions were that all those chosen were to be penniless peasants, not over 45 years, and of the Roman Catholic faith: the documents show, however, that 80 heads of families were not farmers but laborers, shoemakers, masons, blacksmiths, weavers, slaters, and so on; 33 heads of families were over 45 years of age; and several Protestant families were included. Each family accepted was given a ticket of passage and told to go to Cork immediately.

Most families sold their belonging to get to Cork, arriving in rags, penniless and often sick, so that they had to be given baths, clothes, blankets and medicines. Some never arrived; Peter Fane wrote excusing himself because "my children are not in array to bear any of the frigids . . . and I am unable to defray my expense to the beach."

A few queer characters were included: Margaret St. Leger seeking her husband who had gone to Canada in 1823; David Nagle fleeing from the Whiteboys whom he had betrayed; John Stack who had worked in Upper Canada before; John Burke who asked if he could take his "domestics and furniture" with him free of charge.

Immigrants Inspected

In a few cases the faint-hearted sold their tickets to others, but Robinson claimed that the impersonators were exposed. "The surgeon of each transport had orders to report as soon as he had received his complement of settlers on board, on which I proceeded to the ship and mustered them all on the main deck . . . When I was satisfied that they were of the age and description given in by the father, and that no imposition had been practised, they were sent between decks."

A few cases of smallpox and typhus were weeded out, and replaced by other applicants from Cork. Because there was much jealous criticism from landlords, magistrates and officials of other districts, at the fact that a favored few with influence had cleared their estates of paupers and "troublesome" families at government expense, while the rest of Ireland was not helped, Robinson insisted on a final inspection of the emigrants on the ships by the Mayor of Cork, Sir Anthony Perrier, and other important persons.

Then, between May 10 and 25, 1825, the nine transports bearing 2,024 Irish (385 men; 325 women, 727 boys under 21 years, 587 girls under 21 years) sailed out of Cork Harbor for Hi Brasail Tir nan Og, the Enchanted Land of the Young —the New World.

WILDE ON BEAUTY

Beauty, real beauty, ends where an intellectual expression begins. Intellect is in itself a mode of exaggeration, and destroys the harmony of any face. The moment one sits down to think, one becomes all nose, or all forehead, or something horrid. Look at the successful men in any of the learned professions. How perfectly hideous they are! Except, of course, in the Church. But then in the Church they don't think. A bishop keeps on saying at the age of eighty what he was told to say when he was a boy of eighteen, and as a natural consequence he always looks absolutely delightful.

TWO JOLLY MILLERS — Ralph Dudley LEFT and John Orr RIGHT are kneeling beside the water wheel at Warkworth Co-Operative mill. The milling machine is driven by water power from Burnly Creek running through the village of Warkworth. Throughout the winter, ice covering the creek is chopped away every morning before the current is able to drive the wheel. Even last week, there was ice on the water in the early morning.

Cut Ice So Wheels Will Turn At Century-Old Grist Mill

By HAZEL PAULL

The rigors of Canadian winter, even when the season is comparatively mild, are still as difficult for the grist mill operators of Warkworth Co-Operative as they were in the early days when milling beside the natural waterways was the leading industry in this part of Ontario.

How many people today are obliged to hack through the night's layer of frozen water before being able to start the day's work?

That happens throughout the winter at the water-powered mill at Warkworth. Even last week, ice has been formed overnight on the swift-flowing current under the mill.

Built Century Ago

The grist and feed mill was built approximately 100 years ago on Burnly Creek and until two years ago, when it was taken over by the Co-Operative, was operated by Clayton Dudley.

Ralph Dudley, Clayton Dudley's son, is now in charge of the mill.

Each class would have preached the importance of those virtues, for whose exercise there was no necessity in their own lives. The rich would have spoken on the value of thrift, and the idle grown eloquent over the dignity of labour.

Wilde: Dorian Gray

The creek starts 40 miles west of Warkworth and in the centre of the village, where the mill is situated, it is dammed and there is force enough to power the mill.

The mill was remodelled when it was taken over by the Co-Operative and now an average of 400 bags of feed and grist are milled daily.

Time was when water driven motors were used throughout the country for milling, but today the Warkworth mill is one of the few remaining 19th century specimens.

No. X: As To General Happiness.

Apart from those omens which have particularly to do with the happiness that comes through love, success in money matters, and so forth, there are others that give to the fortune a certain aura of contentment or satisfaction. Amongst these:

A Bush foretells a pleasant invitation to a social function.

A Basket or Chair foretells an increase in the family.

Clouds are indications of serious trouble (unless surrounded by dots, when they indicate success in money matters.)

Clover, always a lucky sign, especially signifies happiness, if placed down the cup, it foretells new happiness to come.

A Cross warns of trouble or deferred hope.

A Crown is a sign of coming honors or deep satisfaction through achievement.

A Deer or other Antlered Animal foretells business strife, and possible failures.

The Fleur-de-lis may be taken as the token of health and happiness, if near the top of the cup; lying on the bottom, it betokens disputes and anger.

A Gun or Rifle is a sign of unhappiness and sometimes of calamity at the hand of a former friend.

An Owl is very unfortunate as it indicates illness, humiliation, poverty; it may be hooting a warning against new business undertakings, or to the girl or man who is in love.

A Pitcher is a sign of good health.

Snakes or Serpents call for caution to avoid misfortune, probably caused by personal enemies.

Squares are a sign of peace and security.

A Star is a sign of happiness and pleasant events.

Straight Lines speak of a long and serene life.

Twisted outlines foretell grievances, especially when numerous.

An Umbrella signifies irritations and discouragements.

Ranting, Ornate Inscriptions On Old British Tombstones

By WILLIAM TINKER.

There is a certain interest about tombstones, and epitaphs, and many articles may be written upon these subjects. The writer recalls as a boy in the north of England passing a tombstone every morning, which read something like this:

Here lyeth the bodie of John Howard. For 50 years a grocer and an honest man.

The date was around 1775.

Now, it isn't known whether being a grocer for 50 years was remarkable in those days, or being an honest man for 50 years was noteworthy, or whether it was the combination of the two qualities which were deemed worthy of being commemorated, but it is a fact that folk were very proud of their calling many years ago.

They were not ashamed of their craft, and believed that "a man diligent in his business shall stand before kings," and travelling about the British Isles one meets everywhere — particularly in country districts—tombstones testifying that "Here lies John Doe, for 45 years a shoemaker in this village." or "here resteth the mortal remains of William Blank, a tailor of this parish for 60 years, as was his father before him."

On the other hand one sees stones the purchasers of which have taken great pains to impress the passer-by with the high rank of the family, and the importance of the person buried near that spot.

Here is an example copied from a stone of this type, which is in Chester Cathedral:

Near this place lyeth Elizabeth Booth, daughter of Sir John Booth, younger son of Sir George Booth of Dunham Massey, in the County Palatine of Chester, by Dorothy his wife, daughter of Sir Anthony St. John, K.B., younger son of the Earl of Bollingbroke, of Blythe. She dyed Dec. 11th, 1734, in ye 96th year of her age.

In this case, one has to pause a moment to recall just who is buried here.

Some of the more elaborate tombs one sees in churches and cathedrals were erected in the lifetime, and at the expense of the person to be commemorated, who took this means of making sure he—for it was usually a man—would be remembered in a manner pleasing to himself. There were times, however, when he had the mortification of seeing his tomb despoiled, especially during the Civil War, by roving bands of soldiers, either Roundheads or Cavaliers. There is a splendid tomb in Peterborough Cathedral, England, which has been desecrated in this manner, and which remains, for all to see, exactly as it was left by the Roundheads over 300 years ago.

One also meets with tombs with rather loquacious inscriptions of which the the following, copied from a stone in York Minster, is an excellent example:

DIED on April 24th 1812 at her home in Charles St., near Berkley Square, London—where she resided alternately with her seat at Beckham Grove, Surrey, for a period above thirty-five years happy and respected—after an illness of three weeks, at midnight 24th of April 1812, in the presence of all her five children, and of three of her old and faithful attendants, in the 75th year of her age, the Rt. Hon. Lora, Burton Downey, Viscountess Downe Widow of John Downey, 4th Viscount Downe, Mother of the 5th Viscount and other children, and only child and heiress of Wm. Burton, Esq., of Tashwell, Rutland, by his wife Elizabeth Pitt, daughter of George Pitt Esq., of Strathfieldsay, by his 2nd wife Lora Grey of Kingston, Dorset. For her character and other particulars see the "Gentleman's Magazine" of May 1812 from which the following is an extract:— "A real unpretending and almost unconscious good sense, and a firm desire to act right on all occasions, to the best of her ability and judgement were her most distinguishing characteristics, activity of mind and body, sound health, cheerful manners, the open confidence of an honest mind, the lively serenity of an easy conscience, with a benevolent grace, both of form and face, which even in age had not disappeared, complete the picture."

Buried at Simonth in this County.

The Hon. Marmaduke Burton Downie, 3rd son, placed this tablet, 1836, age 60 years.

Contrast this flamboyant inscription with the simple wording found on the tomb of a young girl, in the cloisters of Westminster Abbey, London. This consists of four words, and is one of the shortest epitaphs in the sacred edifice, and reads thus:

"Jane Lister Deare Child."

No date of her death, no long declaration extolling the virtues and rank of herself or family. Just the few words, "Jane Lister, Deare Child." How beautiful they are in their simplicity. "He took them up in His arms, put His hands upon them and blessed them."

Lakefield Beats Marmora To Gain OHA Semi-Finals

Percy Nicholls' Lakefield Indians defeated Marmora 8-4 last night at Civic Arena in a breath-taking struggle that had upwards of 1,800 hockey fans tingling with excitement from start to finish.

By virtue of this, their third win of a best of five series, Indians qualify to advance to the intermediate B, OHA semi-final series against outside opposition as yet unnamed.

Joe Blewett, former Peterborough star and veteran of many hectic ice wars, led his mates to a victory quite as impressive as the score indicates. The speed merchant scored three goals for the hat trick and garnered two assists as he flew all over the ice in a masterful display. Close behind was skipper Nicholls and Doug Hunter on the first line, each with a goal and two assists. Lonsberry, Henry and the veteran Les Burton potted the others.

LEADS ATTACK—Joe Blewett, speedy Lakefield forward, led the attack for the Indians here last night as they ousted Marmora in OHA intermediate "B" playoffs. Joe potted three goals and aided in two more in a fine showing.

Fast and Furious

It was a rip-roaring struggle, fast and furious throughout, leaving none disappointed who came to view. There were nine penalties in all as referees Crombie and Wally Wilson kept the boys under reasonable control and did a splendid job.

Marmora held a slight edge in the first as the teams opened at a very fast clip and goals by Ken Trumble and Baz Robinson more than offset Nicholls' tally from Blewett to give the visitors a 2-1 edge to start the second. Indians came out strong however and swept in on Borland for two quicky effective thrusts within two minutes on scores by Blewett and Hunter to take the lead which they never relinquished. Gord Henry drilled a long one midway in the session six feet outside the blue line to put him team two up on a neat pass from Peloquin, while Burton clicked on a great rush from his own blue line around the enemy defence to angle a honey past Borland to the left corner.

Fought Back

Marmora fought back hard, though outplayed in the second by a wide margin, and were finally rewarded late in the stanza as Wib Blake found the mesh on a solo effort to wind up the scoring. Lakefield pressed hard in the third fearing to take undue chances against a worthy foe as both teams turned on the steam and gave their all, as the rafters rocked with applause.

Blewett again found the mark early from Nicholls at the 15-second mark and both teams held on well defensively till midway in the period when Len Lonsberry took a lovely pass from Irwin Payne at the goal-mouth on a sparkling rush to beat Borland. Blewett's third goal followed at 12.26 on a peculiar side drive that angled in off Kerr's skate on a back skid. Hunter derw an assist. Millionaires fought hard to the finish and Glen Lavender potted his team's final tally on a neat rush with Fred Stewart at 14.55 as he fooled Atchison with a low ice cutter, from the side.

For Lakefield the first line of Nicholls, Blewett and Hunter were outstanding with a point total of 11 in a great two-way display. The veteran Les Burton played a bang-up game as did Keith Fawcett, Bud Peloquin, Len Lonsberry and Irv. Payne. The defence foursome also shone. For Marmora, every man gave his best and defeat came only after a hard fight.

Marmora—Goal, Borland; defence, Kerr and Leonard; centre, Stewart; wings, Trumble and Lavender; alternates, Loveless, McInroy, Goodchild, Webb, Robinson, Blake, Naylor, Darrah.

Lakefield — Goal, Atcheson; defence, J. Jopling and Marshall; centre, Nicholls; wings, Hunter and Blewett; alternates, Fawcett, Peloquin, Payne, Lonsberry, Burton, C. Wasson, Henry.

Marines Ousted By The Soo In Cage Series

SAULT STE. MARIE, April 1 —Soo Algos copped their third successive all-Ontario intermediate A basketball championship Friday night at the Soo Memorial Gardens before 1,500 fans. They provided a fast high calibre brand of ball to trim the Peterborough Outboard Marines 64-37 to take the series two straight. Thursday night the Algos won 61-39.

Immediately after the game secretary Myles Leeson of the OABA presented the championship cup to the Soo cagers. Doing so he told the fans and team that the Soo would have a senior cage quintet next year. The Ontario basketball association, he said, plan to make the Algos a senior squad after winning the Ontario intermediate three years straight.

Peterborough were in the game until the last moment. With the exception of the third quarter they outplayed the Algos but failed to slip the ball through the basket. On the other hand, the Algos caught the Marines without a defence time and time again, to break into the clear.

Led The Way

Led by Hugh Dibben the Marines jumped to an early 5-0 lead which laster for two minutes. The Algos started to intercept passes deep in Soo territory. This provided four breakaways for points. The quarter ended with the Soo up 11-8. Again in the second the Marines carried the play but were off the hoop. The quarter play started fast but began to drag with the cagey play of both quintets. The half ended 19-9.

Algoma went up fast early in the third on fast passing plays, taking them in close. Joe Stewart of the Marines went out with five fouls after two minutes of play. The Soo cagers kept up the pace and enjoyed a 40-35 score at quarter. Desperately the Marines tried to carve down the 17-point lead but only left themselves open. Catching them defenceless, the Algos dropped in 24 points to the Marines 14 in the last quarter.

Hugh Dibben, ex-PCVS star playing his first full game with the Marines, worked hard defensively and offensively for the star role on the Marines' lineup. Besides holding down Lukenda, star of the Algos, Dibben whipped in 13 points. Al Stewart who went out with five fouls in the fourth was good for 11 points on the night's play.

Got 15 Points

Short Shifty Siltanen of the Algos led the main line of the Soo squad with 15 points while linemates Lukenda and Lapointe each had 13 points.

Something of a record was set by referees Jim Tinkus and Jim Alford as they failed to call a three-second keyhole ruling in two games. They also handed out 47 fouls to slow up the game considerably. The Algos made 16 of their 28 foul attempts as compared with the nine good out of 19 for the Outboards.

Ab Stewart scored with a hook shot which was followed by Nicholls' set shot. Stewart got another point to give the Marines a 5-0 lead. Breaks by Siltanen, Lukenda and Lapointe quickly put the Soo up one point. Burns flipped in a foul shot to tie the score 6-6. Lapointe made a foul attempt with Lukenda dropping in a one-hander and a foul shot. Ab Stewart made a onehander and Lukenda a foul shot to end the quarter score at 11-8 for the Soo.

Fisher on a fast passing play with Harris scored the opening basket of the second quarter. Joe Stewart sent home a foul shot. Nicholl's of the Soo tossed a corner shot good. Harris broke fast near the half mark to score while Fisher ended the first half with a short onehander at 19-9 for the Soo.

Siltanen scored six points at the start of the second half on a corner shot, a breakaway and two foul shots. Lapointe added a two-pointer in close. Dibben slipped in a set shot. He and Lepointe each scored on foul shots. Nichols of the Soo was good on a break. Robertson drifted in a long shot followed by Nichols' foul shot. Al Stewart made a foul shot. Fisher scored in close on a passing play to make the score 35-13. Ab Stewart and Robertson were good on foul attempts.

Hugh Dibben sent home a back hook shot and a set shot for four points. Ab Stewart was good from the corner. Harris scored on a breakaway as did Dibben. Harris got a basket from in close. Smith ended the scoring with a foul shot.

A foul shot by Plunkett, Dibben's two baskets and Smith's one basket put the Marines' score up to 30 in the fourth. Siltanen slipped in for two points followed by a quick rush by Dadson for a basket. Lapointe sent home a corner shot followed by two foul shots. Lukenda added a foul shot and a set shot or three. Ab Stewart was good for two on a set shot. Lapointe, Lukenda, and Fisher tossed in three quick onehanders.

Ab Stewart had a point on a foul while Plunkett dropped in a hook shot. Lapointe and Siltanen each three points. Lukenda and Robertson with one each ended the scoring for the Algos. Smith ended the scoring of the game with a foul shot. Final score 64-37.

Line-ups:

Peterborough Outboard Marines—Burns 1, Gillespie, Nicholls 2, J. Stewart 1, A. Stewart 11, 4, Kozak, Kahle, Harris 6, Godfrey.

Sault Ste. Marie Algos—Nichols 5, Fisher 8, Lukenda 13, Siltanen 15, Lapointe 13, Robertson Dibben 13, Griffin, Dadson 2, Smith 4, Plunkett 3.

FINALLY MAKES IT—Roy Williams, captain of the Manitoba Bisons, realized a personal as well as a team trimuph when he collected the Hamber Trophy, emblem of western Canada senior men's basketball supremacy. Bison's took the title Thursday at Winnipeg in the third game of their series with McGrath Rockets. For Roy, the win wipes out the twice he met and bowed to Vancouver Cloverleafs while on the Winnipeg Paulins team. Smiling gentleman parting with the silverware is Dr. Harold Mitchell, Manitoba representative of the CABA.

The decision of the city council to offer the Memorial Centre committee the site by the Ashburnham Bowl—the spot immediately west of the softball diamond, where service club carnivals are frequently held—is a welcome one, indeed. As the committee has been waiting all along for a good city site, this offer will undoubtedly be accepted, and the decks cleared for early action. The work can be started at once and rushed through the summer months and into the fall, being concluded in time for the next hockey season. A $400,000 auditorium which will be a credit to the city. At this late date—oh, by the way what date is it? Yes, jolly old April 1st once more. And so a merry April Fool's Day to you all.

We are still intrigued with the St. Louis Browns' retention of Dr. David Tracy, self-styled psychologist, who is really a hypnotist. It is reported that he has been working hard on the players to build up their confidence, and that they are paying strict attention. He got their interest early by hynotizing a few of the doubters. Told one chap that his feet were stuck to the floor, and darned if the guy could lift a foot until the professor released him. An infielder was told that he couldn't lift a cigarette off a table, and the fag couldn't be budged. A few other stunts and they were convinced of the Doc's powers.

* * * * * *

Tracy builds up players' self-confidence through auto-suggestion, and the Browns feel they will benefit from his work. We wonder what would happen if he told a player he would hit a homer the next time up. Would a four-ply clout ensue? This could well be an astounding thing, breaking all records and letting the lowly Browns romp to a pennant. Of course, other clubs would hurriedly acquire themselves a hypnotist or two and the double whammies would be a-flyin' around big league ball parks as fans fell by the thousands. No, perish the thought—away with the evil eye—let the Doc have his fun, but let's not take it too seriously.

It's away to Oshawa for the Legionnaires early this evening, and the sixth game of the best-of-seven OHA senior "B" playoffs. The Ellis outfit are leading by a game and can finish it off tonight if they play that hurry-up hungry style of hockey they showed last game here. But they'll have to hustle all the way as the Millionaires will fight it out bitterly on the large Motor City sheet as elimination stares 'em in the face. Should Markham take this one, the deciding joust will be Monday night in Civic Arena. Likely a large crowd will go down tonight to see this scrap.

Lakefield Indians pranced merrily into the OHA intermediate "B" semi-finals here last gloaming as they ousted Marmora by an 8-4 score. Won their best-of-five series three games to one, so there wasn't much doubt about it. Marmora proved a game bunch of good puckists, but the star-studded Lakefield lineup was too strong and Percy Nicholls has a fine club, even with Ernie Nicholls out with an injury. Speedy Joe Blewett shows he can still hit that target as he notched three goals and had a pair of assists, whilst veteran Les Burton was strong again on defence. Whole team went well before some 1,800 city and district fans.

Neill's defeated Nurses 25-19 at the YWCA last e'en to capture the senior crown of the Girls' Basketball League in two straight games. CGE battled back into the intermediate final picture to win 21-10 from Black's and tie that series up at a game each. This will be settled next week, along with the junior sawoffs to conclude this loop. Towne Togs have their final game April 15, having a complete layoff next week. Up at the Soo last night, the male Outboard Marines dropped a 64-37 decision and lost out two straight in all-Ontario intermediate "A" finals. Just up against too strong a squad. City League playoffs will probably resume here next week-end as basketball is about over for another year.

Neill's Capture Cage Title Against Nurses

Neill's beat Nurses Srs. 25-19 at the YWCA last night to win the Girls' Basketball League senior championship in two straight games. CGE turned back Black's 21-10 to even the intermediate finals at a game each, this series to be settled next wek. Some keen basketball was served up by the rival teams in both playoff jousts.

The first game was rough in spots and close enough. CGE rolled early to rack up a 12-6 lead at the halfway mark, and they had a little margin the last half. Black's checked closely but couldn't hold off their rivals. Black's had eight fouls and CGE four. Ruth Beard led the losers with six points while Ruth Hewitt had four. Betty Stewart stood out for Electrics, scoring seven points, while Marg Kennedy and Marg Batley each had five. Teams:

Black's: R. Hewitt 4, D. McNeeley, M. McGill, R. McInroy, M. McKee, R. Beard 6, A. Hickling, C. Ferguson, M. Beggs, R. Naylor, M. Knox.

CGE: M. Kennedy 5, T. Stewart, B. Luther 2, B. Stewart 7, M. Perrin, M. Batley 5, M. Perrin 2.

Senior Tussle

Neill's took a 12-3 lead at the half in the senior sawoff, but were given a rousing battle the last two quarters. Nurses, after a slow start, rallied to outscore the champs 16-13 in a fine finish as they strove desperately to whittle down the count. Play was real fast with see-saw action and some close checking. Jean Vass, Dot Callan, Joan Dunk and Polly Stewart all shone for the victors, while Anita Davis, Joan Plunkett and Bev Pringle stood out for the losers. Teams:

Neill's: J. Vass 7, D. Callan 3, J. Dunk 7, G. Poast, D. Saunders, P. Stewart 4, M. Freeman 3, F. Floyd 1.

Nurses Srs.: J. Plunkett 4, F. Welchorek, J. Deyell 1, B. Deyell, A. Davis 9, B. Pringle 3, M. Collins 2.

Canadiens Sure Will Even Series

MONTREAL, April 1—(CP)—Montreal Canadiens are confident they will even their best-of-seven semi-final series for the Stanley Cup with New York Rangers tonight.

"We played bad hockey Wednesday night," said coach Dick Irvin. "We're bound to be better tonight because we just couldn't be any worse." The Habitants dropped their first encounter to the Rangers 3-1 at New York.

On the other hand, officials of the New York Club were reported to have developed a pattern of play that will beat the Canadiens.

Again they plan to concentrate on stopping Maurice (The Rocket) Richard and three forwards — Pentti Lund, Don Raleigh and Ed Slowinski—will be assigned to this task. The Rangers kept a sharp eye on the Rocket in their first clash and succeeded in keeping the puck away from the sharp-shooter.

Meanwhile, Irvin said he hoped that Bill (Bruiser Boy) Reay would be in the line-up for the home game. Reay, who spent more time off the ice with injuries than any other Habitant this season, did not see action in the opener.

However, nothing could be decided until the last minute tonight when the club physician will look over Reay's foot which he cut during practice last week.

Another line-up prospect is Hal Laycoe who missed the first game because of a broken nose. But again the medico will decide just before game time.

One player who definitely will not see action is Rip Riopelle who pulled a muscle in the left leg in last Saturday's workout.

Name Rocky Robillard To McGill's Staff

MONTREAL, April 1 —(CP)—Appointment of Roch (Rocky) Robillard, halfback with McGill Rugby Football Union last season, as a member af McGill's athletic department staff was announced today.

The 155-pound Ottawa student will take up his duties in the fall after he graduates from McGill's School of Physical Education. His main duties will be assistant football coach and understudy to Dave Campbell, senior hockey coach.

ROWDYISM IN SOCCER?

Over-enthusiastic spectators at Argentina soccer games had better watch out. Gen. Arturo Bertollo Friday ordered firemen with hoses and police with tear gas to attend every game of the 1950 season opening April 4. There has been too much rowdyism, attacks on referees, and rioting in the past, said the general.

Stories From The Bible

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of studies from the Old Testament. The text is condensed from selections by Houston Harte for the new book, "In Our Image." Illustration by Guy Rowe is also from the book.)

An Ahab reigned over Israel: and he served Baal, and did more to promote the Lord to anger than all the kings of Israel before him.

And Elijah said unto Ahab, As the God of Israel liveth, before whom I stand, there shall not be rain these years, but according to my word. And word of the Lord came unto him, saying, Get thee hence, and hide thyself by the brook Cherith; I have commanded the ravens to feed thee there. So he went, and the ravens brought him bread and flesh, and he drank of the brook. And after a while the brook dried up, because there had been no rain.

And the word of the Lord came unto him saying, Get thee to Zarephath: I have commanded a widow woman there to sustain thee. And when he came to the gate of the city, the woman was there gathering sticks; and he said, Bring me a morsel of bread. And she said, I have but an handful of meal, and a little oil; and I am gathering sticks that I may dress it for me and for my son, that we may eat it and die. And Elijah said, The meal shall not waste, neither shall the oil fail, until the day that the Lord sendeth rain. And she did according to the saying of Elijah: and she, and he, and her house, did eat many days.

And the son of the woman fell sick; and there was no breath left in him. And Elijah took him out of her bosom and laid him upon his bed. And he cried, O Lord, let this child's soul come into him again. And the Lord heard the voice of Elijah; and the soul of the child came into him again, and he revived. And the woman said to Elijah, Now I know that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the Lord in thy mouth is truth.

And after many days the word of the Lord came to Elijah, saying, Go, shew thyself unto Ahab; and I will send rain unto the earth. And when Ahab saw Elijah, Ahab said unto him, Art thou he that troubleth Israel? And he answered, I have not troubled Israel, but thou and thy house, in that ye have forsaken the com-

HydroManBiffed By Big Rock 150 Feet Awa

MILLBROOK April 1 (ENS) Struck by a flying rock during blasting operations in Cavan Stanley McIvor, 25, of Millbrook was taken to Civic Hospital Friday afternoon with undetermined body injuries.

Today he was said to be resting comfortably.

He was hit by the rock described as "the size of a person's fist," while standing 150 feet away. Mr. McIvor had been employed for two days with the hydro commission erecting hydro towers west of Peterborough.

The accident occurred on the farm property of L'oyd Hooton, seven miles west of the city. Mr Hooton took him to hospial and he is being treated by Dr M. E Hobbs of Millbrook.

To clear a path for tower 25 some stumps were being basted and the freak accident occurred after one of the explosions. Mr McIvor was knocked to the ground by the flying rock but retained consciousness.

His home is at the residence of William Kinsman, Millbrook.

Judge Will Sit On One Appeal

The non-jury sittings of the County Court begin Monday morning. There are no actions entered for trial but there is one appeal against a magistrate's conviction.

Albert McCaw of Smith is appealing a conviction of careless driving handed down by Magistrate W. R. Philip, KC, in city police court. McCaw was involved in a motor accident with George Charlton of Lakefield on December 9 at Reid and Concession Sts. in Lakefield.

Chief Constable Garnet Samis of Lakefield is the plaintif and Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw will present the case. W. J Arthur Fair, KC, is acting for McCaw.

Originally two other appeals were slated but legal technicaities will likey bar them from proceeding.

Monday afternoon Sih Sham Mac, proprietor of the Bluebird Cafe will receive his citizenship certificate from His Honor Judge S. L. Smoke.

CURLING CLUB CHAMPIONS—A long and successful curling season in Peterborough concludes tonight. Earlier in the week, the club championship was won by J. J. Dutton's rink, winning the Harry F. Foote Trophy, to end the long wintery schedule. Shown above, left to right, are the finalists: J. P. Torpey, R. Whalon, J. J. Dutton (skip) and C. Ferguson.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Law Association Protests Change Of Highway Act

The Peterborough County Law Association has added its voice to the protest against Bill 148 passed at the present legislature.

Known as the Highway Improvement Amendment Act, 1950, it gives the minister and deputy minister of highways power to regulate the erection of such things as signs, buildings and poles within 150 feet from the margin of the highway and 300 feet from an intersection.

In some cases, it is claimed, these might be visual obstructions.

The Peterborough branch says it is an unwarranted invasion of the property rights of individuals Further it contends that, in effect, the department expropriates these valuable strips of land adjoining the highways.

Protests are being sent to the Hon. H. R. Scott, the Minister of Highways, Premier Leslie Frost, the Attorney General and the Federation of Law Associations for Ontario.

F. D. Kerr, K.C. described the legislation as "confiscatory."

The local association went on record as being opposed to such wide discretionary powers being placed solely in the hand of the minister and his deputy. There is no redress or appeal from the department's decisions, they objected.

President Ralph Standish was in the chair.

Other affiliated law associations are sending in similar resolutions.

Examiner's Telegraph Editor Will Write About France

By JEAN E. STENTON

MONTREAL, April 1—After six months of frantic scurrying around collecting gray hairs, an unexcelled library on France, passports, money and 66 pounds of luggage, I am on my way as a globe trotter. For a quick way of reducing the waist line, I heartily recommend it.

Travelling by air is wonderful, but a train has its points. For the last two months I have been try to solve a problem by algebraic methods: how to carry enough clothes and accessories for three weeks; one typewriter, two cameras and writing supplies; and one small suitcase not more than 66 pounds all together. Sounds simple . . . but it requires the finesse of an expert mathematician. This is one time you can't beat the scales.

(This is the first in a series of articles to be written by the Examiner's Telegraph Editor, Jean E. Stenton, while in France and the United Kingdom.)

JEAN E. STENTON

There is only one thing worrying me. I fear that when the airline official sees my purse he will chide me sternly, saying: "Madam you know the regulations permit you to carry only one suitcase."

"Second Suitcase"

In my second "suitcase", in addition to the ordinary geegaws which every woman carries, I have a passport to let me into France, and out, I hope; papers to prove that I haven't stolen my typewriter and cameras en route; papers to show that I am not cheating the government out of $1,000; tickets to let me ride on the trains; a paper to show that I am not likely to be a small pox carrier; hotel reservations; and one French dictionary.

Speaking of French, I heartily recommend studying a language before going abroad. You learn such interesting things. I will be staying with a family of French friends, only one of whom speaks English. Do I quail before the difficulties looming on the horizon? No, for I have been prepared for every emergency in 21 easy lessons.

For example. I know how to fight my way into the bus that will take me from La Bourget into Gay Paree to la Gare des Invalides, the main terminals. Looking for the cloud without the silver lining, there is the possibility that my friends will not be there. Alone, and in the battle zone of alien tongues, will I falter? No, for in lesson 3, section 20, I know how to push my way with magnificent courage to the nearest telephone. Then I am set . . . except for one thing. A French telephone, earlier victims have informed me. . .is as dangerous and complicated as an unexploded mine.

Must Be Wooed

Like many French things, le telephone is tempermental and must be wooed. The appropriate method is to sneak up on the thing quietly, shut your eyes, push half the buttons in sight and whisper the number gently, gradually increasing the tonal range of the voice.

This should work. But, just in case the little machine is not in the mood for cooing French words with a Canadian accent, I have another little trick up my sleeve. All I have to do it nab an employee of the French National Railroad system, explain my predicament in my best French and let the gallant gentleman contact my friends and learn if I am to wait in the station like an abandoned refugee till they come, or take a taxi to the suburb of Pontoise. The latter suggestion is guaranteed to almost give this thrifty Frenchman heart failure on the spot.

"But the cost Mademoiselle now the subway. . ."

Then there is the method of greeting my friends when either they or I finally arrive. I wish to put my best Canadian foot forward, so I will not throw my arms around them, kiss them resoundingly and say "hi kids, it's swell to see you." Mais non. . .Instead after a formal introduction I am enchanted to see Madam and Monsieur (handshakes); I am enchanted to see their son-in-law Andre (handshake); I am enchanted to see their grandson Jacques, 2 (handshake).

After two or three days, if I am approved, I shall have the privilege of calling the younger members of the family by their first names.

Get In Practice

Since one must use the most formal handshake in one's possession, I have been practising on the resentful members of the editorial department for the last two weeks. I shall also know how to discuss the weather and what I think I want to eat.

There's nothing to it, my optimistic teacher assures me. If she isn't right, I shall demand my money back.

So, dear friends, I am on my way with all my baggage, papers and a French accent that hasn't been heard on that side of the water in a long, long time.

City Traffic Offences Double Since New Year

Traffic offences in the city have more than doubled during the first three months of this year compared with the same period in 1949. Either the offences have increased or the police have become more alert.

Police department statistics reveal there have been 319 convictions under the Highway Traffic Act in city police court this year. Last year there were 133 convictions during the corresponding period.

Break-ins have also been more prevalent this year. There were no charges or convictions for breaking-in during the first three months last year and to date there have been 17 convictions this year.

Chief Constable John Thompson remarks that break-ins always come together, there is either an epidemic or them or none at all.

Liquor offences are down a little in comparison with last year's figure. This year 52 people have been convicted of offences involving liquor. Last year's figure was 93.

Theft and receiving convictions are down to ten this year, although a total of 17 charges have come before the magistrate. Last year there were 29 convictions and 31 actual charges laid, during the first three months.

Of 186 cases of city parking by-law infringements, 127 convictions were imposed to date this year. Twenty convictions for disturbing the peace are registered.

Jaycees' Projects Win Fame All Over World

Members of Peterborough's Junior Chamber of Commerce are delighted to learn that news of their projects is spreading round the world. If anyone is sceptical they have a letter to prove it.

The direct result of this global fame is that they are being asked to find a job for a prospective Austrian immigrant.

And it all started because last summer they decided to do the city a good turn and clean out Jackson Creek.

Here's the story:

The alert Junior Chamber of Commerce International picked up the story of the Peterborough branch's civic project and publicized it. A New Zealand Jaycee magazine published it. And by a devious route, a copy of the magazine found its way into the hands of Jaycee officers in Salzburg Austria.

The upshot of this round-the-world information is that the Austrians are asking the local branch if it would care for some Austrian books, photos, newspapers, and perhaps some pen pals.

And on a more businesslike inter-club level, Dr. Konrad Endres, president of the Jaycees in Salzburg, wrote:

"We Austrian Jaycees would be very pleased to get into closer contact with your chamber and if possible carry out common projects."

The letter was written March 27 and arrived March 30.

However the chief request was for the local chamber to investigate the possibilities of finding suitable work for an Austrian Jaycee, George Groemer of Salzburg, Lingergasse 50.

Dr. Endres' letter says: "He is a real good fellow but unfortunately cannot get hold of the required work-assurance. So if you know any farmer, lumber or mining company . . . please try to get a job for him."

It was explained that the present immigration scheme does not allow an Austrian to take any other job. Previous attempts by Groemer to emigrate to Canada have been unsuccessful, the Salzburg letter states.

The matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the Peterborough Jaycees.

TRIP TO ST. LOUIS

Wm. J. Seymour of Cavan and Gordon Wray and Neil McCuaig of the E. C. Braund Stores were recently in St. Louis, Mo., visiting the research laboratories and mills of Ralston Purina Co.

SAVES $340 A MONTH

Propane gas was recently reduced one cent and a fraction from 12.4 to 11.3 a gallon. Thus according to Ross Dobbin of Utilities Commission effecting a saving of $340 a month.

TERRACE TUMBLES

The three house terrace on the south side of Sherbrooke St., east of the creek has been demolished to provide the northern entrance to the new parking area of the Loblaw (George St.) store.

PROFITS SHRINK

Every time Irving Moldaver buys anything from the Utilities Commission through Ross Dobbin the price drops and profit shrinks. The other day it was the last of the machinery in the old gas works. Mr. Moldaver's quotation was accepted, and everything was in agreement, but a day or so later the price of scrap retreated.

HIGH-PRICED POLES

Flood lighting poles cost $300 each, Ross Dobbin told the Utilities Commission Friday. Nothing was decided about flood lighting for the season but the Commission has the notion the wisest course would be to concentrate baseball at Morrow Park.

Town Planning Committee Approves Building Fourth Station On Gasoline Corners

Imperial Oil Company's application for permission to build a service station at the northeast corner of Park Hill Road and Water St. was approved by the town planning committee Friday afternoon.

It was discussed in a reference from the city council because that sector is zoned as a neighborhood shopping centre. Business already occupies the three other corners, and the zoning designation gives assent to similar use of the property to which Imperial Oil wishes to transfer the station on the west side of George St., south of the Public Library which it recently sold to the city as part of the broad site for the new city hall.

But a restrictive bylaw passed years ago by the council, expressly excludes a gasoline station from the northeast corner.

James Dutton presided at the town planning committee session with City Engineer Chalmers James Hamilton, Hubert Sills James S. Craig and Wm. Tinker present.

"We have nothing to say about the legal aspects of this application," Mr. Sills said, "but we may express approval of the function aspect."

Mr. Chalmers said the Imperial Oil plans provided a deeper setback than some permitted retail store might afford if erected there.

"The sight lines are more open for traffic," was the comment of Mr. Craig, and the consensus was that the service station did not create a traffic hazard a that highway corner. If there was any element of hazard it was apparently less than might be caused by some other business use of the property.

The house on the corner will be razed if the company receives a building permit, and there has been some suggestion that the company might buy the house on the adjoining lot to the north.

Imperial Oil intends to give the apex of the corner to the city enabling its reduction and rounding as an improved facility to traffic

Conditional to the permissive action of the council would be its request to the Ontario Municipal Board to rescind the bylaw which now prohibits the building of a service station.

42 or 43 Hours? What Shifts? Seek To Maintain Pay

The Peterborough works of the CGE and the UE are busy working out the hours of work for the production employees and their shift times. In the agreement just concluded the Peterborough workers have won the right to have their work week slashed three hours. But there was no wage increase and the maintenance of take-home-pay is good for only two of the three hours.

Should they work just 42 hours they will lose an hour's pay. And many of them feel they can't afford it.

There have been several proposals:

One, a 43-hour week—working from 7.25 a.m. until 5 p.m. with maintenance of take-home pay;

Two, a 42½-hour week—working from 7.30 a.m. until 5 p.m. with the loss of a half hour's weekly pay.

Three, a 42-hour week—working from 7.36 a.m. until 5 p.m. with loss of an hour's weekly pay.

The Company seems adamant that the 5 p.m. day shift must stand. The variable end is the time for the beginning of the day shift.

Mother Solution

Report indicate that the majority of the workers want the 43-hour week to keep their weekly pay envelopes up to their former size. And it has been suggested that the shift hours remain the same as before the agreement and the two hours be deducted Friday afternoon.

This would allow them to leave work at 3 p.m. Preliminary talks with the company indicate that such an arrangement is unlikely.

Sunday afternoon a special membership meeting will be called to deal with the problem of hours of work, and the time-table for the shifts. It will be held in the Brock Street Summer Gardens at 2 p.m.

C. S. Jackson, Canadian president of the UE, will be the main speaker.

Two From City Braille Contest

Members of the Peterborough Louis Braille Society are competing in a Dominion-wide reading contest and the contest in the first heat, between Peterborough members, was won by Earl Schwanz, 618 Roger St. and Miss Shirley Butcher, 14 Dale Ave.

These two winners will go forward to compete in a provincial heat and Ontario winners will meet winners from other provinces for the final contest.

There are two classes, one for those who learnt to read braille before the age of 20, in which Mr. Schwanz was the winner, and those learning between the ages of 20 and 40, which was won by Miss Butcher.

The contestants are required to read a 350-word piece which they have never "seen" before and a short poem which they are permitted to read over once before judging.

Threatens Jump Into Creek If Arrested

Standing on a window ledge at the back of Art Bacon's clothing store shortly after midnight, Vincent Dinneen, 22, of the River Rd. threatened to throw himself into the creek when city police constable Donald Mackay tried to arrest him.

Windows were smashed at the store and a block away on George St. Bond's clothing store had been entered through a back window and a suit and $25 in cash were missing.

Constable Mackay discovered Dinneen on the ledge when on his routine beat on Charlotte St. When the youth refused to come down from the ledge and threatened to jump into the creek, the police summoned the fire department to stand by.

Dinneen finally came down and was taken into custody to face a charge of breaking-in.

Nose At Bat

Ronald Henwood, six-year-old son of Albert Henwood, 421 Edison Ave., was treated at Civic Hospital Friday for an injury to his nose which resulted from playing with a baseball bat. X-rays showed a possible fracture, but he was able to return home after treatment.

Make Check-up On Screens Use Needle and Thread

Let's check each screen carefully. Go from room to room. Every tiny hole should be given immediate attention. For the very small breaks a needle and thread will do. Try to follow the regular line of the wires. Don't use too much thread or you will make an unattractive black spot.

For the large holes you can buy a kit of prepared patches. They usually come in packages of five, in assorted sizes from one inch up to two and one-half inches with edges frayed ready for application.

Try to get patches which will match your screens, black enamel, galvanized or copper. If you have a piece of matching screen cloth, make your own patches. Cut a piece about one-half inch larger all round than the hole. Fray the edges, push the wire through the unbroken screen, bend back the prongs. If you are using copper or bronze patches, varnish the frayed edges to prevent oxidation.

Protect Rusting Screens

Screens which show rust stains call for paint. Do not use a bush, it will clog the mesh. A piece of deep piled carpeting tacked to a wood block, covers much quicker and leaves no excess paint. Brush all stains with a stiff brush before beginning to paint. Use a good quality paint. Most people prefer black, but if you have galvanized screens you might like to use white paint. It gives almost complete privacy. During the daytime light is reflected so strongly that it is impossible to see into the house.

Bronze and copper screens should be given an annual cleaning. Scrub carefully with soap and water or wipe with benzine. Rinse, dry and give them a coat of top quality marine or spar varnish. This should be thinned half and half with turpentine. The addition of a small amount of burnt umber or chrome green, will help the metal to withstand the actinic rays of the sun.

This treatment is an absolute necessity. Neglected screens will cause metallic stains on siding and window-sills. This green discoloration is not only decidedly unattractive but almost impossible to remove.

Some screens which have been bulged by pressure can be pulled back into place by removing the moulding and retacking. This will not work for copper screens. Copper is a soft metal with very little elasticity. Once stretched, it stays that way and will have to be replaced.

Use Old Frame

Get some new screen cloth and try rescreening the old frames yourself.

Lay the old frame on some large flat surface. Remove the half-round moulding and take off the old screen. Save this for smaller windows or for patches. Place two boards about an inch thick under top and bottom of the frame. Using "C" clamps draw the frame down to the table along the unraised sides. This will produce a slight bow. Now then cut the screen cloth about an inch larger all round than tht opening. Make sure that the wires are straight along the edges.

Tack the screening securly to the top then to the bottom of the frame. Pull the wire fairly taut as you go. Use regular four-ounce carpet tacks or double-headed tacks.

When the two ends are tacked release the clamps and the screen will pull tight. Now tack the remaining two sides and cover the edges with moulding. Trim off any excess which may extend beyond the outer edge of the half round. If the frames are old, handle them carefully. Bowing them with clamps may crack the old wood, making it necessary to replace at least one side.

If yours are factory-made frames you may discover that they have been put together differently. The screen cloth was inserted into a narrow groove in the frame and anchored with a slender wood splint. Yo umay be able to repair them yourself by tacking the screen just as you did in the case of the home-made frame, but many of these screens must be returned to the manufacturer for reconditioning.

University Only For Those Who Absorb It

TORONTO, April 1 —(CP) — Education Minister Porter said Friday Ontario universities should avoid trying to give higher education to persons who can not absorb it.

University education was very different from elementary education. If it could not be done right it would be better not to be done at all. It could not be "half baked."

Grants to Ontario universities this year where increased from $3,957,000 to $4,647,000, Mr. Porter said. Grants to elementary school boards increased from $37,500,000 to $42,000,000.

C. H. Millard (CCF — York West) said the government was making sweeping education changes without reference to the Royal Commission on education appointed five years ago.

Abandon Recommendations

Although the commission had not yet reported there were important changes in organization, elimination of examinations, teachers supply and "the whole question of construction and maintenance of schools."

Mr. Porter: "That's right."

Mr. Millard: "You are abandoning the Royal Commission recommendation in this matter."

Mr. Porter: "Conceded."

Premier Frost said the commission had a "carte banche" to do its work free from influence of the goverenment.

"We are hopeful that the commission's report will be sufficiently broad and complete to give for generations to come a chart of the course to be followed."

Ottawa Removes Controls Over Building Supplies

OTTAWA, April 1 (CP)—Government control over building supplies ended Friday, the Department of Trade and Commerce announced.

The department's priorities branch—one of the last war-inspired government control divisions closed today and priority ratings were discontinued after March 31.

The department said the branch was being closed in view of the improved supply of building materials and labor.

The branch was formed early in 1940 as part of the Munitions and Supply Department to facilitate the procurement of equipment, materials and supplies by Canadian industries.

During the war and the reconversion period which followed it cooperated closely with the War Production Board and the Civilian Production Administration of the United States Government.

In 1946 a formal system of priority ratings was established to channel building materials into housing and other projects considered essential to the national economy. High rating projects included military hospitals, military health and occupational centres and civilian homes not exceeding $10,000.

Since 1946, priority ratings have been granted for the construction of 105,691 homes in Canada.

An average of 41 tons of steel is used in the construction of one mile of standard two-lane concrete highway.

Events Of Next 50 Years Force Canada Into Union

By ARCH MACKENZIE

VANCOUVER, April 1—(CP)—Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, thinks there are three possibilities in Canada's political development in the next 50 years.

At the best, few "profound or revolutionary changes" in Canadian political life; at the worst, chaos and "apalling destruction" as a result of a Communist or fascist-type world domination; perhaps most logical, subordination of Canadian internal politics to membership in a North American union "and thus in turn part of a larger territory of the western world."

"It is pure and unmitigated guess work," says Dr. MacKenzie, "to predict or think about what may happen 50 years from now in a world adrift and in revolutionary state.

Not All Guess Work

"Nevertheless, certain facts, trends and developments are evident today which, coupled with what history seems to have shown us of human beings and human behavior, give some guide to this guess work."

The university president, a professor of international law, formerly attached to the League of Nations, stresses the fact that no counry now can hope to control or direct its own fuure irrespective of the rest of the world. He says:

Whether Canada will become a battle ground in any war where the U.S.S.R. and the United States may be chief participants is a question we can't answer. What of future events in India, China, Japan, Russia or Africa?

Bound to Affect Us

"I'm certain that what happens to those countries and peoples will have a profound effect on Canada. So, too, will atomic and other scientific discoveries, bound to expand in potential.

"It verges on the fantastic to lay aside these unknowns and consider Canada's political future. But here is what I imagine should happen in development comparatively free of external influence and pressure.

"Canadians of all origins have shown pretty clearly during the last 25 years that one of their chief concerns is their own welfare and prosperity as well as the prosperity and welfare of their dependents.

"To achieve this, they seem prepared to allow and, if need be insist, that the state intervene to provide such. It seems equally clear that they desire and prefer maximum individual freedom and minimum regimentation.

Compromise

"It suggests that Canadians likely will try to get these apparently-incompatible objectives by customary Canadian compromises and devices.

"Quebec's co-operatives and those elsewhere, Saskatchewan's Socialist government which isn't socialist, Alberta's Social Credit government which isn't Social Credit, British Columbia's Hospital insurance plan, and Ontario's Provincial Hydro system are examples of compromises we have resorted to before and likely will again. . .

"Of the senate, it has been a useful institution and should be more so. I would like to think it might be appoisted from all major of years—say nine—and that it might be 'appointed' for a period parties on the basis of votes cast for those parties. . .

"In normal circumstances, Canada lends itself to a coalition of the centre in which French-Canadians and English-Canadians of a variety of views and opinions can work together.

Politics Uncertain

"For the time being, the Liberals represent this coalition and as long as conditions remain good and people relatively content they will be difficult to dislodge from their 14-year tenure.

"But Sociaism will become popular again in event of another depression. Still other major developments might make a skillful and intelligent Conservative program popular with another type of coalition. . .

"It brief, if conditions inside and outside Canada remain normal and peaceful, I do not expect many profound or revolutionary changes in the nature or character of Canadian politics.

"Unfortunately, I do not expect that we will be given this opportunity to develop peacefully and gradually.

"In my opinion, it is much more likely that world events will lead us to the necessity of becoming part of a North American union—and thus in turn part of a larger terrtory of the western world."

Universities Face Crisis

HAMILTON, April 1 —(CP) — E. C. Fox, new chancellor of McMaster University, said today that a financial crisis, developing for years, now has fallen upon Canadian universities. Failure to solve it adequately will spell disaster in less than a generation, he said.

In an address prepared for delivery at a special convocation at which he was installed as chancellor—he is the first to hold the position since the offices of chancellor and president were separated—he said:

"That the state should be vitally interested in the financial problems of universities will surely be approved by all. State funds appropriated to undergraduate training would much more usefully serve humanity than in the case with some appropriations currently being made in other directions."

The chancellor predicted that university attendance will never recede to the enrolments of the years before the Scond World War. More and more young people were aware of the advantages of the trained mind.

As his first official act, chancellor Fox conferred honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws on Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice- chancellor of McGill University; Kenneth W. Taylor, assistant Deputy Minister of Finance; and A. H. Gordon, president in 1946 of the American Association of Physicians.

Simplicity Key Factor In Good Architecture

When you decide to build, choose the style of house you want. Avoid a design which combines several different styles. Simple lines and good balance usually produce a good design. There should not be too many distracting features.

The style of the exterior may be influenced by the floor plan. Conversely, the floor plan can influence the exterior appearance. It is advisable to consider whether the style of architecture selected suits your desired room arrangement. Simple plans allow the most freedom in interior design.

The proportions between the width, length and height of the exterior walls should be well balanced. The size and placing of doors and windows should be studied in relation to the size and proportion of the house. Care must be taken that the different parts of the design harmonize.

If the house is set low on the ground, it is more likely to be attractive. By fiting it to the natural topography of the ground, the best appearance is achieved. Concentrate on simplicity using only one or two materials for the exterior finish. Too many different materials often distract the eye. However, combinations are sometimes usefully employed to reduce height or to attain an effect of solidity. Planning, which permits the use of stock sizes of materials, eliminates needless expense.

The house should be suited to your way of living. It is also part of the neighborhood. If the structure and color scheme blend with the surrounding houses, the neighborhood value is enhanced.

Nfld. Battles Sales Problem

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 1 — (CP)—Newfoundlanders, who became Canadians just a year ago are getting more and better social Security but are having trouble selling their natural products abroad, Premier Smallwood said in a radio address Thursday night.

Glancing over the debit and credit sides of Newfoundland's first years as Canada's 10th province, the premier said the island now has more social-security benefits than at any time in the previous century.

A total of 150,000 children received family allowances worth $10,000,000, more than the whole of Newfoundland's fisheries were worth 10 years ago.

Another $5,000,000 went out in old age pensions to 10,000 pensioners.

On the debit side Mr. Smallwood said "we are finding it difficult to sell our fish, pulp and paper, and iron ore because of the shortage of dollars in Europe." Both provincial and federal governments were bending their efforts to solve the problem.

He said the government is about to start assessing the exact value of Newfoundland's resources so that persons who have the money can be induced to come to Newfoundland and put it to work.

DEFENCE TALKS — Maj.-Gen. Guy V. Henry of the United States, left, and Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada, co-chairman of the Canada-United States Joint Permanent Defence Board, are shown as they emerge from the opening session of the March 29 meeting at Montreal. They said the meeting was proceeded on a "highly satisfactory level". The conference was believed to have been called to discuss the future of American bases in Newfoundland.

Baby Born In Hospital By Flashlight Only

HEARST, Ont., April 1 —(CP) —A baby was born by flashlight Thursday night at St. Paul's Hospital, which has had very little heat and a wavering supply of electricity for the last two weeks, owing to a coal shortage.

Nurse Ruth Dunn, of Windsor, completed the delivery of the daughter of Mrs. Fortier after the lights failed.

Hospital authorities said power has not yet failed during an operation. The hospital has been drawing power from a small Diesel plant it shares with the entire community, but the unpredictable power surges have burned out the X-ray machine and refrigerators.

The hospital has received no coal since the recent soft coal strike in the United States. A shipment Thursday was reported en route from Timmins to Hearst.

Scot Not Tight Just "Frugal"

LONDON, April 1 (Reuters)—Charles McNaught, self-described as "a frugal Scot," told reporters that he had kept and now was using a 1939 pocket diary, because the days and dates concided with those for 1950.

Other claims by McNaught: His cigaret lighter was bought for eight cents in 1907. He makes his own cigarets because, he says, manufacturers use saltpeter and barium suphate to speed combustion uneconomically.

He stopped drinking whisky when the price went up, and he refuses beer because taxes are high and alcoholic content too low.

He is a bachelor.

Boy Finds Father Crushed By Log Load

NORTH BAY, April 1 —(CP) — A boy on his way home from school Thursday found the body of his father crushed beneath a sled-load of logs at Rutherglen, 20 miles east of here.

Elmo Smith, 43, had been killed when his sled jack-knifed, throwing him onto the ground. The heavy load slipped from the sleigh and crashed down on him.

The tragedy was less than 500 yards from his home.

His son, Roy, found the body.

Mennonites To Help Build Leper Colony

KITCHENER, April 1 —(CP)— Building a leper colony for about 200 of whom are properly cared for, is the latest project of the Mennonite Central Committee of North America said Cornelius J. Dyck, director of the South American program of the Mennonite Central Committee today.

Visiting the Canadian Headquarters of the Mennonite Relief Agency here, Mr. Dyck said the leper colony will be a "thank you" to Paraguay for accepting 5,000 Mennonite refugees from Europe since the war.

Meeting Follows Communion

Lenten meeting of All Saints' Women's Church Year, held Thursday afternoon, was preceded by the celebration of Holy Communion in the church, with the rector, the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, the celebrant. He gave an address on the solemnity and important meaning of the service, of the family spirit, which it is hoped will continue to grow in the community. There were approximately 72 ladies present. It was moved that Easter greeting cards be sent to the sick and shut-of $15.00 and clothing is being sent in members of the parish. A gift to a children's home in Quebec, and a congregational tea is scheduled for June 14th. Collection for the month amounted to $175.22. Refreshments were served by Mrs. E. Border and her group.

FOR THE CENTENNIAL TEA on Friday afternoon, Local Council of Women went deep into attic trunks and produced dresses and costumes of varying ages, up to 150 years. Standing before a decorative painting entitled "Century of Progress" are Mrs. Jos. Henderson in 100-year-old costume, Mrs. K. Simpson wearing gown 53 years old, Mrs. W. Flowers in dress bought for royal visit to the city 90 year ago and Mrs. H. T. Rehill modelling the oldest dress of all.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Centennial Tea First Big Social Affair Of Peterborough's 100th Anniversary

Not since pre-war years have members of Local Council of Women entertained on such grand scale as at the Centennial Tea on Friday afternoon in the YWCA Green Room. No amount of energy was spared to make the event a success — and a tremendous triumph it was, socially and financially. Undoubtedly they will recall and talk over this tea when celebrations are being planned 50 years hence,—yes maybe even in 2050.

Clothes being so near to every woman's heart and teas being, for the most part, women's affairs, it is the gowns that will particularly stand out in memory. Tea assistants were showing a parade of fashion that stretched not only from 1850 to 1950, but back to 1800, and all but the late model dinner gowns have a bit of history that is interesting to know.

The oldest dress, quaintly styled of fine black satin with ample fullness of bodice and skirt neatly gathered at the waistline, was worn in 1800 by Mrs. Stewart who later came from Ireland and settled in what is now called "Stewart Hall community." It was modelled by Mrs. H. T. Rehill who topped it with a small bonnet of black lace.

One hundred years ago an English dressmaker painstakingly put many thousands of stitches into a black silk taffeta suit, and she finished the skirt with front panels loose from waist to hem so they can be caught up on the arm and thus hold the skirt out of the way when walking—an idea that could be so advantageously copied in today's evening gowns. This dress with bead trim has withstood the century and is now the property of the owner's granddaughter Mrs. H. E. Dunford, daughter of Mr. W. C. Nelson of Peterborough. Mrs. Jos. Henderson wore it to the tea and also wore her own antique jewelry—a sapphire ring and a gold chain 75 years old, and a gold locket 50 years old.

When royalty visited Peterborough in 1860 (King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales) Mr. John Carnegie was a member of parliament, so for this occasion his wife got an elaborate black silk taffeta dress that is trimmed with lace and has a slight train on the full skirt. His great-niece Miss Ruby Quartermaine has this heirloom now and she loaned it to be worn at the tea by Mrs. Walter Flowers. A chain and locket 100 years old and a 50-year-old gold bangle were Mrs. Flowers' choice in jewelry and she fashioned her hat to represent the style of that period.

Most gorgeous of the old-style gowns was worn by Mrs. W. F. Connall. Of taupe silk taffeta and made in 1870 style with a wired bustle and frills of the material trimming the sleeves and edging the hemline and train, it was the fashionable wedding dress of her mother-in-law. Interesting details of the design were a watch pocket neatly concealed in the bustle folds.

Grey brocaded silk fashioned the handsome gown that is 60 years old which was worn by Mrs. B. F. McNeely. Her hat of tuscan straw trimmed with corded silk ribbon and large white plume is 74 years old but it looked quite like a new spring bonnet.

Mrs. Karl Simpson wore a gown of her mother's made of pure silk corded faille in deep mauve shade, brought from the Old Country in 1895 by her father. It was trimmed with fine lace and was worn only for weddings and gala occasions. Mrs. Simpson also wore a "carbuncle" bracelet and an antique bracelet, and she completed her outfit beautifully with a headdress of purple ostrich plumes.

In her very own dress Mrs. J. M. Fanning displayed the 1905 style when attention was given soft sheer material like this lovely black eolienne made up with insertions of lace and matching lace mittens. Her small bonnet, typifying "lavender and lace" is 60 years old and she wore an antique gold chain and brooch.

Of the 1910 era there was a morning and an afternoon dress. Mrs. F. W. Lundy who had her hair styled in the chignon effect of that day touched off with a small bow, was dressed in black-dotted white muslin which had black lace trim and insertion. The frock had been made and worn by her mother-in-law, an English tailoress, married to a tailor who worked at his profession in this city. The accompanying petticoat was partly made of sugar-bag cotton that still shows the printing and had a deep cotton lace flounce. To make it an afternoon gown, Mrs. Lundy wore a short black silk cape with bead embroidery trim.

Mrs. M. Moncrief's 40-year-old dress was of georgette and shot taffeta in blended grey and blue and featured last year's "new" style floating panels. With it she wore the original accessories, an eggshell lace shawl, crossed at the waistline and fastened with an antique pin, and a lace headdress, something like jabot ,topped with a blue fabric flower.

Mrs. Gordon Rutherford displayed the dinner gown she bought in 1925. With the waistline set way below normal and the skirt much shorter than had ever been worn previously, it was made of black sheer chiffon and trimmed in an all-over design.

Quide modern was Mrs. H. Tremaine's 1930 dinner gown of green chiffon and lace. Mrs. W. H. Morton was in a 1940 blue taffeta gown and she wore a becoming black lace hat of 1920 style. Mrs. E. B. McWilliams topped her black crepe gown with a pilliasse that is more than a century old and designed for herself a bonnet style hat trimmed with a huge white ostrich plume, combining the gay nineties and mid-twentieth century craze.

Antiques of interest decorating the room included a silk shawl from the family of Walter Scottt, son of Adam Scott, which is now owned by the latter's great-granddaughter Mrs. H. E. Dunford, a brass coffee urn and spirit lamp from the Williams family and a silver water pitcher more than 100 years old. Modern as tomorrow was a "foam plastic" decoration in the form of a white sleigh but thoughts went back to the "good old days" before cars and snowplows when someone tucked in a fur lap robe.

The big moment of the afternoon, which caused the majority of 450 guests to be in the room at one time, was cutting of the 100-year cake by Mayor M. J. Swanston also in the presence of ex-mayors Mr. A. A. McIntyre, Mr. W. Taylor, Mr. G. A. McDonald, Mr. James Hamilton and Mr. W. G. Ovens.

Presiding at the tea table, which was dainty and charming with a satin damask cloth interwoven with pink and blue roses, and pink carnations in a fluted china boyl, were Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. McDonald, Miss Florence Hamilton and Mrs. Ovens.

Mrs. A. E. Barrie played softly on the piano throughout the tea hours while other members of the Council attended to guests.

Tea room hostesses were Mrs. E. Wand, Miss M. Ferguson, Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Mrs. W. Addyman, Mrs. G. K. Fraser, Mrs. Jas. Dutton, Mrs. B. F. McNeely. Those serving were Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. F. Merrett, Mrs. Don Hill, Mrs. J. Wood, Mrs. H. R. Scott, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, Mrs. E. Birdsall, Mrs. F. W. Lundy, Mrs. Lyda Telford, Mrs. W. F. Connall, Mrs. W. Flowers and Mrs. G. Rutherford. Plates were replenished by Mrs. A. W. Nelson and Mrs. C. M. Scott and food supplies were supervised by Mrs. M. Drysdale and Mrs. C. Olaveson.

A home-baking table was attended by Mrs. H. E. Dunford, Mrs. Jos. Henderson, Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, Mrs. A. B. Collis and Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Harold Mesley.

The tea was convened by Mrs. E. B. McWilliams with assistance of vice presidents, Mrs. G. K. Fraser, Mrs. H. E. Dunford, Mrs A. A. McIntyre, Mrs. M. Moncrieff, and Mrs. A. Leach, treasurer Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy, publicity convener Mrs. W. H. Morton and recording secretary Mrs. A. W. Nelson.

President Mrs. Wm. Steinkrauss was assisted in receiving by Mrs. M. J. Swanston and Mrs. J. M. Fanning was at the treasurer's table.

Telegrams from the Hon. Iva C. Fallis and the Hon. J. J. Duffus, now attending the Senate session in Ottawa, and from Mr. G. K. Fraser MP and the Hon. H. R. Scott MPP, were read during the tea.

What's Right

Someone starts to tell you a funny story, which you have heard before.

WRONG WAY: Let him tell it and then say: "I heard it with a slightly different ending."

RIGHT WAY: Don' take all the fun out of the telling of it by admitting that you've heard it before.

Round the World She Works At Varied Positions

HAMILTON, Bermuda, (CP)— A 27-year-old Englishwoman, working her way around the world, will leave Bermuda soon on the next stage of her adventurous journey.

For the last six months, Joe St. Clair has been working as a waitress in a Hamilton tea shop. When she leaves, she'll have a ticket for the island of St. Kitts in the West Indies, a travelers cheque for her wages and tips.

Coupled with her willingness to work, that will be enough, she believes.

On Litte Money

She has traveled before without much money—to Canada, the United States and parts of the Near East.

After traveling through St Kitts and other parts of the West Indies, Miss St. Clair hopes to visit Miami, New Orleans and New York and then on to Vancouver. After that, she plans to visit New Zealand and South Africa.

Miss St. Clair says she's not afraid of roughing it. Her big regret is that when she joined the Auxiliary Territorial Services — the women's branch of the British Army—during the war, she was too young—19—for foreign service.

"I always wanted to strike out on my own," she says. And she did.

Her early travels took her to Canada. Without money, she supported herself for part of a winter in Montreal by shovelling snow. Later she looked after a child in Ottawa while the father was away. In Toronto she looked after three children. In British Guiana she has made arrangements to work on a farm.

CGIT Doings

Knox

Members of George St. CGIT were guests this week when Knox group entertained at a "hard times" party. The girls wore clothes befitting the occasion and sat on newspapers instead of chairs as a hearty sing-song was enjoyed. Oryce McIlraith presided during a short business period. The rest of the evening was spent playing games and folk dancing. Miss Agnes McNab, of George St., and Joan Byers, of Knox were in charge. Chocolate milk and cookies were served.

Murray St.

Joan Naish was in the chair when reports were given by the secretary, Barbara Mann, and treasurer Elaine Osborne. Marion Pogue introduced the guest speaker, Miss Nell Schell, formerly of Holland. Mis Schell, having taught in Dutch schools, and having done translating for Canadian soldiers when they were in Holland, is well qualified to tell of the hardships suffered by displaced persons during the war. The girls were much interested in hearing of different costumes worn in Holland and that beds for the poorest families are made in the walls of the houses. Few of the group had understood that people known here as "DP's" come from the eastern side of Europe, while immigrants are from the western part. Mrs. E. L. Horning had brought a pair of Dutch shoes, some money pieces, a spoon made from coins and also a plaque with a Dutch lion on it, to show to the girls. A short time was sepnt on studying Baptist foreign missions before the meeting closed with taps. Joy Arnott reported.

St. Poul's

Mary Irwin reported that after opening the meeting with games, the following girls were chosen to attend the meeting of Girls' Council next week, Jean Smith, Josie McMeekin and Dawn Jackson: Plans were made for the Easter Sunday evening service when it was decided to send letters to all the CGIT group in the city. It was moved by Mary Irwin, seconded by Dawn Jackson, that the WMS groups of St. Paul's, two members of the Peterborough Girls' Work Board and Mrs. Hall, the Junior Work secretary, be invited to attend this service It was moved by Christian Monk, seconded by Dawn Jackson, that the group rent the recreation room at the YWCA for a dance, to which Murray St. CGIT will be invited. Christine Monk then introduced Miss Verna Johnston who spoke on different makes of chinaware.

Trinity

Members of Joan Krogh's group were in charge of the devotional period and used the worship centre they had just completed. Marie Nesbitt read the poem "The Upward Road" as a call to worship. The scripture was read by Anne Lancaster and Lola Jane Buckland gave the prayer. Joan Krogh read the story "The Sympathy of Jesus." Joan Henry, in absence of the president, was in the chair for the business when it was decided to give $20.00 to special objects and $5.00 to Trinity WMS. It was moved by Carol Hughson and seconded by Janet Hughson that reaffliation service be held on April 24. Wash cloths were given out and were hemmed during the meeting.

Carol Hughson presided during the meeting of Junior Group. Anne Grant, Gail Patterson, Anne Lancaster and Lola Jane Buckland were chosen to be in charge of making Easter baskets for the Children's Aid Society, and each girl is to make one pound of candy for these baskets.

Pathfinders decided to hold a party during the Easter holidays and Joan Watson, Joan White and Dorothy Woodcock were named a committeeto plan this. The girls decided to cancel their meeting next week and attend the lecture by Dr. Cliffe in George St. Church.

Combined Choirs To Present "The Crucifixion"

"The Crucifixion," a meditation on the Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer. By John Stainer, a work of perennial devotional and musical interest, is being presented Sunday evening at 8.30 o'clock in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church by the combined choirs of St. Paul's Presbyterian and Trinity United Churches.

Stainer's Crucifixion, as it is familiarly called, has been a favorite with choirs ever since it was first published in 1887. The text has been taken partly from the Bible and is partly original having been selected by the Rev. Sparrow-Simpson. The music is melodious and has been laid out by one who understood intimately the problems of choral writing.

The composer avoids complexity and writes with a keen sense of effect: this puts it well within the reach of choirs who do not possess the time and resources to tackle more ambitious works. Some modern critics are apt to decry it as Victorian and sentimental, but it is still as popular as ever and would appear to have a greater claim to being "Gebrauchsmusik" (Utility Music) than the works of Hindemith.

People are at last beginning to appreciate the solid worth of the Victorian age after the reaction of the Twenties Sunday night's preformance should prove inspiring to the general public and cultivated musicians alike.

Virtue Often Unrewarded Gratuitous Act Penalized

Dorothy Dix

The reason there are not more kind, generous, sympathetic people in the world is because you can't be kind, generous and sympathetic to anybody once, and then be done with it. You have to make a continuous performance of it. The minute you begin to help an individual he gets out his marking iron and brands you as his goat. Lend your automobile to a friend one time, and ever after he feels privileged to use it when he wants it, and he soon considers that you are imposing upon him when you use the car yourself.

Donate $50 to a charity, and they assess you a hundred dollars for it the next time they make up their budget.

It is things like these that turn the milk of human kindness in our breasts into ice cream, and that makes us dare not extend a helping hand to those in trouble for fear they will turn into old men of the sea who will climb on our backs and of whom we cannot rid ourselves.

Show Self Easy Mark

It would seem that gratitude would make those to whom we have been kind show their appreciation by forbearing to trouble us further and make them mark some other individual for their victim the next time they were staging a hold-up. Not so, however. Not at all so. The very fact that we have shown ourselves easy marks makes us their perpetual target.

You pay a poor widow's rent for her for a few months. She doesn't say: "Mr. A. has been so kind and generous to me that I will not impose upon his liberality any farther. I will hustle around and try to get the money myself, and if I can't, I will ask somebody else to help me out."

Oh, no. Having once paid her rent, the poor widow not only expects you to do it until the end of the chapter, but soon begins to complain because the house isn't in a better neighborhood, and has not pink bathtubs.

There is no truer saying than that if you lend a friend money you lose your friend and your money both, and that is what makes many of us who would like to help a friend over a hard place snap shut the padlock on our pocketbooks.

For well we know that when the time comes to pay John won't think how good and kind we were to lend him the money. He will think what Shylocks we are to make him return it.

In fact, lending is so often a boomerang that flies back and annihilates the poor, kind-hearted simp of a lender, who was trying to help out some needy individual, that it is no longer indulged in by prudent people. Only the other day a friend of mine said to me: "I know a poor young couple of newlyweds who are just starting to keep house. They have scarcely a stick of furniture, and I would just love to lend them enough to make them comfortable, but I dare not do it because I tried that once, and it made me mortal enemies.

"I was going to Europe and lent a friend who had no furniture all of my old mahogany and my Oriental rugs. She used them for three years, and when I came home and took back my things instead of appreciating what I had done for her she reproached me with having stripped her house and left it bare, and to this day she feels that I have robbed and defrauded her, and she has never forgiven me for it."

Parasite Guests

It is the same way about taking anybody into your house. If you live in the South, you can't ask poor old Aunt Sally, who has a weak throat, to come and spend the winter with you in a mild climate. She won't thank you for giving her a nice winter and go north with the birds in the spring. She is camped in your spare bedroom for the balance of her life.

If you live in a city you dare not ask your country cousins to come and make you a little visit at a certain specified time because if they get their feet in the door you will do nothing thereafter but run a free hotel. For they will descend on you bag and baggage every time they want to have their adenoids out or go shopping or see a new play or have a little change that won't cost them anything.

And, having once established the precedent of taking care of your family, you are sold into slavery for the balance of your days. When Father dies and the support of the family falls on the oldest son or daughter, do the younger children say: "We must hurry up and study hard and fit ourselves to become self-sustaining so that we can take the burden off poor, generous Sam or patient Susan?"

No. They idle and loaf, and demand to be sent to college and to have fine clothes, and they let the poor old work horses toil on, and they feel themselves terribly ill-used because Sam and Susan don't make more money.

Why, I know one man who supported a pack of relatives for 20 years, and when he finally told them that they would have to look out for themselves because he was going to get married, they were perfectly outraged!

Virtue its own reward? More often it's its own penalty!

Prices Too High For Most Shows Movies Advised

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 1 (AP)—Everybody has two businesses—their own and the movie business.

This is an old Hollywood saying. It expresses the common behalf that everyone likes to kibitz on Hollywood.

Well, what's wrong with the movie business?

Here are some points which I feel have put the movie industry in its present predicament:

1. Theatre prices are too high for most family budgets.

2. Re-releases of old pictures, not advertised as such, have soured many theatregoers. Only the best old pictures should be brought back, and clearly labelled.

3. Double features have been badly handled. They should be arranged for a well-rounded entertainment. Instead, we see such bills as "The Heiress" with "All The King's Men," two long and heavy films.

4. Theatres make little effort to get customers in at the beginning of a picure. Coming in during the middle can ruin even the best pictures for movie fans.

5. Producers are too often caught in cycles. Instead of trying new things, they imitate what has been successful.

6. Producers have too often placed star values above story values.

7. Misbehaving personalities have often been rewarded with stardom and contracts, with the resulting bad publicity.

8. Public relations have been generally shortsighted. Hollywood has always been more concerned with selling stars and pictures rather than itself.

9. Producers have too often underestimated their audience. In catering to the young trade, they have lost a large part of their older fans.

Peak Intelligence Likely Found In Office Girl

TORONTO, April 1 —(CP)— When a girl leaves school and takes a position in an office, she is probably above normal in learning capacity, a Canadian education association report said today.

But if the girl is attracted to a sales job, her learning capacity is slightly below normal. If she takes a factory job, her capacity to learn is lower still.

The report covered a study made by the association's research committee, a joint undertaking by education, business, industry and labor with the general purpose of studying high-school education in relation to present-day needs, especially the needs of persons who go directly from school to employment.

Entitled "Your Child Leaves School," the report covers a study of 12,124 graduates and 14,219 persons who "dropped out" of Canadian secondary schools during 1948.

The report said that the greatest number of girls taking transportation and communication jobs, including telephone operators, are "considerably" below normal in learning capacity; and that boys taking office jobs are above normal in their learning.

ACCIDENTS COSTLY

Property damage in Ontario motor vehicle accidents in 1949 was equal to the value of 4,000 new cars.

Oscar Peterson Makes Hit In Bop City Run

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, April 1 (CP)—The applause of jive-conscious patrons rang through bop city the last few days in appreciation of the playing of Oscar Peterson, billed as Canada's No. 1 pianist.

The Montreal-born negro has just completed a two-week engagement at this night spot on Broadway.

Peterson, who says his father started teaching him to play the piano when he was only five, didn't rely exclusively on jazz to win the customers' plaudits.

"I've experimented with some semi-classical compositions of my own and two of them, 'Concerto For Trio, and 'Bolero In Black,' turned out to be the most popular numbers," he said in an interview.

A mountain of a man—he stands 6 feet 1½ inches and weighs 285 pounds — Peterson discussed his musical career while he ate an appropriately-husky steak.

Musical Taste

"I like both classical and jazz music; one serves as a remedy or balance for the other. "After the modern music, it's nice to go back and hear classical works."

At bop city, where he was playing his first engagement in the United States, he headed a trio including two American musicians, Major Holley on base and Charles Smith on drums. In Canada, he leads a three-man aggregation including Auston Roberts on base and Clarence Jones on drums.

Peterson came to New York from a six-week engagement in Toronto and has made concert tours across Canada.

He is married and has two small daughters, Lynn, aged 2, and Sharon, ho will be a year old in a few weeks.

Asked to pick his choices as to the top players in the "bop" category, he named Dizzy Gillespie and Mies Davis on trumpet; Charles Parker on alto-saxophone; Hank Jones on piano; Ray Brown on base and Max Roach on drums. As for "sweet" music, his selections were the George Shearing Quintet, the King Cole Trio, and Claude Thornhill "for big bands."

"For all-round musical aggregation I'd pick the Duke Ellington musical orchestra," he concluded

BROWN—In loving memory of Mrs. Robina Brown, who passed away April 1, 1949.
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright,

No thought of self, but of "the other,"
I know he said, "Well done, dear Mother."

First War Vets To Hold Reunion

Former mmebers of the 38th Battalion CEF Association will hear Commander Hubert E. Strange, OBE, speak on April 8 at the annual meeting of the Association.

Several of the vets who served with the 38th in the First World War are residents of the Peterborough area. And a special invitation has gone out to them to attend the annual meeting, 7:30 in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

On the agenda will be a dinner, motion pictures and an address by Commander Strange. And of course, the pleasure of meeting old comrades.

Ernest Miles of the dinner committee remarked: "Each year sees a lessening of our numbers and we would like to get together—with as many as possible at this time."

Commander Strange was born in British Honduras and during the First World War trained at the Royal Naval Colleges at Osborne and Dartmouth. An eye defect led to his discharge in 1918. He travelled extensively and settled in Canada in 1929.

In 1942 he entered the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and was later promoted to Commander and awarded the OBE.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

ONE COLOR FOR TRUCKS

Gordon Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, is proposing blue as the selected color for the department's automotive fleet. Hydro trucks are red, Bell Telephone green and "the city is anything".

V. S. MILBURN HERE

Peterborough milk producers reaffirmed Friday night their decision of February 1949 to collect two cents per 100 lbs. of milk instead of one cent for association purposes. Vivian S. Milburn, secretary of the local whole milk men, was down from Toronto discussing chiefly dairy prospects.

EXTRA HIGHWAY PATROL

Anticipating a heavy exodus by motor of hockey fans this evening, going to Toronto or Oshawa for playoff games, the provincial police here plan extra patrols along the highway. They warn they will be on the lookout for speeding, cutting-in and for drivers under the influence of liquor, and that the patrols will be maintained through the night.

Gas Pipe Debate

OTTAWA, April 1 (CP)—The Commons engaged in another debate on western gas pipe lines Friday night, but still made no headway. Opposition by Progressive Conservative members continued to block a House decision on a private bill to incorporate Alberta Natural Gas Company, which proposes to build a pipe line from the Alberta fields to British Columbia.

Graziano Draws With Janiro

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP)—Rocky Graziano still is the magic box-office name in boxing even though some of the dynamite may have gone out of "Golden Boy's right-hand bombs.

The former middleweight champion unlimbered his mighty right time and again at handsome Tony Janiro Friday night but not once could he bring down the game, comeback kid from Youngstown, O.

At the end of 10 rounds of brawling in Madison Square Garden, Rocky, a 5-to-12 favorite, had to settle for a draw with his 22-year-old rival. Janiro took the first half of the fight and Rocky captured most of the rounds in the final half.

"I couldn't get off," said the crestfallen New Yorker. "The kid takes a good punch, but I never nailed him right. What I need is a couple more fights to loosen me up."

"I thought I beat him," said Janiro, the reformed playboy who is back in the money again. "I'd like to fight him again. I'll take him for sure then. I hurt my right hand in the third round and it pained me when I used it."

A return bout is just what Harry Markson, director of the promoting International Boxing Club, would like to put on when the circus pulls out of the Garden in May.

Rocky, making his first fighting appearance in the Garden in four years, pulled in the biggest boxing crowd (16,983 cash customers) and richest gate (81,049 at a $10 top) of the winter season here.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Montgomery Maids came from behind in the last half to defeat Montreal Olympics 44-31 at Toronto Friday night in the first game of their Eastern Canada senior women's basketball final. The Olympics, fromthe Point St. Charles Athletic Association, had led 20-18 at the halfway mark. The second game will be played at Toronto tonight.

After half time Toronto gained a lead that was never lost. The Maids finished the third with a score of 30-26 then romped away from their opposition in the last quarter to outscore Montreal 14-5.

Duncan Stewart MacCorquodale, prominent in English and Scottish soccer circles before coming to Canada, died at Kingston Friday. From 1897 to 1902 he played with some of the first division teams and was captain of the Port Glasgow Athletic Club team in 1901 when it captured the Scottish Football Association trophy. A resident of Kingston since 1913, he was superintendent of the Canadian Shipbuilding and Engineerig Company prior to retirement in 1949.

George Fazio led Ed Furgol by three strokes Friday at the half way mark of the $10,000 Wilmington Azalea open tournament at Wilmington, N.C. Fazio, first day leader from Washington, scored a four-under par 68 for a 36-hole total of 135. Furgol, the Royal Oak, Mich., pro, turned in his second straight 69 over the 6,652-yard Cape Fear Country Club course for 138.

Hal Newhouser may learn tomorrow what's wrong with his pitching arm. Detroit Tigers' star southpaw will undergo a series of X-rays of his upper arm and shoulder. Pain which has permitted Newhouser to pitch only two innings in spring exhibition games is centred in his left shoulder.

John Marshall, a sleek package of swimming dynamite from Australia, knocked off two world records in a single race Friday night at New Haven, Conn., in winning the 220-yard free stroke in the United States AAU championships for his second individual crown. Marshall ripped through the 200-metre free style in 2:04.6 and the 220 yards in 2:05.5, both faster than anyone ever swam the distance before. Joe Verdeur, of Philadelphia, lowered another world standard when he was timed in 2:38.3 for the 200-metre breast stroke.

The Professional Golfers' Association of the United States said Friday night at Chicago that most of its headline tournament stars are planning to bolt the organization and form their own group. The player revolt, apparently aimed against PGA operation of tournaments, has been boiling within the ranks since the Phoenix open last January. Tom Crane, PGA executive-secretary, said.

Campbell Issues Warning to Brawling Leafs, Wings

TORONTO, April 1 (CP) — A stern warning of drastic action to prevent conduct which may bring disrepute to the game of hockey hung over Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs today.

The warning came from Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League as the scene of action in the deadlocked best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final between the two teams swung to Toronto for the third game tonight.

In a 400 word statement issued Friday night, Mr. Campbell proposed two steps to stop players from pursuing private vendettas arising from feuds over "real and imaginary" grievances after the first two games of the series at Detroit where the Leafs won the opened 5-0 and the Wings the second 3-1.

Takes Two Steps

1. ". . . I have decided that the standby referee assigned to tonight's game will act as a linesman instead of watching from the stands. In this way he will be immediately available on the ice for consultation by the referee-in-charge, and under the rules the referee has full authority to act on the strength of any observations made by the linesman."

2. "I have given instructions to the referee that any penalized player who fails to proceed promptly to the penalty box when ordered will receive an additional misconduct penalty regardless of whether he is the captain or alternate captain."

The president called a conference for today of officials and the rival coaches—Tommy Ivan of the Red Wings and Clarence (Hap) Day of the Leafs—"at which any possible misunderstandings will be cleared up."

More Drastic Action

His statement closed with the warning: "If these steps do not produce the desired results, more drastic action will be taken to ensure that real hockey will be played for the remainder of this series."

Mr. Campbell said he did not want to amplify his statement. However, he did make it clear that the standby referee—one usually sits in the stands in Stanley Cup playoffs in case he is needed—will act solely in the capacity of a linesman on the ice. But the referee—the president declined to name his choice—will be able to consult the linesman when he wishes.

The statement gave a hint of the form of punishment for players who fail to heed the warning: "I have instructed the officials that any recurrence of these incidents is to be dealt with to the full extent provided for in the rules, and it will be followed up by very substantial fines and suspensions if necessary."

In the series opener, the Wings lost star rightwinger Gordon Howe for the balance of the season when he hit the boards and received a broken nose and other injuries. There were claims that centre Ted Kennedy of the Leafs was responsible although Mr. Campbell at a press conference in Detroit said that no Toronto player was to blame.

Wild Donnybrook

In the second game, a wild Donnybrook broke out near the end of the second period and there was another fight in the third. The president took note of this by saying that "the stick swinging which took place in Thursday night's game in particular, has no place in the game at any time."

The two teams spent the night quietly far from the scene of tonight's action. The Red Wings were in Hamilton where they will be quartered until after the fourth game of the series in Toronto next Tuesday night. The Leafs were at their pre-season training headquarters at St. Catharines where they held a brief skating workout Friday. Both teams will come to Toronto just before game time.

Kennedy, who injured his leg when he crashed into his own goal post in the opener, was excused from the Leafs' drill but is expected to play. It is likely, too, that defenceman Jimmy Thomson will be back in action. He was unable to finish Thursday night's game in Detroit after he received a five-stitch wound when hit over the head by Detroit defenceman Leo Reise.

Stewart To Play

At Hamilton, Ivan did not list Reise among his casualties although he had a four-stitch gash in his head as the outcome of the fight. Defenceman Jack Stewart, on the injured list, is likely to play.

Ivan also took note of Toronto newspaper stories which said the Red Wings deliberately went after Kennedy in the second game. "There was no intentional attack on the part of the Detroit players" he said. "I pleaded with my men before the game to eat the puck if necessary and avoid penalties." The Toronto accounts said Kennedy was attacked as a result of statements by Ivan holding Kennedy responsible for the Howe injury.

Danny Lewicki Highly Rated

By JOHN PATTERSON

TORONTO, April 1 — (CP) — Take it from a guy who has been up there and played with the best of them, a young fellow still waiting in the wings of big-league hockey is the "best of them all."

When Danny Lewicki of Fort William, Stratford and Toronto skims up the ice he can double-shift defencemen right out of their pants, Flash Hollett says.

Flash should know. He played in the National Hockey League for many years and now is a veteran tower of defence strength with the Allan cup-hunting Toronto Marlboros.

Danny, 19, this month, is the youngest player eligible for this year's Stanley Cup playoffs and is Toronto Maple Leaf property He played the season with Marlboro juniors, graduating to the seniors when the juniors were knocked out in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playyoffs.

Hal (Toronto Globe and Mail) Walker reminisced with Flash Hollett about some of the rink wizards he had seen in the big time.

Flash said "Busher Jackson, who made a puck do tricks when he starred on left-wing with the Maple Leaf kid line" of long ago, had the best two-way shift he'd seen until he met Lewicki.

"Busher was poetry in motion on skates and he could shift you out of your pants. But Danny can do that and more.

He leaves you standing like a cigar store Indian at times. He has a powerful backhand and a fine slap shot. And he's accurate. For my money he's the best I've seen.

How about Bill Cowley, formerly of Boston Bruins?

"Bill didn't have a shift," Flash replied. "He would fool you by pushing the puck between your legs and going around you to pick it up again. He was real cute at that."

Well, what about Milt Schmidt, still starring with the Boston squad?

Lewicki has a better shift than Schmidt, said Hollett.

"Milt can only shift to his right. Art Ross used to have him practice for hours trying to shift to the left, but he couldn't master it."

Ace Bailey, whose brilliant career ended when he crashed to the ice 16 years ago, dosen't think helmets are the answer to the problem of head injuries.

Milt (Toronto Star) Dunnell asked Ace for comment after the injury to Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings. Bailey said hockey players already are overburdened with armor.

Bell Advertising Keeps Those Waiting Informed

OTTAWA, April 1 — (CP) — A $726,000 advertising program planned for this year by Bell Telephone Company of Canada was examined before the Board of Transport Commissioners Friday.

Questioned about the size of the advertising budget, Thomas W. Eadie, Bell's vice-president in charge of operations, said it is necessary to keep the 200,000 persons on the company's waiting list for phones informed about what Bell is doing.

Mr. Eadie testified at the board's hearing of Bell's application for telephone rate boosts in Ontario and Quebec. The company wants rates increased enough to produce about 20 per cent more revenue.

Mr. Eadie said the company "would have been flooded" with inquiries if it had not kept people informed through advertising of what was being done to catch up with the backlog of service demands.

He expressed the opinion that it would have cost Bell more to handle inquiries than it did to forestall the inquiries by advertising.

Mr. Carroll, lawyer for Montreal, one of the cities opposing Bell's application, questioned whether it would have cost more to forego the advertising which involved expenditure of $724,807 last year.

Mr. Carroll produced a piece of advertising which, he said, had been sent to him in Montreal with his telephone bill last month. It showed a picture of the Montreal forum and declared that it would take an arena four times the size of the forum to hold all the Bell of Canada shareholders. Mr. Carroll asked how Bell could justify such advertising.

Mr. Eadie said he thought it was good public relations.

Mr. Carroll then asked Bell to furnish all such advertisements sent with Montreal phone bills for the year 1949. This was agreed to after brief discussion.

Two Men Sentenced On Robbery Charge

TORONTO, April 1 — (CP) — For the robbery with violence of Max Orgell, a fight manager, Earl Duffy, 31, and Bert Armitage, 17, both were sent to jail Friday.

Duffy, convicted twice before for the same type of offence, received three years in penitentiary. Armitage was sentenced to two years les one day definite and one year indeterminate in reformatory.

The two men attacked Orgell in his apartment. Armitage said they were put up to it by Orgell's girl friend, Betty Buker.

Stories From The Bible

mandments of the Lord. Now therefore send, and gather to me unto mount Carmel the prophets of Baal.

So Ahab gathered the prophets unto mount Carmel. And Elijah said unto the people, How long halt ye between two opinions? if the Lord be God, follow him; but if Baal, then follow him. And the people answered him not a word.

Then said Elijah, I only remain a prophet of the Lord; but Baal's prophets are four hundred and fifty men. Therefore give us two bullocks; and let them choose one bullock; and cut it in pieces, and lay it on the wood, and put no fire under; and I will dress the other bullock, and lay it on the wood, and put no fire under: and call ye on the name of your gods, and I will call on the name of the Lord: and the God that answereth by fire, let him be God.

And the prophets of Baal took the bullock, and dressed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning until noon. But there was no voiec that answered. And Elijah mocked them, and said, Cry aloud: for he is a god; either he is talking, or he is in a journey or he sleepeth, and must be awaked. And they cried aloud, and cut themselves, till the blood gushed out upon them. And there was neither voice, nor any that regarded.

And Elijah said unto the people, Come near unto me. And he repaired the altar of the Lord that was broken down, and put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood. And at the time of the evening sacrifice, Elijah said, Lord God of Abraham, let it be known this day that thou are God in Israel, and that I have done all these things at thy word. Then the fire of the Lord fell, and consumed the sacrifice. And the people fell on their faces, and said, The Lord, he is the God; the Lord he is the God. And Elijah said unto them, Take the prophets of Baal. And Elijah brought them down to the brook Kishon, and slew them there.

And Elijah went up to the top of Carmel, and cast himself upon the earth, and said to his servant, Go, look toward the sea. And he looked, and said, There is nothing. And he said, Go again seven times. And at the seventh time, he said, Behold, there ariseth a little cloud out of the sea, like a man's hand. And he said, Go up, say unto Ahab, Prepare thy chariot, and get thee down, that the rain stop thee not. And in the meanwhile the heaven was black with clouds, and there was a great rain. And Ahab rode to Jezreel. And the hands of the Lord was on Elijah, and he ran before Ahab to the entrance of Jezreel.

Calf Not A Record But Weighs 122 Lbs.

OTTAWA, April 1 — (CP) — Federal agricultural officials expressed interest in the 122-pound Holstein calf born on a Howe Island farm but said it was no record bovine baby.

Only last year, they said, a 125-pound calf was born to a pure-bred Holstein cow at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. They did not even know if this was a record.

Generally Holstein calves weigh about 100 pounds at birth but birth of 118-120 pound calves is not unusual.

Matter Really Isn't; Strong Gravity—Einstein

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor.

NEW YORK, April 1 (AP) — Professor Albert Einstein Friday explains his new theory of gravitation to his fellow scientists in an article in the scientific American.

He says he doesn't know whether it will work, but that he is expanding the methematical laws of gravitation to include the mysterious forces which form atoms.

In doing this he has stepped completely away from the thinking of his fellow scientists. He stands alone.

He is telling them they have failed to discover the nature or laws of atomic energy, and then proposing a solution which is amazing.

Gravitation extends everywhere through the known universe. It is unbroken energy of some kind and Einstein calls it the field. In this gravitational field there is solid matter, scattered everywhere, in the form of atoms which make the stars, planets and all that is upon them.

Einstein proposes that these material particles of matter are not really what they seem. They are not separate things. They are places where for some unknown reason gravitation is particularly high in density.

Einstein thinks he has found mathematics which will show this theory to be correct.

"Why," he asks, "do we devise theories at all? Simply because we enjoy comprehending. . . There exists a passion for comprehension, just as there exists a passion for music. That passion is rather common in children, but it gets lost in most people later on."

Einstein then explains what he has done to put gravitation and atomic forces together mathematically. He is putting two kinds of mathematics together — two kinds that have always been considered too antagonistic to work together.

One of these is symmetrical equations. The other is non-symmetrical. The difference between them is in the rules by which they are worked.

The reasons for this joining is completely simple. Symmetrical equations are used to explain gravitation. Non-symmetrical are used to explain what little is known about atomic energies

Ford Workers Set April 12 As Strike Date

Union Demands $100 Monthly Pension; Company Offers $55

WINDSOR, April 3—(CP)—Local 200 of the United Automobile Workers Union (CCL-CIO) has set April 12 as the deadline for a strike against the Ford Motor Company in its dispute over pensions demands.

A union statement said that 8,000 of the 11,000 members of the local attended the closed meeting Sunday and that 83 per cent of those present favored the strike action. It added that the proposed deadline was set after a show-of-hands vote showed "only two hands in opposition."

The company and union have been at odds for a year over the union's demand for a $100-a-month company-paid retirement pension for workers at age 65 after 25 years' service. The company offered $55 and the company's figure was supported by a majority report of a conciliation board, with a minority report favoring the union.

No Company Statement

Company officials said Sunday night there would be no immediate statement.

Later however it was learned that a meeting is expected today between the Ford officials and the union's negotiating committee.

Local 200 is the largest single unit of the OAW in Canada. It went on strike against the Ford Company in 1945, the strike lasting 99 days.

Besides the $100 pension the union seeks company-paid social security, medical and health benefits, increased night differential rates, additional paid statutory holidays and amendments covering grievance and seniority clauses in the existing contract.

Chrysler Dispute Same

A similar pensions demand against the Chrysler Company of Canada now is before an Ontario conciliation board.

Windsor altogether has more than 15,000 auto workers and about 4,000 have been laid off at the Chrysler plant since early in February because of the strike since Jan. 15 at the United States Chrysler Corporation.

Reds Experiment In Germ Warfare U.K. Editor Says

MONTREAL, April 2—(CP)—Kenneth de Courcy, editor of the British Intelligence Digest, said Sunday night that the Russians are making large-scale experiments in bacteriological warfare.

Use Prisoners

The editor, who correctly predicted the Russians would set off their first atomic blast in 1949, said in an interview that he received information on the experiments from "a highly reliable" Russian source. He added that the experiments were started in January by the Russian general staff and that political prisoners were used as guinea pigs.

"The source from which we received this information has been advising us on Russian events with great reliability for the last 12 years," de Courcy added.

His Intelligence Digest, a monthly private information service, claims to have highly-placed intelligence informants in several European countries.

Russia Ahead On H Bomb

He said his informants agreed with Dr. Harold Urey of the Atomic Energy Commission that "Russia is at least one year ahead of the U.S. in the development of the H bomb."

Life Sentences To 2 Of 26 Tried

SOFIA, April 3 (Reuters) — A Bulgarian court today sentenced the two chief defendants to life imprisonment in the trial of 26 Bulgarians and Yugoslavs accused of plotting to assassinate Soviet Marshal Klementi Voroshilov and Bulgarian cabinet ministers, the Bulgarian News Agency reported.

All the accused were found guilty.

Four were sentenced to 15 years imprisonment, 10 of them to 10 years, two to eight years, five to six years, one to three years, four months and two to two years, two months.

The court pronounced sentence after declaring all 26 guilty of being members of a Trotzkyist subversive centre in Yugoslavia, which, it said, was organized by Marshal Tito and his vice-premier Gen. Alexander Rankovitch.

All accused said they were satisfied with the sentences and would not appeal.

$1,000,000 U.S. Fire Destroys City Block

WILMINGTON, Del., April 3.—(AP).—A fire probably the worst in the history of this city, swept through an entire city block and portions of another Sunday. Fire oficials estimated the damage at $1,000,000.

One death and eight injuries were attributed to the general-alarm fire, which destroyed the mammoth lumber yard of the Wilmington sash and door factory, where the flames originated. A total of 18 homes in the area were either damaged or destroyed.

First Polio Victim

TORONTO, April 3—(CP)—A 15-year-old boy from Ferris, Ont., near North Bay, is believed Ontario's first poliomyelitis sufferer of 1950. Toronto Health Department officials said today that the boy was admitted to the isolation hospital here some time ago but only recently doctors became sure he had polio.

Some Foods In Britain May Be Taken Off Ration

LONDON, April 3—(CP)—British housewives were braced today for a change in the points system of food rationing. Hopes that grocers may no longer face the headache of counting coupons on certain commodities were raised by a front-page store in the Labor Daily Herald.

The newspaper said the system of rationing food by points "is expected to end soon."

Under the points system, housewives receive 24 points a month. These are spent largely on such scarce types of canned goods as fruit, salmon and meat.

Points rationing is separate from rationing of such basic foods as fresh meat, butter and tea. Whatever happens to the points system, it looks as though housewives will have to put up with ration books for a long time to come.

Food Minister Maurice Webb, speaking Sunday night in his parliamentary constituency of Bradford, Yorkshire, said Britain's food position does not justify the abolition of controls and rationing in the foreseeable future.

"The food position is easier," he said, "but it is not true to say that our stores and reserves of food are so vast as to arouse serious embarrassment."

By "embarrassment" Webb obviously had in mind newspaper reports that Britain's increasing food supply may force the government to increase some rations of subsidized foods and, therefore, perhaps an increase in food prices.

The new food minister conceded that some changes in the ration will be announced shortly after Easter—"some rations are going up, some are coming down."

Engine Trouble Delays Flight

CALCUTTA, April 3—(AP)—Engine trouble today forced the flying Bixbys—Dianna and Bob—to return here, two hours after they took off in their attempt to break the late Bill Odom's world-circling record.

Trouble in the right engine of the Bixby's twin-engined British Mosquito bomber had cut short their scheduled flight across Red China to Tokyo. They landed here at 9:31 a.m., GMT (4:31 a.m. EST).

They still had a chance to beat Odom's 1947 mark of 73 hours, five minutes and 11 seconds— if they could get the engine repaired and leave within three or four hours.

The Bixbys had been shooting at a 66-hour round-the-world flight. Their return here put them four hours behind schedule. The husband-and-wife team left San Francisco at 9:03 a.m., EST, Saturday.

The Bixbys first reached Calcutta, beyond the half-way mark in their flight, at 6:11 a.m., GMT (1:11 a.m., EST). They refuelled the Huntress II and took off after slightly more than one hour, at 7:24 a.m., GMT 2:24 a.m., EST).

But just one hour out they were forced to turn back.

Child Dies On Train On Way To Hospital

HAILEYEBURY, April 3. —(CP).—Four year old Rita Derache died Saturday night while being brought to hospital here by train from her home at Otter Lake, 40 miles south.

Her father, Honore Derache, said the girl complained of severe pains in her stomach shortly after eating a second helping of dessert at supper.

Dr. H. A. Dunning, who met the train, said death was due to natural causes, apparently from convulsions.

The girl told her parents early Saturday evening that she did not feel well. She had pains in her stomach. She then developed a high fever. Alarmed, the parents got in touch with a doctor at North Bay, who urged them to take their daughter to hospital at Haileybury.

She war carried to the train and was placed on a bed in a baggage car. Instructions were flashed to Haileybury to have an ambulance and doctor waiting. But she was dead when the train arrived.

A few hours later the sorrowing parents and their dead daughter returned to North Bay, where arrangements were completed for funeral services tomorrow.

Cost-of-Living Trend For '50 Seen In Few Days

OTTAWA, April 3 —(CP)—Canadians soon will learn if the 1950 trend of the country's cost-of-living is likely to be up or down.

They will be given a good indication of the trend within a few days when the Bureau of Statistics issues its monthly report on living costs.

The report will show if prices are continuing the upward movement that boosted the cost-of-living index for the first of this year by six-tenths of a point to 161.6 at the end of January or is returning to the downward movement in the latter part of lost year.

The index— a barometer living costs— is based on the estimate that 1935-39 equals 100.

Food prices, responsible for the January climb, are expected to be a key factor in the new index since food makes up the largest single group in the computation. It accounts for 31 per cent of the over-all index.

It is not yet known if rents will be reflected in the new index. The Bureau now is in the midst of its regular quarterly survey of rent prices but may not have it completed in time for inclusion until the following index.

Increases in allowable rent ceilings of 18 to 22 per cent for unheated dwellings, respectively, announced during the fall session of parliament, went into general effect Feb. 1 and are expected to boost the rent sub-index above 125.0 when the survey is completed.

The cost-of-living index level of 161.6 at the end of January compared with 161.0 in December and the all-time high of 162.8 in July last year.

$2500 Reward Offered To Find Man Who Killed Girls

TORONTO, April 3—(CP)—Citizens were asked today to help police track down the driver of a truck that killed two little girls on their way to church.

At the same time, reward money rose to $2,500 with the announcement in the Ontario Legislature that the Provincial Government will offer an additional $500.

Norman Ingram, chairman of the Police Committee of suburban North York, asked the public to report "any fact" that may lead police to the driver blamed for the death Friday night of Lorraine Watson, 13, and her neice, Barbara Jones, 6.

Ingram said citizens should consider it their duty to report "any clue, no matter how slight." He added:

"A fact by itself may seem insignificant. But pieced together with other information, it may lead to the arrest of the guilty party."

Appeals To Driver

Police Chief Roy D. Risebrough of North York appealed to the driver to give himself up.

"Get this over with, or have it on your conscience for the rest of your life," the Chief said.

The chief made his appeal in a four-column, large-type spread, under his by-line and illustrated with a picture of him pointing an accusing finger, on the front page of the Telegram. He wrote:

"To that driver, I say: Give yourself up, man.... In just a few minutes, you can rid yourself of the fear of being caught that will walk with you for every second of your life.

"For I tell you now: Every police officer in the country has been alerted and is looking for you. You will walk with terror as long as you live.

"I don't think you're a criminal. I think you are a man who, through unfortunate circumstances, has been hurled into a heartbreaking tragedy. Yours was a natural instinct to run, to hide in fear.

Now I say to you: Give yourself up, man. If you have a heart, if you have a conscience, if you know children, you will give yourself up."

After sifting through a welter of varying descriptions given by witnesses, police said they believe

Father Hitch-hikes With Injured Child

TORONTO, April 3 (CP) — Two-year-old Veronica Ann Grant was rushed from Niagara Falls, Ont., to the Hospital for Sick Children Sunday after she fractured her skull when she fell against the steering wheel of her father's automobile.

The trip was a hectic one. Just 10 miles outside of Toronto, the Grant car broke down and Ernest Grant had to hitch-hike the rest of the way to the hospital with his injured daughter. When he returned to the car, he found someone had collided with his car, damaged it badly, and driven off.

"Youthful" Spinsters Misinform Census Man

CHICAGO, April 3.—(AP). — Two conscience-stricken sisters called the Chicago census supervisor Sunday and confessed they fibbed to an enumerator about their ages.

The sisters told George H. Seward that for many years each had been posing as 11 years younger than she really is. The lie has been repeated so many times, they confided, that they didn't really think when they repeated it to the census taker who called on them Saturday.

When they learned of the heavy penalties involved in lying to the census taker, the sisters telephoned Seward to ask his forgiveness.

Politeness Pays?

GLASGOW, Scotland, Apr. 3 — (Reuters) — A 52-year-old Scot, Patrick McCusker, raised his hat to women waiting for a bus here.

They fled screaming. Underneath the hat were two white mice.

Pat was jailed for drinking methylated spirits.

Canada Failing In Atom Race -Top Scientist

OTTAWA, April 3—(CP)—One of Canada's top atomic scientists in an unusual speech, today suggested Canada is in danger of falling behind in the world's atom race and will do so unless she puts up more scientists and money.

In an address prepared for delivery before the Ottawa Rotary Club, Dr. L. G. Cook, head of the chemistry branch of the research division at the Chalk River atomic project, flatly predicted that the children of the present generation of Canadian's "almost certainly will be . . . involved in a war in which atomic bombs are used."

His speech was entitled "atomic energy at the crossroads" and contained remarks considered unusual for a government employee.

He said Chalk River's one radioactive pile, based on the heavy water principle, "has been phenomenally successful . . enabling Chalk River to make radioisotopes (radioactive atoms) in very concentrated form."

In fact the "simplest and finest little atomic bonfire—the radioactive pile or reactor—is burning merrily" at Chalk River.

"The United States, Britain, France and certainly Russia are operating simple atomic fires. Norway, Sweden and Australia are planning to start them.

"Some people who do not understand the simple facts (of atomic energy) and who believe there must be a secret to be guarded are consequently trying to prevent scientists in their countries from discussing their work frankly and publicly with other scientists and with the citizens whom it vitally concerns."

Cobalt Replaces Radium Treatment

BOSTON, April 3 (AP) — Dr. Shields Warren, director of the atomic energy commission biology and medicine division, said Saturday that radium for treatment of cancer cases has been replaced by Cobalt.

Dr. Warren told a press conference that Cobalt, a plentiful metal, is just as effective as radium for treating cancer and other diseases, and costs only one-one-thousandth as much as radium.

He said he had unofficially advised New England Deaconess Hospital, Boston, to sell its two grams of radium and plan to store Cobalt. The hospital, one of two Massachusetts institutions with a supply of radium, paid $135,000 for the rare substance and the protective vaults needed to store it.

Cobalt can be made to emit gamma rays similar to radium, Dr. Warren said, by placing it in an atomic pile. Cobalt is a silvery-white metal usually found in combination with iron and nickel.

Deny Agreement To Keep Military Secrets From Minister As Rumored

Foreign Correspondent Says Only Quoted "Extremely Well-Informed Sources" Sharing Secrets Up To Shinwell-Johnson

LONDON, April 3—(AP)—A spokesman for the government today issued the following statement in connection with an Associated Press report quoting sources at The Hague as saying that British-American military chiefs agreed to keep highly confidential information out of the hands of Britain's war minister, John Strachey:

"The Associated Press of America were responsible for this story and if those who are employed by them in London to interpret political life in this country to America did not as soon as they saw this story inform their head office that it could not conceivably be true then they ought to have done.

"They were told by telephone that the story was obviously untrue, and if they did so inform their head office and their head office insisted on still writing the story, then I can only say that the Associated Press' boasted love of facts is nothing but hypocrisy."

The Press Association distributed the statement to the British Press. Later it sent a bulletin correction deleting all matter following the words "obviously untrue" in the second paragraph.

But the full statement had appeared on page one of the Evening Standard, an afternoon newspaper. Still later the Press Association issued a memo stating that "after further consideration" it had decided to reinstate the deleted material.

The Associated Press story came from Joseph E. Dynan, Paris diplomatic correspondent, writing from The Hague Saturday night.

Quoting extremely well-informed sources, he reported that after a conference at The Hague, Defence Secretary Louis A. Johnson of the U.S. and Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell of Britain had agreed to have top secrets bypass Strachey.

Vehement denials were made by Shinwell and other British spokesmen in London and The Hague. These denials were reported by the Associated Press as they were made.

The Conservative Daily Mail today said Attlee will be questioned in the Commons about the latest political storm revolving about Strachey, who years ago wrote favorably of Communism.

Pickled—Not Dead Strange Body Awakes

DAYTON, O., April 3.—(AP).—A strange "body" turned up in the morgue of a Dayton funeral home.

Guy Magnetti, operator of the funeral home, called police and told them there was a "dead man" in the morgue he knew nothing about. When police arrived, he led them to a hearse in the garage.

They opened up a rubber bag used by morticians. Aaron E. Talley, 40, clad in underwear, blinked his eyes and asked:

"Where am I?"

Police gathered up his clothes, piled on the morgue floor, and booked him on an intoxication charge.

'Fore'—Before Or After $300 Damages On Answer

NANIMO, BC, April 3 —(CP)—Are you supposed to yell "fore" before you shoot or after the ball has begun its flight from the tee?

They shot golf in Supreme Court here all last week but the results haven't been posted yet: desision in the case was reserved.

Mrs. Doris McLaurin of Kelona, BC, asks $300 special damages and unstated general damages from Charles Skittles of Qualicum near this Vancouver Island city. Mrs. McLaurin's cheekbone was fractured when she was hit by a golf ball on the Qualicum Beach course June 18.

Skittles said it was his slice that was to blame. He was driving from the eighth tee while Mrs. McLaurin was playing the adjoining practice fairway.

Eight witnesses spent the week bandying around terms like drive, out-of-bounds, slice, hook, hazard, wave-through, lies and— in particular— fore.

Mrs. McLaurin said the practice in golf was to shout the warning "fore" when another player was in range of a shot.

She claimed Skittles had played his shot first and then shouted his warning. She turned to the right and was struck on the cheek by the ball. There has been no time-lapse between the cry "fore" and the impact of the ball on her cheek.

Skittles said the woman was not in his "line of fire." When he saw his ball slice—veer to the right—he had shouted a warning. Mrs. McLaurin staggered and fell.

Defence Counsel J. S. Cunliffe said Mrs. McLaurin should have ducked instead of turning when she head the warning.

Red China Force Smashed In Landing Try

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 3 (AP) Nationalist China today hailed its greatest victory of 1950—the smashing Saturday of a Chinese Communist invading force of more than 7,500 on Hainan Island of South China.

Thousands joined a massive parade at Hoihow, capital of Hainan. Tons of firecrcakers were set off. Red prisoners were marched through the streets.

"We have destroyed the Communist dream of conquering Hainan," said Gen. Li Yang-ching, chief of staff for Hainan.

The Nationalists said 5,000 Reds were killed and more than 2,500 were captured.

It was the second Red attempt in six days to land a force on the big island, separated by 10 miles of water from Luichow Peninsula. The Nationalists said they "completely annihilated" 4,000 Red invaders March 26.

Some Red survivors tried to escape Sunday but Nationalist warships reported they sank the fleeing junks. Five hundred more Reds surrendered on Hainan.

Nationalist dispatches usually flaunt the silver lining and ignore the dark clouds. But even allowing for exaggeration, their double victory gave them something to crow over.

On the dark side, the Reds undoubtedly can mass far stronger invasions. Their two attempts have the look of "feelers."

And in a fleet of nearly 100 modern power boats unwittingly supplied by the United Nations, the Reds have the nucleus of a strong invasion fleet.

This is the remnant of 50 and 100-ton fishing vessels given Nationalist China but lost when the Reds captured Shanghai.

Vaccine Rushed To Halt Smallpox

GLASGOW, April 3 (Reuters) —Planes from London today rushed enough vaccine for 50,000 people to Glasgow and West Scotland to help check an outbreak of smallpox.

Thousands were flocking to public health centres in the infected area. The disease already has attacked 20 people. Sixty thousand people have already been vaccinated in the west and southwest of Scotland.

No new cases have been reported in the last 24 hours. More than 20,000 people have been vaccinated in Glasgow.

Glasgow health authorities said there was no need to close theatres, but advised citizens to avoid crowds.

The disease was brought to the city by a Lascar seaman aboard a British liner.

Vienna Red Kidnapper Shot Escaping Police

VIENNA, April 3 — (AP) — American and French military police Sunday night shot and killed Benno Blum, a Bulgarian accused of being the ringleader of a Russian-directed kidnap ring. United States Army officials said Blum was shot down while attempting to escape from the home of a woman friend. They said he had been sought as the head of a gang that kidnapped refugees in western-ruled sectors of Vienna and returned them to the Soviet zone.

Do Americans Fear UK Minister?

Secret Information Being Withheld From John Strachey

LONDON, April 3—(AP)—The Conservative Daily Mail said today Prime Minister Attlee will be questioned in the Commons about the latest political storm revolving around War Minister John Strachey, who years ago wrote favorably of Communism.

It all started with an Associated Press report—later denied by British government officials—quoting well-informed American sources at the Hague as saying the Anglo-American defence chiefs had agreed to keep highly-confidential military secrets from Strachey.

Strachey's immediate superior defence minister Emanuel Shinwell, said Sunday on his return from the Atlantic Pact talks at The Hague that there "isn't a word of truth" in the report of the secrets ban.

Evades Question

Defence secretary Louis Johnson of the United States evaded any direct confirmation or denial of the story at The Hague. But he told reporters just before leaving by plane for the United States that he had refused Shinwell's request to sign a joint official statement which evidently dealt with Strachey's status.

Strachey, recently shifted from the food ministry to the post of war minister, has been assailed by a portion of the British press which claims he never has disavowed pro-Communist writings of the 1930s. Strachey has denied ever being a Communist and said he was on record as far back as 1940 as being in "fundamental disagreement" with the Communists.

The Hague report—and the government's flat denials—got page one banner headlines in London papers today.

Well-informed American sources in The Hague said secret information had been withheld from Britain because of Strachey's position. The embargo was eased, these sources said, because Shinwell agreed Saturday night to have top secrets bypass Strachey.

Shinwell told reporters at London's Northholt Airport Sunday night the report was a "silly story."

"Mr. Strachey was never mentioned in any discussion," he added. "Why should he be?"

Questioned later, a defence ministry spokesman said Shinwell had no comment to make on the report of the U. S. defence secretary's refusal to sign a joint statement at The Hague.

Handed Statement

Johnson told reporters Shinwell met him Sunday morning with a statement he wanted Johnson to issue with him.

"I concurred in the first sentence (of the statement)," Johnson said, "but further than that I was not prepared to go."

Asked by reporters what was in the statement, Johnson said it paid tribute to what Shinwell had done for American, British and Canadian co-operation. He did not elaborate.

It appeared to reporters that Johnson, in the heat of questioning from several sides, had made a slip of the tongue and had meant to say the statement paid tribute to Strachey. He left soon after by plane and there was no opportunity to recheck.

Asked if he had placed any restrictions on information given to Shinwell as defence minister, Johnson said: "I have no concern with what Shinwell does with the information."

.45 inches of rain.

TORONTO, April 3.— (CP).— The storm which spread a rain and snow pattern across the province Sunday night stagnated over night. The consequent light winds, moist air and night time cooling caused extensive areas of fog and drizzle which reduced visibility to near zero this morning. The fog is expected to lift forenoon and most of the drizzle will be over by this afternoon.

The following lull in the weather will be short lived for another storm is shaping up over Colorado. This is expected to spread more rain across the lower lakes regions on Tuesday. In the Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions the precipitation will likely begin as snow and change to rain later in the day. At present a close estimation is impossible but indications are that snow will reach as far north as the southern Kirkland Lake regions and that falls in the northern Georgian Bay area will be fairly heavy.

Eastern Lake Ontario Region—Cloudy today and Tuesday. Drizzle ending this afternoon. Rain beginning early Tuesday afternoon. Not much change in temperature. Winds light, becoming east 20 Tuesday afternoon. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Trenton 35 and 43. Summary for Tuesday—Rain in afternoon.

Haliburton Region— Cloudy today and Tuesday. Occasional light drizzle today. Snow beginning Tuesday afternoon and changing over to rain by evening. Not much change in temperature. Winds light, becoming east 20 Tuesday evening. Low tonight and high Tuesday at Killaloe 30 and 38. Summary for Tuesday — Afternoon snow.

Abitibi Paper At New High

TORONTO, April 3.—(CP). — Prices climbed steadily as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today. Volume for the first three hours was 1,289,000 shares.

Selected industrial stocks were in strong demand for gains ranging from fractions to more than a full point. Abitibi Paper featured a strong paper list, gaining $1 at a new high at $28. Winnipeg Electic continued the feature in strong utilities. Canadian Vickers rose $4 at $108 in steels to show the widest gain.

Low-priced gold stocks continued active but the Bourlamaque issues that featured last Thursday and Friday were generally ignored. Barnat and Sladen Malartic, both with property in the Malartic district, turned briskly upwards. Upper Canada featured leading junior producers for a gain of 25 cents at $3.95.

East Sullivan, United Keno Hill and Consolidated Smelters were well ahead in base metals.

Royalite and Pacific Petroleum gained in western oils.

Weekend Toll Seven Lives, Child Drowned

By The Canadian Press.

Seven lives were lost in scattered mishaps in eastern Canada this week-end, five in Ontario and two in Quebec.

Traffic accidents accounted for three of the victims while two persons were killed by trains. One child drowned and burns claimed another person.

Seven-year-old Ronald Zugelt was killed at Toronto when he fell from a moving train. Police believe the young lad had been playing on top of a box car when the train started to move, throwing him to the ground.

Nikola Jovanovic, 25-year-old displaced person, committed suicide at Alax, Ont., by lying on the railway tracks and allowing a train to run over him.

At Thetford Mines, Que., Alain Poulin, 5, drowned in the Becancourt river when he tried to retrieve a book that had fallen onto the soft ice which gave way under his weight.

Peter Fead, 39, an invalid, died at Kitchener from burns received when lighter fluid he had spilled on his clothing caught fire It is believed that live ashes from his cigarette ignited the fluid. He had been confined to his room with a heart condition.

Joseph D. Orr, 62, was crushed under the wheels of a motor bus at London. He had just left the bus.

At Quebec, Mrs. Vincent McNinight died from injuries received in a two-automobile collision and at Ottawa, two-year-old Allan Murtagh was killed when a dairy truck ran over him.

Helped German May Be On Sub

AVALON, Catalina Island, Calif., April 3 (AP)—A picture of scar-faced Theodore Donay, 51, Detroit, who went to prison in 1943 for helping shield the escape of a German flier, was identified Sunday night as that of a man who vanished at sea Saturday night.

He disappeared a few hours before a mystery submarine was sighted off the southern California coast. No American submarines were reported in the area and the navy started a search.

Constable K. McDavid, said an Associated Press wirephoto of Donay had been identified by Ray Dodge, boat rental dock attendant, as the man who rented a boat from him Saturday. McDavid said Dodge told him the man left his wallet with him as security for the boat.

The wallet, McDavid said, contained a driver's licence and business cards identifying the man as Theodore Donay, 51, Detroit.

Donay did not return to Avalon. A United States coast guard vessel searching for the man found his deserted boat.

Bank Robber Murders 6 People With Sword

TOKYO, April 3 (AP)—A bank robber Sunday murdered six persons with a sword after looting the Mifuka Bank on Hokkaido of 800,000 yen (about $2,200), the newspaper Asahi reported.

The paper gave this account of the bizarre crime:

The robber broke into the bank and forced a watchman to take him to an official's home. At sword point he made the official and his wife accompany him to the bank and open the vault.

Then he took the couple to another official's home, made the two bankers and their wives and two small children lie on the floor, and gave them knockout hypodermics. When they were groggy, he calmly slashed their throats.

Princess Margaret Unofficially Engaged

LONDON, April 3 (AP)—The Sunday Pictorial said Sunday that Princess Margaret and Peter Ward, the second son of the Earl of Dudley, had their own "very personal celebration" at a Mayfair Club recently. The paper said that many in high British circles believe that young Peter already is "unofficially" engaged to the Princess.

Grade XII students who pass will be permitted to leave school early to fill positions for which they have been trained. Those failing will write a further set of examinations in June.

DEPUTATION EXPECTED

It was reported today that a deputation from the Inverlea Park section may attend tonight's council meeting to oppose the application of Imperial Oil Company for permission to build a gasoline service station at the northeast corner of Water St. and Park Hill Road.

DEER IN DURHAM

Passengers on the C.P.R. Saturday morning local train to Toronto saw a doe and three fawns in thin bush country north of the track west of Pontypool. The conductor said they had been browsing around that section in recent weeks. They scampered short distances at greeting blasts from the engine's whistle, but were apparently accustomed to the train.

MAKE TWO RUNS

Firemen made two runs over the weekend, both minor ones. A chimney fire was reported at the residence of Floyd Michels, Frank St., Sunday. One hand-pump was used to douse it. Earlier in the day residents at 401 Walton St. informed the Fire Department that propane gas was leaking from their cellar. The Utilities Commission were then called.

WAGES-HOURS BALLOT

The more than 3,000 CGE production workers are balloting today at the Peterborough works to decide whether they want to work a 42, 42½ or a 43-hour week. According to the terms of the new agreement the workers will get the same pay for 43 hours as they did formerly for 45. The work week was reduced by union-company negotiation to 42 hours, however, which would mean a loss of one hour's pay. The Company agrees to allow them to work that extra hour if they choose. Night shift workers will vote tonight and the result will be known Tuesday morning.

SMALL FIRE

The Examiner had an exciting call from the fire department at 2 o'clock this afternoon when electric wiring in the new ground floor press room took fire.

A steel supporting girder was being installed, which required cutting by welder's torch. This heat was apparently too much for the internal wiring. Smoke and an acrid smell, issued, which a hand fire extinguisher could not quell. The firemen brought to bear a big chemical extinguisher, cut a hole through the new wall, and in a minutes the smoke and excitment were done for.

The reporter covering the fire had the handiest assignment of the month.

the truck, first described as green or red or blue, may be any color.

They are satisfied however, that it was a stake body vehicle that struck down the little girls in the gathering darkness and escaped pursuit by the driver of a private automobile in a network of sideroads on the northwest outskirts of the city.

Police said the truck may have the words "Canada" or "Mastic" on its doors.

Receive Many Calls

More than 1,000 telephone calls, messages and telegrams came in from many parts of the province to city and suburban police during the week-end. Tips concerned trucks in Kapuskasing, Whitby, Windsor, St. Catharines, Powassan, Brampton, the nearby Holland Marsh vegetable-growing area and elsewhere and police checked them all. Drivers were questioned at Oshawa and Burks Falls and released.

"It's an outside possibility that the truck we're looking for could have travelled 400 miles in the meantime," said Chief Risebrough. "But Provincial Police are checking just the same. We won't pass up a bet."

The reward money included $1,000 posted by the city.

Over the weekend detectives were on duty long hours checking all district service stations and garages, while citizens swamped Toronto and suburban police with telephone calls.

With mounting criticism over the fact there are no street lights on the section where the accident occurred, also without sidewalks, Reeve Nelson Boylen of North York said that street lights and sidewalks are placed only after a petition to the township council.

Various CCF members of the legislature from Toronto and York ridings joined in demanding an end to hit-and-run accidents and William Temple, CCF member for Toronto High Park, said he would raise the matter in the Legislature today in the hope the government would "put teeth" into the law to punish hit-run drivers.

Ontario Attorney-General Dana Porter said penalties imposed on conviction of hit-and-run drivers are up to the court trying the case. Such penalties are prescribed in the Criminal Code, a Federal Act, and the provincial government has nothing to do with such penalties.

Charter Given To Rebel Local In Textile Union

MONTREAL, April 3—(C) A rebel local of the United Textile Workers of America (AFL-TLC) has received a charter from the rival Textile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) but a UTW official said the move worried him "very little."

Local 102 of the AFL affiliate, which claims 2,500 members in four Montreal plants of the Dominion Textile Company, Ltd., Sunday was chartered as Local 1107 of the TWU at a meeting here.

R. Kent Rowley, UTW international vice-president and Canadian director, said the meeting was not representative and the "whole affair seemed fantastic" to him.

He said the UTW local is the sole legal bargaining agent for the workers and whatever action was taken by the rival union was 'just so much time wasted."

The split in the AFL union started recently after Azelus Beaucage, UTW Canadian organizer and business agent for Local 102, was fired by Rowley on charges of misappropriation of union funds.

Last week, Beaucage charged that the AFL union in Canada was "shot through and through" with Communists and named four UTW officials as members of the Labor-Progressive Party. He himself held a party card for five years while he represented Local 102, Beaucage said.

He disappeared after making the charges, saying that his life and that of his wife had been threatened. At Sunday's meeting he was flanked by bodyguards, making his first appearance since last week. He told the meeting the AFL union would drop out of the picture within two months.

The meeting voted unanimous confidence in him and the new local's executive. Beaucage said the CIO would demand a secret ballot among textile workers and then seek certification as their bargaining agent "sometime in August."

Up To Shinwell

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Defence Secretary Louis Johnson said today it is up to Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell of Britain whether Atlantic - pact military secrets will be given to Britain's war minister, John Strachey.

Johnson talked to reporters upon his return by air from the Atlantic defence meeting at The Hague. A furor was set off by reports from that capital during the week-end that Anglo-American military chiefs had agreed to withhold secrets from Strachey.

Strachey, newly named to Britain's war ministry, has been criticized by some British newspapers on the grounds that he never disavowed pro-Communist writings of the 1930s. Strachey has denied being a Communist and has said he long has been in disagreement with the Communists.

Dealt With Shinwell

Johnson said that in his capacity as secretary of defence he has dealt only with Shinwell, Strachey's boss, and will continue to do so. Asked whether information given to Shinwell will be passed on to Strachey, Johnson said:

"That's his doing."

American sources at The Hague had secret information had been withheld from Britain because of Strachey's position. They said the embargo was lifted after Shinwell agreed to bypass Strachey on top secrets.

Shinwell Says "Silly"

Shinwell himself termed the report "silly."

Johnson said today there was no agreement among the American joint chiefs-of-staff to withhold information from Britain as long as Strachey was war minister.

Marshall Aid Ends In 1952, Help Needed

Special Assistant Appointed To Find Way To Help Europe

KEY WEST, Fla., April 3—(AP)—The United States government, spurred on by President Truman's orders, undertook today to find a way to prevent a drastic "dollar-gap" crisis when Marshall Plan Aid to countries abroad halts in 1952.

Key figure in this latest diplomatic-economic manoeuvre is scholarly Gordon Gray, who is leaving his post as Secretary of the Army to undertake the assignment as special assistant to the President.

Gray will work at his new task until he leaves it in September to become President of the University of North Carolina. He is to be succeeded in the Army Department by Budget Director Frank Pace, Jr.

Gray's problem, under presidential direction, is to find some way in which foreign countries can obtain the necessary dollars or "hard currency" to pay for American exports.

Makes Up Difference

At present, under the foreign assistance program, the U.S. is virtually making up the difference between what it exports—about $16,000,000,000 annually — and what it imports, about $10,000,000,000, by providing about $5,000,000,000 in United States grants to democratic allies.

What worries the president is what will happen when the European Recovery Program comes to an end at the close of 1952.

Buying Power

In lieu of direct aid, Gray's problem is to find a way to build up foreign buying power by pointing the way to:

1. Increased exports to the United States in the form of merchandise.

2. Increased foreign services such as shipping, tourist attractions and insurance.

3. Increased United States private investments abroad, particularly under the "point-four" program for technical assistance to under-developed areas.

In a letter to Gray Sunday, President Truman said "the task you are undertaking is one of major importance to this country."

He warned that the aid now stimulating foreign recovery is aimed at strengthening the economies of free countries "against Communist subversion or aggression."

11-Year-Olds Co-Editors Of Booming Newspaper

FONTHILL, April 3 (CP) — A pair of ambitious youngsters have parlayed their spare time and toy printing press into one of Canada's fastest growing weekly papers—on a capital investment of $3.47.

Work and profits of the Fonthill Bugle in this town of 1,300 persons seven miles south of St. Catharines are shared by Robin Barron and Jim Casson, both 11, co-editors of this village's first paper.

Started On Loan

Three months ago Robin's mother lent the boys enough money to buy paper hectograph solution for making forms and four cookie pans for a press bed.

The boys were in business. Sixty copies were printed in the first week, and, at three cents a copy, went fast. The press run was increased to 70, then to 100. Last week's count was 110 and it didn't near meet the demand.

Advertising space is snapped up by local merchants. The front page usually carries a bylined story by one of the boys on village life or personal adventure. Inside pages are crowded with stories of school, sport, club activities and with personals.

Business Pressing

Sometimes things don't work out just the way the boys would like them. Recently this apology by the editors appeared:

"Education week and the 'flue made last week and this week pretty busy for us editors. If we have neglected to put in any want ads or to sell ads we are sorry and we'll see that they are run next week."

And they were.

The Wasted Middle Classes

In post-war Britain the middle classes are most hard hit. The lot of the workers—their pay, their security of job, their health—is better than it has ever been. The upper classes are afflicted, but they have enough financial resources to see them through at least this generation; and Britain is a monarchy, so that some remnants of its upper classes must be preserved; witness the estates tax adjustments given last year to Lady Mountbatten. But the middle classes, lower and upper, have suffered beyond recognition.

* * *

Having no huge reserves of capital to draw on, they have felt as disaster the high income tax rate, the increase in wages of charwomen, gardeners and housemaids; the lack of a corresponding increase in the pay of 'white-collar' workers. It is the fashion to blame the Labour Government for the plight of the British middle classes. To do so is to ignore the economics of the situation.

* * *

As Howard K. Smith shows in his recent, careful and knowledgeable survey The State of Europe, and as all know who have made even a cursory analysis of Britain's economic situation, that country's wealth has gone, and is not likely to come back in the lush measures of 1850-1914, or even 1939.

* * *

Before the war Britain imported sixty per cent. of her food and eighty per cent. of her raw materials. It was a high degree of economic vulnerability patched up by large earnings from investments, colonial power and merchant shipping. Now the investments, colonies, and large merchant marine have gone; wartime casualties. While Britain has increased her exports above the 1939 level, it is not enough to compensate for the wartime losses.

* * *

Her merchant marine has been depleted by a quarter, and the American merchant marine is now three times as large. She has no gold to lend or to buy foreign products; the U.S.A. is now the creditor and lender. Further, Britain's industry is inefficient, and cannot compete on the open market with American, or even German. Before the war an American miner turned out four tons of coal a day, a German nearly two, a British miner only one. Since the war the British position has deteriorated in that one industry. Despite the fact that an American miner gets double the wages of a British miner, a British miner's wages according to the tons of coal he produces are higher than the final selling price of a ton of American coal. It is the same in other branches of industry. German scientific instruments are beginning to undersell British ones, because German labour costs are only sixty per cent. of British.

* * *

The story is a long and complicated one, but it adds up to this: Britain can no longer afford to support a large middle class which is industrially or agriculturally unproductive. The middle classes, it seems, must be converted into producers, and accept a lowering of status. The wry aspect of the situation is that the Labour Government, through its vast extension of social services and nationalization of industry, is creating a huge new employment opportunity for lower middle class people, the bureaucracy to administer its schemes. This new army of civil servants is essentially non-productive. Yet, economically, the country cannot afford such basically 'idle'—that is, unproductive—workers.

* * *

The middle classes have traditionally been the backbone of Britain. If Britain is not to become spineless, the working classes, that is the productive labourers, must be the backbone, if economics speak with truth. The 'stately homes of England' began to disappear with Lloyd George's income-tax budget of 1911. Now the villas and detached "desirable residences" of suburbia are on the block. The middle classes are not forgotten; they are ignored and condemned by the inexorable laws of non-Marxian economics. The question is: Would a Conservative government have debilitated the middle classes more quickly than the Labour government is now doing?

Newfoundland Air Bases

Canada is supposed to be at least titularly master of her own house. Yet there are several significant areas within the borders of Canada where the Canadian flag cannot fly. These are the American air bases in the province of Newfoundland. They were leased by Britain to the United States for 99 years early in the war, when Newfoundland was a British colony. Newfoundland is no longer a colony and these bases over which the American flag flies are in Canada.

The St. John's, Newfoundland, News speaks pretty bluntly about this abnegation of sovereignty:

It is now a year since Newfoundland entered Confederation and still not a word from Ottawa about the American military bases located in that new province of Canada. Admittedly there is a delicate problem involved but it is not going to be solved by simply ignoring it.

For a sovereign state and one that has made a considerable fuss about extinguishing the last faint sparks of outside rule in Canada, the present situation is preposterous. Within the considerable areas of these foreign bases, Washington comes very much first, Ottawa is very far second. U.S. laws and customs regulations apply. Even Canadian citizens living within the bases are subject to U.S. laws and have no effective protection of the Canadian courts.

As the St. John's News says, through luck and the common sense of both parties serious incidents have been avoided. However, it is high time to depend no longer on luck. The St. Laurent administration stated in parliament last year that steps would be taken to put an end to the anomoly of Canadians not being at home or under the protection of their own laws on territory which is within Canada. What steps have been taken so that Ottawa and not Washington will have the final authority over these areas where the Americans have their bases?

Check In The U.S. Witch-Hunt

The witch-hunt for Communists in the United States' State Department apparently has been checked. The self-appointed head huntsman, Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, said he would stand or fall on one case, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation made a complete analysis of that file available to a Senate Sub-committee. It was the file of Owen Lattimore, an employee of the State Department for four months about five years ago, and it cleared Mr. Lattimore of being a "top Russian espionage agent", as McCarthy had charged.

The Senate sub-committee then issued a subpoena to obtain confidential files of the F.B.I., flagrantly disregarding the Presidential order to both the Attorney-General and the head of the F.B.I., J. Edgar Hoover, to refuse to produce the files. Since the President has the responsibility of deciding what executive papers shall be submitted to Congress in the public interest, it is most unlikely that the files will be released.

Refusal to release these confidential files seems wise on all counts. They contain all manner of confidential information about individual citizens—unsifted allegations, unconfirmed accusations, and statements of affiliation. They also contain the names of persons unconnected with the McCarthy witch-hunt. Mr. Hoover's attitude in this connection was admirable. "I would not want to be a party," he said, "to any action which would 'smear' innocent individuals for the rest of their lives. We cannot disregard the fundamental principles of common decency and . . . fair play in the administration of the F.B.I."

Mr. Hoover pointed to another danger involved in producing his department's confidential files. It is that disclosure of the contents of the files would reveal secret procedures. If the contents were published, criminals, foreign agents, subversive persons and others would be forewarned. Information bearing on national security would be furnished to foreign powers by open publication, and even a closed committee hearing would not be leakproof.

There is the further point that release of the files would furnish material which would set the witch-hunters off in full cry again, for even a hint of Communist affiliation is enough to start them. And we think the reading public of both the United States and Canada is becoming bored by constant accounts of men who are either ridden by Red bogeys or who are seeking easy publicity.

An expert on elephants says that these animals are forgetful, lazy, dirty and comparatively weak. If they fail much further below their reputation they will almost qualify for the human race.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

ONCE more the season of Passion and Easter music is with us, and choral societies and churches are holding performances of the works that they have so carefully rehearsed during the past weeks. There is a great wealth of Passion music. The earliest Passion music was a setting of the words of the Gospel and originated from the custom of intoning the Gospel at Mass. It became usual for different members of the clergy to take the parts of Christ, the Narrator, Pontius Pilate, and so on in order to heighten the dramatic intensity of the narrative. From this it was but a short step to a more elaborate musical setting. There is a setting of St. John's Passion by Alessandro Scarlatti (father of Domenico the harpsichord virtuoso and composer) which is in my possession in manuscript, which is a delightful example of what was being done in Italy at the end of the seventeenth century. Alessandro keeps scrupulously to the text of the Gospel. The narrator's part is taken by a male alto. It was the practice of that time for the male leads in Italian operas to be taken by male altos or musici—a convention that effectively prevents them from being revived in their original form. In the case of the Passion St. John's traditional youthfulness lends dramatic plausibility to the choice of voice, but when one remembers that even roles like Hercules and Theseus were sung by altered male voices this consideration would appear not to have influenced Scarlatti. A further interesting point in Scarlatti's music is that while all the other soloists sing recitativo secco the part of Christ is always accompanied by strings, shedding, as it were, an aura of pathos and majesty around the actual words of the Redeemer. The choruses are all very short, and contain no elaborate contraptuntal treatment. So far as I know this work has never been given on this continent.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT was J. S. Bach who summed up the achievements of his predecessors in two mighty works, the St. Matthew and St. John Passions. Following the German tradition he introduced Chorales (Hymns) and meditative words on the passion, and the choruses were much more elaborately and massively designed. There is also a small St. Luke's Passion in Bach's handwriting, which is much less ambitious: modern scholars are of the opinion that it is the composition of one of Bach's predecessors which he copied for his own use. At any rate it contains nothing particularly Bachian. It must be remembered that printed music was comparatively rare in those days, and there is nothing particularly odd in the idea of Bach copying out the other men's compositions. He was in fact a zealous copyist, and doubtless enlisted the aid of his numerous family to help him get through the large amount of copying that would have to be done to keep his choir and instrumentalists supplied. I have sung in this little St. Luke Passion myself and it is just the thing for the average church choir. Certainly it was good enough for John Sebastian, or he would scarcely have gone to the trouble of copying it.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the latter part of the nineteenth century numerous short Passion cantatas made their appearance. Written for the average church choir (does such a thing exist?) they are usually easy and melodious. The sentiment is sometimes rather facile, the melodies timid but backed up by a richly chromatic harmony. They may be compared to hillocks nestling round the Parnassian heights of Bach's St. Matthew. It has been fashionable to look down on them, but the best of them still retain their popularity, and to my mind there is still a place for them. Of this type Stainer's Crucifixion has worn as well as any. It has its weak spots, but its sound musical workmanship, its avoidance of extreme sentimentality, its simplicity and directness of expression stamp it as a model of its kind.

✧ ✧ ✧

I HAVE purposely refrained from speaking of "Messiah". In the first place it ranges from the Advent to the Second Coming of Christ and is thus appropriate at any season. Nevertheless the section dealing with the Passion contains some of Handel's finest inspiration, and it is easy to account for its popularity, though not so easy to account for the neglect of Handel's other oratorios. It would be a treat, for example, to hear his St. John Passion. This is a youthful work, written in Hamburg in the German manner before his journey to Italy that so profoundly influenced his style; yet it displays much of the Handelian vigour and pathos.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Resurrection has failed to inspire musicians to anything like the same extent as the Nativity or the Passion. The story itself lacks the drama and pageantry of the other two events in the life of Christ, and yet it seems that there is still an opportunity for somebody one of these days to produce an Easter cantata on the same scale as the St. Matthew Passion.

✧ ✧ ✧

HAVE you ever seen "The Slave of Duty", "The Lass that Loved a Sailor", or "The King of Barataria"? You probably have, for these are the alternative titles of "The Pirates of Penzance", "H.M.S. Pinafore" and "The Gondoliers". The alternative title is a pleasant custom that goes back a considerable time. The earliest example I can think of offhand is Greene's "The Spanish Tragedie, or Hieronimo is madde Againe". Shakespeare followed the fashion with his "Twelfth Night, or What you Will", and it flourished in the nineteenth century with titles such as "Eric, or Little by Little". "Don Giovannni, or the Libertine Punished", is the full title of Mozart's opera, but most operas content themselves with only one title. I have been thinking of a few alternative titles to be carried by operas like spare tires for use in emergencies: "Lohengrin, or What Every Bride Should Know", "Madam Butterfly, or a Yank in Japan", and "Boheme, or the Frozen Mitt". Perhaps readers might have some brilliant suggestions. I wish I could offer a subscription ticket to the Met or the Edinburgh Festival as a prize for the best entry, but I will do my best to offer a prize in keeping with the effort.

RED IN THE MORNING, A SAILOR'S WARNING

Letters To The Editors

OPPOSES CHAIN STORES

Sir: A news item about representatives of the chain stores protesting a bill increasing their taxes, afforded me considerable amusement. It doesn't take much to start some people squawking.

My father is an independent merchant who had the opportunity of serving on the W.P.-T.B. for several years in the capacity of inspector of meats and provisions, and I know whereof I speak. At home we were raised on the creed of "be loyal to your own community and deal with your local merchants wherever possible". So in spite of repeated arguments to the contrary by my friends and neighbours, I still continue to adopt this policy, even in face of the fact that my weekly grocery bill is a large one, quite out of proportion with the amount deemed wise, or essential, in government bulletins covering the feeding of six persons.

In self-defence, therefore, I listed my usual bulk order, complete with local prices, and wended my way to one of our largest chain stores on the pretext of procuring some small variety goods not in demand at the corner grocery—this was just a week ago as a matter of fact. After wandering confusedly through the unfamiliar maze and waiting long minutes in the line-ups, I managed to locate my usual brands and jot down the comparative prices. Imagine my utter amazement to find, not the huge savings I anticipated, but a mere 89c reduction on an order approximating $18.00 in value! Roughly speaking, an average of five measly cents per purchase dollar, out of which must be deducted bus fare for myself and young daughter, plus the usual fee for delivery charges. Scarcely worth my time, effort, and inconvenience!

I won't deny that most tinned goods and staples were one or two cents cheaper, which is easily understood when one considers the enormous amount of bulk buying on a "wholesale-retail" basis, with further privileges afforded by yearly contract prices (subject to decrease but not increase), and the added advantage of purchasing unbranded goods under their own packs.

The wonder to me is that the independent merchants haven't organized to buy in bulk and stabilize the prices throughout the city, instead of continuing in their futile attempts to slash prices against each other in their individual struggle to maintain existence. Perhaps the Government will not condone such group profiteering by the smaller men. The statement by the chain stores "that the efficient independent merchant has nothing to fear from chain-store competition" is a challenge to unity against a common cause.

Who is expected to support all local ventures wholeheartedly? The independent merchant usually has no choice, but is "listed" to donate to local charities, add to community welfare enterprises, offer prizes for contests sponsored by service clubs as well as help them with their deficits, buy tickets to the annual Firemen's Ball and all current concerts, be sympathetic with the needs of all church denominations, lend a helping hand to those in his own immediate district, buy a share to help build the local arena, support school and other municipal taxes, and make a general good fellow of himself on our behalf. In appreciation of which, we let the almighty dollar be our god and vote a goodly portion of our money each week to be sent out of town, instead of insuring that it be reconverted to use in our own community.

To my mind, the worst offenders are those who pride themselves on being the social, financial, and intellectual leaders, and who are the very ones to dash madly hither and yon in their cars chasing so-called bargains, and not out of financial necessity. In case of bad weather, however, or illness, they are only too glad to phone the nearest merchant for service and credit, and have even been known to interrupt him on Sundays (for friendship's sake) when unexpected visitors arrive. With the crisis safely past, they invariably leave their small items of credit to be carried indefinitely by the merchant, and rush right back to spend their cash at the chain stores. They even become offended if reminded of the fact, and indignant when refused the scarce commodities reserved for faithful customers.

These are typical examples of the narrow-minded and niggardly people whose whole thought is self. If we would unite and be more loyal to our own merchants, and help them build up our communities by our very friendship and support, then we would be well on the way to developing the strength of Canada as a whole.

Let us buy locally, buy Canadian goods, subscribe to Canadian magazines, support Canadian enterprises, encourage Canadian arts and culture, and each do our small share now toward nourishing and aiding the growth of our country to a proudly solidified nation capable of withstanding the threat of exploitation and eventual osmosis via the U.S.A.

Yours truly,
HOUSEWIFE.

THE CANADIAN ACCENT

Sir: Do you think all Canadians talk alike? I gather that you agree with Mr. Hankinson.

I have lived only in Ontario; but being an army wife have met people from most provinces. Surely anyone can detect a Montrealer at the first strident "darling!", a mid-Westerner by his peculiar nasal drawl and a Westerner by the almost lullaby-like quality of voice. A native of Ontario is usually nasal too; but speaks more quickly. In ten months' residence in the Ottawa Valley I have failed to detect the special accent you mention.

Must we have an accent? Perhaps as a tourist attraction it is desirable; but do you think many visitors would stay away from say Toronto if its residents pronounced its name properly rather than "Tronna"? I know that what would lure me to New Orleans (had I the wherewithal) would be the food, not the fact that the natives call it Nawleans or something. No, what I think we should aim at is lack of accent; (an accent, cultivated as such is an abomination as your radio will tell you) that lovely quality possessed by the late King George V. and F. D. Roosevelt, to mention two well-known voices, belonging to no country but acceptable to all.

Whatever the fault of the average Canadian voice, I do not think "mumbling" is the word that describes it.

Sincerely,
E. M. EVANS.

Billings Bridge.

Monks Bitter Over Bombing Cassino Abbey

By GEORGE BRIA

CASSINO, Italy, April 2 (AP) —"The Germans were never here."

Five years after the war the black - robed Benedictines of Monte-Cassino still bitterly protest that the Allied bombing of their abbey was unjustified.

The Monks are doubly resentful. They claim that the wartime "Voice of America" broadcast promises that the abbey, high on a hill dominating the Cassino battlefield, would be rebuilt with United States aid.

Little U.S. Aid

"All we've received from America is about $7,000 contributed by Benedictine orders after the war," said youthful Father Girolamo, who briskly shows visitors the fast moving reconstruction now going on, largely through Italian government assistance.

Father Girolamo said the "eternal question" of visitors is "Were the Germans here?"

"We'll insist forever that the Germans were not in the abbey because that's the truth, Father Girolamo said. "The nearest German position was a munitions deposit in a cave 30 metres (100 feet) away. A couple of German tanks occasionally moved on the road near the abbey walls."

The monastery, founded by St. Benedictine in 529, was destroyed three times by war and earthquake before the Allied bombardment pulverized it March 15, 1944. Ten Monks were there at the time but none was hurt. Italian refugees were less fortunate. Several hundred were killed.

Moved In Later

The Monks claim the Germans moved into the abbey after the bombing and fortified the ruins. The hill was captured in May 1944, by Gen. Wladislaw Anders' Polish troops, 1,080 of whom now lie in a military cemetery on a slope facing the abbey.

If a visitor is amazed at the reconstruction job already done, Father Girolamo warns him that appearances are deceptive. Walls of church, monastery and refectory are standing again, but the Monk points out "It's only a shell."

Take 10 Years

It may take another 10 years, he said, to rebuild the interior of the building whose treasures made the abbey one of the artistic wonders of the world.

If little American aid has gone to the abbey, much, on the other hand, has gone into rebuilding the town of Cassino in the valley below. Largely through the European Recovery Program, the ruins of war are fading and the town is rising again.

Actig Mayor Pietro Malatesta estimated 40 per cent of Cassino is rebuilt and 17,000 of the original 25,000 inhabitants are back in town.

Five thousand British troops who died in the battle of Cassino and the surrounding area are buried in a huge cemetery on the outskirts of town. American dead lie at Nettuno cemetery near Anzio.

Gold Coast Cult Robs Ignorant, Saved Often Die

By HENRY B. COLE

ACCRA, Gold Coast, April 2—(AP)—Despite condemnation as "a work of the devil" by the Christian Council of the Gold Coast, the Tigari cult is gaining new strength almost daily.

Its adherents are recruited from the great mass of illiterates in the Gold Coast. Tigari is a word of the Ga Tribe of the Gold Coast which means "black magic powder." It is a concoction of various African leaves ground to powder in an earthenware pot.

Tigari is alleged to have miraculous healing powers. It is supposed to make one rich, to assure success in trade, to make one popular. In fact, it is regarded by the superstitious as a veritable panacea for everything, including love, luck, riches and fame.

Cuts Wrists

The powder is administered through a razor cut in the wrist in varying degrees, according to the results desired.

The Tigari priests seem to have a special liking for illiterate market women and traders with some funds or goods. A person known to have money is first coaxed to the fetish where he is hypnotised by a priest or priestess.

He is made to confess to some "sinful" way of life and then is called on to make sacrifice in atonement. Usually it is a substantial part of his funds or goods. If the "sinner" is stubborn, he is given cola nut (favored by Africans for chewing), which has been soaked in crocodile bile. This makes him amenable to the directions of the priest. He may then bring his offering, after which he is disposed of in one way or another.

Inhuman Business

Usually he dies within a couple of weeks. Tigari cult leaders then hold rites for the "sinner" who "confessed when it was too late.

Newspapers and church leaders have called for a commission to study how best to curb the expansion of what one local paper called "this diabolical get-rich-quick inhuman business."

Pact Battle Plans Laid Should Reds Start West

By SIGRID ARNE

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—Behind closed doors in Washington, London, and Paris the countries of the west have worked out, over the last year, how they would fight together should the Russian armies start to roll west.

The North Atantic Pact, signed a year ago Tuesday, marks the first time in history that major powers have tried in peacetime to plan for group defence.

The pact ties together the 250,000,000 people of western Europe, the 150,000,000 of the United States and the 13,000,000 of Canada. It says that if any member country is attacked the rest will rally to its aid.

12 United

The pact ties together Britain, the United States Canada, France, Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Iceland, Portugal and Italy.

On the heels of the signing of the pact, the United States Congress voted $1,000,000,000 of military aid through next June 30 for the European partners in the pact. The two programs have been worked out together over the year.

The 12 countries have had two main jobs. To agree (1) how they woud work together and (2) how they would share military equipment and duties.

They have moved swiftly on the planning job, and on over-all military program, but the allocating of arms took 11 months.

Sent Planes

The first arms shipment was planes for France which left Norfolk, Va., early in March on a French carrier. Directly after, a flight of B-29s took off for Britain. From now on military equipment will be moving constantly from east-coast United States ports.

As the program proceeds, the Europeans have agreed to share whatever surpluses they can produce.

So far the pact certainly does not mean that the non-Commuist world has suddenly become much stronger. It will take months before that boast can be made, the experts say—and it will be a well-guarded secret even then.

Psychological Lift

United States State Department experts who worked on the pact do claim one new strength— the psychological lift of the co-operative planning for the millions of western Europe.

The pact has seriously disturbed the Russians. Just before it was signed, Moscow sent notes of protest to the western European capitals, calling it an aggressive alliance aimed at Russia.

In a public statement, the 12 western foreign ministers repeated for the dozenth time that it is a defensive group which would take action only against aggression from any sources.

Legionnaires Triumph, 5-4 To Rub Out Markham And Move Into Semi-Finals

Edging out Markham Millionaires 5-4 in Oshawa on Saturday night, the Legionnaires eliminated their strong opponents and moved into the OHA senior "B" semi-finals. A crowd of 3,500 saw Legion take the sixth game of their best-of-seven series to wind it up at four games to two in another fast, close and clean contest on the big Motor City sheet of ice. Legion were short a man all through the third period when Keith Montgomery drew a match misconduct penalty late in the middle heat for fighting with Watson in the penalty box, after they had drawn minor penalties for roughing. Watson got off with a misconduct. But seven penalties were handed out in the game. The score was 2-1 for Legion in the first frame and 3-2 for them going into the hot and even third stanza.

Bob Parnell, who played an outstanding game all through, being in on three goals, got the winner late in the third. He battled out of a corner in the Markham zone and back-handed a sizzler by a surprised goalie, and that one broke the 4-4 deadlock. Legion hung on grimly the rest of the route as the Millionaires shot the works in a gallant but vain attempt to again sew it up.

Johnny Godfrey also played a starry role both on defence and on the attack, setting up two Legion goals. Bill Crowley and Joe Rochetta were others in on a pair apiece, Joe hitting the twine twice on nice efforts. Dootch Vitarelli, Toodie Greenlaw and Sixty Coombs were each in on one. Ross Nicholls was his usual steady self in goal, and all the rest of the squad worked like troopers in fashioning the victory for Coach Jim Ellis. Singleton and Breenan were the big guns for Markham, and Stunden turned in a bangup performance in the net, as they all fought furiously.

Won It There

It opened fast and right in the first period Legion won the game by having edge on play. Montgomery went off early for elbowing but they checked well till his return. Then Coombs tore in fast on a partial breakaway — with Markham up the ice but for one defenceman — taking Parnell's pass after a feed-up flip from Godfrey and he nicked the net corner nicely. Sluce was gated for interference and a Crowley-Vitarelli thrust almost paid off. With all back, Rochetta scored in close after neat passing combination with Crowley and Godfrey from an angle to make it 2-0. Bell got one back on Singleton's corner passout, being left uncovered on Nicholls' doorstep. Burns was chased for holding near the finish.

Markham pressed for a space in the even middle heat, but Legion also threatened at times. Rochetta finally got through to tally a nice one from Crowley and Vitarelli as Legion started buzzing around again. Vitarelli and later Parnell had good tries and Stunden robbed Hill on a breakaway. Burns was gated for tripping, and Fred Scott followed for falling on the puck. Then, Brennan broke in fast with Singleton's pass and a sizzling shot to score. Play was hot and referees warned the players on each side about arguing over offsides, etc. Montgomery and Watson roughed it up to draw minors, and then Keith started a fight in the sin bin to draw a match misconduct, Watson getting a misconduct. It was fast, even hockey at the gong.

The Big One

Doug Mortimer counted a goal but it was offside to open the third. Greenlaw got one from Parnell on an in-close faceoff and slap shot. Brennan bored through with Singleton's pass to get that one right back neatly and they pressed hard with Greenlaw off for interference. He returned and Crowley got it for cross-checking but again Legion held them out. Later, Singleton got a big hand when he scored the tying goal from Brennan at point-blank range as they swarmed in hotly. Legion fought right back and at 17.25, Parnell battled his way out of a corner with the bootheel and backhanded a high one into a corner of the hemp back of the startled goalie, who wasn't expecting the shot from that angle. They tore in desperately the rest of the way but Legion checked grimly and held them off till the final gong sounded.

Toronto Montgomery Maids took the Eastern Canada Senior Girls' basketball championship Saturday night with a hard-fought 34-25 victory over Montreal Olympics.

The Maids carried a 13-point lead into the second game of the total-point series after a 44-31 win over the Olympics Friday night, thus winning the round by 78-56.

The Olympics, from the Point St. Charles Athletic Association, played brilliant ball but couldn't match the well-polished passing plays of the Toronto girls.

Montgomery Maids will meet the Western Canada champions, either Vancouver Eilers or Winnipeg for the Dominion championship.

Toronto led from the first whistle, outplaying their opposition in every quarter.

Britons spent almost £50,000,000 ($155,000,000 at current rates) betting on football pools in 1949—an average of about £1 for every man, woman and child. Douglas Jay, financial secretary to the Treasury, said Saturday the government had collected £14,808,102 in taxes on the pools last year.

Olympia and a near-record crowd of 50,518 customers celebrated the return of racing to New York Saturday, with Fred Hooper's Speedy Star winning the $30,450 Paumonok Handicap. For Olympia and jockey Eddie Acaro it was a triumphant return to Jamaica where last spring they swept everything in sight.

The winner was timed in 1:10 4-5 and returned $6.60, $4.60 and $3.10. Jamaica's record opening day crowd was 56,115 in 1946.

The Hollywood Baseball Club startled the fans and probably the baseball world Saturday when the stars took the field wearing shorts. Manager Fred Haney developed the idea and said it was no April Fool joke. Appearing in the abbreviated garb similar to a pair of basketball pants and a light, short-sleeve shirt, the stars drew raised eyebrows and a generous share of ribbing from their rivals in the Pacific Coast League, Portland Beavers.

Fleet Argo lived up to the first part of his name Saturday by zipping home first in track record time to head a field of 11 including two Kentucky Derby nominees, in the $7,500 Laurel Stakes for three-year-olds at Laurel, Md. The D. K. Kerr, Jr., color-bearer surprised a crowd of 21,826 by coming home half a length in front of the favorite, Mrs. James Carson's Kinsman, R. M. Wood's High Frequency was third. Fleet Argo paid $18.80 to win.

Tony Galento, the one-time heavyweight boxing contender, "boxed" three rounds with Teddy, a 550-pound bear, Saturday, and was knocked down twice. Galento hit the canvas for counts of six and seven in the second round. The bear, a veteran of the Sportsman's Show circuit and an old hand at boxing humans, wore a muzzle and regular boxing gloves. Galento wore a ferocious grimace.

Six pacing and trotting horses valued at about $15,000 and including the well-known Amber Grattan, were lost in a fire that destroyed a large barn at the Community Park, Exeter, Ont., Saturday night. One horse was saved. Owned by Thomas Yearley of Crediton, Amber Grattan was said to be valued at $5,000.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who plays out of St. Andrews, Ill., pulled himself together on the back nine Sunday to post a one-under-par 71, and win the Wilmington (NC) open golf tournament by two strokes. Second with 73 for 282 was George Fazio, Washington pro. Victory in the $10,000 tournament was worth $2,000 to Harrison, 1949 Canadian open winner, and shot him up from 15th to 9th on the year's money list with $3,894. Fazio's $1,400 boosted him to $4,868 and seventh place.

Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath Saturday handed Congress two Bills to smash at organized gambling — which has been called the United States underworld's biggest source of revenue. One would bar interstate transmission of gambling information on horse races, football, baseball, basketball, or any other sporting event. The other aims to halt shipment of slot machines to States which outlaw them.

Harry H. Roberts, 77, formerly a noted cricket player, died on Saturday. For many years he wrote a cricket column under the by-line "Mid-on" for the old Toronto Mail and Empire. He was the first cricket player in Toronto to score a century in first-class cricket.

Stanley (The Wizard) Matthews, renowned Blackpool soccer star, has decided to take his place on an English all-star team to tour Canada this summer rather than bid for a trip to Rio to help England compete for the World Cup, it was reported on Sunday.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

By losing in Oshawa on Saturday and forcing a seventh game in Peterborough tonight, Legionnaires could have assured themselves of about an $800 gate. But they don't play it that way—they always play to win every game. So they cleaned up their series with Markham by beating 'em 5-4 right in the Motor City on Saturday, taking four games to two in their best-of-seven serial. And that puts them into provincial senior "B" semi-finals. Looks like they'll go against the Toronto winner next, and the victor of that will meet the Brantford-Sarnia winner in Ontario finals. Don't know yet when the next game will be.

* * * * * *

A lot of local folks didn't think the Ellis outfit would ever get by Markham, and we too figured it would be a real toughie. But Legion don't scare easily. They reckoned they could beat the classy Millionaires and—though losing twice to 'em—did the job in convincing style. Played their old championship form last two games to earn victories against a real good club. Which means they're a real good club themselves, one of the top senior "B" squads in the province. They think they can get by the Toronto threat now to go into the finals once more, and we feel the same on that.

They Whooped It Up

An Oshawa official estimated the Saturday night crowd as at least 3,500, which is a whopping turnout for two out-of-town teams. Hundreds from here and of course many Markham rooters to whoop it up. They even sold out the press box back of the timers' bench and we got ousted, having to view the fray from way up in the gondola. While the game was clean, Montgomery drew a match misconduct for fighting in the sin bin in the second period and that left Legion shy a player on the bench the rest of the route. They were shorthanded fairly frequently, it seemed, but came up with some great defensive hockey to hold out the fast-stepping Millionaires.

Ross Nicholls is really hot in the hemp tepee during these playdowns, and his defence works hard every tilt. Godfrey was his masterful self again in a swell display, while Doug Mortimer and Al Burns never eased up. All the forwards were flying up and down, with Bob Parnell the main sniper—and he got the winning goal on a nifty lone effort. Crowley and Rochetta were plenty effective, too, but then the whole team were clicking like castanets. Had to as Markham didn't quit till that last welcome gong sounded. Legionnaires were a tired but happy bunch at the finish, and the Peterborough fans gave them a rousing ovation as they skated off.

Indians In Playoffs

Tom Staves advises us that Lakefield Indians go next against Georgetown in a best-of-five OHA intermediate "B" semi-final series. First game at Georgetown tomorrow eve and then back here at Civic Arena at 8.30 this Thursday night. The other semi-final bracket has Sundridge playing off with Milverton, so the end is nearly in sight for the Indians, win or lose. Playing coach Percy Nicholls has a good strong squad (though Ernie Nicholls' injury was a tough blow to them) and they hope to sail right through to a provincial title this year. Thursday's tilt here should draw another hefty city and district crowd.

* * * * * *

A crowd of 14,563 packed Maple Leaf Gardens on Saturday p.m. and saw the Leafs blank Wings 2-0 to go up two games to one in the Stanley Cup semi-finals. They play there again tomorrow and move back to Detroit on Thursday. As often happens, the fans went to see a blood-letting battle and it turned out to be an exceptionally clean contest, the only ones nicked being those buying scalpers' ducats at $10 and $12 a copy. Rangers beat Canadiens 3-2 for a two-game lead in their series before more than 15,000 customers in the last tussle at Madison Square Garden. Circus moves in now, so remaining jousts of that serial will be played in Montreal.

Four rinks curling at Orillia B. Harrison's rink coming fourth.

On top of all this, word came that Dr. R. Clark's rink of Mrs. A. Jones and Mrs. L. Browne, and F. Green won the Orr Trophy at Midland.

In the finals between Dr. McKee and V. Selkirk it was close all the way until the ninth end when the Doctor helped himself to a big four and that settled the issue. And by the way this same rink won this same trophy last season.

In the consolation final it was K. Bissett all the way—his rink took an early lead and was never headed.

The skating went over big and many curlers who haven't had skates on (please don't mistake our meaning) for many years did a swell job.

Taking it all in all its was a great wind-up to a great season of a great sport.

Don't forget the curler's banquet, Empress Hotel, 7:15 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Reardon, April Fool Happened Same Day

MONTREAL, April 3—(CP)—April Fool's Day was also the birthday of Kenny Reardon, the rambuctious defenceman of Montreal Canadiens.

Blandly taking his 29th birth anniversary in his stride, Reardon showed up at the Forum for a pre-game team gathering to discuss ways and means of halting New York Rangers Saturday night. (Rangers won, 3-2).

It was the uninhibited Reardon, incidentally, who drew five penalties in the series opener in New York Wednesday.

Awaiting him at the Forum was a telegram from his sister in Regina extending birthday greetings.

But the address on the telegram just about floored Reardon. It said: "Care of Penalty Box, Forum."

Australian Captures 3 Swimming Records

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 3 (AP)—John Marshall, the sleek Australian, Saturday night bettered two more world swimming records including one made by Japan's great Hironoshin Furuhashi. Marshall sped the 400 metres free style in 4:29.5 and 440 yards in 4:31.2.

Marshall, in winning his third United States AAU individual crown, placed his name boldly alongside swimming's immortals. Only five men in the 46 years of the American championship have won three crowns, and none has assaulted world records the way Marshall did.

Friday night Marshall lowered the 200-yard free style record.

The listed record for 400 metres is 4:34.6 by Furuhashi, the sensation of the outdoor championships last summer in Los Angeles, and the 400-yard mark in 4:38.5 by Bill Smith. Furuhashi has a time of 4:33.3 for 400 metres pending, but Marshall's super performance knocked almost four seconds off it.

Marshall, a 20-year-old freshman at Yale University, swam only one race but was timed for both distances. The 440 yards is about 10 feet longer than 400 metres.

Centralia Flyers Capture Title

COBOURG, April 3 (ENS) — After getting into the provincial intermediate "C" basketball finals Cobourg Legionnaires lost the Ontario title to Centralia Flyers on Saturday night by the score of 63-45. In the first of the two-game finals played on Friday night, Cobourg won by the count of 50-49.

The Flyers, handicapped on the first night by a smaller gym than the one they were accustomed to, got the range better on Saturday and not only shot more accurately but played more effective combination. The locals were slow getting started and by half time trailed the visitors, 15-45. Cobourg were better in the second half, scoring 30 points to the visitors' 18 but were unable to overcome the margin gained by the Flyers in the first half. Galvin was the top scorer for the Flyers, accounting for 26 points and Jobb registered 20. Hircock and Jamieson each recorded 16 points for Cobourg. Following were the line-ups:

Centralia—Jobb (20), MacLachlin, Andrews (3), Buttons, McLeod (8), Seedhouse (1), Galvin (26), Boudreau, Hanley (5), MacCredy and Stacey.

Cobourg—Jamieson (16), Hamilton (7), Hircock (16), McGuire (2), Quigley (1), Bevan, Allender 2), Holman, Lane (1).

Rangers Win Sunday 4-1 One More To Take Series

By AL COLLETTI

NEW YORK, April 3—(CP)—Pentti Lund, the good-looking Finnish-born left-winger, was the man of the hour today as a joyous band of New York Rangers headed for Montreal, needing but one more victory to advance to the Stanley Cup finals—something they haven't been able to do in a decade.

The 24-year-old Lund, only in his third year as a professional, scored three goals Sunday night to lead the eager Rangers to an easy 4-1 victory over the Canadiens.

It was the third straight Ranger triumph over the Canadiens in the best-of-seven semi-final cup playoffs and the second in as many nights. New York came from behind with two goals in the last 10 minutes of play at Montreal Saturday night to edge the Flying Frenchmen 3-2.

Four Straight

Coach Dick Irvin's men now face the tremendous task of winning four straight to qualify for the finals against the winner of the Detroit-Toronto series. And they must do it without the services of their great defensive star, Kenny Reardon, who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the final 15 seconds of the Montreal game and is out for the remainder of the playoffs.

In polishing off Montreal during the week-end it was Lund and his able linomates, Don Raleigh and Ed Slowinski, that made the big difference. The Canadiens had nothing equal to the brilliance of this trio, which has accounted for seven of the 10 Ranger goals in the series.

"The big one" for the Rangers to win was Saturday night's affair at the Forum. Behind 2-1 in the 12th minute of the third period, they got a break when defenceman Doug Harvey and centre Kenny Mosdell drew penalties within a few seconds of each other. Buddy O'Connor drove in a partially-screened shot while Montreal was two men shy to knot the count at 2-2.

Lund Evens Score

At 13.34, just as the Canadiens regained full strength, Slowinski fired home the winning goal on a combination play with Lund and defenceman Gus Kyle. The Canadiens had gone ahead 2-0 in the first 10 minutes of the opening session on goals by Floyd Curry and Norm Dussault. Lund got one back for the Rangers at 10.10.

A crowd of 14,303 packed the Forum to watch the upset.

Sunday night a near-sellout crowd of 15,315 at the Garden saw an entirely different type of game. With the pressure on the Canadiens, the Rangers refused to budge in their stern play. They were never behind.

Shadowed Richard

Lund, besides scoring three goals, played a tremendous defensive game in "shadowing" Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, who again was blanked. He hasn't been able to garner as much as an assist in the series thus far. But he did have bad luck Sunday night. Three of his shots hit on or near the goal-posts but wouldn't go in.

Slowinski got a goal and two assists and Raleigh three assists. Besides his three-goal stint Lund notched an assist on the second Ranger goal to give him four points for the night. He now has four goals and three assists for seven points—more than any other player in the playoffs.

Exchange Goals

The Rangers started to march to their third victory at 7.12 of the first period. Lund whipped in a Raleigh-Slowinski relay from the outside crease. A little more than two minutes later Bert Hirschfeld, a rookie from Montreal's farm at Cincinnati, evened the score when he swooped in and lifted Jerry Plamondon's rebound over goalie Chuck Rayner's head.

Two of the Rangers' next three goals came while Montreal was short-handed. Curry was in the penalty box when Slowinski converted a Raleigh-Lund relay after a face-off in Montreal territory in the 15th minute of the opening frame.

Montreal went all out in the middle period when the Canadiens forced Rayner to make 13 saves.

Lund got his second at 14.20 of the middle session on a 10-foot shot that bounced off Durnan's pads. He completed the scoring in the second minute of the final session while Mosdell of the Canadiens was in the penalty box.

After the game, in the dressing room Lund jubilantly exclaimed: "I had three good shots on goal, and they all went in."

Leafs Grab Second Win 2-0 Teams Play Clean Hockey

TORONTO, April 3 (CP) — Hockey's most famous trade paid Toronto Maple Leafs another dividend Saturday when they defeated Detroit Red Wings 2-0, to take a lead of 2-1 in games in their best of seven Stanley Cup semi-final. The fourth game will be played here Tuesday night.

Key man in the victory was Max Bentley, who scored the goal and set up the other, while turning in a terrific job of fore-checking. Also prominent in the win were veteran goalie Turk Broda, with his second shut-out in three games, and Joe Klukay, the 27-year-old left-winger from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who scored the other goal.

Bentley Trade

Bentley, the spidery 150-pounder from Delisle, Sask., joined Leafs in November, 1947, in the celebrated five-for-two trade with Chicago Black Hawks. He's been proving the trading prowess of Leafs' managing director Conn Smythe ever since. Smythe gave up a forward line and two defencemen to get the dipsy-doodle playmaker and Cy Thomas, who didn't fit into Leaf plans and was later released.

Bentley helped the Leafs to two Stanley Cup triumphs, their second and third in a row, and has piled up three assists and a goal in the Leafs' present drive to a fourth Stanley Cup in succession.

Both Toronto goals came in the second period before a crowd of 14,563. Bentley stickhandled through the Detroit defence for a shot that was blocked by Harry Lumley. The rebound went to blond Ray Timgren who snapped a pass to Klukay. The latter, who scored two goals in the first game at Detroit, promptly blasted a high shot into an open corner of the Detroit goal.

Clincher Scored

The insurance goal came 20 seconds before the second period ended. Timgren carried the puck up to one side of the Detroit defence and slid a pass to Bentley, who rifled a shot between Lumley's legs.

The game was a sharp contrast to the two previous encounters at Detroit. In the opener, last Tuesday, when Leafs won 5-0, and Detroit's great forward Gordon Howe was injured, 22 penalties were handed out including a misconduct and four majors. Thursday's game, won 3-1 by Detroit, was also rough with 20 penalties.

But Saturday referee Bill Chadwick clamped down early. He called three minor penalties in the first period and the penalty box was deserted the rest of the night as the well-handled contest provided a great exhibition of clean hockey.

Robbed Detroit

Broda handled only 17 shots compared to 31 drilled at Lumley, but Broda, at his best when the chips are down, saved on at least three seemingly sure-fire goals.

The Red Wings left immediately after the game for Hamilton, where they will remain until just before Tuesday night's game. The Toronto club remained in town overnight and left Sunday for St. Catharines.

Marlboros Take Easy 7-1 Victory

OTTAWA, April 3—(CP)—Toronto Marlboros today appeared headed for an easy victory in their Eastern Canada semi-final hockey series in the Allan Cup playoffs unless Cornwall Calumets show more than they did in the opening game.

The Marlboros took the opening game in a breeze, winning 7-1 to leave no doubt of their superiority in that game at least. The second game of the best-of-seven series will be played in Toronto tonight.

About 6,500 fans saw the Calumets wilt under the powerful Marlboro attack, led by right-winger Scotty Mair with four goals and a pair of assists.

George Armstrong, John McLellan and Bill (Red) Johnson rounded out the Toronto scoring. Guy Henri was the lone Cornwall sniper.

The Marlboros had little difficulty running up a 4-0 lead in the opening stanza. They split two goals with the Calumets in the middle frame and hammered in two more without a reply in the final period.

The survivor of this series will advance into the Eastern Canada final with either Sherbrooke Saints or Sydney Millionaires for the right to meet the Western Canada champions for the Allan Cup.

7 Hockey Fans Injured On Way To Game

Seven Peterborough youths received minor cuts and bruises Saturday night when their panel truck plunged into a 10-foot ditch and rolled over twice, a mile south of Bailieboro.

All were taken to St. Joseph's hospital where they were given medical treatment by Dr. Robert Young. Five of them were discharged immediately and the other two were allowed to go home Sunday night.

Fitzgerald and Sullivan were the worst hurt of the seven and were kept under observation until Sunday night.

On Way To Game

The party were on their way to the Legion-Markham hockey game. They left the city shortly before 8 p.m. and the accident occurred at 8:20 p.m.; a mile south of Bailieboro on Highway 28.

Crebar, driver of the panel truck, pulled out to pass another southbound car. He skidded on the road and the truck fell into the 10-foot ditch, over a cement culvert. The vehicle continued down the ditch for about 100 feet, turned over a couple of times and came to rest on its side.

Loss is estimated at $1,700 as the truck is a total wreck.

Provincial Constables Roy Feeley and T. Fitzpatrick brought Crebar, Brady and Spencer back to Peterborough for medical treatment; a passing motorist brought the other four.

Other Accidents

There were a number of other accidents over the weekend.

Three guard rails were clipped off Saturday night on Highway 7, west of Indian River school. A car driven by Jessie Lamb, 40, of Omemee went out of control when it hit a slippery spot on the highway and slewed off into the ditch.

About $200 damage was caused to the car but Miss Lamb was uninjured. Provincial Constables Roy Feeley and F. G. Pollitt investigated.

William A. Wilson, driving north on Highway 28, a mile north of Bailieboro, skidded on the road surface and went into the ditch striking a telephone pole. Car damage was set at $100.

Saturday afternoon John S. Clarke of Toronto ran into the east ditch while driving north, a mile north of Fraserville. There was slight damage to the car.

Two cars were involved in a minor collision early Sunday morning, a half mile north of Springville on Highway 28. Gerald M. Joyce of Lansdowne St. was driving uphill when his left fender collided with the left front fender of another car driven by John C. Shappee, Belleville.

Both vehicles received slight damage.

Provincial Constable Archie Grayling investigated.

Police In Accident

Constable Grayling was himself involved in an accident early Sunday morning when his cruiser collided with another car on Highway 28 near Bailieboro. Damage was $250 to the cruiser.

The other car met the provincial cruiser head-on and received about $150 damage. William J. Tulley of Aylmer St., was the second driver.

When Earlim MacInnes, Aylmer St., turned out of the old Keene Road, Sunday morning, his car collided with an eastbound car driven by Douglas McNevan of Keene. The accident occurred a mile east of Peterborough on Highway 7.

Minor damage resulted.

Provincial Constable C. W. Tutton investigated.

The Queens Hotel was robbed of nearly $1,000 during the week-end. The loss was discovered early today by Miss Mary Lou King, daughter of Pete King, the proprietor, when she went to the cash register in the beverage room.

A sum of money between $800 and $1,000 was missing from the register.

Penzance Pirates Give Crowds Tuneful Delight

By T. J. ALLEN

The blend of Brighton pier, the London music hall, unabashed sentiment, good tunes and satific wit which never scalds, still wins hearts and kindles enthusiasm in the post-war atomized age. It is Gilbert and Sullivan of course, and in top form: The Pirates of Penzance. Canada Packers Operatic Society of Toronto gave afternoon and evening performances of this seventy year old comic opera at the Collegiate auditorium Saturday to full houses.

The Canada Packers group's performance and Saturday's audiences should disprove the notion that Gilbert and Sullivan is passe, is popular only as a pious resurrection, or demands the craft and artifices of the D'Oyle Carte company to sustain it now. The pirates were bowed down before the magistral name Victoria and the Bobbies ("a policeman's lot is not a happy one") rose from their tremulous knees (dusty on the PCVS stage—why is it always so dirty?) to vanquish the pirates by virtue of the magic power of Victoria's law. When the audience rose to sing God Save the King with the chorus, they sang heartily, with refreshed heart. Did some leap back over the years to "God Save the Queen"?

Positive Music

Sullivan's music mocks opera and Handel; Gilbert's words the institutions and complacency of his era. But in both is a basic assumption that God is in his heaven and that all is pretty well right with the world. It is this positive faith, which will give Gilbert and Sullivan life long after Noel Coward is in limbo.

The sets were not adequate, according to Peterborough standards, but who bothers about sets when there is the delightful freshness of daisies in the chorus of daughters and ladies surrounding General Stanley, and when the coppers' precision rows with their truncheons take the stage? The Sergeant of Police (James Green) with his fulsome strut and genial humanity hit the audience at the belt.

Major General Stanley (Emlyn Plummer) was excellently cast. What he lacked in voice— and that was not much, for it was in keeping with his part—was made up in deportment and mien. The convention that the upright, innocent, Frederick, apprentice-pirate, (Sidney Wrightson) was 21 was accepted on account of his good speaking and singing voice (marred Saturday by laryngitis). The Pirate King's costume and wig (Arthur Sclater) were neither frankly fantastic nor frankly pirate, but he got beyond the costume, as the applause for his opening song and chorus showed. Mabel (Doris Newton Lee), the girl who wins Frederick, gave a strong, true soprano performance and sent the audience home with the theme tune of "Poor Wandering One" in their ears.

Near-Professional

The Canada Packers Operatic Society is not a professional group nor are any professional singers specially employed. But they are far from being an amateur church troupe. They have the freshness of ardent amateurs, and, under the tutelage and skilled direction of W. R. Curry, the accomplishment of near-professionals. It is a happy combination in Gilbert and Sullivan for a provincial stage.

The director-conductor quite properly highlighted the Sullivan themes which must stand alone as music of high quality—as, for instance, the unaccompanied "Hail Poetry," at the end of the first act.

I should like to say a word about the orchestra. More than half of it was made up of Peterborough musicians; Mr. Curry brought with him from Toronto only the trumpet, the drums, the oboe, the piano, a violin, and the cornet. The others were Peterborough folk. That he could rely on Peterborough to such an extent indicates that there is more than the germ of an orchestra here. Local players were Cecil Searles, violin; Mrs. E. M. Foster violin; T. Smith, cello; Norman Moffatt, clarinet; Frank Hully bassoon, and Bert McFadden, double bass. If the orchestra was not outstanding, it was competent and not blatant.

St. Paul's "Young Married Couples" group are to be congratulated on making this "Pirates of Penzance" available to Peterborough.

RECEIPTS UP

Customs receipts for March were $430,792.44, a spokesman for the Customs office said today. This is an increase on last year's figure of $353,053.32.

Reeves Aroused By High Levy, Special Session

A rousing session of Reeves of various townships in the Lakefield school area is slated to take place in the Lakefield Town Hall on Wednesday evening. Upon receipt of an unprecedented High School tax levy, the meeting has been arranged to find out the reason for it all.

The 9.4 mill assessment increase for Lakefield's current year was caused by the District High School Board's requisition for 1950 that jumped from 2.4 mills to 8.1. It was brought about by the increase of almost 50 per cent in teachers' salaries and almost 100 per cent in transportation of outside pupils.

Assessment demands made on participating townships were as follows: Smith township, $11,930; Lakefield, $6,775; Harvey, $4,055; Burleigh and Anstruther, $2,130; and Chandos Township, $1,580.

None of the reeves of these townships would comment on what their municipality's increase would mean in the matter of increased mill rates but intimated that it would be considerable.

"Wait until the matter is threshed out on Wednesday evening," was the reply to our survey.

Cars Collide In Snow Storm

Driving conditions were bad in the city Saturday afternoon and evening when falling snow made visibility poor and the pavements were slushy.

Four incidents involving collisions between vehicles on city streets were investigated by city constables.

Cecil Neals, R. R. 3, Peterborough, lost control of his car on Clonsilla Avenue during the afternoon and landed in a ditch. The bracket on the front bumper was broken and also the grill and radiator. Constables Claire McGillen and Andy Dalton investigated.

Evan Fraser, 335 Park Hill Rd., and Morris Adams, 223 Caddy St., collided as they were backing their cars on to Park Hill Road from opposite sides of the street. The left front door, body, rear fender and running board of Mr. Adam's car were damaged. Constables Dennis Traynor and Grant Gillespie investigated.

Davis G. Fortner, 480 Gilmour Street and Clinton D. W. Rowe, 580 Aylmer Street, collided at the intersection of Charlotte and Stewart Street. Snow was falling heavily when the incident occurred.

Mr. Fortner's right front fender and headlight was smashed and the front left door panel of Mr. Rowe's car was damaged.

The incident was reported to Constable Harold Mesley.

A car and a motorcycle collided shortly before midnight at the McDonnel-Aylmer Street intersection.

Angus S. McLellan, 670 Aylmer Street was driving the motorcycle round the corner from McDonnel to Aylmer Street and the car driven by F. T. Taft, 417 Dublin Street was also at the intersection. R. Welsh, 651 Gilchrist Street was a passenger in the car.

Mr. Taft received a cut head requiring medical aid and Mr Welsh had a minor leg injury but did not need medical care.

The right front door of the car was dented and the right rear fender was scraped. The cycle had a broken windscreen and the right handlebar was bent.

Building Permits Low In First Quarter Year

Building permits for the first quarter amounted to $132,624 as compared with $730,736 for the first three months of last year.

March permits issued through the office of City Engineer Chalmers were: One house $6,200 and 23 miscellaneous permits $15,543.

The third month last year started Peterborough substantially on the way to the biggest building total in its history. Details were: One garage, $100; 13 houses, $75,100; and 37 miscellaneous permits, $559,272.

The total for the first quarter of 1949 was close to $600,000 more than the corresponding period this year.

More Robins Arrive

April came in like a wet hen Saturday as March departed unhonored and unsung by any of the music of spring. Robins arrived in numbers Thursday and Friday, but for them there was no stage setting of blue skies, sunshine and the other props of the new season. March was no lion in his going, never to return for a second entry and performance. He retreated as a churlish fellow out of sorts with the spirit of the vernal season. As a spring month he was almost a total loss. The catkins are showing in the line of osiers along the fence and lambs are still gamboling as if they had discovered a wonderful world in the barnyard.

Four Injured, Cars Wrecked Near Marmora

MARMORA, April 3—(ENS)—Four persons were injured early Saturday evening in a collision on No. 7 Highway near the turn to Crowe Lake between a car driven by Claude Tucker of Stirling and another driven by John Youmans of RR.R. 3 Havelock.

The injured were John Youmans, who suffered chest injuries and a fractured right leg; his brother, Herbert Youmans, lacerations on the top of his head and forehead; Mrs. Myrtle Youmans, wife of Herbert Youmans, fractures of left knee and left wrist and nose; Mrs. Claude Tucker, lacerations of the left wrist.

Following treatment of the four patients by Dr. W. J. Donevan of Marmora, John Youmans and Miss Myrtle Youmans were taken to Belleville General Hospital by ambulance.

The Youmans' car was a total wreck and the other car was badly damaged.

The accident occurred at 4.45 p.m., when the Youmans' car proceeding west, met the Tucker car as it was approaching Marmora.

There were only the three occupants in the Youmans' car, but passengers of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tucker and infant daughter Donna, also of Stirling. Provincial Officer Hector Gould of Madoc, investigated.

200 Skaters Take Part In Colorful Carnival

The skating carnival presented Saturday by Peterborough Figure Skating Club was a magnificent achievement. Throughout the afternoon and evening, at two performances in the crowded Civic Arena, some 200 adults and children presented a variety of items combining grace and charm with caprice and great skill. For those who may have been unaware of the abilities of Peterborough skaters it was an exciting revelation.

Superb choreography, particularly when as many as 80 skaters were on the ice at one time, and costumes which made every number a beautiful spectacle, contributed towards the excellent overall effect.

Mayday Ballet

The carnival opened with a mayday ballet. Entering in total darkness, the corps de ballet was first revealed by a spotlight and later full illumination of the ice. Clad in red and blue, the group formed a charming picture and as the dance proceeded, the excellent atmosphere created by the first tableau appearance remained.

The ballerina was Marlyn McInroy, who skated gracefully and wore a pretty white net ballet dress.

The 23 skaters kept splendid time performing as a unified company, and as the program continued, this fine standard was maintained.

Albert Galoska and his son Jim, introduced a pleasant touch of humorous skating as a horse, with Jack Martin as their master.

Authorship In Canada Found Most Unprofitable

"The business of being an author in Canada is not much different from being an author anywhere else, except that in Canada authorship is more startlingly unprofitable," said Robertson Davies, editor of the Examiner, to the Canadian Club at Ottawa, as reported in the Ottawa Journal.

But, there was certain credit to be derived, he acknowledged, from doing something which brought in singularly little remuneration. Such an occupation immediately became both mysteriously and enjoyably gentlemanly in the eyes of those who did not engage in it.

It appears that the theme of Mr. Davies' talk was how to become an author in Canada and why not to.

"If you have my rules and some luck, you can probably dispense with talent. The first rule is that you must write one book," said the editor of the Peterborough Examiner, and added with an accent of afterthought, "perhaps you should never write another."

That rule was not quite so stupid as it sounded, he said, because not a few authors built their reputations entirely on the intention of writing a book.

A second requisite was a clear understanding that you wouldn't make a living out of writing books. Some other easy and pleasant occupation, like being a newspaper editor, was necessary.

"There is nothing easier than being an editor. All you have to do is confirm what your readers already think, and you will soon have a reputation as a moulder of opinion."

On the other hand writing humorously and daily for a newspaper wasn't at all an easy job.

"You must not expect to be master of your fate or sole professor of your own personality. You become one of the natural resources of the country, open to enquiries from anyone who wanted to make $50 writing an article about you."

"The desire to make authors explain themselves is deathless," Mr. Davies complained, mentioning long interviews in which earnest biographers asked what were his motivations and sources when they meant "Why did you do it? And who are you pinching it from?"

On a more serious level, Mr Davies said he was not a cultural nationalist. The brightest future for literature in Canada didn't lie in the path of a self-conscious nationalism, in spite of the pressure on Canadian authors from some quarters to be narrowly Canadian in their writing.

"It is easy to say we should have a literature which springs out of our own country, but it is hard to do.

Otonabee Man's Leg Is Broken

Herbert Pluard, 33, of Otonabee is in St. Joseph's Hospital with a broken right leg sustained Saturday night when he was knocked down by a car near the Brookside Pavilion.

Today he is reported to be resting comfortably.

Pluard was struck down when standing beside his car on Highway 7. Another car driven by Graydon Sheldon collided with Pluard's parked vehicle.

The injured man's vehicle was knocked into the ditch and he was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. His car received minor damage while Sheldon's will likely amount to $200.

Provincial Constables Russ Pollard and Fred Pollitt investigated.

Market Clerk Resigns Parking Out Of Hand

The resignation of Harry Gabbutt, market clerk, is likely to be confirmed tonight by the council in accepting its own committee recommendation.

In a letter to the council, Mr. Gabbutt requested that his resignation be effective April 15. He complained that parking on the market had got out of his control owing to lack of co-operation, it was said, from the police department.

It was suggested that Mr. Gabbutt be interviewed about reconsidering his letter. Acceptance of the resignation was moved by Ald. Hugh Waddell and Ald. E. C. Braund in committee of the whole.

$125 Pension IUE Objective

PITTSBURGH, April 3 (AP)—CIO Electrical Workers Sunday demanded "a substantial wage increase" plus company-financed pensions and social insurance.

The new International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO) presented its contract goals after three days of closed-door sessions here. The demands were drawn by leaders of 210,000 workers in four big electrical manufacturing firms in the United States.

The IUE wants a minimum pension payment of $125 a month. Pension and social insurance objectives are patterned after those sought last year in the steel industry.

The demands will be levelled against Westinghouse Electric Corporation, General Electric Company, General Motors Corporation (Electrical Division) and Sylvania Electric Products Company. None of those companies now have pension or insurance plans wholly financed by the employer.

Reform Term For Receiving Stolen Bonds

A sentence of five months definite and three indefinite in reformatory was imposed on James Atkins, Peterborough, in city police court today when he pleaded guilty to receiving stolen bonds to the value of $600.

The bonds were the property of George Alexander, King Street. Sergeant Detective William Clarke told the court he asked Oshawa police to arrest Atkins, after investigating Mr. Alexander's loss. Atkins had bonds for $600 with him at the time of his arrest.

Gerald Clancy, Driscoll Terrace, who also faces a charge of receiving the stolen bonds, pleaded not guilty and was remanded until Tuesday.

Another Lot

An additional $200 in bonds was also stolen from Mr. Alexander and Detective Clarke said one had been recovered from Toronto, where it had been left as surety for rental of a room and the other had been found in a restaurant, where he claimed it had been hidden by Clancy.

Clancy said he had not known the bonds were stolen when first he received them and claimed he intended mailing them back to Peterborough.

Walter Howell, acting for the Crown, pointed out that George Alexander's name was on the bonds.

RUSSIA'S STRENGTH—In his article, Alan Moorehead discusses the strength of Russia and possible direction of thrusts by the Soviet forces if war opened in Europe. This map shows these assault moves and the disposition of four of Russia's six Red armies: (1) Army of the North, based on Leningrad; (2) Army of the West, based on Minsk; (3) Army of the South, based on Odessa; (4) Army of the Caucasus, based on Tiflis. The inset globe shows that, as Mr. Churchill pointed out in the House of Commons last week, the defence of Europe rests ultimately on the American stockpile of atom bombs. But at the same time, it is clear that the projection of Europe is vital to the whole defence system of North America.—(Bip Pares Map, Copyrighted)

The Defence of Western Europe (I)

Russia's Strength Could Swamp Europe, West In No Condition To Defend Itself

By ALAN MOOREHEAD

(Ed. Note: This is one of three special articles copyright to the Peterborough Examiner from the London Observer, written by Alan Moorehead, famous war correspondent and biographer of Field Marshal Montgomery. The articles are the fruits of a thorough study made by Moorehead over the last two months, involving investigations in Britain, France and Germany. In making his enquiries Moorehead has had the opportunity of discussing the matter with numerous experts and authorities, and the articles can be taken as an authentic, fully-informed survey of the situation and the outlook.)

As it stands now, Western Europe is not in any condition to defend itself, for the Russians are infinitely more powerful than we are.

Unlike the Allies, the Russians never ceased arming after the last war and they never really demobilised. Instead, with the help of German scientists, craftsmen and materials, they continued steadily in the manufacture of arms and the training of conscripts. Today, the Red Army is stronger than all the land forces of Western Europe and America combined. Along the Lubeck-Trieste line the Russians deploy something like 25 divisions. In a crisis they have the capacity to increase this army to 90 divisions or even more, and at a rate which we could never attempt.

Giving evidence last year before the United States senatorial committees on Foreign Relations and the Armed Services, Mr. Dean Acheson said: "The Russian forces at the present time are so much greater than anybody else's that there can be no question about a race to catch them up for that can never be done."

In addition, within the past six months the Russians have begun to recruit a German People's Police, which is being trained in civil and guerrilla warfare. This force is said to number about 40,000 men (many of them former Wehrmacht officers and N.C.O.s) and it is being developed as a cadre for instructing much larger numbers later on.

Air Superiority

In the air the Russians have an undisputed superiority. There are various figures given and perhaps none of them have any validity unless they are broken down into the different categories of aircraft; but it can be assumed that the total is something more than 15,000 modern machines of all kinds, including jet fighters and an improved verision of the American B 29 Superfortress which was in use at the end of the war.

The Russians have carried out much research in polar flying; air stations have been established in the far north, and there is no doubt that Soviet aircraft would be capable of reaching the Canadian and American cities by the northern route. For the purpose of warfare closer at hand in Europe there has been steady experimentation also in rockets, self-guided missiles, and such weapons as the proximity-exploded fuse. Their tank production is reported to have passed 1,500 a year.

The Russians have more than 200 submarines, and that is much more than any other nation possesses. These have been built with the assistance of the Germans, and they are equipped with a device for recharging their batteries under water.

Russia H. Bombs

Finally, the Russians have begun to build their stockpile of atomic bombs at the estimated rate of twenty-five a year, and it ought to be assumed that they have mastered the theory, if not the manufacture, of the hydrogen bomb.

The situation then, from a purely European point of view, is alarming. There can be no question that the Russians could advance very quickly to the Atlantic and the Channel ports—some people think within 90 days, other give a much shorter time. The attack, no doubt, would be presaged by parachute troops and a screen of bombers coming on ahead; and once on the coast the Russians would lose no time in directing rockets upon England and launching their submarines into the Atlantic.

If the Continent were lost this time it would be far more dangerous for England than ever before. Moreover, a Continent overrun by a Russian blitz might be hardly worth saving.

Equally, there would be no very alluring prospect in trying to retain a foothold in some corner of Europe with hope of using it as a rallying point after the first battle was over. Spain is about the only possible place, since there are only two useful passes into it, Irun and Port Bou, at either end of the Pryrenees. If this made it difficult for a Russian army to get in, then presumably it would be equally difficult for an Allied army to get out. This, then, would simply be a last-ditch stand; and, in any case, Spain is not a member of the Atlantic Pact.

In addition to this main thrust to the Atlantic, there are two other subsidiary lines of advance open of the Russians: they might go north into Scandinavia in order to open up the Baltic. And they might turn south into Italy to cut the Mediterranean. For the Italian adventure they have an excellent base in Austria, and once past the Alps they are in a country where the Communist Party claims to have one third of the votes.

Persian Oilfields

There is, too, a fourth prospect before the Russians—an advance to the Persian oilfields and the Middle East. Quite apart from its oil and its importance as the gateway to the India Ocean, the Middle East remains the proper point at which to fight off a Russian advance into Africa—the last continent into which Communism has not yet entered in any strength.

At this moment no adequate Allied forces exist in Europe to withstand all or any of these advances. The Americans maintain about 150,000 troops in Germany, Austria, and Trieste, and ourselves (the British) about the same number. That is to say, they are garrison forces and not an army which could be expected to hold a line running all the way from the Baltic to the Mediterranean.

Western Germany has no army at all. Norway, Denmark, Holland and Belgium could not muster nearly enough men between them to hold their own frontiers without assistance. Italy is equally weak. France has a garrison in Germany and Austria and a small force in training at home, but the bulk of her army—or, rather, the best of it—is in Indo-China fighting a war the end which is not yet in sight.

Real Defence U. S.

Fortunately, the real defence of Europe at this moment does not lie in Europe at all. The situation is pegged simply because of the American stockpile of atomic bombs. But this is not an advantage that is bound to continue indefinitely.

Among military people it is agreed that the atomic bomb would not be the sole determining factor in another war, especially if both sides were more evenly matched than they are now. Quite apart from the difficulty of manufacturing it in great numbers, there are many restrictions upon its use. It cannot be employed to assist an advancing army, since it denies the use of the ground to everyone. Nor can it hope to destroy the armies themselves, since the first principle of modern tactics is that there shall be no large concentrations of troops. Nor can it be dropped on vital territory that may be needed later. And in any case, as with poison gas in the last war, you have to make allowance for the fact that it may not be used at all.

What is envisaged, then, is a "conventional" type of war with infantry, tanks and guns, to which the drastic power of the atomic bomb is added. It is precisely here that we are so weak and the Russians so strong, so ready to exploit every minor tactical advantage that comes along this side of a major war. The real problem before the Western Allies in Europe is to re-establish their armies, navies and air forces while there is still time; to be in a position of equilibrium with Russia before the present comfortable protection of the American atomic bomb is taken away.

Despite all the depressing details given above, this is a very possible proposition, for it is not only a question of manpower. It is a question of industrial output, of money, of skill, of natural resources and of that kind of morale that makes people believe that what they are doing is right and therefore bound to prevail in the end.

For the past five years the Russians have taken nearly all the initiatives. Now in 1950 one can see the pendulum begin to swing slowly—as yet much too slowly—the other way.

(Ed. Note: In two further articles Mr. Moorehead will discuss the encouraging progress of Western Union defence plans and the importance of the Atlantic Pact.)

Learn Useful Tips On Cultivation From Convention

OMEMEE, April 3—(ENS)—Reports of the Ontario horticultural convention held in Hamilton, were presented to the Omemee and District Society at the March meeting by Mrs. Vernon Lang and Mrs. Arthur Stephenson, who were delegates to the convention.

Mrs. Lang passed on useful information on the planting and care of evergreens, told at the convention by R. Fair of Woodstock, and also something about the culture of roses.

Mrs. Stephenson's report included care of house plants, soils and fertilizers, and pruning. She also told of an address by Professor N. Parker of McMaster University on "Home Spun Holiness." Mrs. Stephenson spoke of the worthwhileness of the convention and thanked the Society for making it possible for them to attend.

The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt outlined the proposed scenic bus trip to Prince Edward County in July.

It was agreed to contact Leroy Brown of Lindsay, the Victoria County Agricultural Representative, concerning the most seasonable date for a demonstration of landscape planting on the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Brooks.

Sweet pea seeds were given as a door prize to each one who attended the meeting and Mr. Zufelt gave Creelam lily seeds to all who wished to attempt to grow them.

It was decided to hold the April meeting in the basement of Trinity United Church. It will be a joint meeting of the juveniles and adults and garden and flower seeds will be distributed to the boys and girls for their garden plots.

MURDERED DAUGHTER — Mrs. Leonidas Dube, 41, has been convicted at Rimouski, Que., of the murder of her 17-year-old daughter Irene. The daughter was killed during a drinking party at their Matane-Sur-Mer home a year ago. Crown witnesses said she was "jealous" of her daughters Irene and Anita because youths at the party danced with them instead of her.

Disappearing, Re-Appearing Lakefield Sheepskin Coat

A sheepskin coat had a long adventure Friday evening. The coat belonged to Percy Hockaday, Lakefield, who drove in to Peterborough Friday and left the coat on the floor of the truck while having supper in a restaurant. The truck was parked at the corner of Charlotte and George Sts.

The coat was missing when Mr. Hockaday came back from supper. City police were notified of the disappearance.

That seemed to be the end of the incident for the evening, until Jim and Alex Stewart, son's of Hugh Stewart, Hill Top Farm, whose truck Mr. Hockaday had been driving, noticed a man walking on the street wearing the missing coat. The two lads followed the man as he walked to a house on Wellington St. and then set the wheels in motion to see what they could do to retrieve the coat.

Accompanied by Constable Louis Rodregue and Claire McGillen, they went to the house while the constables questioned Gilbert Hindrem who appeared to be in possession of the coat. Edward Lynch was also in the house and Mr. Hindrem told the constables he had only a few minutes ago, purchased the coat from Mr. Lynch for the sum of $4.

Mr. Lynch, the boys agreed, was the man who had been wearing the coat on the street. In city police court today Mr. Lynch faced a charge of theft.

Believe Movies Can Meet Threat Made By Television

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, April 3 (AP)—What is the movie business doing to meet the threat of television?

A good deal I have found. The ostrich attitude toward T V which prevailed in Hollywood years ago, has disappeared The movie minds are no longer saying: "video can't hurt us." They know it can

The industry's activity on T. V. is headed by two men—Edward Cheyfitz for the producers (Motion Productions Association) and Nathan Halpern for the theatre men (theatre owners of of America).

These two young men believe movies can meet the challenge of T. V. only by some vast new element tha will stimulate great public interest.

Cheyfitz believes the new element could be third-dimensional films, which would lend depth to figures on the screen, making them seem almost in-person.

Counter Attack

Halpern believes the best way to fight T. V. is by using the new medium itself via theatre television.

"I think radio's impact on the movie business would have been greater, if the movies hadn't been undergoing a revolution," he told me. "Talkies came in at about the same time as radio. Thus the novelty of sound in theatres arrived at the same time as sound in the home."

What could theatre T. V. offer that people could not get at home? Here are some of the items Halpern suggested:

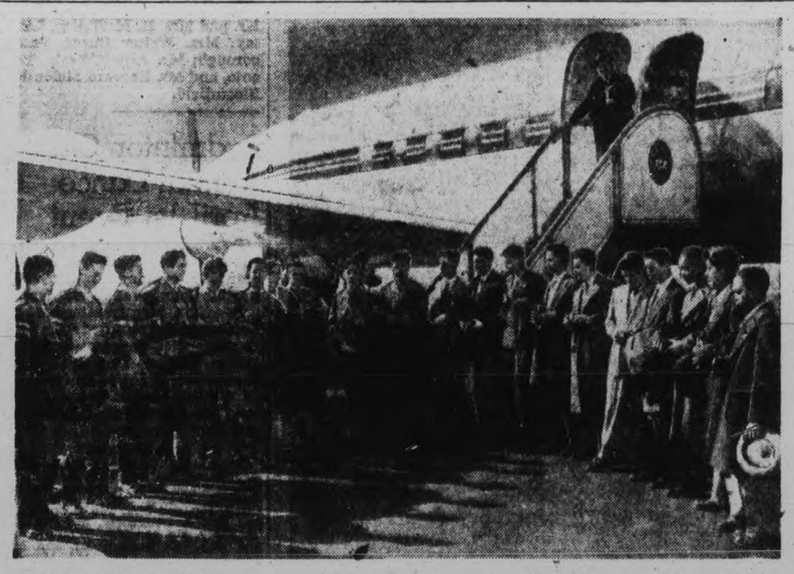
1. Television of Broadway first nights or performances of stage hits like "South Pacific." This would appeal to the adult audience, which has been partly lost by movies.

2. Presentation of world series baseball, championship fights, political events and other top news events. This has already been attempted in theatres.

3. Televising of ballets, opera and concerts.

Euchre Series Ends

BETHANY, April 3 (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Preston entertained at a progressive euchre party on Friday evening, the final in a series which has been held to raise funds for a radio for Galloway's School. There were eleven tables and prizes for high score went to Marie Carr and Carl Finney; consolation awards to Meredith Preston and Helen Neals. Dancing was enjoyed and lunch was served.



HERE ARE 20 BOYS and an airplane, the perfect ingredients for a great adventure. The 10 youths on the left are members of the Montreal Police Juvenile Clubs, who have just descended from the Trans-Canada Air Lines plane at New York preparatory to a week-end sight-seeing assault on the city. The 10 lads at the right are members of the New York Police Athletic League who were on hand to greet their visitors and who then embarked on the same plane for a visit to Montreal with all the trimmings. The flight was planned to inaugurate TCA's new Montreal-New York run which started officially April 1.

Firm Employees 'Part Of Set-Up' In Postal Ban

OTTAWA, April 3 — (CP). — W. J. Turnbull, Deputy-Postmaster-General, said Sunday night that the Post Office considered officers of companies denied use of the mails to be "part of the whole set-up."

He was commenting on a news dispatch from Toronto Saturday that at least 82 persons in Toronto had been denied use of the mails by a special order of Postmaster-General Rinfret. The Toronto report said the mail ban "has been inflicted upon business men who have never tried to sell a share of stock either in Canada or the United States."

Mr. Turnbull, who confirmed a week ago that use of the mails has been denied to 12 Toronto concerns, said there have been no new developments in the situation.

"This is just the same thing I confirmed a week ago," said Mr. Turnbull. He added that he did not know offhand how many individuals connected with the companies would be affected.

Mr. Turnbull said it was quite possible that mail ban affected a number of officers of the companies involved "who did not personally attempt to sell shares of stock in either Canada or the United States, but they are part of the same set-up."

The mail ban was extended under a section of the Post Office Act which gives authority for such a ban where there is reason to suspect the mails are being used to extract money by misrepresentation.

The ban simply means that no mail will be delivered to the addresses of the firms concerned.

Stanley Knowles, CCF member of Parliament for Winnipeg, North Centre, has placed on the Commons Order Paper a motion seeking the names and addresses of all persons and associations or companies in Canada denied use of the mails at present. The motion also asks the reason and authority for such denial in each case.

It is expected that the question will be answered in the House some time this week.

Iron Horses Puffed Out Heading For Graveyards

By HARRY W. BALL.

WEIRTON, W. Va., April 3 — (AP)—The iron horse is going the way of the horse and buggy.

If you don't believe it, take a look at the Weirton Steel Company's dismantling yards.

There one-time puffing giants of the rails are being taken apart piecemeal, and the pieces transported by swaying cranes for feeding into the molten maws of the steel furnaces.

It's part of the pattern of the Diesel era. More and more oil-fuelled locomotives are pulling the rail traffic. A proportionate number of discarded coal-burners are going back into the steel mills as scrap.

Weirton Steel is one of the "graveyards" of these dying iron horses, whose passing marks another era in the North American industrial scene.

Don't, however, get the idea it's an overnight conversion. There still are an estimated 29,000 steam locomotives in service on United States railroads. One prediction is that most of them will be retired during the next decade.

Since the program was started four months ago, Weirton Steel has put 127 iron horses to the torch, and 53 more are on hand waiting to be scrapped.

Each of the locomotives yields an average of around 350,000 pounds of scrap iron, Weirton officials explained.

The trend toward Diesels is described by the trade magazine, Steel Facts, as "one of the most dramatic aspects in mechanical development."

"While some railroads are scrapping only worked-out engines," the magazine said, "instances are reported of large engines scheduled to be cut up soon that were built in the early '30s—not a long life in comparison with most locomotives."

Russian Secret Uranium Mines Worked By Slave German Labor

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BERLIN, April 3 (AP). — Two Russian mystery men are uncrowned kings of a "state within a state." They mine uranium in East Germany for Soviet atomic weapons.

Surrounded by Kremlin-like secrecy, Nikolai Mikhailovich Essakia and Mikhail Metrofanovich Maltsev have lived in the Saxony Mountains since 1947.

From their fortress headquarters at Aue, they rule a barricaded industrial principality about 40 miles long and 20 miles wide adjacent to Czechoslovakia.

70,000 Miners

Seventy thousand German miners are estimated on the payroll of their Russian stock company, "Wismut Aktien-Gesellschaft."

Additional thousands of Germans work for Wismut building dams, spur railways, houses and roads in its uranium concession.

Soviet troops guarding and policing for Wismut are nearly equal in numbers to two divisions. Its territory is exempt from the authority of the East German Republic.

All of Wismut's ore is shipped to Russia.

Although Russia is believed to have huge uranium deposits within its own frontiers, exploitation of the ore in Saxony couldn't have been more hectic if the life of Stalin had depended on it.

On orders from Moscow, Essakia and Maltsev suddenly mobilized a German labor force in mid-1947, put it behind barbed wire, and started digging for uranium.

Many Killed

The conscripts included returned war prisoners, white collar workers, factory hands and just a sprinkling of experienced miners.

Many green miners were killed or hurt in underground disasters. Thousands ran away from what they charged were slave labor camps and attempted to reach West Berlin or West Germany.

Operations now, after more than three years, are reported stabilized for long-term production. Imported Russian engineers claim working conditions in the Saxony mines compare favorably with those in their native land.

There is still a speed up. Miners get only two holidays a month. But the hardiest among them can make as much as 2,000 East marks in a month through premiums and bonuses, four times more than they would receive elsewhere in East Germany.

Bar-room Brawls

Vodka and Schnapps flow freely in Wismut's mining villages. Women have flocked there for easy money, and bar-room brawls are commonplace.

To leave the uranium area for visits home, workers must ask for special permission from the management. It is like applying for a visa to go to a foreign country. Nobody enters Essakia's and Maltsev's little kingdom except by clearance from the Command of the Soviet occupation army.

HUGE LOOT

Property stolen in the United States in 1948 was valued at $22,000,000.

Unreality Subject Of Lesson Sermon

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, including First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Peterborough, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was: "Surely God will not hear vanity, neither will the Almighty regard it." (Job 35:13).

Selections from the Bible included the following from James 1:16-18: "Do not err, my belived brethren. Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning. Of His own will begat He us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of first fruits of His creatures."

Co-relative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following: "All reality is in God and His creation, harmonious and eternal. That which He creates is good, and He makes all that is made."

"Chocolates" Fool Partyers

Miss Pauline O'Brien, who was appointed publicity director of the20 Plus Club Saturday evening at an executive meeting preceding the weekly dance, reports a gala April Fool's Day party was held in the YW recreation room. Most amusing event was when Mr. and Mrs. Jim Record won the spot dance prize—a box of chocolates which they generously shared with the crowd. Too late the candy lovers found out it was a 1st of April hoax—the confections were sweet potatoes with a glossy coating of unsweetened chocolate. Art Dixon was the master of ceremonies, ably assisted by Miss Nancy Leith. Winners of a "coke" drinking contest were Miss Joyce Bridcott and Mervin Sanders. Another spot dance was won by Miss Helen Cummings and Robert Walker whose prize was a gaily decorated Easter egg.

Other affairs for the bride were a presentation at a social evening by the choir of George St. United Church; presentation by Queen Alexandra Home and School Association at their recent tea; and a gift of china from the staff of Queen Alexandra school staff.

Miss Gertrude Cox entertained a few friends at her home in honor of the bride.

Mrs. E. L. Telford gave a trousseau tea for her daughter at her home, 80 Bennett St.

Mrs. Perry works during the winter at hotels in other western cities.

Barbara E. Zufelt Wed at Omemee

A pretty wedding took place quietly Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, in the parsonage of Omemee United church, when Miss Barbara Ellen Zufelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Zufelt of Harwood, became the bride of Mr. George A. Wilkinson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wilkinson of Paris, Ontario. The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, uncle of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride looked charming attired in a grey gabardine suit with navy accessories and wearing a corsage of red roses and lily of the valley.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walters of Peterborough, Mrs. Walters wearing a blue suit and accessories and corsage of roses.

The reception room at the manse was decorated with white bells and pink and white streamers and silver baskets filled with snapdragon and tulips. On the table the bride's cake centred a beautiful lace cloth and it was flanked with tall white tapers in silver bells.

When going away the bride completed her ensemble by donning a navy topcoat.

After their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson will live in Sarnia.

The bride, a former staff member of the North American Life Assurance Company here, has recently been with the company's office at Barrie.

First Tea of Brookdale WI Success Despite Weather

A young organization from a young section of this city, the Brookdale Women's Institute, on Saturday afternoon made its social debut at an afternoon tea held in the YWCA Green Room. Members, with one or two exceptions, are housewives living in the Brookdale subdivision at the north west borderline. They formed the branch Institute in May of 1949 and it has already proved a most rewarding effort.

The weather turned out a real "April fool" in a blizzard of sticky snow that probably prevented many friends from attending, but about 150 guests did come for tea and the Institute members are delighted with this response to their first appearance.

Decorations were very attractive and carried out entirely in the Women's Institute colors, blue and gold. The tea table was done by Mrs. Geo. Carphin who made a low-set arrangement of daffodils and deep blue carnations for the centrepiece and highlighted it with triple rows of deep blue candles on each side. Two large baskets that were effectively placed in the room were filled with artificial flowers, the handicraft of some members.

A felt knitting bag and a fruit cake donated for raffle prizes had also been decorated in blue and gold. Lucky winner of the bag, Mrs W. McWilliams, 203 Westcott St., will also find it an attractive handbag, quite useful when shopping because of its roominess too. The cake was won by Miss L. Johnson, 541 George St. N. The ticket sales were in charge of Mrs. Wm. Swayne.

Miss Eleanor Taylor contributed her services as a pianist for the afternoon and played delightful selections to entertain the guests.

President, Mrs. Wm. Goodswan was at the door to extend a hearty greeting and Mrs. Lionel Bailey was at the treasurer's table.

Mrs. Gordon Duncan and Mrs. Stewart Frey were responsible for the supply of delicious refreshments they served with the assistance of Mrs. Ernest Burnham, Mrs. Geo. Hatton, and Mrs. Walter Griffin, and the plates and teapots were refilled by Mrs. Max Sexsmith and Mrs. Ray Hinan. Mrs. Geo. Carphin and Mrs. W McWilliams presided at the tea table.

Useful hand-made novelties filled one table over which Mrs. Wm. Coyne had charge. The articles covered a wide range from knitted children's clothing to sewing baskets in the form of chintz-covered chairs.

Mrs. R. McNabb had charge of the home-making table where the palate-tempting offerings were quickly bought up.

Mrs. M. E. McGuire, general convener, is justly proud of the success of this venture, which was achieved because of splendid co-operation. Mrs. Geo. Hatton had charge of publicizing it and it appeared that she went afield in this effort as representatives came in from a number of outside points.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

Having canastas and no other melds, many readers find themselves perplexed when a wild card enters their hand. This is particularly true when they are holding only a few cards in their hand and hope to go out. A typical question is:

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—I have 2 mixed canastas and no other melds. Holding a deuce and one other card in my hand, may I place the deuce on a canasta, discard the other card and go out?

A—Yes. You my add as many wild cards to the canasta as you wish.

Some other questions I have received recently are:

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—My mother placed a red trey on the table and drew a card from the stock pile to replace it. She then made her initial meld and discarded. After the next player's turn, she discovered she had only 10 cards, having forgotten to draw at her turn. She wanted to draw two cards at her next turn, but Dad insisted that she play with only 10 cards. Which one was correct?

A—Dad was correct. The official rule states that if a player fails to replenish his hand for a red trey, and the error is not discovered until the next player has drawn, play continues without correction.

* * *

Q—I laid down 2 natural nines and picked up the discard pile which had a nine on top. After melding 3 nines and studying the cards of the discard pile I had picked up I asked my partner, "May I go out?" My opponents said this was wrong, and that I could not ask for permission to go out after laying down the necessary cards to pick up the discard pile.

A—Your opponents were right. According to the rules, a player may ask for permission to go out only at his proper turn to play and before melding or indicating a possible meld. As a matter of fact, the rules require that a player must go out if he melds, or indicates a meld, and then asks the question. When you ask the question before drawing, and receive a negative answer from your partner, you still have the right to take the discard pile if you can.

* * 1

Q—My opponent declared himself out in the middle of a hand because he had a count of 5,000 points, including his previous score plus the melds on the table before him. Is this permissible?

A—No. Each hand has to be played completely. A score may be added to a previous score only at the end of a hand. According tot he official laws, the game terminates at the end of any hand in which a total of 5,000 or more points is reached by either side or both sides. If both sides exceed 5,000 at the end of a hand, the side with the higher total score wins the game, no matter which side went out on that particular hand.

* * *

Q—Can you put down just a joker for an initial meld of 50 points?

A—No. You never can meld a single card. You are always required to meld at least 2 natural cards with one wild card, and you can meld 2 natural cards with as many as 3 wild cards. Wild cards may be added to melds, but never melded by themselves.

* * *

Q—I have 4 black treys in my hand and 3 wild cards. May I play them as a canasta and go out?

A—No. You cannot form a canasta of black treys. If you have a base of 4 natural cards on the table, you can put your 3 wild cards with that base, thus forming a canasta, then put down your 4 black treys and go out.

Registered Nurses Seek Control Over Profession

TORONTO, April 3 (CP)—The Registered Nurses Association of Ontario seeking legislation to give it more control over the educational standards, curriculum and registration of nurses.

Decision on proposals for approaching the Ontario Legislature in this regard will be one of the most important matters to come up at the silver jubilee convention here on April 27-29.

The Ontario Legislature has failed to pass bills the last few years that would make membership in the association compulsory for all nurses.

"It would seem therefore that the only type of legislation we can obtain is similar to that of the medical and dental groups who have licensing or registration boards separate from the professional associations," said Miss Mary Millman, convener of legislation committee.

Hot Cross Buns When Home Made

Conducted by MARY MOORE

This traditional recipe for Hot Cross Buns has been slightly changed to give you a puffy muffin—with the cross on top, and raised with yeast. It seems easier to make than shaping the buns

HOT CROSS PUFFS (yeast muffins)

One package compressed or granular or dry yeast, ¼ cup lukewarm milk, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ cup shortenng, 3¼ cups sifted bread flour (about), ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 eggs, 1 cup washed and dried currants, confectioners' sugar icing. Soften the yeast in the lukewarm water. (f granldar years is used add ¼ cup of the milk—warmed—to the water and 1 teaspoon sugar and let stand 20 minutes.) Scald the milk. Add the sugar, salt and shortening and cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups of the flour, the cinnamon and nutmeg and beat well. Add the softened yeast and eggs and mix well. Add enough more flour to make a stiff batter. Beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in warm room until light and bubbly (about 1 hour at 75 deg. Fahr.). Add the currants and stir down Fill greased muffin pans half full by rolling the dough in little balls Let rise until light—about 30 minutes or until pans are nearly full. Bake at 375 deg Fahr. for about 18 minutes. With sharp knife make a cross on each puff and fill with confectioners milk and sugar icing

This is a good recipe for baking who have not made hot cross buns before.

Devotes April 1st To Men's Interests

HOLLYWOOD, April 3 (AP)—Sometimes a newspaper's society editor gets tired of forever writing about women.

Ruth Telford Becomes Bride Of Raymond Jonasson

Candles and white stocks on tall white standards formed the setting for a lovely wedding in George St. United Church Saturday afternoon, when Margaret Ruth Telford became the bride of Mr. Raymond Erling Jonasson, in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon. The bride is daughter of Mrs. Telford and the late Mr. E. L. Telford, of Peterborough, and the groom son of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Jonasson, of Wynyard, Saskatchewan.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. J. M. Telford, the bride was lovely in a gown with bodice of fine white lace over blush satin with bertha collar and set-in lace yoke and sleeves ending in lily points over her hands. The extremely full hooped skirt, which extended in a graceful circular train, was of white tulle over blush satin. Her finger-tip veil of eggshell illusion was caught with pearls to a matching lace halo. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls which had belonged to her grandmother. She carried a pale mauve orchid on a lily-of-the-valley background.

Her only bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Allen, was frocked in dragon green silk made in bouffant style with hooped skirt and wore a hat of the same material. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

Groomsman was Mr. D. J. Turland and the ushers were Grahame Mitchell and Todd Willcox.

Wedding music was played by organist Mr. Charles E. Allen, and soloist Mrs. James Goldie sang "Love's Coronation" at the signing of the register.

The reception was held at the bride's home, 80 Bennett St., where her mother received in a powder blue gown with which she wore a navy straw hat, mink furs and a corsage of butterfly roses.

When leaving later on a wedding trip to the United States the bride was wearing a beige gabardine suit and matching hat, black seal cape and black accessories and an orchid corsage.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Men Don't Stand A Chance Against Woman's Artfulness

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently you said in an article that "men park their brains when dealing with women." I agree with you but you did not give any remedy. Anyway, how should women be treated by men?

BLANK

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: There isn't any remedy for men being befooled by women because God made them that way. It has always been that way from very beginning. Men have worn blinders instead of using spyglasses when it came to looking into the real purposes of women and trying to find out what they were up to. Look how easily the first woman put it over the first man.

Fell For It

He knew he was risking his good home and a swell job but Eve rolled her eyes at him and looked wistful and hurt because he wouldn't do a little thing to please her like taking a little bite or maybe she looked scornful and taunted him with being a fraid cat. And Adam fell for it the same as you and all other men fall for the arts and wiles of the women you love. Why women have been pulling off the same old tricks from the time of our first mother down to today, and they are still good for emerald bracelets and new cars and trips to Europe.

But, of course, every man is convinced that no woman could fool him. He would see through her motives as if they were a pane of glass. He would know when she wept for grief and when she wept to get a new hat. He would know she meant it when she told how big and strong and noble him how wonderful he was and He would kknow that it was just by chance that she happend to be coming by his office door as he was starting home and that it was pure accident when she stumbled and fell into his arms. Oh, no. No woman could put anything over on him!

And that is the reason women smile secretly to themselves while they imitate the clinging vine or weep or pout as the occasion may demand. And that's why wives always have a particularly good dinner of the things that hubby likes best to eat before presenting the bill for their new frock or imparting the glad tidings that Aunt Suzanne is coming for a long visit.

As to how men should treat women, the present method is satisfactory to both parties. So let it ride.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Will you please give me all the arguments in favor of marriage for a boy from a boy's viewpoint.

G. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There are none. Nothing but a miracle can save a boy's marriage from being disaster to him and wrecking his life and miracles take place so seldom that no one has a right to expect one to happen to him and save him from the result of his folly.

Against the boy's one argument for marriage you can bring a thousand potent reasons against it. First, that because a boy thinks he is in love is no justification of his marriage because a boy's love isn't made of the stuff that lasts. Secondly, a boy has not had his playtime and is not ready to settle down. After marriage he will be just as anxious to step out and amuse himself as he was before marriage. Third, it is eternally true that the young man married is the young man marred. The boy who marries before he has got a start in the world blocks his career. Fourth a boy has no right to marry because he cannot support a family and it is a dastardly thing for him to burden his poor, hard-worked old parents with his wife and babies.

And lastly there is plenty of time in which to marry, and there is no reason for a boy to rush into matrimony before he is ready for it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a married man and love my wife and no one could ever come between us, but I live in another city and can only go home for week ends. I work in an office with a girl whose sweet disposition and ladylike ways have won my admiration. She is 33 years old. I am 52. I have been talking her to work every day in my car. There is no thought of love or anything of the sort between us. Just good friends. But she says that people are beginning to talk about us and refuses to go with me any more. Must we give up a perfectly innocent friendship just because of a few busybodies?

T B

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You will have to give it up if you save the girl's good name. It is folly to talk about ignoring gossip. When a married man is seen habitually with a girl people believe the worst of it. So no matter how innocent and platonic your sentiments are, nor how altruistic your attentions to the girl, they must cease both for her sake and for yours.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question: How lovely to see your column in The Examiner. It is so helpful. Now that the maple syrup season is with us please advise me is it possible to use maple syrup in place of sugar?

Would you please give me a low calorie breakfast as I am reducing; lunch too please.

I do hope I am not asking too much. Will wait for answer and thanks a lot. Mrs. C. H. F.

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer: If you are the same Mrs. C. H. F. that I met in Tillsonburg at one time I can't imagine what you would be reducing for—at that time you weighed all of 90 lbs. and were eating like a bird.

However—since it is my duty to comply with requests, not question them, here is the basic idea for breakfast for reducers:

Low Calorie Breakfasts

One-half or one thin slice whole wheat bread toasted, under poached egg or broken into cup with 4 minute egg cooked in shell, or under scrambled eggs cooked with minimum of butter; and one-half grapefruit, or whole orange (not just the juice) OR once per week a ripe banana, and 2 cups tea or coffee without sugar but with homogenized milk. Two glasses water between lunch and breakfast.

Low Calorie Lunches

Two slices whole wheat bread spread with ½ teaspoon mayonnaise and no butter, ¼-inch thick slice meat or egg chopped for sandwich filling; (if meat is used, trim off all fat;) with double leaf lettuce; 8 ounces skim or buttermilk, 1 orange or apple or grapefruit; 1 cup tea with milk, no sugar. OR Clear soup such as tomate or bouillon or consomme and vegetable or fruit salad with 1 slice whole wheat bread spread with ½ pat butter, and skim milk, of course.

Maple syrup certainly can be used in place of sugar if you are lucky enough to have some.

Try this Maple Syrup Mould. I'm warning you though you will not reduce on it. One tablespoon gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold milk, 1 cup scalded milk, 2 egg yolks, 2 egg whites beaten stiff, ¾ cup maple syrup, 1 teaspoon vanilla, and if desired, ½ cup chopped nuts. Soak gelatine in cold milk 5 minutes, and dissolve in hot milk. Stir this into the 2 beaten egg yolks, and stir over boiling water until it coats spoon and remove from heat at once. Pour over 2 stiffly beaten whites, using folding motion; carefully stir in the maple syrup and vanilla and nuts. Pour into tall-stemmed serving glasses and chill. Delicious served with unsweetened whipped cream over which some grated maple sugar is sprinkled.

Maple Syrup Dressing (for fruit salads)

Mix one beaten egg with 1 cup maple syrup and juice of ½ lemon. Stir over boiling water until slightly thickened. Remove from heat and chill. Fold ½ cup cream, whipped, into it just before serving on fruit salads containing tart fruits such as grapefruit, orange, apple.

Maple Pecan Tarts

Two eggs, 4 tablespoons sugar, 2/3 cup maple syrup, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2½ tablespoons slightly melted butter or margarine, ½ cup pecans or walnuts. Line tart tins with rich plain pastry. Beat eggs and add sugar, syrup, salt, vanilla and fat. Put layer of nuts in each tart tin. Pour in mixture until just 2/3 full. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until filling is set and pastry is crisp.

✧ ✧ ✧

Question: Could you please tell me the calorie value in the following: 1 large dill, bought sweet pickles, canned condensed milk (compared with cream for coffee), ½ green pepper, margarine or butter (1 pat), thigh of boiled chicken, 1 stick gum.

Do you have the method for making cottage cheese? I used to make it but the last I made the curd was far too hard but the dog really liked it.

Could home-made mincemeat be used instead of applesauce in an applesauce cake recipe. I have about 15 quarts of green tomato mincemeat on hand and would like to use it up for cakes, but haven't a good recipe.

I would also like to get a recipe using home canned cherries in a cake and baked pudding. The family does not seem to like cherries as fruit.

Do you have a recipe for a plain rolled cookie that would make up at least 15 dozen. I prefer to make quite a few at a time and have quite a few different cookie cutters.

I always enjoy reading your column although this is the first time I have written to you. I am especially interested in low calories,—high protein diets for myself, as the doctor said I should lose about 15 pounds in the next 3 months.

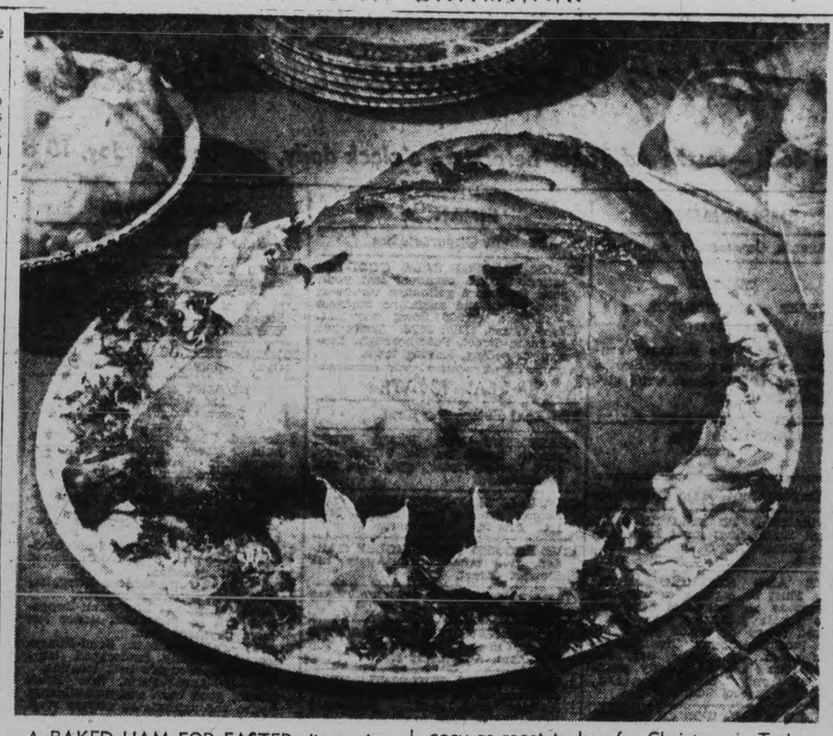
The baby needs attention so I must close. Thanks for any help you are able to offer. Do you have a complete calorie chart that I could have? Mrs. J. W. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer: As soon as my fresh supply of calorie charts arrives I will send them out to all who have asked for them.

Mincemeat Coffee Cake

Five tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 cup mincemeat, 1½ cups flour, ½ cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 2/3 cup milk. In a deep pan melt 2 tablespoons butter. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons brown sugar over and cover evenly with 1 cup mincemeat. Over this pour the batter made of remaining ingredients and bake in hot oven of 425 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. To make the batter sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Beat egg, add milk, and 3 tablespoons melted butter. Add to dry ingredients and mix.



A BAKED HAM FOR EASTER dinner has become just as much a necessity and a delicacy as roast turkey for Christmas. Today Mary Moore gives some interesting glazes to try on this Easter dish.

Proper Glazing of Ham Essential for Easter Dinner

Conducted by MARY MOORE

Leading the Easter Food Parade is Baked Ham.

Is it the colour? Is it the flavour? Is it the beauty? or is it all three that make a roast ham so perfect for Easter dinner?

I know that our family is having one, and the guests are invited and dessert is planned.

My pet project today is to give you two or three glazes to ponder over and play around with, because actually time and temperature are all you need to know about ham, until glazing and gahishing time arrive.

(My son just looked over my shoulder and when he read that line said "It looks as if you mean't 'glazing and varnishing' ".)

Directions For Baking Ham

For a whole or a half ham with bone in, it is advisable to wrap it in heavy waxed or parchment paper and place it, fat side up, on shallow baking pan and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. For a 10 to 12-lb ham allow 18 minutes to the pound if the ham is not cold. It should be removed from refrigerator at last 2 hours before baking time. A 16-lb. ham requires 16 minutes per lb. A half ham or "picnic" shoulder requires 20 minutes per lb.

When baking time is over, remove paper and cut off rind with slender sharp knife—but do not cut yourself —the voice of experience speaks. Score the fat in squares and cover with glaze. (see below.)

Ham Glaze No. 1

To 1 cup pure canned apricots add ½ cup water and ½ cup brown sugar, stir until well mixed, then baste ham with half of it 1 hour before finished, adding remainder about 10 minutes before serving time, and raising temperature of oven to brown it just right.

Ham Glaze No. 2

(I gave you this in Feburary but it is well worth repeating.)

After cutting off rind, and scoring fat and sticking parbaked ham with whole cloves blend 1 tablespoon grated orange rind with 1 cup orange juice and 1 cup brown sugar. Spread carefully over ham and bake, basting often, until golden.

Two Red Jelly Treatments

No. 1 Glaze ham after nearly baked with beaten up red jelly diluted with ¼ cup water. Baste often during last half hour. This is attractive is served with a border of halved glazed green beans.

NO. 2 Savoury Red Jelly Sauce: One teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon each powdered cloves and cinnamon, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 cup currant or crab apple jelly. In a small saucepan, mix the mustard, cloves, and cinnamon with the vinegar and jelly. Cook over very low heat until jelly is melted, stirring constantly. Serve a spoonful over each slice of hot baked ham or broiled ham slices, when carved at the table.

This may be peculiar to our family but we prefer Corn Pudding to glazed sweet potatoes with ham.

If you care to try it, this is my way:

Two cups drained kernel corn, canned or fresh, 2 slightly beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1½ tablespoons margarine, 2 cups scalded homogenized milk, 1¾ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Mix all ingredients, pour into buttered casserole. Bake, standing in pan of hot water, for about 1 hour or until firm, at 325 deg. Fahr. This dish has many variations. When above-described ham is worn down to just a few slivers on the bone, grind them and add to the corn in this recipe and you have a delicious Ham and Corn Pudding.

6—In Memoriams

LA FAVE—In loving memory of June Oakley La Fave, who passed away April 2nd, 1948:
We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today;
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence.
No eye can see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.
—Ever remembered by Bruce, Myrtle, Marge, Allan and Shirley.

LA FAVE—In loving memory of my dear wife, June La Fave, who passed away on April 2nd, 1948:
Her life is a beautiful memory,
Her death is our silent grief,
She sleeps in God's beautiful garden
In the sunshine of perfect peace.
So we leave her in God's keeping,
The rough road safely o'er,
And our dear one we loved so well
Has only gone before.
—Sadly missed by her husband, Maurice La Fave.

LA FAVE—In loving memory of June La Fave, who passed away April 2, 1948:
One year has passed dear June,
Since you were called away,
How well do we remember
That sad and weary day.
You suffered much, you murmured not,
We watched you day by day,
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.
—Always remembered by Mom, Dad, and Lorraine La Fave.

SWAN—In loving memory of Nicholas Swan, who passed away April 2, 1948:
The ailment of his soul has passed away,
The shining spirit and the love light stay;
The echo of his voice, his eyes, his smile,
Just as they were are with us all the while.
—Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. S. Lee and Carolyn.

200 Skaters

Thanksgiving was the title of the next item. Eighteen girls, of public school age, were dressed as farmerettes, wearing skirts and boleros to match and white blouses. They formed a chorus for a dance by Diane Turner and Dorothy Kingston.

Perhaps the most appealing item was a Christmas scene complete with Santa Claus, E. Ferguson; Santa's favorite doll, Eleanor Standish; Captain of the soldiers, Lorne Hale; Miss Candy Cane and Mr. Clown, Jean Anne Dobbin and Francis Finn; Misses Gum Drops, Meredith Morgan and Heather Gordon and Elf Leader, Noreen Morman.

More than 80 skaters, several less than five years of age, formed a colorful Christmas pageant as they entered in groups as dolls, soldiers, Panda bears, bunny rabbits, gum drops, candy canes, elves and clowns.

Their costumes were excellent and for the tiny tots especially, the dance was a great feat. Solo dances by the principals were interspersed with attractive dances by the groups and tumbling by the clowns.

A more sophisticated number was a New Year's dance. The ice was transformed into a ballroom. Couples were waltzing and when they returned to their tables Marie Stone, Sherrill Lashmar and Bunny Hutchison as cigarette girls, danced a trio. They were followed by Mona Peirson and Ernest Ferguson, Jr., dancing as a pair.

Then came an amusing Three O'clock in the Morning episode by Jack Martin.

Valentine Dance

Twenty girls dressed in red Valentine costumes formed an attractive chorus for a Valentine dance by Arlene Ferguson and Jasqueline Hopkins and then the scene changed to St. Patrick's Day for an Irish dance in which Joan Begley was soloist.

The Easter parade was a charming item. Wearing long dresses with hoop skirts, and carrying parasols, each girl was escorted by an Easter bunny carrying the Easter bonnets in hat boxes. After the girls tried on their bonnets they stood by to watch a pair of chicks (Nancy Zolyomy and Gaynor Galoska) disporting themselves. The Fergusons—Mr. and Mrs. E. Ferguson and son and daughter—and the Galoskas—Mr. and Mrs. A. Galoska and son and daughter—danced a formation ten step.

There was also a naval dance with a chorus of 24, David Simpson was naval commander and Dorothy and Joan Martin and Lillian Crocker, three sisters, danced a Naval trio.

Patty Lou and George Montgomery, brother and sister, aged 13 and 15, who are members of the Toronto Figure Skating Club, were guests skaters and also Rudolph Eyman, of the Oshawa Skating Club.

Miss Jacqueline Byers, Peterborough Club professional, who was responsible for the choreography and training, presented a charming display of figure skating.

Albert Galoska was carnival chairman and the training committee included Mr. and Mrs. E. Ferguson, Miss Byers and Mrs. Galoska.

Costume committee: Mesdames Clayton Ruth, Russell Morgan, Ralph Standish, Bert Smitheram, Max Middleton, Don Whyte, Jean Long, J. W. Thornton, Charles Huffman, D. Fitzgerald, Jack Comstock, Donald Wood and Noel Rishor.

James Harkness, in charge of scenery and props, transformed the arena into an attractive "stage" by screening off the east end of the ice and forming a curtained entrance for the skaters.

Those on the ticket committee were Gordon Dobbin, Mrs. Jack Richardson, Miss Dorothy Martin, Miss Jean Perry, Mrs. Thornton, Mrs. Jim Clarke and Clare G. Collins.

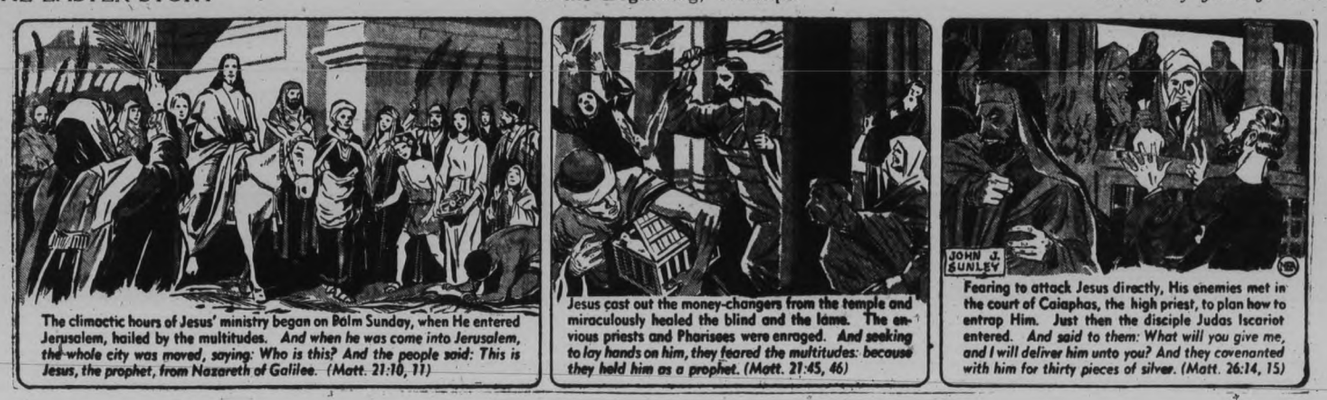
THE EASTER STORY — In the Beginning, Triumph — Drawn by John J. Sunley



The climactic hours of Jesus' ministry began on Palm Sunday, when He entered Jerusalem, hailed by the multitudes. And when he was come into Jerusalem, the whole city was moved, saying: Who is this? And the people said: This is Jesus, the prophet, from Nazareth of Galilee. (Matt. 21:10, 11)

Jesus cast out the money-changers from the temple and miraculously healed the blind and the lame. The envious priests and Pharisees were enraged. And seeking to lay hands on him, they feared the multitudes: because they held him as a prophet. (Matt. 21:45, 46)

Fearing to attack Jesus directly, His enemies met in the court of Caiaphas, the high priest, to plan how to entrap Him. Just then the disciple Judas Iscariot entered. And said to them: What will you give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver. (Matt. 26:14, 15)

March On Berlin Off; Agitators Harangue Mobs

BERLIN, April 3 (AP)—Allied intelligence sources said Sunday the Whitsuntide "March on Berlin" by the Communists is apparently going to be a propaganda invasion instead of a Putsch, as previously reported.

Presumably the Russians think the "free German youth" (FDJ) ambition to "conquer" the allied sectors of Berlin is riskily premature.

The latest Communist plan, these informants said, is to infiltrate about 10,000 to 20,000 agitators in small groups to harangue west Berliners on the street in an effort to convert them. The rally is scheduled to take placé May 27 to 30. Communists have said 500,000 members of FDJ will participate.

(This was at variance with a report by the committee for the study of European questions, claiming that Soviet authorities plan to capture the whole of Berlin to a Whitsuntide manoeuvre. The committee is an unofficial study group of prominent western Europeans.)

Reds Invent Printing

MOSCOW, April 3 (Reuters)—The Soviet Literary Gazette claimed Saturday that Russia had invented printing—a century before the Chinese and 400 years before Johann Gutenberg of Germany.

Liberal Meeting Delayed To Fall

TORONTO, April 3 — (CP). — The management committee of the Ontario Liberal Association decided on Saturday to postpone the Provincial Party Convention to choose a successor to Farquhar Oliver, member of the Legislature for rey South, who resigned the Party Leadership last October. Mr. Oliver continues to lead the Party in the Legislature.

When Mr. Oliver announced his desire to resign the post it was believed a Party convention would be held in April or May, but the committee, meeting in closed session, was understood to have decided that a convention would not be held until next autumn.

A leadership committee which is canvassing the field for possible candidates was instructed to continue its work. So far only one candidate has announced he will seek the leadership—C. C. Calder, member of the Legislature for London. The committee was reported Sunday night to have about 10 names on its list of possible candidates. Two Federal ministers have been mentioned in this connection, Health Minister Martin of Windsor, and Citizenship Minister Harris of Markdale.

Make Editors, Newspaper Barons Fair Game For Front Pages

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 3 — (CP) — Health Minister Aneurin Bevan would like to see Labor's principle of fair shares applied to newspaper publicity.

He told the institute of journalists, a professional organization incorporated by royal charter, that there should be some "equality of treatment" in publizing the private lives of public men.

Press Lords and editors shou l not shun the spotlight.

"If cabinet ministers cannot have domestic privacy from British newspapers, then the proprietors of these newspapers should not have it either," Bevan said in a luncheon address.

"The lives of press Lords like Rothermere, Beaverbrook, Kemsley and Camrose are completely hidden from the people of this country every day.

"If the life of Aneurin Bevan is of any significance to the people to Great Britain the lives of Rothermere and Camrose are of infinitely greater importance."

Hard-Hitting Speech

In a candid, hard-hitting speech, first declared off the record and later authorized for quotation, Bevan said editors as well as newspaper barons should be fair game for the front pages.

"Why should the people not know where the editor lives and why should his house not be besieged by cameras?

"Who can be more important than the editor? He is not even under remote control. He can put into his newspaper exactly what he likes, and therefore he is a very important person."

Bevan, whose temperature seems to rise almost automatically, in the presence of newspaper men, declined to affirm or deny his oft-quoted assertion that the British press is the "most prostituted" in the world. Under close questioning on this point, he said:

"I am waiting for the events to keep on accumulating and the evidence is not only in one direction."

Individual Standards High

He said that the standards of individual British newspaper men are higher than in many other countries.

"I have had experience with journalists in other countries who ask questions they obviously have no idea about, take no notes at all, and then write from inspiration, so that when you read in the press afterwards what you are supposed to have said, you are staggered."

Other government ministers have expressed surprise that shorthand is not widely employed outside Britain.

Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade, was asked at a London press conference about a statement he was reported to have made in Canada.

Wilson replied he had noticed that Canadian newspaper men "seldom have shorthand." Sometimes, he added, he had seen reports of his speeches in Canada newspapers which were only a loose paraphrase of what he had said.

Porcupine Loses 7-5 To Guelph In Series

TORONTO, April 3 — (CP) — Guelph Biltmores and Porcupine Combines battle at Ottawa tonight in the second game of the Eastern Canada junior hockey semi-finals with Guelph one game up after winning the series opener 7-5 here Saturday.

The third game of the best-of-seven semi-finals is in Toronto Wednesday as Ontario's northern and southern champions fight for the right to meet Montreal Canadiens in the Eastern finals.

Biltmores, possibly suffering a let-down after their surprise victory over Windsor Spitfires for the OHA crown, appeared to have difficulty solving the system of the lighter and closer-checking Porcupines.

The record was eclipsed in 1936 when Montreal Maroons and Detroit Red Wings played 176 minutes, 30 seconds before Detroit scored the first goal.

Denies Carrying Arms To Orient

VANCOUVER, April 3—(CP)—John Rosen, president of Western Canada Steamships which owns and operates the Lake Canim, Friday denied that the freighter had carried "even one ounce of munitions or water supplies" to the Orient.

The denial resulted from a charge made in the Commons on Thursday night by Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Progressive Conservative member for Nanaimo, that Canada had been assisting both sides ine th Chinese war and that two ships from Vancouver, one of them the Lake Canim, had been carrying arms to the Orient.

The Western Canada Steamships officer said that General Pearkes must have been misinformed and that none of their ships had carried anything but non-military cargo to the Orient.

"If the Lake Canim had carried munitions from Hong Kong to any other port the crew would have claimed danger money from us. None was paid," Mr. Rosen said.

NINE PERSONS, inmates of a private asylum for mental patients, were suffocated to death by smoke when fire broke out in the basement of the Bella Vista Sanitarium, in suburban Philadelphia. Firemen battle the stubborn blaze, which also injured 30 others, most overcome by the dense smoke. Five of the dead had been chained for the night.

Boy 16, Sentenced For Brother's Murder

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 3—(CP)—Sixteen-year-old George Dwyer was convicted tonight of the Feb. 9 rifle murder of Patrick Burke, his 25-year-old brother-in-law.

The boy was sentenced to an indefinite prison term and Chief Justice Sir Albert Walsh said he would bring the jury's recommendation of mercy to the authorities.

Burke died of rifle wounds at Gander airport after he and Dwyer returned from a hunting trip.

Dwyer testified he and Burke quarreled over a bicycle owned by Burke. Dwyer, described as a crack shot, said he fired at Burke to frighten him or wound him, "I didn't care which."

Ex-War Criminal Gets Montreal Job

MONTREAL, April 3—(CP)—Jean Louis Huc, described in parliament last year as "one of the smaller fry" war criminals in France, has been given a new job by the city of Montreal.

Huc has been appointed city tree expert after serving four months as a public works draughtsman, city hall authorities said.

On Feb. 22, 1949, Alister Stewart, CCF member of parliament for Winnipeg North, referred to Huc in Parliament as wanted by French authorities "on charges of interfering with national defence."

Secession Impossible –Fort William Mayor

FORT WILLIAM, April 3 (CP) Mayor Hubert Badanai said Friday he is "definitely against" secession from Ontario. He said he feels the move is impossible.

"We don't need another province any more than a dog needs two tails. We have already too many provinces in Canada."

He hastened to explain, however, that he didn't believe this part of the province was receiving "its just due."

"The proposal. . . just hasn't any sense at all. There is not enough population. It would settle a terrific burden on the people here," he said.

Formation of a new province to take in northern Ontario was advocated at a public meeting Wednesday by ex-alderman Hubert Limbrick.

The Fort William mayor said "only a few politicians" would gain by the move. The chance of a threat of secession inducing residents of eastern Ontario to take greater notice of the northwest was slight.

"They know that actual secession is practically impossible."

Mayor Badanai said he favors union with Manitoba, however. The area "would have received more consideration" if it had been part of Manitoba originally. The proposal suggested such a merger as an alternative to secession.

"We probably would have been the manufacturing centre of Manitoba," he said.

School Opened

BRANTFORD, April 3 (CP)—A new public school in Brantford township on the northerly outskirts of the city, was officially opened Friday by Dr. James Hillier, 34-year-old Branford-born scientist whose name it bears.

Not Santa Claus Ont. Tells Towns

TORONTO, April 3 — (CP) — Ontario is not going to "play Santa Clausa" to the municipalities under the Dominion-Provincial housing program, a provincial government town-planning consultant said Friday.

"If houses are to be built, the municipalities are going to have to contribute," A. E. K. Bunnell told the conference on industrial promotion of Ontario. "If there are any losses they are also going to have to contribute."

Under the plan, the federal government makes available 75 per cent of the cost of housing projects. The province contributes the rest.

Another speaker warned the industrial development planners — representing 110 Ontario municipalities—not to let the glamor of new industry to obscure the need for development of existing businesses.

Said Thomas J. Brady, business development manager of the Royal Bank of Canada: "By helping industry to acquire new products to manufacture, municipalities can obtain the same effect of building their communities as they can be obtaining new industries."

Ask Congress More Planes Against Blitz

Committee Head Warns House 2nd Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON, April 4 — (AP)—The chairman of the House of Representatives armed services committee today called on Congress to vote $583,289,211 for more weapons to help meet the threat of an "atomic blitz".

Protesting that the Truman administration's $13,911,127,000 military program "will wither American air power on the vine," representative Carl Vinson (Dem., Ga.) urged instead that air strength be boosted promptly.

Vinson said that the president's budget for the fiscal year beginning in July does not assure adequate defence at a time when "the atomic blitz of tomorrow is a real, a genuine possibility," He added:

"It is universally known today that Russia is building the largest air force in the world. What are they building it for? They are building it for use whenever their carefully-timed Pearl Harbor day comes around."

The pending budget allots $1,300,000 for air force procurement and $650,000,000 for new planes for the navy and marines.

Vinson would give the air force an additional $200,000,00 or a total of $1,550,000,000 for new planes, and the navy an increase of $383,238,211 or $1,033,289211 for the same purpose.

These increases Vinson said are needed to maintain an up-to-date 48-group air force and a modern naval air arm.

A House military appropriations sub-committee reported recently that this country now has only from 44 to 46 modern groups. Unless additional money is made available, Vinson said the U.S. would have only 42 modern groups by 1956. And the present bill he added leaves a deficiency in naval aircraft procurement of 1349 planes.

Fraser Asks Additional Help

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP)—G. K. Fraser (PC, Peterborough West) asked the government in the Commons Monday to increase its staff in the income tax office at Peterborough, to help meet the year-end rush to file income tax returns.

He told the Chamber he was in the office on Saturday and found more than 50 persons waiting in line with only one office available to check the returns. Many of them were farmers who came in from the countryside on the week-end.

Revenue Minister McCann promised to bring the matter to the attention of his officials and said he was glad to hear that there was "such a rush" to pay income taxes in the Peterborough area.

When an Examiner reporter visited the office early today he found an officer and two employees were handling the returns. There were no persons waiting in line and the trio were not rushed. Local officials had no comment to make on Mr. Fraser's statement.

Alexander May Succeed Montgomery

LONDON, April 4 — (CP). — The Daily Telegraph says today that Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, is "being spoken of" as a successor to Field-Marshal Viscount Montgomery as Chief of the Western Union Defence set-up.

The Telegraph's columnist, "Peterborough," notes "rumors are thick" about Lord Montgomery's retirement from his Continental post and adds:

"His absence from the North Atlantic defence talks at The Hague last week was, to say the least, curious."

Tap Room Man Admits Theft At Queens Hotel

Donald E. Heather, tap man at the Queen's Hotel, admitted today in city police court that he had stolen $823 from his employer Nelson D. King.

The money was missed Monday morning from a cash register in the beverage room.

After the city police department was notified, Constable Sherman Keliele started investigations and with Sergeant Detective William Clarke, arrested Heather in the afternoon.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, remanded Heather until April 11 at the request of Crown Attorney John Bradshaw.

Charged With Receiving

Later today Francis McCormick, brother-in-law of Heather was arrested on a charge of receiving $100 of the booty.

Police have so far recovered $707.40 and are still searching for the last $100.

During their investigations police learned that $4 in coppers and the change tray had been thrown in the creek.

Municipal Employees Under Labor Code

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — Labor Minister Daley said today the new Ontario labor code will be amended to include in its provisions municipal employees.

Mr. Daley spoke today during the resumed debate on second reading of the labor bill. Formerly municipal employee came under terms of the labor code only when a bylaw was passed by the Municipal Council.

The amendment proposed today by Mr. Daley provides that municipal employees will come under the act unless specifically excluded by a municipal bylaw.

CCF, PC's Fight To Have Oil Pipeline In Canada

OTTAWA, April 4—(CP)—A day-long, drag-'em-out battle, interspersed with three recorded votes and plenty of legal argument, kept the pipe-line pot boiling in the Commons Monday. A brisk debate swirled once again around two private bills for incorporation of two companies seeking the right to build gas and oil pipe lines from the Alberta oil fields to the lush industrial markets of the British Columbia coast.

C.C.F. and Progressive Conservative members, backed by a scattering of Liberals, have fought the bills since their inception. They fear that the pipe lines will be routed through United States territory and that American consumers wll get first call on this fuel. They want a Canadian route.

It was private members' day—the period set aside for study of private legislation—but as the votes were counted in the three recorded divisions they fell along party lines.

The first thrust came while the Chamber was debating the Bill to incorporate Prairie Transmission Lines Limited.

Conservatives Force Vote

Ralph Maybank (L-Winnipeg South Centre), who is sponsoring the second Bill, incorporating Alberta Natural Gas Company, moved that the debate be adjourned. He explained that debate on the Alberta Natural Gas Bill was almost exhausted, and it would have more chance of passing second reading if discussed at this time.

Progressive Conservatives objected and forced a vote. Mr. Maybank's motion carried by a count of 132 to 40.

Then, with debate scarcely under way on the Alberta Natural Gas Bill, Henri Courtenanche (PC-Labelle) moved that this discussion, too be adjourned. This time, the Liberals carried the issue to a count and the vote

BC Bank Robber Shoots 2, Caught

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., April 4 —(CP)—A bullet ripped through a banker's chest Monday in a holdup attempt—New Westminster's fourth "bank job" in 40 peaceful years.

The shot, fired by a frustrated bandit in a Columbia Street branch of the Bank of Montreal, seriously wounded Robert Alastair Jack, assistant manager, and grazed the stomach of clerk Dorothy Page, 21.

Subdued by two passersby, 30-year-old Alvin Roy Le Tous of Vancouver was charged with robbery with violence.

Jack, Miss Pace and another bank clerk, Jean Wright, were the only persons in the building, besides Le Tous, when the doors were locked for the day.

Bank employees said Le Tous was attempting to arrange a loan. When the doors were locked, they said, he pulled a gun, and threatened Jack.

Jack hurled a heavy cheque-cashing machine at him, attracting the attention of R. W. Lucas and Leslie Smith.

While Jack struggled with the bandit, the gun went off. Then Le Tous was pinned down by the two men.

Admits Kidnapping Sentenced 30 Years

CAMDEN, N.J., April 4 —(AP) —Frank La Salle, 52, former convict and unemployed auto mechanic, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of kidnapping a 13-year-old girl, and was sent to prison for 30 to 35 years. The plea, which came as a surprise, following by less than two weeks La Salle's arrest in San Jose, Calif. His apprehension was prompted by an urgent message from the girl—Sally Horner—to relatives here imploring "send the FBI for me, please."

Father Saves Family

TCA Trans-Atlantic Trips To Operate In Red 5 Years

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP)—The overall financial outlook for the 16,000-mile Trans-Canada Air Lines system is "hopeful" but on Atlantic operations Canada's national air line expects to be in the red for the next five years.

The five-year deficit prediction was made to the Commons railway committee Monday night by Trade Minister Howe. He said the only way to stop it immediately was to cut the service, but recommended that the trans-ocean flights should continue to be built up and the deficit fought.

But if the trans-Atlantic service which produced the biggest proportion of TCA's 1949 deficit of $4,317,593, had not progressed financially in five years "it would then be fair for this committee to decide if the service should carry on."

The committee ranged over the whole field of TCA operations.

Under questioning by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Dave Fulton (PC-Kamloops) and other members, it touched on the "noise factor" of the Canadian-developed North Star plane and heard TCA president G. R. McGregor say political attacks on the plane during the last election campaign had shaken confidence in it.

But the North Star had proved itself as an competitive airplane, Mr. McGregor said.

The noise of the North Star's British Rolls Royce Marlin engines was brought into the discussion by Mr. Drew when he questioned the president about a contract made with Canadair in 1947. This had said TCA would make certain payments if Canadair developed an exhaust system to make the plane commercially competitive.

Red "Putsch" Threatened Forces Move

Ready For Action In Emergency Say U.S., France, U.K.

BERLIN, April 4—(CP)—The western powers in Berlin have organized an allied general staff to spring into action in any emergency.

This was disclosed in an interview today by Maj.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Commandant in the divided city.

In some respects the new Anglo - American - French staff resembles wartime SHAEF—Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Force. There is no over-all Commander but the post is reserved for such appointment in the event of genuine aggression.

Taylor said there had always been a need for such a general staff and that the attitude of the East-German Communists had stepped up its organization.

He said the staff's primary task is to plan the suppression of any "putsch" tactics that might be forthcoming from the east. The staff came into being after the Communists threatened to use a youth march of 500,000 East Germans to storm the city May 27-30, and spread disorder and fear. Since then the Communists have taken a milder tone in their plans for the end of next month.

Berlin Police

West Berlin police are counted upon to crush any German Communist violence, but a force of 7,500 American, British and French troops stand behind them ready to be called if things get out of control.

There are 9,000 West police available for the three sectors with a total population of 2,200,000. The Soviet sector, with a population of almost 1,000,000, has its Communist police estimated at more than 15,000.

Hit-Run Victims Funeral Held

TORONTO, April 3 — (CP) — Funeral services were held today for two little girls, killed March 31 when knocked down by a truck, as a province-wide search for the driver of the vehicle went into its fourth day with no new clues in sight.

Meanwhile, all professional truck drivers have been asked to form themselves into a vigilante corps to help track down the driver who failed to stop after killing Lorraine Watson, 13, and her five-year-old niece, Barbara Jones.

The two girls were hit on their way to attend evening lenten services.

Common-Law Couples Much Too Prevalent

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — Broken homes and common-law marriages are on the increase and becoming "much too common," says the annual report of the advisory board of the Ontario Department of Reform Institutions, tabled Monday in the legislature.

The report asked a strict check-up on the requirements for marriage, and suggested a program of education for parenthood.

The board noted a recent tendency to commit young children to training schools. Of 619 youngsters now in training schools, 17 per cent were listed as mentally defective.

Sending extremely handicapped children, such as deaf mutes, to training schools lacking facilities to care for them was deplored. Training schools should not be regarded as dumping grounds for every sort of individual irrespective of whether he fits into some other place, the report contended.

Pension Plan In Full

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP) — Health Minister Martin expressed the hope today that the parliamentary committee investigating old age pensions will have a new scheme ready for presentation to the provinces next fall.

Got You!

TORONTO, April 4—(CP) —Mrs. Barbara Grainer spotted a strange hand in her purse Monday night so she snapped it shut. Police said the action trapped Joseph Fortunato who was held by fellow passengers on a streetcar until officers arrived. Fortunato was charged with attempted theft.

Don Juan Charms Women Of Their Money

TORONTO, April 4—(CP)—A portly middle-aged Don Juan, who police claim has charmed a number of women out of their money, was arrested Monday night after a stenographer said she had given him her $5,000 life savings following his proposal of marriage.

John A. Stavely, alias Major Murray Buchanan, alias John Heatherdale, was arrested in a rooming house on two charges of fraud and one of absconding bail. The stenographer has not yet laid a theft charge.

Police said Stavely had been posing as chief engineer for a large Canadian mining company.

Stavely was arrested last December and chargedwith stealing $200 from a Toronto widow while posing as the owner of apartment houses.

A warrant was issued for him after he failed to appear in court.

Police said that to cover up his tracks Stavely put a notice inn a Napanee newspaper saying he died from a heart attack and his body was being cremated in Montreal.

Police said that last December Stavely persuaded Aline V. Harris-Lowe to give him $200 as advance payment for an apartment he said he owned.

Within the last few months, police said, Stavely has been living in Toronto, Bolton, Stayner and other towns posing as an engineer. He is charged with obtaining by fraud $400 at Bolton and $50 at Stayner.

Police said that Stavely started keeping company with a 45-year-old Toronto stenographer. He proposed marriage and she left her job to prepare for the wedding. After Stavely induced her to give him her money, she did some checking and complained to police.

Six Firemen Overcome $300,000 Grain Fire

MONTREAL, April 4 (CP), — Six firemen were overcome by smoke late Monday night in a spectacular two-alarm fire that caused an estimated $200,000 damage to a six-storey grain elevator and a grain warehouse on downtown Young Street.

Grain poured into the streets as firefighters shot streams of water into the billowing flames. Although the blaze was reported under control three hours after the first alarm at 11:45 p.m. FST, scores of firemen remained at the scene to prevent a new outbreak. More than 200 families fled their homes in the area as a safety measure.

Etobicoke Floods Brampton Store Fronts Barricaded Detour Traffic Around Town

Temperature Drop May Relieve Flooding Water 2 Feet Deep On Main Street Laurel Creek Damage High In Kitchener

BRAMPTON, April 4—(CP)—A forecast that the temperature will drop tonight close to the freezing point brought hope today of relief from flooding caused by the rampaging Etobicoke Creek. Water surged two feet deep down the main street of this community 25 miles northwest of Toronto. Barricades, hastily thrown up, blocked the street to traffic. There were no reports of serious damage. Merchants removed goods from basements of their stores in the business section and carried the merchandise to high ground. Some of them boarded up their store fronts.

With several low-lying sections of the town under water, a siren warned citizens that the flood water was over the creek banks.

Heavy rain was reported in the highlands north of Brampton.

The main street of Brampton was flooded for a few hours last week by an earlier flood.

Elsewhere in Southern Ontario overnight rain gave rise today to flood troubles. Roads were inundated in Toronto suburban areas along the banks of the Humber River and Etobicoke and Highland creeks.

In Orono, Mrs. Arnold Wallace and her three small children fled to high ground today when the swollen noisy river burst a large concrete dam and bore down on their homes near this town, 45 miles northeast of Toronto.

The house withstood the pressure of big ice floes but the basement and lower rooms were flooded.

The dam and bridge, stretching 50 feet across the river, collapsed with a roar. The Wallace house is the only structure in the path of the flood.

Damage estimated at thousands of dollars was caused today when Laurel Creek, flowing through adjoining Waterloo, surged over its banks and flooded store and office basements.

Hardest hit were offices at the distillery plant of Joseph E. Seagram and Sons, Ltd. The creek which flows through the plant grounds swirled into the office basement. A laboratory was reported damaged.

The creek also flooded basements of King Street stores, with four feet of water in some cellars. A King Street meat market 200 yards from the creek, suffered heavy damage when drains backed up and put two feet of water into the cellar.

A Waterloo fire department pump stopped the water within scant inches of $10,000 of motors and refrigeration equipment.

At Breslau, eight miles from Kitchener, a dam went out and swept away 50 to 75 feet of road. Observers said the dam "went out with a roar" under the heavy load of water poured into it by swollen Hopewell Creek.

Boy Killed By Cow

HUNTSVILLE April 4 (CP) — Kicked by a cow, 12-year-old Gerald Schamehorn of nearby Scotia died in an Ottawa hospital Sunday from head injuries.

Plotted Death Of Nehru, 14 Hindus Held

BOMBAY, April 4 —(AP)— Government officials indicated today they had smashed a plot to assassinate Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru with the arrest of 14 leaders of Hindu extremist organizations.

Some of those arrested had been held in the investigation of the slaying in 1948 of Mohandas Gandhi, India's man of peace and close associate of Nehru.

Among those taken into custody under the government's public security measures act were an official ration inspector and several others reported to have been collecting arms to carry out the plot.

Also jailed was V. D. Savarkar, Hindu leader who was once acquitted of charges of conspiracy to murder Gandhi. Police also arrested editors of two newspapers in Poona charged with inciting anti-Moslem hatred.

The plot was believed to have been conceived out of extremist exasperation at Nehru's refusal to heed demands for war against neighboring Pakistan because of reported mistreatment of Hindus in Pakistan's East Bengal section.

The arrests were made as Nehru conferred in New Delhi with Pakistan's Prime Minister Liaquat Alikhan on ways of ending the bitter Hindu-Moslem religious feuds whose bloody violence has threatened the peace between the two countries.

Many of those caught in the roundup are members of the Hindu Mahasabha organization which is bitterly opposed to the pacifist policies of Nehru.

Barring Reds Key Jobs-Attlee

LONDON, April 4 — (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee assured parliament today his policy of barring Communists from vital government posts is being "resolutely pursued."

He made the statement in the House of Commons during the latest round of his running battle on the subject with Conservative Sir Waldron Smithers.

Sir Waldron announced Monday night he is circulating 5,000 copies of a petition demanding the removal from office of Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell and War Minister John Strachey on the ground that they have Communist sympathies.

Attlee has staunchly defended his ministers from such charges by members of commons and some sections of the British press.

Plenty Drugs, Liquor Guelph Reformatory

GUELPH, April 4 (CP)—John Sutherland, 22, who said he could get "all the drugs and liquor" he wanted in the Ontario Reformatory here, today was sent to penitentiary for 2½ years for assaulting a reformatory guard.

John A. Kaska, 21, of Bronte, charged with Sutherland with attempting a prison break last Feb. 27 and with beating the guard, was given two years.

Sutherland said after sentence was passed that he had been drinking and taking drugs prior to the attempt.

"All the time I was in the reformatory, I could get any quantity of narcotics and liquor," he said

US May Demand $500 Bond For All Passing Through

TORONTO, April 4 —(CP)— Steamship and other travel representatives here today were reported fearing "bad effects" on Canadian travel to the United States by a proposed change in the US immigration laws, under which aliens in transit would be required to post a $500 bond to ensure their departure at the end of a designated stay.

The bond would apply to tourists en route from Canada to any part of the world if they pass through the United States and no exceptions to the rule were noted.

Planning Protest

The proposed change was contained in the March 22 issue of the US Federal Register. Watson B. Miller, Commissioner of immigration and naturalization, noted that a deadline for written data, views and arguments on the change has been set for April 11. Major passenger lines in New York were reported planning a protest.

Under such a regulation all tourists passing through Canada to the United States and abroad would be required to post a bond. J. C. Webster, head of the local representatives of the Cunard Line, said such a ruling was bound to have a bad effect on Canadian travel.

Relaxed Rule

Kenneth B. Conn, another local travel executive, expressed bewilderment. He said the US only recently relaxed its passport requirements to make travel simpler for Canadian tourists en route to Bermuda and the Bahamas.

The Globe and Mail in a news-page story said the requirement for a $500 bond was set forth in the conditions on which an in-transit traveller could enter the US and remain before continuing his journey.

Will Not Sell Cheaper To Canadians

10,000,000 Pounds Available For Overseas Sale

OTTAWA, April 4—(CP)—Overseas buyers can obtain Canadian butter cheaper than Canadians. This was indicated today in the Commons in a reply by Robert McCubbin to a question by Alistair Stewart (CCF-Winnipeg North).

The parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner replied "no" after Mr. Stewart asked whether the government is prepared to sell butter to Canadian citizens at the lowest price at which it is prepared to sell the surplus butter abroad.

Intimation that the government was ready to sell some of its surplus butter abroad at lower than Canadian prices was made some time ago.

A circular, which appeared in the agriculture department's price support board, went out to the trade, indicating the government was ready to receive orders for about 10,000,000 pounds available for export.

With the new butter season just about to begin, the government still has in storage about 20,000,000 pounds of the 48,000,000 pounds it purchased to bolster prices last summer.

The butter is being sold on the domestic market at about 60½ cents a pound, basis carload lots. It is not known what the government is receiving for the butter is has exported.

About 1,000,000 pounds has been sold recently to West Germany.

Wood Yard Brings Chamberlain St. Beef

Albion wood yard on Chamberlain St. is a neighborhood nuisance to the residents of that street and Brewer St. who signed a petition to the council Monday night asking that something be done about it.

It disturbs the peace, they say, of people who are entitled to their rest, and in the day hours its gasoline motor is noisy. It is also regarded as a fire hazard. Other cause of neighborhood irritation were mentioned.

The subscribers to the petition requested that Albion proprietor be required to substitute electric power for the gasoline engine, "and when the operating license expires a new one not be granted."

The petition was referred to the finance committee.

Noronic Survivors Ask More Liability

CLEVELAND, April 4 (AP).—Lawyers representing about 300 survivors of the Noronic fire disaster at Toronto last September asked the United States Federal Court Monday to raise the damage liability limits claimed by the ship's operator, Canada Steamship Lines.

Through counsel, the survivors asked dismissal of a petition by the steamship firm for a liability ceiling of $448,409. Damage claims reported Lawler Thomas E. Ricca, total more than $5,000,000.

If the court throws out the steamship line's petition, the plaintiffs will be entitled to a jury action, Ricca noted. In most such cases, he added, a jury decision favors plaintiffs.

Monday's petitions contend that the line failed to comply with Admiralty rules set by the United States Supreme Court.

ROGER H. AMYS

Roger H. Amys Is Found Dead

Roger Hewitt Amys, 39, was found dead at noon today in the hallway of his home about half a mile south of Lakefield on Highway 28. Mr. Amys worked until the closing hour on Monday night at the Higgins Hardware Store and then is believed to have gone home.

He did not come into work this morning and the provincial police were called. Constable Roy Peeling investigated and on looking through a window saw him lying on the floor fully clothed with his overcoat still on. Constable Peeling went into the house and on investigation found a shot-gun lying beside the body and part of the left side of the head shot away.

Mr. Amys lived alone on the 100 acre farm which was formerly owned by his uncle.

CTU May Strike Says Millard

TORONTO, April 4 (CP)—C. H. Millard (CCF-York West), Canadian director of the United Steelworkers (CIO) hinted today in the Legislature Canadian trade unions will strike to obtain a minimum of union security from the "substantial minority" of employers who refuse to grant it.

Mr. Millard spoke of the bill setting up a new Ontario labor code.

The bill did not require union agreements to include "even a modicum" of union security such as voluntary, revocable check-off of union dues, he said. All the government had to offer was the advice "go out and fight it out the way you have in the past."

Second Meeting Held To Avert Ford Strike

WINDSOR, April 4 (CP) — Company and union negotiators who met Monday afternoon in an attempt to avert a strike, called for April 12, in plants of Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd., by Local 200, UAW-CIO, ended their talks this afternoon and agreed to meet again Wednesday.

Neither party had anything to say for publication following the talks which were believed to be general in nature, with no new proposals offered by either side in the stalemated dispute over pensions and contract changes.

Jet Breaks 3 Records

LONDON, April 4.—(Reuters).—A British Meteor jet fighter today smashed three records by racing 1,208 miles to Copenhagen and back in 141 minutes' flying time.

The Gloster-made Meteor reached Copenhagen in less than 67 minutes, clipping almost 12 minutes off the record made last month by a four-engined Comet jet passenger craft.

Gov't Worried Over Rising Operating Costs

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP).—Concern over mounting costs of government was the keynote as the Ontario Legislature concluded budget debate Monday. The traditional motion of approval, a motion to go into Committee of Supply, was passed by a vote of 47 to 27, with the CCF Liberal and Labor-Progressive members voting solidly against the government.

The session which started on February 16 is expected to end Thursday, and night sittings are likely tonight and Wednesday. The Legislature this week has also been opening at 11 a.m.

Premier Frost said Monday he would not attempt to answer all the criticism of the Opposition members, but he expressed concern at the rapid rise in government expenditures. He said that it was with this thought in mind that he had called together administrative heads of all departments to discuss economy.

"A dollar saved soundly is better than a dollar gained by additional taxation," said Premier Frost. It was a matter of getting the best value for the money spent. But he pointed out that the government had been able to make a slight reduction in taxation this year, while other provinces have had to increase theirs.

A former Liberal Premier, Harry Nixon (Brant), said that expenditures were increasing at an "alarming" rate. When the present government came to power in 1943 they were $100,000,000. Now the budget is $235,000,000. Despite increasing revenue the government appetite for money was "insatiable." There would be a revision of the amusement tax, a tax on parimutuel betting, increased revenue from the amusement tax because of Sunday sports, a five-per-cent income tax (to be collected from the Federal tax), and a tax on logging operations.

Mr. Nixon said the gross debt was $69,500,000. "I can remember the day when, if a treasurer had admitted this condition in his finances, we would have considered we were on the high road to bankruptcy."

CCF Leader E. B. Jolliffe (York South) winding up the debate for the Opposition, charged the government with using public funds to influence voters in by-elections. He said "there is a place for somewhat higher standards of political morality in this province, particularly in the expenditure of public funds."

Bell Costs Said Tripled In 10 Years

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP) — The Bell Telephone Co. of Canada claimed today maintenance expenses have more than tripled in the last 10 years.

Testifying before the Board of Transport Commissioners, Leslie E. James of Toronto, general plant manager, said Bell paid $26,348,000 for plant maintenance last year. That compared with $8,567,000 in 1939.

This year the company expected to spend $29,279,000 and next year maintenance would cost about $31,763,000.

Ask Higher Rates

Mr. James' testimony took up the whole day as the board resumed its hearing of Bell's application for higher phone rates in Ontario and Quebec. Bell is asking various rate boosts designed to produce 20 per cent additional revenue.

One of the facts in the increased maintenance costs, Mr. James said, is the greater amount of property and equipment which must be kept in repair. Since 1939 the number of telephones had doubled and the number of long distance calls had tripled.

Security Pact's Economic Aspect At Next Meeting

OTTAWA, April 4 — (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton, back from The Hague, said Monday Canada expects her drive for economic collaboration among the 12 Atlantic Pact nations will come up for consideration at the meeting of their foreign ministers next month.

Welcomed back to the Commons about a day and a half after conclusion of the latest meeting of the Treaty's defence committee, he told the House:

1. Canada's offer to train 250 officers from member countries at a time was "received very enthusiastically," will start this summer and be in full stride by fall and may lead to a "much larger" system of exchanges among the various members.

2. Canada has made no other special extra commitments beyond the training plan other than those written into the treaty itself.

3. Canada is "completely satisfied" with existing arrangements for exchange of military information with the United States and United Kingdom.

Mr. Claxton was asked about the economic discussions by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, after reading into the record the official communique issued in The Hague after the meeting of defence ministers.

Mr. Coldwell asked if any steps have been taken under Article Two of the treaty "to eliminate conflict in their (members) international economic policies and to encouarge economic collaboration among them?"

"We hope that will be a further development," Mr. Claxton replied.

Stocks Hold Monday's Gain

TORONTO, April 4.—(CP). — An early burst of demand carried industrials into new high ground on the Toronto stock exchange today but profit-taking appeared holding the list in check in mid-session. The remainder of the market was also strong in early trading but showed signs of slipping as the session progressed. Volume for the first three hours was 1,394,000 shares.

Strong demand Monday lifted industrials to the highest point ever recorded on the exchange's index since it was first compiled in 1934.

Monday's gains ranged up to almost two points while advances today were being held to fractions.

Low-priced gold stocks continued brisk traders. Selling pressure pushed several leading junior and senior producers into the minus column. Key base metal stocks gained in a mixed list and western oils continued their four-week advance into new high ground.

Quebec Gov't Split On Tram Bill

By The Canadian Press

Quebec, the only province with both Upper and Lower House in its Legislative system, today found the two Houses in disagreement over the Bill which would give the city of Montreal authority to take over the privately-owned Montreal Tramways Company, with a subway system as the ultimate goal.

The Upper House—the Legislative Council—last week stripped from the Bill provisions for a referendum on the city's administration set-up and another provision for a popular vote on the municipal subway plan.

The Lower House—the Legislative Assembly—refused Monday by a vote of 65 to 7 to accept the amendments.

The Lower House will consider the re-affirmed stand of the Upper Chamber today. It may accept the amendments for the sake of keeping the bill alive; if it again refuses to accept them it may effectively kill the whole bill since prorogation is expected Wednesday night and without agreement between the two chambers the bill would lapse.

Finish Budget

The Nova Scotia Legislature is expected to finish budget debate today. Monday the Halifax chamber was diverted into a discussion of highways by G. I. Smith (PC—Colchester) who complained on the state of the roads.

Highways Minister Rawding said the trouble was partly caused by unusual weather conditions and the situation could not be cured by an emergency maintenance program. The roads had to be kept free of snow all winter.

Daylight Time

At Regina the Saskatchewan Legislature looked for a heated debate on Daylight Time, after Robert Walker (CCF—Hanley) announced he would introduce an amendment to eliminate Daylight Time in the province.

The amendment would be to the City Act which might provoke a split between rural and urban members. Mr. Walker said he was not opposed to daylight time itself, but the great lack of uniformity in its application.

Public Mischief Count Dismissed Motorist Freed

COBOURG, April 4 (ENS) — Meredith Donald Smoke of Cobourg was freed Monday of a public mischief charge when Magistrate R. B. Baxter granted the motion of defence counsel J. C. M. German for dismissal at the end of the Crown's case.

The charge was that Smoke, in telling provincial police that he did not hit Victory Grey, who died after a fatal highway accident, resulted in the police pursuing an investigation based on a false statement.

Grey was found unconscious on the highway near Alderville last February and died a few days later in a Toronto hospital.

"The Crown attempted to prove," said the Magistrate in his decision, "through two statements that one is false because one contradicts another. This decision may put police in a difficult position as to whether they should pay any attention to a statement, but in common law people should not be in the situation that if they make a false statement to police they are subject to a charge of breach of the common law.

"I note that one of the main parts in the Crown's case, that of the green car which was described as figuring in the accident was not in the wording of the information. I feel that under the circumstances the Crown has not made out a case."

"There is such a dearth of law on cases of this kind, I think that your decision should be reported in the law cases on public mischief," said Mr. German to the magistrate.

They will be remanded later to April 19 at which time the testimony of the complainant, George Stollery, will be taken at Belleville General Hospital Stollery, police said, was beaten up in his Seymour Township home on March 16 and robbed of $1,000. Bail was originally set at $10,000 but yesterday it was reduced to $5,000.

Ayrhart Camp Estate Sold To Niagara Men

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4 — Mr. J. E. Ayrhart announced today that his "Ayrhart's Woodland Estate" summer resort has been sold to two men, Mr. Fred C. Cords of Vineland, who is associated with the Welch's Grape Juice Company, and Mr. Theo. Yungblut, a real estate man from St. Catharines. The two men plan to make a number of improvements in the property, and to modernize it to the utmost.

The new owners will take over the property on April 11, and are expected to have the camp in operation this summer. The selling price is reported to be in the neighborhood of $60,000.

Why Not Ask Cat?

OSHAWA, April 4 (CP)—Oshawa police think people ask a lot of questions that don't pertain to police work but Monday night was the best yet. Just as the night shift was settling down at the station a woman phoned. The question—what is the gestation period for cats. The cops didn't know.

Meter Showdown Wednesday At Toronto Parley

CAMPBELLFORD, April 4 — (ENS)—At the regular monthly meeting of the Campbellford town council, held in the council chambers on Front St. on Monday night, Mayor J. E. Aryhart reported that negotiations about parking meters are still deadlocked. There have been many letters and telephone calls going back and forth between the mayor and Mr. Cameron, of the MicoMeter Company. The showdown is expected to come next Wednesday night, when the mayor has an appointment to meet Mr. Cameron at the King Edward Hotel in Toronto, to thrash the matter out and have the question settled. There has been much controversy over the parking meters which were installed on the streets of Campbellford last summer.

Treasurer Eldon Ibey acted as clerk of the council due to the absence of J. F. McGregor who is in poor health.

J. C. Birmingham was again named weed inspector for the coming term, this without remuneration, and to go along with the other offices he now holds.

J. C. Birmingham was authorized to send a map of the town to the Department of Mines and Resources, and in return they will provide the town with a topographical map of the surrounding territory.

It was decided to grant the public library board an additional $100, over and above the original grant. This was in order that the library would receive a government grant about double what it would ordinarily be if the board were to receive the amount originally decided on by council. Mr. H. Townsend thanked council for the grant, and stated that the board would receive some $480 from the government as a result of the additional grant.

New Sidewalk

Hector MacMillan addressed council with regard to having a sidewalk put in on the west side of Rear Street, between Bridge and River Streets. A couple of new buildings are to be erected on this side of Rear Street and council decided that when the buildings were erected, a new sidewalk would be installed.

Mr. Roy Smith also addressed council with regard to securing a building permit to erect a building containing three rooms on his property on Queen Street. This building would be used to house overnight guests in conjunction with Mr. Smith's Trent House Hotel. The request was granted.

Township Fire Pump?

No action has yet been taken by the Seymour Council in the matter of stationing fire-fighting equipment in the town of Campbellford, for use in the township. It had been suggested previously that equipment be placed in the town, to be operated by the town fire department, to provide the township with fire-protection, and still leave equipment in the town in the event of an emergency. It had been further suggested that the town charge the township for the trips the local fire department make in fighting fires outside the town limits, and the township in turn could collect, or try to collect from the insurance companies.

Mayor Ayrhart reported on the Industrial Convention which he attended in Toronto recently. He told of the proposals put forth by Mr. Robert Saunders with reference to standardizing Hydro rates for the province of Ontario. Mr. Ayrhart felt that much had been accomplished, and that he had gathered much useful information in attending the convention.

Charged With Cutting Too Small Trees

COBOURG, April 4 — Magistrate R. B. Baxter Monday handed down a decision dismissing the charge against W. J. Butt of cutting trees below the legal size in Darlington Township. The charge was laid under the Durham County bylaw affecting minimum diameters of trees that can be cut in that county.

"The offence has not been made out. There is no doubt that he was cutting trees on woodlots of Mr. Gode. There was evidence that Mr. Gode sold some woodlots but the prosecution did not sufficiently identify the plan is evidence as to who owned the land," the Magistrate declared.

"In regard to the exception clause in the bylaw that it does not apply to less than two acre tracts, the evidence was that it might be two acres but it was not shown that it was more or less than two acres," he said. "I can realize how the officials of Durham County will feel over dismissal of this case and will regard it as added incentive to those who want to break the law in that connection. However, all that has to be done to prove a case is to establish that first of all the diameter of the tree cut is less than the legal minimum, that a person is cutting his own trees and is not a labourer hired to cut them and to show that the woodlot is more than two acres," said the magistrate.

Losing $4,000,000 A Year

The Deputy Postmaster General recently told the Senate Committee on Transport and Communications that the practise of franking government letters and postal matter lost the Post Office $4,000,000 a year in revenue. In the light of this knowledge it is interesting that the Finance Minister is thinking of asking Parliament to abolish governmental franking privileges.

* * *

It may be said that this will not mean a real saving—that the $4,000,000 will merely be collected from various departments and used in the Post Office department, and that the government will merely be changing money from one pocket to another. We do not think that this will be the case, however. When it costs nothing to use the mails the temptation is to use them very freely. The Government sends out a great deal of printed matter, some of which appears to be of slight value, and much of which would be reduced in bulk, or abandoned altogether, if postal costs were added to the costs of producing and printing it. The Members of Parliament, also, use their privilege of franking letters with great freedom, although there seems to be no particular reason why they should do so.

* * *

The custom of franking is not in key with modern methods of doing business, and private businesses are not permitted under the Income Tax regulations and other laws which govern them to extend similar wasteful and easily abused privileges to their employees and officers. The Government of Canada would be wise to abolish franking, and then to reduce any postal expenditures which do not justify themselves.

Five Thousand Slain?

Despatches from Chinese Nationalist headquarters tell of an attempted invasion of Hainan island province by the Chinese Reds, and their repulsion by the Nationalists. Undoubtedly the accounts of the Nationalist victory are exaggerated. Perhaps five thousand Reds were not killed by their own kindred in Saturday's fighting nor another 2,500 taken prisoner. But if the story is even half true it is a bloody tale. Canadian casualties on D-Day in Normandy totalled 946, of which 335 were fatal. Even in the Dieppe raid, when the majority of losses were men taken prisoners-of-war because they could not be withdrawn, only 900 of them were fatalities. The Chinese contrast is grievous.

The reports are a reminder that a large and exhausting civil war has been going on in China, and that it is not yet ended. The victorious Chinese Communists have still to take the large island of Hainan, which lies off the south-east corner of the Chinese mainland. Saturday's "invasion" may have been merely preliminary to a later massive thrust.

16,797 Graduates

This spring 16,797 young men and women will graduate from our universities, so the Minister of Labour tells us. Why is the Minister of Labour putting in a word on this matter? The new graduates have to find jobs, and he is anxious that employers know about them. Even this year a considerable proportion of the graduates are war veterans, many with family responsibilities not always associated with the younger graduate, Mr. Mitchell remarks. He feels that these graduating veterans are entitled to special consideration.

This year's crop from the universities is coming into the tightest labour market in a decade. Nevertheless, employment levels are still high, and these men and women who have spent four years at university studies, many of them withstanding financial difficulties with a fortitude which augurs well for their value to employers, are specially equipped to undertake Canada's work and duties.

Their equipment is, be it hoped, not chiefly technical. It is not the prime job of universities to teach skills. These can be picked up on the job by alert, capable, willing people. A university graduate should bring to his employer an active intelligence, a discipline in reasoning, and an aptitude for his chosen work. He might also bring a decent humility, a readiness to learn from the ground up the special skills and routines in the industry, business or profession he will enter. A university degree does not automatically entitle a person to a high starting salary or special seniority. It does give him the right to expect an opportunity to work and exploit his abilities. This all employers will respect.

Canada with its work is open to the new graduates. Let both benefit, as they can and should.

The Irish Question In U.S. Politics

Last week the question of the partition of Ireland was discussed in the U.S. House of Representatives, and there were some eloquent condemnations of it. The reason for such discussion is decidedly not that the House of Representatives feels deeply on the subject, or that it has any desire to persuade the U.S. Government to do anything practical for Ireland; it is simply a means of interesting the large Irish vote which plays an important part in American politics.

It is sometimes said that there are now more Irishmen on the East coast of the U.S.A. than there are in Ireland. Many of these are third and fourth generation Americans, but they are loyal to political ideals which they believe to be distinctively Irish; they are easily touched by governmental movements which appear to be pro-Irish; and they cherish a resentment against Britain which appears to be undying. Talk of the partition of Ireland is always good for a wave of feeling in favour of the party which seems to oppose it.

Yet, as the Ottawa Journal points out, it was not from the U.S.A. that Ireland received the help which she so badly needed during the last war. As that paper says, "All through the war Eire got much more of the understanding and help and friendship from London and Ottawa than she got from Washington and it was not Britain's High Commissioner by the U.S. Minister Grey the people of Dublin hated."

Under such circumstances the existence of a coherent Irish vote in the U.S.A., and the use of the Irish partition as a political football in that country is an oddity.

The Problem Of Old Age Pensions

The agitation for an increase in old age pensions continues through successive sessions of Parliament, and recently Mr. J. H. Rooney, the Liberal member for Toronto-St. Paul's urged the Government to abolish the means test and to provide a pension of $60 a month for everyone upon reaching the age of sixty. The Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of Health and Welfare, pointed out that such a plan would cost the country $1,174,962,000 in 1951, and that this sum equals roughly half the total budget which the Minister of Finance brought down this year. To get the money for Mr Rooney's scheme every tax in the book would have to be increased by 50 per cent.

The desirability of old age pensions is not disputed. However, it must be borne in mind that because of the extension of the life span in recent years the number of people eligible for old age pensions is constantly increasing, whereas the number of people in the large tax-paying group remains about what it was. In our anxiety to do our utmost for those who have a claim upon the state we must take care not to put an intolerable burden of taxes upon those in the middle years of life who are, literally, maintaining the state and all its social services. There comes a point beyond which taxation defeats its own end, and it has been suggested in many quarters that Canada is very near that point now. If we are to increase our expenditures we must have a larger group of productive, tax-paying citizens.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Newfoundland politician says that his island is now "the puppet of Ottawa". He'll cool down. In Income Tax season we all get that feeling of being on strings.

The Quebec Legislature cheered when told that it needed no lessons in social justice. Was there ever a government which thought it needed a lesson in anything?

British Govt. Plays For Time

By WILLIAM CLARK

DEATH is playing an important part in British politics. Two Labour M.P.s have died in the first month of the new Parliament and the Government realizes that its slender majority could be rubbed out by a few by-election reverses. Such reverses are not impossible in the two seats vacated by the death of members so far. A third vacancy, created by the retirement of a sitting Labour member, is in a safe seat, and has been arranged by the Party in order to restore Sir Frank Soskice to the House. Soskice, who is Solicitor General, lost his seat in the election, and is urgently needed back in the House of Commons to help Sir Stafford Cripps during the long and difficult debates on the Budget, which will be presented on April 18.

✧ ✧ ✧

UNTIL the Budget, the debates in the Commons itself are likely to be of less interest than the political manoeuvring and the by-elections outside Parliament. This is not accidental. Mr. Herbert Morrison, deputy Prime Minister, who as Leader of the House is responsible for its choice of business, has done all he can to head off any debates on controversial issues, particularly if they might split the Labour Party.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE House, therefore, is having its nose kept to the grindstone by considering little except the administrative business of Government. Popular interest on the other hand has been fixed on two quite different subjects: the "crime wave" and the case of Seretse Khama. Both are the subjects of motions in the House of Commons, and the Government has refused to make any of their time available for a debate on either.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE "crime wave" has roused very considerable passion. For some weeks past many newspapers have recorded in detail a series of brutal robberies with violence committed by young hoodlums. This has led to frequent demands in Parliament that the Home Secretary (Mr. Chuter Ede) should reintroduce flogging as a legal punishment. The Government has been pressed on this in both Houses, but firmly refuses on the grounds that there is no evidence that the abolition of corporal punishment two years ago has led to any increase of crime. In fact, figures do seem to show that though public interest has been roused recently, the number of robberies with violence has remained steady since the war. Though flogging is not a party issue, the Government is naturally anxious to avoid a debate in which their own party would be divided and a division might easily go against them.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Seretse Khama case is far more explosive politically. The Government's decision not to recognize Seretse Khama as chief of the Bamangwato tribe and not to let him live in the tribal area within Bechuanaland, has been interpreted as a double act of appeasement. First, appeasement of all those race-conscious groups, black and white, who object to Seretse's marriage with an English girl. Secondly appeasement in particular of Dr. Malan—the Prime Minister of South Africa—whose Government wishes to absorb the Protectorates, and might use any disturbances in the area as an excuse to try to take them over.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Government's case is that for various reasons Seretse is not a good chief and to let him rule would only result in chaos. However Mr. Gordon-Walker (the Commonwealth Relations Minister) has wholly failed to carry his Party with him in putting this case. The Government is aware that if a division were called on the Seretse case not all their Whips could keep their supporters in line. Whether the Opposition would vote as a block against the Government is less certain, but there would be a very fair chance that they would and that a motion would be carried against the Government. For that reason though there may be short debates on the Seretse issue this week there will be no formal debate with a division—if Mr. Morrison can help it.

✧ ✧ ✧

SO if Parliament can be kept on an even keel for a few more days till the recess, Mr. Morrison and his colleagues will breathe much more easily. For what the Government fear is a snap election on an issue they have not chosen. With the Budget they will be on easier ground for it necessarily is a major statement of policy. If the Government were defeated on that they at least could fight on solid well-chosen ground.

(Special to The Examiner from the London Observer.)

Unconsidered Trifles

They had not met for some time.

"And you say that last week you were in the town where I live?" she murmured.

"Yes."

"And you thought of me, John?"

"Ay, I did," replied John. "I said to myself, Why, isn't that where what's-her-name lives?" "

✧ ✧ ✧

He appeared before the company officer, charged with using insulting language to his sergeant.

"Please, sir," he protested, "I was only answering a question."

"What question " snapped the officer.

"Well, sir, the sergeant said 'What do you think I am?' and I told him."

✧ ✧ ✧

Home for the holidays, a rather daring young coed was telling her grandmother about some of the dates she had had at school. She said: "It's thrilling, this being pursued by the tall, dark and torrid. Gram. Ah, so different from your Gay Nineties!"

"Different, indeed!" said the irked lady, "The young swains then were just as torrid as they are now, I dare say!"

"They couldn't have been," contended the granddaughter, "or they wouldn't have dared risk wearing those celluloid collars!"

Letters To The Editor

PAVING LOCK ST.

Sir: In a report published in the "Examiner", the general impression created was that the Council members felt we residents of Lock St. wanted our road paved but were unwilling to pay for it. This is not so. Our road is in good condition and we have no desire for paving. A number of the houses are owned by elderly people who bought originally while the property was in the county in order to economize. They now have to pay city taxes while living on low pensions. These people find it all they can do to find sufficient to live on. Others who bought more recently, did so with an idea as to taxes involved. Another $30.00 or $40.00 annually for 9 or 10 years, will mean actual hardship in many cases, and cause inability to keep the property in repair. Incidentally there were only about 4 property owners on the whole street who did not sign the petition.

Much more could be written but perhaps this is sufficient to start our Council members thinking of what is involved in a move like this.

LOCK ST. TAXPAYER.

CHEESE SALE NEEDLESSLY COMPLICATED

Sir: For some time I have read with great interest the editorial page in the Peterborough Examiner, and have agreed with your opinion in many cases but tonight I read your article on "Good Cheese News" in the issue of March 29 and I do not agree whole-heartedly with your views. Especially your last sentence which read as follows "If Canadian cheesemakers put their skill and will into it, the industry would not need the Government price-support and subsidies it is now receiving".

Have you noticed any report on cheese quality during the past ten years? Quality standards have been raised every year. Produce graders have been grading cheese a little more closely every year but still the overall percentage of premium quality cheese has been increasing. This alone should prove that the Canadian cheesemakers are putting their skill and will to the job. In 90 per cent. of the cases a cheesemaker's net income depends on the quality of the cheese he makes so naturally he is putting everything he has into the job.

In my opinion, and it will be agreed with by thousands of people, that one of the biggest causes of cheese surplus in this country is the marketing scheme. Namely, except for cheese factory patrons, cheese used for exhibition purposes and to retail and wholesale buyers who have proper storage spaces, who buy 900 pounds or over, all cheese has to be sold through cheese boards. Also all cheese must be 90 days old before it can be offered for sale. The ordinary citizen cannot buy cheese two or three weeks old and that's what people in this district want. I feel sure it applies to other districts as well.

I am a cheesemaker myself and nearly every day all summer I have different people drop in wanting to buy cheese—fresh cheese. They would buy amounts from 2 or 3 pounds up to 50-60 pounds or more, if they could get it a few days old. But all I can say is, "Sorry regulations do not allow cheese to be sold that way".

These people get the same reply everywhere they go. So what do they do? Well, they can't get what they want so they just don't bother with cheese any more.

Only today I attended an executive meeting of the Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers' Association and the general opinion was the same as I have said. Open up the market—give the consumer what he wants and we will have no trouble selling our cheese here at home.

I would like to get a general consumer opinion on this subject before putting the whole cause on the cheese makers of Canada.

Yours truly,
BRADEN O. BULLOCK,
Cheesemaker.

ARE CANADIANS POOR SPORTS

Sir: As a newcomer to Canada, I hope I am not overstepping myself in saying that, in my opinion, Canadians are very poor sportsmen, particularly when on the losing side.

In stating this I do not mean that they do not excel in any branch of sports, I refer to the methods by which they achieve results.

Evidently to a Canadian, the result, not the game, is all that matters, so the slogan is "Win at all costs", and, if your opponents happen to be winning, "mow them down, lame them, cripple them, but win".

One has only to watch professional hockey, lacrosse, or football to realize that brutality and foul methods are now recognized as part of the game.

I instance the recent ice hockey match where the game had entered its third period before anyone realized that the teams had forgotten to bring a puck on to the ice. When the game was held up in order to rectify this slight omission, the angry spectators are reported to have screamed "Never mind a puck, get on with the game".

This spirit was exemplified when a Canadian hockey team toured Britain and the continent last year, and, as a result of their unsporting behaviour, they, or anyone who has the remotest connection with the team in question, have been barred from playing in several countries in the future. Sportsmen? Bah! Yours truly,

MACDUFF.

FARMERPHOBIA

Sir: It is rather hard to follow the point of view in your editorial Humpty-Dumpty Fell Off The Wall. You say that when egg prices dropped to 25 cents a dozen, poultry farmers decimated their flocks. The panic petered out quickly and prices rose to 42-45 cents. You then go on to suggest that the farmers used poor judgement in decreasing the size of their flocks.

Flocks were decreased to such an extent that egg production was reduced by about two thirds. Do you really think that egg prices would have risen if the flocks had not been reduced in size? If you do, you must be letting your farmerphobia interfere with your reasoning.

Yours truly,

FARMER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass after forty years, that Absalom said unto the king, I pray thee, let me go and pay my vow, which I have vowed unto the Lord, in Hebron....And the king said unto him, Go in peace. So he arose, and went to Hebron. But Absalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, As soon as ye hear the sound of the trumpet, then shall ye say, Absalom reigneth in Hebron...

And there came a messenger to David, saying, The hearts of the men of Israel are after Absalom. (II Sam. 15: 7, 9, 10, 13.)

THE OLD HAT WILL HAVE TO DO

Mystery Sub, Treason Convict Linked Together

AVALON, Catalina Island, Calif., April 4 — (AP). — A man identified from a photograph as one convicted of wartime treason, vanishes from a small boat at sea.

A few hours later, a mysterious submarine is sighted off the Southern California coast.

And the tall, sabre-scarred 51-year-old Theodore Donay of Detroit, is reported missing from his home since Wednesday.

These coincidences were pieced together today by authorities investigating the disappearance of a man who rented a boat here Saturday and never returned.

Constable K. McDavid and Ray Dodge, boat rental dock attendant, had identified an Associated Press wirephoto of Donay as his mysterious patron. A wallet left as security for the rental vessel contained a driver's licence issued to Donay, McDavid said.

Search Harbor Area

Several hours after the man was due to return with the boat, a search was started in waters surrounding this island 20 miles off Los Angeles Harbor. McDavid said the boat had its running lights on, but the ignition was off when found eight miles north-east of Avalon. The boat contained only a suitcase containing some clothing, he said.

The drifting vessel was found some 125 miles south of Point Arguello, where coastguardsmen reported seeing a surfaced submarine at 6:20 a.m. Sunday. The Navy said no American submarines were in the area at the time.

McDavid said officers had noted the coincidence of the two events, but there was "no concrete evidence" they were connected in any way.

Printed Form Left

McDavid said a torn half of a printed form found in the man's hotel room here contained the following words:

"Delivery over the counter in Berlin or by parcel post in Berlin to the Russian zone from stocks in Berlin by parcel post from New York.

"No. 265, lard in tins, sugar, rice, roasted coffee, cocoa, whole milk powder, $5.60 lbs."

Donay, born in Germany, was the first man in the history of the United States to be convicted of misprison (concealment) of treason. He was accused of failing to report the presence in Detroit in 1942 of an escaped Nazi flier, Hans Peter Krug. He was convicted there in 1943 and sentenced to 6½ years.

Twelve More Brokers Get Postal Investigation

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP)—The post office is investigating a number of complaints concerning misuse of the mails against "about a dozen" Toronto brokers, W. J. Turnbull, Deputy Postmaster-General, said Monday night.

He said the brokers involved in the latest investigations are in addition to some 82 persons in Toronto already denied use of the mails by a special order of Postmaster-General Rinfret.

Mr. Turnbull emphasized that use of the mail has not yet been denied the 12 brokers now under investigation.

Earlier Monday Mr. Turnbull said about seven Toronto persons denied use of the mails now are having their legitimate mail released to them.

Guelph Wins 2nd From Porkies 2-0

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP) — Guelph Biltmores will go into the third game of their eastern Canada Junior semi-finals in Toronto Wednesday night with a two-game lead over Porcupine Combines.

The Ontario Hockey Association titlists shut out the Northern Ontario winners 2-0 Monday night for their second straight win in the best-of-seven series. They won the first game 7-5 in Toronto last Saturday.

Biltmores again came up with a spotty game against the hard-working northerners and were far below the form that saw them spring an upset over Windsor Spitfires in the OHA final for the right to advance into the semi-finals.

The first string line of Herb Dickenson-Ron Plumb-Don Bellringer were the best for the Biltmores in Monday night's contest. Plumb and Dickenson accounted for the winner's two counters, while Bellringer drew an assist along with Plumb on the Dickenson goal. Defenceman Wally Clune gained an assist on Plumb's marker.

IN TEAM MATCH — Pat Flanagan, above, who will team up with Toar Morgan against Hi Lee and Al Korman in the feature spot at the Brock this Thursday. Team matches are always popular with the fans and especially so when two masters like Flanagan and Morgan hook up. Both boys have had plenty of experience in this type of wrestling and the same applies to Lee and Korman, so a fast action-packed bout can be looked forward to. In the semi-final Vern Baxter takes on Roy McCalister while Bill Stack and Bobby Nelson open proceedings. A capacity crowd should witness this show.

The other Koreans, who came here by plane, are Hann Kil Yong, 19, and Song Kil Yoon, 20. All are students.

Suh set the course record of two hours, 25 minutes and 39 seconds in 1948.

Forty-two runners have entered the 54th annual grind.

Marlboros Blast Cornwall 12-2

TORONTO, April 4 (CP) — Cornwall Calumets need an effective antidote to the poison of Toronto Marlboros if they want to put up more than token resistance tomorrow night at Ottawa in the third game of their best-of-seven Eastern Canada senior semi-final series.

Monday night the Eastern Canada Hockey League champs absorbed a humiliating 12-2 shellacking at the hands of the Ontario Hockey Association Dukes and added to the 7-1 setback the Toronto smoothies handed them in the opening game Saturday night, it made things look bad for Cornwall.

Marlboros' Chuck Blair garnered five points in the game, banging home three goals and helping on two others. Following on the heels of the scrappy winger was Danny Lewicki, recruited from the Junior Dukes for the senior playoffs. The shifty Lewicki garnered two markers and two assists. Single efforts were posted by Hugh Bolton, Flash Hollett, Bobby Hassard, George Armstrong, Scotty Mair, Al Buchanan and Johnny McLellan.

The front line combination of Rheal Savard, Freddy Gardner and Jim Denny accounted for both Calumets' scores.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

The big mixed rink bonspiel, held at the club on Monday and sponsored by the Lakefield Curling Club, went over in grand style. It was an effort to raise money in support of Lakefield's new rink and so complete did the clubs around this district respond that 28 rinks from Oshawa, Haliburton, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Keene, Lakefield and Peterborough made up the draw. To help along the good cause the management of the Peterborough Curling Club turned over to the Lakefield Curling Club the facilities of our club for the day. We also believe that many of the prizes were donated by Lakefield merchants.

It was a "mixed" bonspiel in more ways than one. We found local curlers playing on Lakefield rinks, Bobcaygeon curlers with Fenelon Falls, Peterborough curlers hooked up with Bobcaygeon skips. It didn't matter what club you belonged to. The idea was to get on a rink and get into the spiel.

With that kind of spirit prevailing we feel that the Lakefield curlers will succeed with their undertaknig and we are sure that we are expressing the sentiments of not only the members of our own club, but of the other clubs represented at this bonspiel, when we say to Lakefield curlers, "Stay in there and may you have the very best of luck."

The bonspiel was a fitting climax to a great season of curling.

Winners

First (Peterborough)— Mrs. J. Green, T. Doughty, Mrs. T. Doughty, C. Giroux, skip.

Second (Fenelon Falls)— Mrs. M. Devitt, W. R. White, Miss B. Henderson, J. E. Curtis, skip.

Third (Peterborough) — Mrs. Hallowell, R. Payne, Mrs. H. Baptie, F. Stenson, skip.

Fourth (Lindsay) — W. Langdon's rink.

Fifth (Peterborough)—Mrs. A. Jones, O. Price, Mrs. L. Bearne, Dr. R. Clark, skip.

Sixth (Bobcaygeon)—E. Shea's rink.

Seventh (Lakefield)—G. Stener's rink.

Team wrestling returns to Peterborough after a year's layoff this Thursday night at the Brock Arena. Pat Flanagan and Toar Morgan team up against Hi Lee and Al Korman in the main pro match, a tag affair. Roy McClarity tackles Vern Baxter in the semi-final, while Bill Stack goes against Bobby Nelson in the prelim. Sounds like a lively grapple card. These team matches invariably are riotous affairs and quite popular with the fans. Sustained action is the answer, and they frequently get out of hand with three or four big matmen in the ring at one time slugging it out. While a bewildered referee tries vainly to keep order. Yeah, they're fun.

G. H. (Bert) Cutmore is president of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club this year. His committee chairmen are: House committee, L. G. Lawrence; greens, D. T. McIntyre; property, Gordon H. Munro; match and handicap, R. G. Maniece; finance, M. G. Hardill; and membership, F. H. Jobbitt. Gordon Harrison will be back again as pro, while John Lavictoire has been engaged as steward. The men's locker room will be enlarged and there'll be room on the ground floor for the pro's shop, which is now considered too small. The board plans other alterations, too, in the club house for the convenience of the large membership.

Beaches Play Legion

Balmy Beaches of Toronto open OHA senior "B" semi-finals against Legionnaires here tomorrow night. First of their best-of-three sawoffs at 8.45 sharp in Civic Arena. Second one will be Friday and third, if necessary Monday, all games being here as Beaches haven't a rink of their own. Joe McNulty has a big, fast-skating squad of hard checkers, who came through their opposition in the metropolitan area in good style and minus injuries. The winner of this series goes against the Brantford-Sarnia victor in provincial senior "B" finals. Last year Legion beat Sarnia for the Ontario crown, and they hope to do a repeat job this year.

So, it's playoff time once more and a break for local puck fans to have this series played here. In past seasons, many good local followers had to take their playoff games through the paper, as teams played "home" games away. But with the building of Civic Arena and installing of artificial ice, the best of hockey may be seen here at this time of year. The top teams in senior "B" of the province battle it out in important frays and Peterborough folks can sit right in on it. Don't pass up these playoffs as they should all be sizzling encounters the rest of the way, and hockey is on its way out for another season.

Lo, Ben Led All The Rest

In the regular OHA junior "B" group and playoff games—and not counting some exhibition tilts with clubs like Cobourg, Port Hope and Orono—Benny Mason led the Oddfellows with 33 points. That respectable total was made up of 21 goals and 12 assists in a fine front-line effort. Brother Ross Mason did well, also, with 26 points as Desjardins of the same line was good for 22. Ron Turner of the first Links line was second highest in scoring with a nifty mark of 31, having 17 goals and 14 assists. Wyatt had 23 and Floyd 21 on the same line, showing that the IOOF-ers had two good lines with a punch. Dean Wasson led defencemen with 10 points, seven being assists. The club had a pretty fair season all around.

Schedule at Civic Arena is still packed pretty tightly, and the PMHA-ers can't be squeezed in very well this week. Some of the minor association officials feel that they should call it a season with the three teams which entered playdowns declared city champions. Others would like to see it settled in clear-cut fashion with top two juvenile, midget and bantam clubs having a sudden-death playoff each to declare winners, and we prefer that setup. Manager Walt Smillie of the arena says he will do whatever he can to get them the time, but this week is out on account of OHA games and public skating. We'd suggest that the PMHA officials see him and try to arrange a few hours next week to wind up their playoffs. IOOF juves, Marines midgets, and Optimists bantams were the teams in playdowns.

Dese, Dem And Dose

Curlers conclude their season at a dinner and presentation tonight....U.E. and O'Halloran's are the only soccer entries so far; a meeting will be held April 17 for further entries....Artists rolled high of 3550 in the YM men's senior trundling circuit....Hotels are booked solidly in Owen Sound for the OASA annual convention this week-end....Paul Meger of Buffalo Bisons was voted the outstanding rookie of the year in the AHL....Sherbrooke beat Sydney Millionaires—who have Bob Greenlaw and Don McRae aboard—4-2 last eve to lead Allan Cup semi-finals by two games....Georgetown plays the Lakefield Indians in OHA intermediate "B" semi-finals at 8.30 p.m. Thursday in Civic Arena....Oshawa scribe says he felt all along that Legion had a bit too much experience for Markham; they also had the speed and fight....Many estimate that crowd in Oshawa on Saturday night as close to 4,000....Well, we'd do the same in playoffs if the Memorial Centre was up....Ah, well, wishful thinking.

Community Centre

TORONTO, April 4 (CP) — First steps to build a $300,000 agricultural hall and community centre in Dickson Park, Galt, were taken Monday when a deputation interviewed Agriculture Minister Kennedy. The group, including representatives from Galt, North Dumfries Township and the South Waterloo Agricultural Society and Board of Trade, submitted a brief asking a removal of railway tracks in the park.

Two Soccer Teams Entered At Present

There was no constructive policy inaugurated at the special meeting of the Peterborough and District Soccer Association held Monday evening in the YMCA.

President Tom Garland gave an account of his stewardship, his official report on the Ontario Football Association annual meeting and intimated his resignation through too many other commitments this year.

Only two teams have said that they will participate in local soccer this season, the UE and O'Hallorans. There was no representation from Lindsay—the first in six years; and no communication from the Canadian General Electric who have had a soccer team in the league since 1913.

After general discussion it was agreed that another meeting be held on Monday evening, April 17, to allow other teams an opportunity to enter the local league which shall govern all soccer activities despite the new Ontario Soccer League, comprising Peterborough, Belleville, Kingston, Oakville and Ottawa. All local teams must play-off to declare a winner for the Ontario cup before August 18.

Hollywood Discovery

OTTAWA, April 4 (CP)—Hollywood movie producers are "clamoring" for works of Canadian authors and playwrights, Don Henshaw, Toronto advertising executive, said Monday night. "A few years ago Hollywood had next to no information on Canada," Mr. Henshaw told the Ottawa Junior Board of Trade. "Now they are using Canadian culture and folklore for picture plots and Canadian scenery for full-length feature productions."

We Did It Before Says Wings' Ivan May Tie Series

TORONTO, April 4 — (CP) — Detroit Red Wings will be minus two regulars tonight when they skate out against Toronto Maple Leafs in the fourth game of their Stanley Cup semi-final series. The Wings, champions of the National Hockey League, will be striving to even up the series, in which Toronto leads 2-1.

The NHL champions lost Gordie Howe, top right-winger, through head injuries in the first game of the best-of-seven series and he's through for the season. Monday the Wings learned that another right-winger, Jimmy Peters, won't be on duty tonight. He returned to Detroit for treatment of a twisted knee, suffered Saturday night when he collided with linemate Jimmy McFadden.

Howe's Loss

Howe's loss has crimped the play of the league's highest scoring line on which he worked with captain Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay. The injury to Peters, an experienced performer, adds more woes to coach Tommy Ivan's collection.

But Ivan drew some hope from the Detroit performance last year.

"We're in just the same spot as in the semi-finals last season against Montreal Canadiens," the tough little coach pointed out. "We had won one and lost two—just as now—but we won that fourth game and went on to take the series.

"It could happen again."

That same comeback by Detroit against Montreal was recalled by Conn Smythe, managing director of the Leafs. "We've a tough time ahead of us yet," he said. "This is a four-out-of-seven series and we've only won the odd game in three."

The Wings have called up Gord Haidy, a 160-pound forward from Indianapolis Capitals of the American Hockey League, as a replacement for tonight.

Montreal Faces Elimination In Game Tonight

MONTREAL, April 4 (CP) — It looks like the beginning or the end of the Stanley Cup road for Montreal Canadiens when they meet New York Rangers tonight.

Rangers, now leading the National Hockey League best-of-seven semi-final series 3-0, have only to clinch tonight's tilt to oust Canadiens from the running and assure themselves of a final berth against the winner of the Toronto-Detroit series.

The high-flying Rangers, who finished the regular NHL season in fourth place, have shown no mercy for Canadiens in the best-of-seven series.

They took the first game in New York last Wednesday, 3-1, came to Montreal Saturday for a 3-2 triumph and then returned home to tag a 4-1 victory on the Habitants.

Reardon Out

Canadiens are without two of their top players. Kenny Reardon, the Habs' colorful defenceman, is sidelined for the balance of the season with a shoulder injury and centre Billy Reay is nursing a leg wound.

Canadiens have scored only four goals against Rangers in three games while New Yorkers have slapped 10 past goalie Bill Durnan. And Maurice (Rocket) Richard, the league's top goal-getter hasn't notched a single point in the semi-final series, while his "shadow" Finnish-born Pentti Lund, has racked up four goals and three assists.

The visitors, ousted from their home quarters by a circus, will be out to wrap up the series on the ice surface where they won their first Stanley Cup title in 1928.

Adoption of a pension plan for a major league baseball player was announced three years ago today by baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler. Under the plan, players, coaches and trainers would retire at 50 years of age on annuities of from $50 to $100 a month for life. They could also be insured by the clubs for from $5,300 to $10,600 as long as they were on a major league roster.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

Grandfather was a thrifty soul but how he gambled!

In fact, once upon a time, all business men who advertised were, willing or unwilling, confirmed speculators. They couldn't help it, because in those days they had no way of knowing what they would get for their money.

Today, advertising money can be invested on a basis of facts—the information in the reports of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a national, cooperative and non-profit association of 3300 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. The A.B.C., organized in 1914, has established standards for measuring the circulations of newspapers and periodicals, just as there are definite standards for the weights and measures of merchandise.

This newspaper is a member of A.B.C. Our circulation is audited by experienced circulation auditors. The information thus obtained is issued in A.B.C. reports which show how much circulation we have, where it goes, how it was obtained and other facts that tell business men what they get for their money when they advertise in these columns.

5,100 Votes Could Give Labor Gov't 48 Majority

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, April 4 (CP)—Boyish-looking Woodrow Wyatt, at 32 one of Britain's youngest members of parliament, has decided that 5,100 votes may be decisive at the next election.

Given those votes, he argues, Labor could win a working majority of nearly 50 in the 625-seat House of Commons. Its present majority is four, with two by-elections pending.

Wyatt selects the 5,100 figure meticulously, and this is his arithmetic:

The Conservatives won 22 constituencies at the last election by fewer than 1,000 votes. The total Conservative edge over Labor in these seats was 10,200 votes.

Thus 5,100 votes "cast the other way, and in the right proportions," could mean 22 extra seats for Labor — enough for a majority of 48 if there were no changes elsewhere.

But there's a dark side to the moon.

Works The Other Way
